Port Strike Delays MPs' Summer Holiday

Daley Denied Seat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chicago Mayor Richard Daley, boss of the biggest Democratic party organization in the United States, has been shorn of his convention seat in a move that left the party teetering on the edge of discord.

The convention's credentials committee, firmly controlled by supporters of Senator George McGovern, voted 71 to 61 Friday night to deny seats to Daley and 58 other uncommitted Illinois delegates.

The committee voted instead to seat a rival slate of 41 delegates pledged to McGovern and another 18 leaning toward him.

The vote was the second explosive challenge decided by the committee, setting the stage for discordant convention floor fight. But the Daley vote, a leader of the insurgents called for a healing compromise.

McGovern also picked up eight convention votes in another successful challenge involving downstate Illinois delegates and so gained back at least 40 of the delegates he lost Thursday when the credentials committee outlawed California's winner-take-all primary, stripping him of more than half its 271 delegates.

All of the committee's actions are subject to final approval by the national convention which opens in Miami Beach July 10. Both the California and Illinois challenges are expected to be refought there. The Daley delegation aide is planning a court fight to overturn the committee ruling.

War Costs Climb

Nixon Wants $2 Billion More

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has asked Congress for an extra $2.25 billion primarily for the Indochina war — nearly a one-third increase in war costs — in the wake of renewed U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

The president made the request Friday without indicating whether it is all or only part of the extra war costs Defence Secretary Melvin Laird has said could go up to $3 billion if the United States continues bombing, mining and other war operations at the present pace through the end of the year.

The White House says "the increased level of enemy activities in Southeast Asia necessitates" $2.79 billion. This is offset by a $543-million saving in the reduction of the Safeguard anti-missile system under the Moscow arms accords. It results in the net $2.25-billion increase.

The request is for money in addition to some $7 billion already in the president's regular defence request for the 1973 fiscal year starting today.

The president also asked an extra $700 million military aid for Vietnam war allies for a total of $3.2 billion for the fiscal year.

Legislature Adjourns

TORONTO (CP) — The session of a fall federal election hung over the Ontario legislature Friday as the 117-member house adjourned for a summer recess after four months of sittings and 166 bills approved.

Premier William Davis told reporters after the noon adjournment the spirit of the house may be delayed as late as December, depending on the timing of the federal election.

WHA Plans Gift

$25,000 Awaits Hospital's Needs

The women's Hospital Auxiliary notified Belleville General Hospital board of directors Friday they will make $25,000 available for use in the capital works budget whenever the need arises.

Mrs. J. E. Nelles, president of the WHA, explained this fund now lies in securities. The money has been started over the years, through services such as the "sportsmiy Shop.

"We exist to be able to help out," she said, stating the money has been made available because of a "request from the board."

House Action Is Threatened

By TOM MITCHELL

OTTAWA (CP) — The government delayed the start of the Commons summer recess Friday because of a labor dispute that has closed St. Lawrance ports.

At the same time, it hung a threat of fast action to get the ports moving again over the heads of striking dockers.

Labor Minister Martin O'Connell, still hoping the long Dominion Day weekend could cool things enough to end the tie-up, warned that the government would take action in a matter of days unless the dispute was resolved by the involved parties.

A motion for the Commons to recess after Friday's sitting until Sept. 28 crver was presented. The government was waiting for the outcome of a Friday afternoon meeting of International Longshoremens Association members in Montreal, called after an arbitrator declared their walkout an illegal strike.

Late Friday afternoon word came out that the dockers would not return to work.

Allan MacEachen, government House leader, said the Commons would meet Tuesday at 2 p.m. EDT and proceed with regular government business—bills on a new system of family allowance payments and a to create a screening process for foreign takeovers of business in Canada.

Abuses Judge

TORONTO (CP) — Karleton Armstrong stood in a Toronto courtroom Friday and yelled "fascist pig" at a judge who ordered him extradited to the United States to stand trial on charges of arson and murder.

Armstrong, 25, is wanted in connection with the 1970 bombing of the United States Army mathematics research centre at the University of Wisconsin in which a man was killed.

Police Strike

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — The 10-man police force in this town of 9,000 went on strike today, Joe Ross, executive director of the Police Association of Nova Scotia, announced here.

The policemen have been legally entitled to strike since June 5.

Boy, 12, Held

BRAMPTON (CP) — Provincial police are holding a 16-year-old youth for questioning in connection with the death of 12-year-old Laurie Ann Fowler.

The girl's body was found in Caledon West Township, near the village of Alton about 26 miles northwest of Toronto, following a telephone call Friday to the Sledgrove detachment of the OPP.

Injunction Halts Anti-Socred Fund

VANCOUVER (CP) — A plea by the British Columbia Teachers Federation to build up a fund to fight the Social Credit provincial government was stopped, at least temporarily, Friday in the B.C. Supreme Court.

Mr. Justice W. R. McIntyre issued an interim restraining order preventing the federation from collecting and distributing one day's pay from each of its 23,000 members to form the fund.

The order stands until a suit by two teachers, seeking to kill the whole proposal, can come to trial.

French, U.S. Ships Collide In Atlantic

PLYMOUTH, England (CP) — A French weathership escorted the Atlantic end of a coast of France early today for survivors from its collision with a vessel flying an American flag.

Four seamen were rescued after the smash between the weathership France II — involved weather in rescue operations for lone British yachtsman Sir Francis Chichester — and a ship identified only as the Lafteria.

A Royal Navy communications centre here said seven of the crew of the Lafteria, which sank after the Friday collision about 300 miles out at sea, were missing.

While waiting for word from Montreal on the docks situation, MPs passed a labor bill related to exactly the kind of dispute that blew up for the dockworkers in Quebec City, Trois-Rivieres and Montreal, closed by the walkout since May 17.

The government amendments to the federal Labor Code would make technological changes, those which alter work patterns or requirements, a matter of labor-management negotiation.

Dockers Will Defy Arbitrator

MONTREAL (CP) — Longshoremen at three major Quebec ports voted Friday to extend their 45-day strike despite a provincial court judge's ruling that it is illegal.

Some 2,000 of the 3,200 men who normally work at the ports of Montreal, Quebec City and Trois-Rivieres voted unanimously at an international Longshoremen's Association meeting to stay on strike and contest arbitrator Judge Alan B. Gold's ruling.

Judge Gold, who began hearings Tuesday aimed at ending the dispute, ruled Thursday that the strike violates provisions of a collective agreement with the Maritime Employers Association.

In Ottawa, Labor Minister Martin O'Connell said Friday he had sent two labor department officials to Montreal to try to bring the ILA and the MEA together to reach a settlement.

He said the dockworkers must come to live with the facts of life," and that "there is a time when the government must take responsibility" and end the strike that has frozen shipping at the three ports since it began May 17.

Mr. O'Connell said he would not specify how many days the government would permit the slopes before acting with legislation but he said a reporter's reference to five or six days "may be right."

Barricades Are Set Up

BELFAST (Reuter) — A man was shot to death early today as militant members of the Protestant Ulster Defence Association completed street barriers set up in protest against the continued existence of barricaded Roman Catholic enclaves in Ulster.

The shooting, the first in a Protestant area of Belfast since a ceasefire proclaimed by the Provisional wing of the outlawed Republican Army went into force last Monday night, added uncertainty to the uneasy situation here this weekend.

The dead man, apparently not involved in the barricade building, was killed when four or five shots were fired from a passing car. He was not in UDA uniform and was walking along a side street.

Four Killed

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — Four persons were killed, four injured and holiday traffic was held up for two hours when two cars were involved in a collision with a tractor trailer near here Friday.

Dead are Wessel Lewis 49, Toronto; Alfreas Tellier, 53, Lewis Tellier, 21 and Carol Tellier, 11, all of Belle River, Ont.

Fun and Bustle Key To Canadian Scene On Dominion Day

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

With fireworks and fun, an unnerving bustle at airports and a highways bustle, Canadians romped to their Dominion Day holiday escapades today in a mixture of weather, mostly good.

In the Quinte area, its outdoors a rendezvous for cottagers, campers and sportsmen, the weather was predicted as sunny and warm with some shower possibilities today and Sunday. Despite increased traffic as the holiday began no major mishaps were reported in the district.

Many just took it easy at home in a hammock in the mostly clear and sunny weather in British Columbia, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec.

Devout fishermen, sports addicts and horse racing fans had their eyes on the skies but managed to cope as clouds and occasional showers tempered proceedings in parts of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario and the Atlantic provinces.

Popping up in all kinds of weather were politicians anxious to capitalize on gatherings that might provide support for a possible federal fall election.

Meanwhile, Americans also hit the highways in force Friday night for what millions will be a mini-vacation based on the July 4 Independence Day holiday. Many Americans will get the weekend plus two for a four-day respite from routine.

An indication of the magnitude of the air exodus from the cities came with an Air Canada announcement that the airline carried 27,675 passengers Thursday, the busiest day in its 35-year history, and that it expected to carry between 38,000 and 40,000 passengers daily the rest of the weekend.

Too Fast on The Draw

PITTSBURG, Tex. (AP) — A mentally retarded man was shot to death here Friday by a Texas Ranger who was looking for another man in connection with the slaying of a Pittsburg policeman. Texas Ranger Capt. GG. W. Walker said Walter Lafayette Curtis, well-known in the community for wearing toy weapons, was killed Friday by Ranger R. M. Arnold who encountered Curtis hiding behind a row of mailboxes. Curtis had one pistole in his hand and another in his waistband. Arnold ordered Curtis three times to drop what he thought were real weapons, fired a warning shot, then shot Curtis.

"I am now over the heaven by-pass. Traffic building steadily."

Fireworks Hunted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal inspectors posing as tourists are cruising heavily-travelled highways in the U.S. Midwest and Southeast this July 4 weekend in search of bootleg fireworks. A similar crackdown last year resulted in more than 80 seizures of illegal fireworks and the shutdown of one plant.

Cruiser Explodes

HOLLAND LANDING, Ont. (CP) — A 38-foot cabin cruiser exploded Friday night while taking on fuel at 4 marina, injuring three persons.

Referendum Sought

STE. ADELE, Que. (CP) — Delegates to the annual convention of the Quebec Teachers' Corp. voted Friday to back French as the province's only official language and called for a referendum on Quebec independence before the next provincial election.

Quebec Strike Deadline Is Extended

QUEBEC (CP) — Stiff legislation which forced public service employees back to work in April was amended Friday and a deadline for negotiated settlement extended to September.

The amendments allow negotiations until Sept. 15 before an imposed settlement is legally required from the government. They also stipulate that any such settlement include the last offers made to the union common front before June 27.

The national assembly approved modifications proposed by Jean Cournoyer, labor and civic service minister, after a hard-fought battle by the Parti Quebecois which resulted in some changes to amendments he had originally proposed.

High Rises OK Elsewhere Not East Says Task Force

As each planning task force holds its meetings to forward recommendations to planners and consultants preparing Belleville's official plan, one thing becomes clear. Everyone agrees apartment construction is a necessary evil, but no one wants them built in their area.

Such was the recommendation of Task Force A, meeting at Queen Alexandra public school Wednesday. They agreed that apartments should be constructed, and suggested the city allot special areas not within regular residential boundaries.

Another one of their recommendations, based on the same lines, dealt with a stretch of property south of Dundas Street, east of Stanley to Herchimer Ave. Consultants Totten, Sims, Hubicki, Associates Ltd., have suggested this area be zoned for medium high density—townhouses and walkup apartments.— but the residents of the area thought it would be better served by restricted industrial zoning, accompanied by a green belt on the south edge following a natural contour.

Although consultants had allotted south Alien Street, Dundas Street, George Street and the area surrounding Calvary Temple and CFR tracks a medium high density, residents turned down this proposal in favor of a commercial zoning.

One consultant's suggestion for single family or semi-detached zoning north of Victoria and east to Herchimer met with opposition. The area north from Dundas to Victoria has been suggested for single, duplex and triplex zoning, but residents felt this boundary should extend to Alexander.

Their lengthy discussion concerning general high-rise development in the older east hill area of the city, led to no firm conclusions or recommendations. They did, however, agree that Station St. did not have enough room

Man Jailed

An attempt to rob a Central Taxi driver at knife-point drew a nine months definite and five months indeterminate sentence in reformatory for Alan Thomas Hill, 21, of Shannonville, Dec. 3.

Hill admuted to conviction on eight charges during the last four years, and was on probation twice for two years each.

Hill was convicted for pulling a knife on former Central cabbie Harvey Windeler. After Windeler had driven Hill to Shannonville Dec. 3, 1971. The youth fled on foot after Windeler attempted to reach for a tire iron.

ALAN H. REVILL, son of Mr. and Mrs. A.D. Revill, RR 7 Belleville, graduated with a BA degree in economics from Western University. Mr. Revill is a graduate of BCIVS.

Municipal Employees Awarded Certificates

Two area municipal employees — county clerk - administrator Carl E. Bateman and Tyendinaga clerk - treasurer William Walsh — have received county council commendation for initiative shown in furthering their knowledge of municipal administration procedures.

The two clerks were commended Thursday by Hastings county warden Carman Gibson on their certification as clerks by the International Institute of Municipal Clerks.

Mr. Bateman and Mr. Walsh are among the first clerks in Canada and the United States to receive certification since the institute commenced its certification course in 1970.

Both Mr. Bateman and Mr. Walsh expressed their appreciation for the warden's commendation, the former noting that today's field of changes in municipal procedures, it was the incumbent duty of all officials to keep up with the changes.

"Education is a continuing thing," he said.

No Building Inspector For County Just Yet

Despite the fact that a number of municipalities are interested in the idea, Hastings county council Thursday took no action on the appointment of a county building inspector.

Since the last meeting of council, all county municipalities were polled about the idea. Five municipalities did not reply, 12 indicated they either approved or were interested, while 10 indicated they either were not in favor or were satisfied with the present method of inspection being carried out at the local level.

The idea of a county building inspector arose after the announced intention of the provincial government to take over the safety inspection function.

This would have left county safety inspector Earl Mackey without a full-time job and it was suggested that consideration be given to the appointment of a county building inspector.

Yesterday, Hastings M P P Clarke Rollins said the legislation setting up the provincial safety inspector program still required some committee work and had not yet been passed in the legislature.

As a result, a decision on the matter was deferred until a later meeting.

County Day Care Centre Studied

In Hastings county in need of a day nursery to take care of the children of rural working mothers?

County councillors have mixed feelings on the subject but have agreed to have the matter referred to the social services committee for recommendation.

The subject of a county day nursery was raised as the result of a letter from Isidore Doperman, special director of the United Community Services, who said if the county was interested in a needs study, the expertise of his organization could be made available in carrying out the survey.

Tweed Reeve Barbara Allen stated that She working mother was here to stay but suggested that instead of a door - knocking campaign, a questionnaire form be sent to working mothers by factories and other such places of employment.

But several of the male councillors were not so sure about the need of a county day nursery.

Deserved Reeve Georges Lyons suggested it might be better to pay mothers to stay home and look after their own children.

In this way the present unemployment situation would be helped, he said.

This suggestion didn't sit too well with Bancroft Deputy Reeve Mrs. Audrey Donnelly who pointed out that many mothers were working because of necessity.

Tweed Reeve Allen said that if all working women went on strike the whole economy of the country would collapse.

Thurlow Reeve Reid Shortt suggested the main result of a county day care centre would be to provide more jobs for the women.

And Stirling Reeve Jack Bush took the viewpoint that whole - day care would mean that more mothers would be looking for work outside the home.

"Who would look after Madoc township reeve George Wood.

He said he wouldn't like to see a day care centre financed by money from residents already overburdened by taxes.

He cited one instance in his township where all four parents of two families living on one farm had good paying outside jobs and he didn't think other taxpayers should be expected to help to pay for their children's care.

Parents whose children are cared for at municipal day centres pay according to their ability, although she admitted fees did not cover the entire cost.

Ministers Inducted

Rev. James McKay, formerly of Norfolk County, was inducted Wednesday night as minister for the Prince Edward South Pastoral Charge which includes South Bay and Cherry Valley. He will replace Rev. Wesley Neelands who is retired.

Rev. Ralph Jackson was inducted Thursday night at Wellington United Church and will replace Rev. N. J. Truax. The new minister formerly resided in Tara.

Lay minister at Consecon will be Barry Leigh Joint.

Probation

Peter Matergio, former Trenton Division Court clerk convicted recently on a charge of theft in connection with a $4,683 deficit on the court's books, was sentenced to one year's probation Friday.

"I don't think Mr. Matergio intended to steal," said Judge W. S. Lane of Picton in passing sentence. "He just put the money in his pocket. I believe he intended to use it and replace it."

Weeds Problem in Harbor

When the Belleville Harbor Commission takes the lawn, they run into a few problems that would not ordinarily crop up.

With the boating season in full swing, the harbor has reached its capacity in occupied docks.

To make sure that boats can manoeuvre easily in the harbor's northern portion, two harbor commission employees spent Wednesday manicuring the river bottom, getting rid of the tall weeds.

"If we didn't rake the bottom for a season, we would have enough weeds in the water to sing a boat and hold it—from proceeding to its pier," said Bob Boyle, commission employee.

Mr. Boyle and a helper, Colin Goyer, chug around the harbor dragging a metal bar attached to a 15-foot rope.

The bar, dragged through the weeds, pulls weeds out by the roots.

The commission could use chemicals to control the weeds in the harbor but it has been found in other harbors that the use of chemicals not only eliminates weeds but fish as well.

The dragging system is repeated three times each summer.

Once the weeds have been cut from the bottom they are gathered on a raft and unloaded on shore where they are picked up and disposed of by the city, said a spokesman for the commission.

Shock Treatment

A Brighton township youth, found guilty of attempted armed robbery, use of a dangerous weapon and carrying a concealed weapon following an incident at the home of Trenton detective Dr. H. Hutchison Dec. 21, 1971, was sentenced to 12 months in reformatory Friday morning.

Barry Lloyd Chatten, 18, was also given two years probation following his release. Judge W. S. Lane of Picton outlined the terms of the probation: the youth must live at home, be limited to travelling only eight miles from his home unless accompanied by his parents and must co-operate with any known drug users.

The youth was arrested at gunpoint several hours after Dr. Hutchison answered a holdup man showed a gun at him when he answered a ring at his door at 12.20 a.m. last Dec. 21.

Chatten's lawyer, Robert Temple, asked for probation for his client, but Judge Lane said he had never achieved reformation in previous cases of this nature by way of probation only.

"The only way I can help Barry and set him on the right way of life is to give him a shock treatment followed by probation," said Judge Lane.

Rose Show Entries Are At 1,000

More than 1,000 entries were expected in Rose Festival '72, organized by the Belleville Horticultural Society for public display at Centennial Secondary School today and Sunday.

First produced in 1967, the show now has grown to "the biggest — and best — of its kind between St. Catharines and Montreal" says BHS president Cecil Becker.

Horticulturists from across the province were expected to enter displays bidding for show trophies and entries in both the rose exhibits and its accompanying African Violet and house plant shows.

The Festival was scheduled to start at 1 p.m. with choosing of a Rose Queen — a contest which has drawn 20 contestors hopeful of winning its $500 top prize. Runners - up get consolations of $200 and $100.

Gardening, art, books and handicrafts are among the various other displays at the show which closes Sunday at 5 p.m. with an auction sale of blooms on display.

A Boat to Beat the Jones'

Lion's Whelp, measuring 83 feet in length and 20 in the across the beam, takes the prize for being the largest pleasure craft to enter the Belleville Yacht Club harbour. A full time crew is navigating the vessel up the Great Lakes to meet American owner P. Shaw Sprague.

In Georgian Bay. Berthed in Palm Beach Florida, the retired financiers sails his half a million dollar boat up and down the eastern coast of the United States. This is the first trip that will take the boat as far inland as Parry Sound on the bay.

Parking At Hospital To Be At City Rate

Solving of the "chaotic situation" at the Belleville General Hospital parking lots was a step closer today after the decision to initiate paid parking.

However, members agreed to reduce the hourly fee from 25 cents to 15 cents for the first hour and 10 cents for each additional hour.

Board chairman, Monsignor J. P. Sullivan said parking attendants would be hired and rates go into effect as soon as the new parking lots are paved. This job will be complete by September.

Monsignor Sullivan said the hospital is at present negotiating with a firm which has suggested it will build a multi-car-parking garage, operate it for 30 years and then deed it over to the hospital.

Alderman Ben Corke said he likened the idea to "continue with the absurd situation now and to charge paid for a 500-car parking garage, which will cost the taxpayer a considerable amount."

Mayor Scott's amendment to a motion to approve paid parking reduced the recommended rate from 25 cents per hour, and a maximum of $2.50 to rates similar to downtown municipal charges of 15 cents for the first hour and 10 cents thereafter.

Ald. Corke, commenting on the suggestion, said "parking elsewhere in the city is a cost to the parker and not to taxpayers", he questioned why hospital parking should be a taxpayer's burden.

Both Hastings County warden Carmen Gibson and Mayor J. Russell Scott opposed charging visitors to park at the present crowded hospital parking lot.

The mayor qualified his statement by saying any kind of charge for parking would deter visitors and "patients need visitors".

"I'm voicing the opinion of a large segment of the population which is objecting to the idea now, but a larger group will be objecting when it goes into effect," he said.

"I object to citizens to paying for parking, brought a wry comment from women's institute satellite member Mrs. J. E. Marsh, when she said "I can afford a car, but they should be able to afford parking money."

Emergency Care Plan Extended

Belleville General Hospital's experimental emergency care ward staffing by doctors not attached to regular service, will be extended for another month.

Initiated in May, the program enabled the hiring of eight doctors, seven of whom are residents at Kingston General Hospital. The four-month plan called for 24-hour service in the ward, as opposed to an on-call situation for local medical men.

The program has been working quite effectively, say hospital administrators. Friday, they asked the board of governors for a one-month extension of the program, until the end of September.

Because medical doctors are now leaving for their vacations, hospital officials believe a true grasp of success of the program, could not be made until they return.

Grills Protests Today's Trends

By LEE GRILLS, MP

When we Canadians read stories in the press about the alarming rate of increase in crime in the United States, and especially crime in the streets, we might be justified in taking some comfort in the fact that we have so far been spared the worst effects of that unhappy situation.

However, we should not take such a blessing for granted, and sit back smugly and insist that it can't happen here. Too often we have done just that, only to find out later that it really can happen here, and is happening here.

One reaction to the increase in crime in the United States has been the call for stricter law enforcement, and an end to coddling of criminals by the courts. Our neighbors to the south are reaping the obvious result of an over-permissive attitude toward the young radicals that seem to be a product of our age.

When responsible people call for a return to law and order, and a return to respect for laws and law enforcement agencies, the left wing radicals cry out that this is too repressive. On the other hand, the extreme rightists call for stricter measures to put down the radicals, using force if necessary.

We in Canada have always tried to choose the middle course. For a hundred years we have been a law-abiding people, with little evidence of a tendency to take the law into our own hands. We are far too harshly with our critics and dissidents. While we are not perfect, we at least have tried to keep abreast of changing attitudes and views.

However, there are signs now that we might be ignoring danger signals, and that we might be closer to a breakdown in law and order in Canada than most people would like to think. Crime in our own major cities is on the increase, though thankfully on a smaller scale than in U.S. cities.

The present federal government's permissive attitude toward the young people in our country is gaining them to develop an unhealthy attitude toward all authority.

This is all the more serious when you consider that they are the people who will be tomorrow's adults. This is the group from which we will be looking for tomorrow's leaders, in government and industry and service. We are not doing them any great service and are abandon our responsibility to them, and we are not serving the interests of the country.

One of the chief areas of concern is our haphazard administration of our immigration laws. Canada has, in the past few years, become a haven for draft dodgers, deserters, criminals and political agitators from around the world. We allow agitators to come here from Quebec to France, the U.S. and even North Vietnam, to preach insurrection and violence to our young people. They turn our youth against their elected representatives and teach them to despise their traditions and sacred institutions.

Then there are those in our government who condone such songs in our prisons. Murderers and rapists are given leaves from prison, and others are given early release from their sentences without adequate screening and supervision. Repeating offenders are now allowed to go free without bail when they are charged with serious crimes.

We do not have to have repressive laws, nor do we have to administer them cruelly or inhumanely in order to protect the majority of people in our society. We must have a return to reason, though, and recognize the fact that our freedoms and privileges were hard won, and must be guarded from those who would destroy them.

Marmora

A three-year resident of Marmora who is survived by 129 grandchildren and great-grandchildren, died suddenly at his home on Monday in his 80th year.

Funeral service for Wilmot Briggs, 28 Victoria Street, was held at Cassidy Funeral Home Marmora, on Wednesday, Rev. John Peters of St. Andrew's Church officiated.

He had been employed as a mechanic with the Watch and Spring Company of Toronto for 25 years, and was a member of the Marmora Service Citizens' Association.

He is survived by his wife, the former Mary Ella Bisbee; two daughters, Mrs. Lorraine Farrell of Timmins and Mrs. Albert (Marilyn) Hawkes of Oak Ridges, and two sons, W. E. Briggs of Colborne and Robert Briggs of Belleville.

Councillor Resigns

Sitting on local township council is a waste of a member's time.

That is the feeling of Francis Thompson: Huntingdon township councillor who has tendered his resignation because he felt he was merely "sitting there doing nothing".

Mr. Thompson resigned following the July 1st meeting early this month.

"Local council has nothing to say anymore," Mr. Thompson told The Intelligencer. "Everything is done by correspondence . . . you don't know where you are at."

What prompted Mr. Thompson's resignation, an alleged reversal of approval on the part of highways officials to construction of a new township garage.

Mr. Thompson said that earlier this year the municipal highways engineer had approved the construction of the township garage only to turn it down later.

He said the township had budgeted money for the garage at the expense of needed road construction. Now it was too late to do the road construction as equipment rental is not possible this late in the year.

Another of Mr. Thompson's beefs is the lack of council say in sub - division development.

"It wasn't like this five years ago when I first was elected," he said, "but in the last two years you can't get anywhere."

Township Reeve Russell Sills said that to some extent he agreed with Mr. Thompson.

"It seems that local elected people have less and less authority," he said.

Also, he said, waiting for decisions from higher authority boards makes it difficult for the municipalities.

In reference to the township garage proposal, Reeve Sills admitted that the original approval had only been a verbal one.

"But when you get verbal approval you go ahead and make plans. We still haven't received a final decision," he said.

ROSS H. STAPLEY, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton J. Stapley of RR3, Frankford, received his BA degree in History and Economics (with honors at convocation exercises held May 26 at Trent University. Mr. Stapley was a student of the former Stirling High School, and is a graduate of Quinte Secondary School.

The Derby was won by Steel Pulse, carrying the top Sweepstake prize of about $125,000.

Hospital Meters Opposed, Hear of Parking Garage

The proposal that parking meters be installed on lots at Belleville General Hospital came in for some strong opposition Thursday from members of Hastings county council.

The claim was that parking meters would do nothing to alleviate the present difficult parking situation.

Warden Reeve Russell Sills termed meters "mechanical bludgeons" while Thurlow Deputy Reeve Borden Forsythe said not only would they fail to solve the problem but also they would discriminate against people from the county.

City people, he said, could go to the hospital for the last.

Discussion on the hospital parking followed the receipt of a letter from the hospital indicating that $50,000 would be required for the county to carry out certain necessary repairs at the hospital.

Bancroft Reeve J. N. Brown Brown, a county representative on the hospital board, said the money may or may not be required but if so, it would not be until next year.

Clerk Treasurer Carl Bateman noted that what the hospital actually was looking for was a deficiting grant to offset whether the $50,000 if required, would be paid out of current funds or would have to be debentured.

Council held the communication for later consideration.

Mr. Brown said no decision had been made by the hospital board on the installation of parking meters. He admitted there had been some objection to the suggestion.

However, he pointed out that most hospitals charge for parking.

The Bancroft reeve said that low priced lots be set out put feelers with the view of discovering the high - rise parking garage at the hospital.

The proposal was that the private concern would build and operate the garage for a period of 20 years following which it would be turned back to the hospital. The board of governors would determine rates be charged.

However, he said no decision had been made either on the question of meters or a parking garage.

Committee Will Study Waste Plan for County

The Hastings county municipal reform committee will be asked to bring in a recommendation as to whether the county should develop a waste or area scheme for waste collection and disposal.

But the majority of many councillors is that rural municipalities have already spent considerable money in setting up sanitary land fill disposal areas and that the provincial government offer to pay 50 per cent of the costs of a waste management study was about a year too late.

Reeve Barbara Allen of Tweed felt that the study of area waste disposal should be left with the area planning consultants but Deputy Reeve MacKenzie of Faraday didn't agree.

He favored area waste disposal but felt that the study was not a planning function but should be a matter for the municipal reform committee.

He will give them something to do," he said.

Deserved to Reeve George Lyons, chairman of the municipal reform committee, took slight exception to the inference that his committee was doing nothing and promised a somewhat startling report for the September meeting.

He said his committee would be happy to investigate the matter of area waste disposal.

Parking At Hospital To Be At City Rate

Solving of the "chaotic situation" at the Belleville General Hospital parking lots was a step closer today after the decision to initiate paid parking.

However, members agreed to reduce the hourly fee from 25 cents to 15 cents for the first hour and 10 cents for each additional hour.

Board chairman Monsignor J. P. Sullivan said parking attendants would be hired and rates go into effect as soon as the new parking lots are paved. This job will be complete by September.

Monsignor Sullivan said the hospital is at present negotiating with a firm which has suggested it will build a multi-car parking garage, operate it for 30 years and then deed it over to the hospital.

Alderman Ben Corke said the alternatives are to "continue with the absurd situation now and not charge for the use of a 500-car parking garage, which will cost the taxpayer considerable money."

Mayor Scott's amendment to approve paid parking for the parking reduced the recommended rate from 25 cents per hour, and a maximum of $2.50 to rates similar to downtown municipal charges of 15 cents for the first hour and 10 cents thereafter.

Ald. Corke, commenting on the suggestion, said "parking elsewhere in the city is a cost to the parker and not to taxpayers" . . . questioned why hospital parking should be a taxpayers burden.

Both Hastings County warden Carmen Gibson and Mayor C. Russell Scott opposed charging visitors to park at the present crowded hospital parking lot.

The mayor quashed his statement by saying any kind of charge for parking would deter visitors and "patients need visitors".

"I'm voicing the opinion of a large segment of the population which is objecting to the idea now, that a larger group will be objecting when it goes into effect," he said.

Objections by citizens to paying for parking, brought a wry comment from Mayor Scott to another member Mrs. J. E. Marsh, when she said "I've learned a lot, and if they should be able to afford parking money".

Emergency Care Plan Extended

Belleville General Hospital's experimental emergency care ward staffing by doctors not attached to regular service, will be extended for another month.

Initiated in May, the program called for the hiring of eight doctors, seven of whom are residents at Kingston General Hospital. The four-month plan called for 24-hour service in the ward, as opposed to an on-call situation for local medical men.

The program has been working quite effectively, say hospital administrators. Friday, they asked the board of governors for a one-month extension of the experiment until the end of September.

Because medical doctors are now leaving for their vacations, hospital officials believe a two month period of the program, could not be made until they return.

Hospital Meters Opposed, Hear of Parking Garage

The proposal that parking meters be installed on lots at Belleville General Hospital came in for some strong opposition Thursday from members of Hastings county council.

The claim was that parking meters would only increase the cost of the present difficult parking situation.

Hastings Reeve Russell Sills termed meters "mechanical hindrances" while Thurlow Deputy Reeve Borden Forsythe said not only would they fail to solve the problem but also they would discriminate against people from the county.

City people, he said, could go to the hospital on the bus.

Discussion on the hospital parking followed the receipt of a letter from the hospital indicating that $50,000 would be required from the county to carry out certain necessary work at the institution.

Bancroft Reeve J. N. Brown Brown, a county representative on the hospital board, said the money may or may not be required — but if so, it would not be until next year.

Clerk Treasurer Carl Bateman noted that what the hospital actually was looking for was a donation, and that whether the $50,000 if required, would be paid out over a period — he would have to be debentured.

Council held the communication for later consideration.

Reeve Brown said a request had been made by the hospital board on the installation of parking meters. He admitted there had been some objection to the suggestion.

However, he pointed out that most hospitals charge for parking.

The trouble at Belleville was that many visitors and employees leave their cars parked all day at the hospital.

However, he said no decision had been made either on the question of meters or a parking garage.

Committee Will Study Waste Plan for County

The Hastings county municipal reform committee will be asked to bring in a recommendation as to whether the county should establish one or area scheme for waste collection and disposal.

But the majority of many councillors is that rural municipalities have already spent considerable money in setting up sanitary land fill disposal sites, and that the provincial government offer to pay 50 per cent of the costs of a waste management study was about a year too late.

Reeve Barbara Allen of Tweed felt that the study of area waste disposal should be left to the county's chief planning consultants but Deseronto Reeve George Lyon, chairman of the municipal reform committee, took exception to the reference that his committee was doing nothing and promised a somewhat startling report for the September meeting.

He said his committee would be happy to investigate the matter of area waste disposal.

Role of the Press

All of a sudden when the cry is for involvement . . . participatory democracy . . . let the public have its say, there apparently are some who would have the Press muzzled in their reporting such matters.

Incredible as it may seem we have a Mr. Charles Young telling the Task Force C planning meeting at Centennial Secondary School that the Press should not be allowed to quote people attending public meetings.

Direct quotes made at a public meeting, says Mr. Young, are "a cheap sensational source of reporting." Well, we do not hold with this ridiculous, not to say dangerous argument, any more than we condone a motion passed by the planning task force that the Press "not quote verbatim and assign quotes to speakers."

These planning meetings, involving members of the public, consultants and city officials are of paramount importance to the development of the city. To suggest that those present, in expressing their opinions, should not be prepared to have them subjected to public reading and scrutiny through the newspaper is a negation of the democratic process. And that is putting it mildly.

Chairman Ray Michol rightly points out that the meetings are public. He says "it is not an attempt to limit the Press, but . . . to ensure they (the quotes) are reported in context."

True, the Press has a responsibility to this end and our staff take pains to ensure that this is achieved. If we are in error at times we are prepared to print a correction; but no section of the Press, in any democratic society, can tolerate attempts to keep from the public issues and statements that are of public concern.

Tahiti and the Bomb

With recent news emphasis resting on the French nuclear tests in the South Pacific and on the activities of the Canadian protest vessel Greenpeace III, it is worth recalling the French test series has been held over a period of years.

During a one-day stop in Tahiti seven years ago, at a palm-fringed hotel setting by the sea, we met a French seaman from the nuclear test force on the island. Here, in this haunting, legendary place even he seemed disenchanted with it all. His wife and children were back home in Dijon and that is where he would have preferred to be: he showed us family photos and spoke far away were the best of the surf and the throb of drums and brown-skinned dancers, for this is where the tourists come and for the people of the island for many is emerging a jaded westerner could expect of Tahiti.

But the young Frenchman had been there longer and for him an earthly paradise was not paradise but a place dedicated to the possibility of human obliteration and in this January of 1965 he was separated from his family.

He could be home now, or at least have been home several times in the interim, but the tests have gone on, long past the time when the United States and the Soviet Union have halted theirs. Hence the protests of countries on both sides of the Pacific, Canada and Peru to Australia and New Zealand and a courageous personal demonstration by a group on board the Greenpeace.

Far Off Fields

Our Armed Forces are involved more with the forces of peace these days and we commend the carrying of school books by CFB Trenton Hercules aircraft on training missions to The Philippines in recent days. As Captain Ray McAnally, who commanded the last flight from Trenton last Thursday, put it, "Carrying a load makes things a little more realistic."

For the most part though it appears the planes fly empty on these training missions — which is a pity. We wonder if arrangements could not be made that would allow students to go along on some of these global trips. Not only would it be an incomparable experience for them but it would be getting some extra value for the tax dollars their parents are spending to support the armed services and the training of personnel in this manner. It would also be a unique contribution to peace in the world if our young people could meet their counterparts in other parts of the world. And who knows, it might be good also for recruiting!

Public Tired of Strikes by Public Service Employees

By RICHARD JACKSON
Parliament Hill Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — How do all these public service strikes grab you?

Strikes and threatened strikes by hydro power workers, by Quebec longshoremen clogging the wheat shipments, by garbagemen in several cities leaving the streets into rotting piles of ostrefaction, by air controllers and airport crews paralyzing transportation, and soon perhaps once more by mailmen.

And that is just a starter in calling the roll of strikes by public servants.

In Parliament for nearly two years there have been warnings that public servants — and the name "servant" in the Common is becoming a sour joke with many MPs — are pushing too hard and too far.

Among those with the power to call a halt to what many parliamentarians have bluntly termed "blackmail" of the taxpayers by their supposed "servants" has been Treasury Board President Charles M. Drury.

Keep it up, he warned the mailmen the last time they struck, and Parliament, responding to the anger of the taxpaying public, might wipe out the right to strike.

He has all but threatened the public service unions that they could face a flat, unqualified, outlawing of strikes in the "essential" sections of the public service.

So what is "essential?"

Mail service? Rail and air transportation? Shipping piers? National harbors?

A few of many, those, and all in the federal field.

And if the federal government moved to restore peace, order and convenience into its own backyard of labor relations, would not provincial and municipal governments be under pressure to set their own public services straight?

Strikes in the public service, always frowned on by the public servants as not quite decent, became respectable when former Conservative Prime Minister Lester Pearson pushed through a law in Parliament assuring them it was quite acceptable for them to strike the taxpayers.

It did not matter that federal civil servants had built-in job security so snug that their firing was virtually impossible, nor that they had pensions and fringe benefits the envy of most other sectors of the economy, nor even that across the board their pay was above the comparative average for the same type of work done.

Privileged or not, no matter: they could strike.

And some of them did, while others chose the binding arbitration route.

So more and more people of standing and authority are starting to sound like Treasury Board President Drury and Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau who warned federal civil servants that there was only "so much juice", they could "squeeze" out of the taxpayer "lemon."

Those were his words, and if he thought the taxpayer was getting a bit on the sour side then about public service strikes they have since become positively acid.

Listen to John P. Roberts, former premier of Ontario, now retired into private business and a taxpayer, rather than a tax collector.

"I recall," he says, "in the early 60's we here in Ontario passed legislation removing from Ontario civil servants the right to strike" — legislation which also set up binding grievance procedure and provided for compulsory arbitration.

"At precisely the same time we were doing that in Ontario, the federal government of Canada and the provincial government of Quebec drafted legislation to give their civil servants the right to strike.

"All I can say is that if you give a man a new toy you must expect him to play with it.

"The result is very apparent. What has happened now in most of our public service disputes is that the strike is directed against the community and everyone in it.

"Public service strikes are now strikes against the taxpayer—they are not strikes against the employer, the government—they are devices to squeeze the public."

What makes it "blackmail," as so many in Parliament have termed public service strikes, is that the law of the open market place does not operate in the protected civil service sector of the economy.

That law says that if employers fail to meet a price long enough, the employer goes broke and both the company and jobs go down the drain.

Governments do not go broke — not in the ordinary sense — although inflation and excessive taxation is a form of bankruptcy.

For there is always more a strike — shy government, can wring from the taxpayer to appease civil service greed. And so governments employees, federal, provincial and municipal are "bargaining," as it is laughingly called, against a bottomless public purse constantly refilled by helpless taxpayers under the pressure of faint-hearted weak and venal administrations.

"Oh yeah? Well, I dare you to step over this line."

Executive Actions Mark Of the Davis Government

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

This has been the first session under a Premier Davis confirmed by the electorate and it should have clues as to what the permanent character of the Davis administration will be.

On the legislative program the government has put through there probably aren't as many such indications as there might be.

The program has been quite a full one and there has been a fair bundle of major legislation.

Among some of the more important measures have been changes in the Municipal Act for uniform elections, the non-strike legislation for civil servants, establishment of three new regional governments, a new Coroners Act and various pieces of consumer protection law, such as that controlling pyramid selling.

However this legislation was not particularly of the character-setting nature. It was more tidying-up rather than bold; there was no removal of the block-buster about it.

A better picture of the administration's policies will be gained from its executive action rather than its legislative.

This was a very sweeping step, and in many ways a bold one.

It indicates there will be a striving for efficiency under Mr. Davis and a willingness of the business to take some gambles in trying to get it.

How effective it may be in its efforts still can't be judged. However there can be some belief that it could be quite successful.

This probably would not be a general opinion at this point of those close to government.

There has been some tendency to deride the reorganization, particularly by civil servants and others here.

However this is not a fair assessment.

The change in government that has been put through has been so massive that it is very short-sighted to try and judge it a this point. It obviously needs a long shake-down period.

But in the meantime the aims are good. The overall is coordination of government effort, and this has been strongly needed.

And in the end there could be results.

Forest Centre Planned

Ottawa Journal

One-room schoolhouses have long been obsolete, the voices of children who laughed and learned in them stilled by progress.

The Department of Lands and Forests first took it over in 1968 as a base office space for the department's 27,000-acre Limerick Forest operation. The school was built in 1878. It closed in 1958 and had sat idle, gathering dust, for 10 years.

Now the department is going to renovate it, build on additions and turn it into a forest centre where students from schools throughout the counties of Leeds and Grenville will come on field trips for talks by foresters and biologists before exploring the forest's nature trails.

What's even the old apple tree is still standing in the back yard. The outdoor privy is long gone (alas!), as is the old iron stove, students huddled around on cold winter days.

If it all looms to mean as much to its new students as it did to its old students all will be well.

A Look at Bell Telephone Increases

Ottawa Le Droit: It would be easy to play the demagogue and protest the recent increases in telephone rates. It would be easy to proclaim that the Bell telephone company is exploiting its customers.

It would be easy and tempting because it seems scandalous to obtain transport commission approval to increase revenues by $472 million when profits last year were $40 million, at a time when Canada still has so many people unemployed and on welfare.

At first glance it is. Under analysis, however, you realize it is not.

The return on capital investment for Bell Canada is 7.4 per cent. The increases will raise this to 7.8 per cent. All interest rates prevalent today, this return is modest, as credit union members who receive eight per cent on long-term investments can testify. . . .

The increases are therefore not scandalous, although certain aspects are really shocking. The six-per-cent increase for what the company calls "auxiliary service contracts" is revolting. These contracts include persons and coin-operated telephones, speaker and touch-tone telephones. Such auxiliary services are without doubt a luxury . . . but they are a luxury already paid for with the initial purchase or rental of the set and are hardly seen why a luxury already paid for should be paid for a second time—in effect 12 months a year without end.

The rate increase would be more easily accepted if it was matched with a decrease in rates for the elderly, who receive only their old age pension. . . . It is precisely when one is old, isolated, infirm and sometimes sick that one needs a means to communicate with the outside.

The Need to Preserve Downtown

Brockville Recorder and Times

One of the most serious problems facing planning boards in a developing city such as Brockville is the preservation of the core business district as a viable economic area. As a city grows it takes delicate planning and development policies to satisfy the need of suburban dwellers for shopping centres without destroying the old business districts. In Brockville this means preserving the King St. shopping area and its environs.

This newspaper has long been an advocate of careful balance of zoning in and around the business district to prevent the deterioration of the core (for all the examples of such deterioration cited by business men in areas where, initially, poor co-operation on the part of merchants and a failure by the municipal council to keep the core alive, eased the slide toward destruction of the downtown shopping district. In Brockville, fortunately, a similar slide has not developed beyond the point of no return without huge public expenditures. Much has been done by property owners to keep the area from deterioration.

Speaking in London, Ontario, recently, J. J. Barnicke, a Toronto real estate man, used the plight of Sarnia to warn other municipalities. He said Sarnia merchants had been "too darn greedy" and he blamed them for "killing the core" area. He accused Sarnia council, too of failing to act on downtown planning studies. At least one big chain department store has closed shop in Sarnia's downtown "for economic reasons". Large shopping centres have opened on the fringes of Sarnia, outside the city limits. When Sarnia foresaw the handwriting on the wall and attempted to annex portions of the township some years ago to better control development, the application was knocked down by the province. So to some extent, the province must share some of the blame for what has happened to downtown Sarnia. It could happen here too.

Sarnia merchants, belatedly, have come to realize that the downtown needs sprucing up. For two years now, they have been involved in a Norwich plan renovation operation, whereby older buildings are restored to original condition. This is what merchants in several towns and cities are doing today in order to make the area as attractive as possible. Some have done it here too.

Dubcek and the Light That Failed

Czechoslovakia's Long Travail Under Totalitarianism

By JOHN HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Surely the most tragic country in Europe today is Czechoslovakia. For the umpteenth time since the late 1930s, classic Czech freedoms to write great literature and music, compete in the dynamic European business community, have all been taken away by tyrants.

A new and lust-as-terrifying generation of Stalinist tyrants are dragging Czechs away to torture chambers, solitary confinement and execution cells. In one case, the journalist son of a Cchumanist leader tried and hanged in 1952, he himself in jail awaiting trial.

For almost 35 years, the prime of life for thousands of Czechs born at the time of Munich, Czechoslovakia has been suffering the deep travail of occupation and humiliation.

It began in late September, 1938 when the failing democracies of Britain and France tried to buy permanent peace from Adolf Hitler at Munich by carving up the first partition of the Czechoslovak republic.

In the spring of 1939, Hitler completed the dismemberment of the pre-war Czech democracy and Czechs-and-Slovaks occupied it until their defeat in the spring of 1945.

A brief and sad interlude of peace and restored democracy followed from the end of the war until the Czech Communist coup in the spring of 1948 in Prague.

Since then, the night has descended again on the Czechs with few shafts of light for relief. For many outside Czechoslovakia, the brief interval of Alexander Dubcek's regime, of-fered the hope of so-called "progressive Communism."

Dubcek gave freedoms to the press, the political system and international trade prospects unknown under any previous Communist regime.

These were unacceptable and anathema to the Soviet Union which ruthlessly invaded Czechoslovakia five years ago this summer and reinstated local Stalinist rulers. Today Dubcek is the classic "non-person" of the vengeful Communists. Every official bereft of power; his position obliterated on the Czech politburo.

And now the dark shadows of totalitarianism descend upon the brave land again. Most of Czech history is broken down. Men have been packed under foreign rule.

From 1620 to its collapse in 1918, the Austro-Hungarian Empire held Prague as an imperial city. The Czech Skoda gun plant was the major manufacturer of howitzers for the Imperial Austro-Hungarian army.

In the Middle Ages, John Hus, a father of the Reformation, was burned at the stake by a church whose allegiances political and religious were to a German emperor and an Italian Pope. Hus was a hero to Czech nationalism as for his religious ideas.

Canadians have easy access to this tragic country through the joint air service offered by Air Canada and the Czechoslovak Skyline.

How many visitors (of non-Czech origin) wandering around sooty, gloomy, but still beautiful Prague, will know what terrors surround them and any Czech citizens they are permitted to meet?

Retires

Rev. Ernest Long retired Friday after almost 18 years as secretary of the general council, the United Church of Christ, the largest Protestant denomination in the country. Dr. Long said that during his term of office the most significant feature was the change in emphasis on the mission of the church. "The church's main concern now is more people than with bricks and mortar." (CP Photo)

Gospel Is Not Just Prohibition

By R. J. ANDERSON

TORONTO (CP) — The Christian church, after nearly 2,000 years, is beginning to learn that the gospel is much more than Thou Shalt Not, says Rev. Ernest Long.

"The gospel is 'tint you might have life, and have it abundantly,' he says. "We agree with Peter that the joy in God might be in people. I think this is happening.

"Sure, we're pessimist sin. But we are also for the creative realization of what life is really all about."

No one knows better than Ernest Edgar Long that the church in the 1970s is not the church into which he was ordained 40 years ago. He has seen many changes, and individuel not a few himself, since 1926.

The views of Dr. Long on the church were expressed in an interview almost on the eve of his retirement as the secretary of the general council, the United Church of Canada.

For almost 18 years he has been the chief executive staff officer of a church that claims more than one million adult communicants and a total of almost 2.5 million under pastoral care, the largest Protestant denomination in Canada.

The numbers don't impress him.

"If we have a good half-million hard-core members who are really working at it—and if we face that fact—we are quicker of the draw as a fictitious figure of membership."

In the turbulent decades since the Second World War the Christian Church, like many other institutions, has been under strain.

Dr. Long said he is convinced that the church will survive.

"I think it quite likely will change its form drastically in the next few years," he said. "But it will survive. . . .

"We have to be prepared, though, for radical, drastic change in the form of the church."

Dr. Long retires a month before his 72nd birthday. He was born into a Congregationalist family in Brighton, England, in 1901 and when the family came to Canada, settling in Woodstock, Ont., he joined the Methodist Church as that was the nearest church. His sermon at the age of 16 was as a Methodist candidate for the ministry.

"The Methodists joined the United Church when it was formed in 1925 and Dr. Long was ordained by the London conference the following year. He served five pastorates—in Montreal and in Barrie, Richland Lake, Tillsonburg and Toronto in Ontario—before being appointed secretary of general council in 1954.

The spare, five-foot-six figure and the deep, resonant voice since have dominated United Church House from which the affairs of the church and its 94 presbyteries are administered.

Rev. George Morrison of Toronto, a chartered accountant-turned-clergyman, takes over as the new secretary.

Dr. Long retains his post as a member of the central committee of the World Council of Churches, Geneva. In this capacity he has been deeply involved in the area of world developments—refugee and crisis situations.

Dr. Long said that during his stewardship the most significant thing to happen to the United Church was the "enormous change in emphasis on the 'mission' of the church, that is, what the purpose of the church is, what it is all about."

It was attempting to renew itself, "to re-structure to meet the vastly changed situation."

"Our main concern now is more with people than with bricks and mortar.

"The church is concerned to bring to people a knowledge of God in Christ and fulfillment of life that belongs to the Christian man and ought to be the heritage of every man.

"The church is much more people-centred now than it used to be. We no longer build elaborate churches. We build multi-purpose buildings."

But the church had been less successful in three areas:

1. It had failed to make the gospel sound like good news.

2. It had not educated its members.

"There are too many illiterate Christians."

3. It had failed "to take church members with us in facing the big social and moral issues of our age."

Dr. Long said the church should be concentrating on adult education, not on Sunday school education.

"I think we have a bigger job and stand a far better chance of influencing the people with more than what we have even with children. Too many adult members of the church really don't know what the gospel is all about."

Is Sunday school dead?

"We need to recreate it. This is what we are trying very hard to do."

Dr. Long spoke freely and feelingly about many other issues disturbing to some churchmen.

Of the "Jesus freaks":

"There are a lot of these new manifestations of religion in our time and I don't think they are to be shrugged off lightly. . . .

"I think they're trying to say something to us—that we have in very high measure failed to communicate in the vernacular of these people.

"And they have heard out that religion has something to say, that the Bible is a viable book.

"I think they're immature but they're at least showing concern and interest.

"But I'm a little afraid that some of these modern religious movements may be turning in on themselves—become subjective, individualistic. . . .

Of U.S. draft dodgers:

"They are not all draft dodgers. They are not all deserters, by a long, long shot.

"We have always recognized in Canada the right of protest to the point of leaving the country and going to another country. . . .

Of church union:

"It's going to get impatient about church union, and certainly it's taking a long time and we don't seem to be making much progress.

"But we do have the first draft of a plan of union and we are making full-speed preparations to complete what we think will be a machinemove acceptable document than the one we have now. We hope it will commend itself to the churches.

"We're committed, as I see it, both the Anglican Church and the United Church and also the Church of Christ's Disciples in Canada, to pursue these conversations until we achieve church union.

"There's something in the genius that young people make that it could be too late if we wait.

"I suspect one young person say that what we're really doing is keeping three cadaveers in one coffin.

"They could turn out to be lively cadavers."

Communion Season Once Time of Joy

The Rev. Gordon C. Smyth

The joyful and solemn features of a pioneer Communion Season are practically forgotten. It was the great ecclesiastical time of year in a Scottish-Canadian Presbyterian settlement. It was the time to social time as well. By its annual coming in June, July or August, people calculated their days.

A month before the appointed date, due notice was given from the pulpit and the congregation experienced the first emotion of self - examination. The ministers from a distance who six months before had been engaged to assist, were reminded by letter and assigned their parts.

As the time drew near, the people gave themselves to a general cleaning of homes and hearts. Housewives were especially active, stocking larders in preparation for generous hospitality. For from near and far came the people without thought of invitation, sure of a welcome. Every door stood open and every barrel was free.

The Season opened on Thursday with a solemn fast and equally solemn sermon. The village store was closed. The children had time off from school. Only the essential chores were done. The mill stood idle. Not an axe rang out to a tree. With heart-shaking eloquence, the preacher pointed the theme of repentance until members of the church found peace at the foot of the Cross.

Friday was the "Question Day" the great field day of Presbyterian democracy. Again people flocked to the mother church building. The ministers debated with each other and with the elders and such members of the congregation as were ready to enter debate. Many of the theological and related social issues of the day were

Saturday the "tokens" were distributed to "intending communicants". As each member went up from his seat in church before relatives and neighbors, to receive a token of admission to the Lord's Table, a sense of special privilege and obligation must have filled his soul.

Then came "the Sabbath Day" as it was called. On Sunday, the great day of the sacred Feast. The "tokens"—sometimes small lead discs with numbers — were collected before members left their pews and went forward in groups to take their places at the Table according to the number on their communicants. If, for any reason, a member was absent, it was expected that he would return his "token" to the minister, at his earliest convenience, giving the reason why he had not been present. He could be called to account before the Session and his name could be stricken from church membership if his explanation was unsatisfactory.

The Communion Table was spread on Monday with a Thanksgiving Service. Then, from the "Mount of Ordinances" the people descended to wend their way homeward by road or footpath or bush or along corduroy roads. Their lives were fortified and renewed for the inevitable hardships and trials of those pioneer times.

Have we gained or lost, in succeeding generations? Is the Church as respected? Is the Gospel as cherished? What do you think? Leaving aside the matter of the tradition of Communion just once a year, what is your reaction to this outline of flow most of our ancestors took their religion? I am interested, respective of denomination. Send a letter to the editor of this newspaper and allow your thoughts out.

I personally feel wistful and hurt a bit sad.

We have opinions, whereas our forefathers had convictions. If they tended to be narrow, at least they were deep. Nonetheless, we are linked with them wherever we sing lines like these.

"Feast after feast thus comes and passes by,
Yet passing, points to the glad feast above,
Giving sweet foretaste of the festal joy,
The Lamb's great bridal feast of bliss and love."

Catholic Hierarchy Lifts Veil

NEW YORK (AP) — The lure of secrecy is gone now. The aura of "mystery" no longer prevails. The private process is out in the open. What's it like? Generally, it's routine, often tedious, yet also revealing.

That's the impression observers have gained away from an ideal look at the inner workings of a meeting of the U.S. Roman Catholic bishops, the first hierarchy in the world to admit reporters and others.

There were intriguing glimpses into ecclesiastical diplomacy and others.

"It's a matter of tactics," Bishop Joseph L. Primeau of Manchester, N.H., observed at one point. The discussion was over whether the bishops should petition the Pope to permit lowering of the present 35-year age minimum for deacons to 25 or 30.

"If we go for 25, perhaps the Holy See will grant 30," Bishop Primeau suggested. "If we ask for 30, we might get 33."

Nevertheless, the decision was to try only for 30.

Another indication of the sublime nuances of ecumenical interdenominational National Council of Churches.

Bishop Warren L. Boudreaux of Beaumont, Tex., urged extreme consideration of lay people in deciding the question. Our judgment will be better if we go to the people about this," he said.

However, Bishop Francis F. Reh of Saginaw, Mich., said such consultations could be a drawback, producing some "uninformed and ill-advised answers."

If the bishops had checked with the people on various reforms that were launched by the Second Vatican Council, he said, "we would have a 'no, no' on many things" that needed and were done.

That, like many other touchy points that percolated briefly to the surface, was quickly passed over without action on it, a mood reflecting the bishops' even-paced flow of reports and presentations.

The manners always were polite, gracious, a mixing of clergy and lay even when they bobbed up indirectly.

ASIA THROUGH A BUS WINDOW

Little did Phyllis Walsh, daughter of Mrs. and the late Mr. Ralph Walsh, 258 Bridge Street, East, dream that when she left for England a year ago last March, that she would return home by way of around the world — including a bus trip across Asia.

"How did it all come about?" we ask this vivacious, youthful and lovely dark-haired world traveller, whose contagious enthusiasm makes waiting to "go-and-do-likewise", immediate, as she tells us:

"Because I love England," (and we might say here, that Phyllis had previously visited England, as well as Europe, Nigeria and Mexico), and she continued, "I wanted to get to know it well. I found, for instance, that Springtime there surpassed all English poets' expressions I'd read as a school girl.

"However, upon seeing and becoming blessedly, through friends I'd met, in a brochure concerning a bus trip across Europe and Asia, I faced a decision: stay in England, a country I could visit easily anytime from now, or take a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to go home via around the world.

"So I chose the bus trip which ended at Bombay, India. From there I would continue on home by plane, with stopovers at Bangkok, Singapore, Hong Kong and Vancouver, B.C.

With her kind permission, here are excerpts from diary Phyllis kept, which give vivid glimpses that allow the readers to share her highly privileged experience:

"Thursday, July 22, 1971: Left London at 7:30 a.m. to Dover. Nice crossing. Twenty-nine people on tour. Two are retired couple. The rest in our twenties: two Canadians, two Americans, one English. The rest are Australians and New Brugs in Belgium.

"Good compliment, with two to a tent. We shall camp until we reach Iran, living around packed solid! On to Algeciquin!

"We met four other busloads camping around Europe. It's the thing to do obviously. . . everyone has travelled widely . . .

"In Cologne . . . "A brief look at the cathedral. Impressive. Stayed on other side Cologne. Good facilities."

"In Heidelberg, "we camped along the Necker River" and visited the famous castle or 'Schloss'."

At Munich found the Schone Museum "many lines as Don Mills centre, plus museum of finachines, tools, inventions. Very worthwhile except the explanations were in German!"

The autobahn passed on to Salzburg, to Innsbruck, on to Venice, then down the Yugoslavian coast of the Adriatic, rethinking the cities of cross between Greece and Sudbury — rocks, trees, water. At Split "swam in the Adriatic — beautifully warm, rocky beach."

On now to Dubrovnick, Budva, Tita, then "over two mountain ranges, through Kocrok Pass . . . through 38 tunnels, mostly long. On through Macedonia (poverty absolutely appalling)". into northern Greece. Past the plain of Thermopylae (has a huge memorial with a Spartan soldier on guard) to Athens and finally to Istanbul.

"So it was on Saturday, August 14, our bus crossed the Dardenelles on the ferry and we stepped out in Asia!"

(To Be Continued)

Beef Will Be More Plentiful In July

OTTAWA (CP) — Beef will be more plentiful in July than a year earlier, the federal agricultural department says in its food outlook for the month.

Increases in supplies of high-quality beef are expected to more than make up for a decrease in lower grades.

The outlook for other foods:

Pork: Supplies will be below the record levels of a year ago.

Eggs: Adequate supplies.

Poultry: Broiler chickens will be in plentiful supply and turkey supplies will be adequate.

Fruits: Supplies of berries, apricots, cherries, gooseberries, loganberries, raspberries and strawberries will be at their seasonal peaks.

Potatoes: Light supplies of new Canadian potatoes will appear in early July on the west coast. Ontario potatoes will be delayed with some reduction in supply due to frost.

Tomatoes: The southwest Ontario tomato crop will be reduced substantially.

Other vegetables: First supplies of green and wax beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, field cucumbers and leeks will arrive on the market. Ontario frost damage will reduce supplies of corn and beans.

Boys-Take Your Own Advice

By DORIS CLARK

One of my young friends, John A. Mc, who is nearly 16, is very fussy about his sister's looks and how she dresses. She is a year younger than he is and he advises her about her hair-do, what color of lipstick, how much to wear and so on. He's proud of her when she looks nice.

But if their mother presumes to tell him he had better change his shirt before appearing in public, or do something about that dandruff or about keeping his fingernails clean, he just ignores it. Now, I ask you, does that make sense? Surely a boy should look as well as he expects his sister or his date to look.

If you're in your teens, it's time you took full responsibility for your appearance.

Dear Doris: Our son will be eight and we have twins, a boy and girl, who will be five this fall.

The eight - year - old boy wets every day-and has for the past four years. In the winter he messes his pants heavily and his father made him wash them himself, which did not help.

His father does nothing to help this child, constantly nags at suppertime and uses terrible language to him. The boy talks back to me and never hangs up his coat.

I have given up hope on him and he will probably grow up to be a bum. He is a pig-headed and sulky child.

Frustrated Mother.

Dear Frustrated: In one paragraph you describe the problem; in the second you provide me with the cause.

When a youngster is being constantly scolded, nagged, jarred by his father he has to take it out on somebody or on something. Hence the enuresis and the rudeness.

What you really need is a reformed and understanding father for your boy. If you both give up on him and train him to think he is worthless, he will be that way.

You need trained, expert treatment, along with effective treatment for two misguided parents! Seek it.

Dear Doris: 1. Please send me any information about the International People's College in Denmark. 2. I would also like to find out about working in other countries. — Would-Be Traveller.

Dear Traveller: 1. Write to the International People's College, 3026 Eglinton Avenue East, Toronto, Ontario; and for temporary work in London, England, contact S. D. Bureau, 51 Tottenham Court Road, London W. 1, England.

Everyone Deserves Second Chance

Dear Ann Landers: Four years ago, at age 16, I was pregnant, unwilling and unmarried. I was lucky to get off with a warning. I don't know what made me do such a foolish thing. I must have been out of my mind. I've never stolen anything since and I never will again.

The problem is that I've been blackballed by certain stores. Apparently the stores are in touch with each other and there is no escaping my past. I was hired by two personnel managers and I loved working in both places. The jobs ended "mysteriously" after a few weeks. No reason given. I'm sure it was my "record."

How long must a person pay for old sins? I enjoy department store work and I want to continue. Help me, Ann Landers, please help me. Ann. I'm discouraged.—Lesser Learned

Dear L. L.: I hope every lesser-ager who has done a little shoplifting and not been caught will read and heed your letter a second time.

Tell the personnel director during your initial interview about your unfortunate history. Of course, you will run the risk of not being hired, but should you have the good fortune to run into an understanding person who believes in a second chance, you won't live in fear of losing your job because of the past.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from "Fifty-Year-Old Swinger's Wife" should be required reading for every married man over 45 who is fooling around.

Although married men have been cheating on their wives from the dawn of recorded history, it's a different game since TV came into our lives. Here's what happened to my brother-in-law, a handsome, married man, the father of three children. The old bat he was hard to go to Hartford on business. The day he was expected home he phoned to say he had missed his plane and was staying over.

That evening his wife turned on the TV and caught the end of a championship hockey game. There was lots of commotion. A spectator had been hit with a wild puck. The camera he had

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Is a modern husband still the boss?

NO. It makes no difference whether he is modern or old-fashioned, the husband in today's successful marriage not only doesn't "pull rank" as the boss, he also doesn't want to. He acts like a full partner in his marriage, and so does his wife. The most "liberated-minded" husband will fall flat on his face-along with his marriage -if he gives his wife the impression that she has equal rights only as far as it pleases him.

NOT with 100% accuracy all the time. The few occasions when someone can predict how other people will act under certain circumstances give the individual a mistaken idea that he's an expert. When someone does behave completely out of character, the "expert" will be surprised along with everyone else-still sure "although I am a pretty good judge of character, this is a case of a person fooling me which proves the rule."

Do most delinquent kids join gangs?

CHILDREN plastered with the label "delinquent" usually do not up in gangs-mainly because fellow "delinquents" are the y more similar to one each other when they all need, in a ng of fellow "sufferers," a child will think he is getting the affection and attention he lacks. On top of that, the youngster bees that gang members won't constantly nag him to do better and so they will look good.

Senior Citizens Entertained

MADOC — The regular monthly meeting of the Madoc and District Senior Citizen's Club was held on Wednesday June 21 in the United Church basement with 48 present.

President Mrs. Broadworth opened the meeting and gave a humorous reading. Secretary, Mrs. Johns, read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Several matters of business were brought up and discussed. It was decided that the Club would attend the Senior Citizen's picnic at Zwick's Island on July 19. Further plans for this will be made later. A number of members volunteered to act as hostesses at the O'Hara's Mill on Sundays in August.

The members celebrating birthdays in May and June were called to the front and Miss Adams conducted a spelling bee. Mrs. Foresell emerged the winner. The Club was pleased to have Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Casselman back with them after their illnesses.

The next regular meeting will be held on July 5 at the usual time and place. Following the lunch, the members have been invited to the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Stephenson to observe milking in the modern manner.

As the weathervane was a most unkind, the Moira River Conservation authority picnic, to which the Club was invited, was postponed from Wednesday, June 21 to Thursday, June 22 and was held at the Kiwanis Centre in Madoc. St. John the Baptist Anglican Church Women of Madoc served a bountiful lunch and an afternoon of music, recitations, and dancing was provided for the enjoyment of those in attendance.

Master of ceremonies for the program was Gus H. Hughes, of Tweed, authority representative. Mrs. Robin Jeffrey of Belleville gave an interesting talk as did Harold Varty of Tweed and Mrs. Lorge of Carrolton.

An instrumental trio of violins, trombones and piano favored with a selection as well.

The members are reminded that they have been invited by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cadwell to attend the re-dedication service at the Peace Park Sunday July 2, at 3 p.m. and to take part in the activities. There is to be a baking contest in pies, cakes, etc. They are to be sold afterward by auction to the highest bidder. Proceeds from this sale are to go to the members or their favorite charity. Other activities include a fishing contest, balloon blowing contest, and watermelon eating contest will be held for the children.

Tea and coffee will be provided and everyone is invited to bring a picnic lunch.

At the next meeting Mrs. Anna Carman will be showing pictures of her recent holiday in California.

Century Group Meets

MARMORA — Fifteen women were present at the recent New Century Organization meeting in the Town Hall.

Mrs. Helen Merkley presided the meeting in the absence of the president Mrs. Mary Lavender.

Many of the members felt that the bulletin board should be used more frequently by local organizations. A box is available inside the old police station door at the Memorial Building where anyone may deposit notices for the bulletin board or he may be contacted by phone.

It was noted that the record cabinet at the library should be kept up to date. Pictures or any information pertaining to any organization should be placed there.

A recommendation was made at the meeting that Mr. Burke, a watchmaker from Killaloe be asked to meet with the Town Council to discuss the repairing of the town clock. Mr. Burke has some 27 years experience and he is confident that the clock could be repaired.

It was agreed that the next meeting would be held on the last Monday in September.

Club Activities

SENIOR CITIZENS

TWEED — A number of business items were discussed at the recent meeting of the Tweed Senior Citizens' Club meetings held in St. James Anglican Church hall with 34 members and numerous visitors in attendance.

The meeting was chaired by the president E. Harries. Jenkins who opened with a Biblical narrative and gave quotations from the Bible. He also welcomed the many visitors including some younger folk who provided a portion of the entertainment.

A letter was read from a member Roy Cadwell in regard to the project taking place at the Lester B. Pearson Peace Park on Sunday July 2. A lengthy discussion took place regarding tentative plans for a bus trip for the members early in September to the Shrine at Midland. A vote was taken in this regard and many signed their names assuring the club of a good turnout. A tour of the Thousand Islands was also discussed but due to costs was temporarily turned down.

On July 19 there will be buses engaged to take the members to Zwick's Island, Ontario's 16th annual Senior Citizens picnic. Each club will furnish their share of entertainment, preferably music. A trophy will be given for the best in each group. The Tweed group will have their meal or meals as a potluck and tea will be provided at Zwick's Island for the evening meal.

During business it was noted that the club realized an amount of $110.35 on a recent "quilt raffle." A bake sale will be held on Sept. 1. A white elephant sale was discussed at length and this was provided for discussion at the first meeting for fall. The club will not meet in July or August, but an executive meeting is scheduled for some time in August.

For the program, Mrs. Willard McTaggart gave two readings, a duet of instrumental music was provided by Ron LaVallee on the guitar and Mrs. Doris Brady with the violin. Mrs. W. Goode sang two solos. The Kozy Kove Swingers, Dot's Rivers sang two solos. The Kozy and Elsie Falls contributed a number and the president Mr. Jenkins also sang a selection. Mrs. Falls played piano accompaniment for all the musical numbers and the program concluded with a humorous reading by Roy Cadwell, and a selection by a male trio.

All enjoyed lunch prepared by the committee in charge.

TWEED KINETTE CLUB

TWEED — A delicious pot luck supper was enjoyed by 15 members of the Tweed Kinette Club, and some visitors when Kinette Marion Little opened her home Monday evening for the final meeting prior to the usual summer recess. The meeting consisted of a repetition of many things over the past year, reminding the members in regard to bowling day, coming Education in September. President Carol Norris gave her report on her attendance at the convention held earlier in June at Mont Gabriel, Que.

Many things were thoroughly discussed, since the long summer holiday will see no meetings of the club.

The dinner was enjoyed and a social hour was spent following the repast, which rounded out the successful year for the Kinette Club of Tweed.

U.C.W. Meetings

TABERNACLE UCW UNIT 2

Unit 2 of Tabernacle UCW recently held their annual pot luck dinner with 20 members and one guest in attendance at the home of Mrs. Grant Ashley, Redoubtville.

This was the last social gathering for the group until September when the members will resume meetings.

Forester's Comrade Club, which lasted 37 years, this unit has catered for banquets and wedding receptions. They also make travelling baskets with aprons, pot holders, pillow cases, and other articles.

There are 21 members in this group and the leader is Mrs. W. D. Embury, secretary Mrs. Helen Oliver and treasurer, Mrs. E. Greenleaf.

ST. ANDREW'S UCW

MARMORA — The monthly meeting of St. Andrew's UCW was held at Cordova United Church on Tuesday, June 20. Starting at 8 p.m. a delicious potluck supper was enjoyed by those present.

Mrs. Walter Potts presided and opened the meeting. Mrs. Arthur Caverly read the scripture lesson.

A bake sale will be held in July at Mrs. Vaughan Glover's cottage on Crowe Lake. Another sale is scheduled for August with time and place to be announced later.

The annual bazaar will be held Friday, November 3. Head of the committee, Mrs. James Cook told of the preparations and plans that have been made already for the bazaar.

Mrs. John Glover gave an interesting talk on her recent trip to England, Ireland and Scotland, complete with postcards and photos.

Following the meeting, a tour of the Cordova Fish Hatchery completed the evening.

Four Teachers Honored

MADOC — Approximately 40 members of the Federation of Women's Teachers' Associations of Ontario gathered in the library at the Madoc Public School on Monday afternoon to honor four teachers who are leaving the teaching profession at the end of this month, after many years of devoted service.

A tea was held to honor Mrs. Morton of Stirling, Mrs. Florence McCoy of Madoc Township, Mrs. Aleatha Woods of Madoc and Miss Grace Pitman of Stirling (who was unable to be present).

As they arrived, each of the retiring teachers was presented with a lovely corsage.

The group was informally scattered around the low round tables and everyone partook of the delicious buffet style luncheon prepared by Mrs. Kate Kincaid. Pouring tea were Mrs. Delbert Carman of Madoc and Mrs. Pat Thompson of Stirling, president - elect of the Hastings County Federation.

Following the tea, the County Federation president, Mrs. Joanne Albert, called the group to order and the honored guests were each presented with a Federation pin.

Mrs. Gladys Labey made the presentation to Mrs. Woods. Mrs. Evelyn Boyle presented Mrs. McCoy with her pin, offering congratulations and best wishes from those present, and Mrs. Fave Dunham made the presentation to Mrs. Morton.

Each replied and expressed appreciation.

KATHALEEN McROBERT, daughter of Mrs. James McRobert of Shannonville and Mr. John Jessop. Miss Robert graduated on June 23 from the Ontario General Hospital School of Nursing. Miss McRobert is a graduate of Centennial Secondary School, Belleville.

MISS ALISON MARIE LEPORE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Lepore, Belleville, graduated May 26 at exercises held at Convocation Hall, University of Toronto, with her B.N.Sc degree. Miss Lepore, a graduate of BCIVS, has accepted a position with Scarborough General Hospital.

New Hymnaries Dedicated

RAWDON — Rev. W. C. Cox dedicated 27 new Hymnaries at a recent Mount Pleasant United Church service. Thirteen Hymnories were donated by Mrs. H. C. David and her sister, Miss Lenora Williams in honor of their parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams. Ten books were donated by the Sunday School and four were in memory of Mrs. Frank Jeffs, Mr. Ernest White, Mr. George Weaver and Ernest and Emma White.

The presentations were made by Miss Lenora Williams and Mrs. Ira David for the Williams books for the Sunday School by Kenneth Sharp and Donald Hübel. The other four Hymnaries were presented by Ross Hoard, Mrs. Allen Reid, Mrs. Stanley Williams and Mrs. Marguerite McMullen.

The worship service was in charge of Jill McAdam. Margaret Hoard, Terry Bailey, David Jeffs and Kenneth Couch.

American Girls Set Wimbledon Pace

LONDON (Reuter) — Billie Jean King, three-time Wimbledon titlist, and schoolgirl sensation Chris Evert led a list of eight American girls into the fourth round of the All-England tennis championships today.

The American contingent represented all but four of the 16 players in the fourth round of the women's competition, is the largest at Wimbledon in years.

Miss Goolagong, the 20-year-old top-seed, was strong favorite to beat Russia's leading woman player, Olga Morozova, and thus gain a quarter-final berth.

Miss Goolagong electrified the galleries here last year when she defeated Australian Margaret Court Smith for the championship.

However, she learned she was to play Miss Evert, Miss Anthony said: "I'll just have to play what I'm best at, which is serve and volley. I don't think anyone can beat her from the back court.

"I've talked to lot of people about her, and I plan to talk to a lot more now."

Miss Evert, the No. 4 seed, will no doubt be hoping for a less exacting test than the one she had on the centre court Friday when Mary Ann Eisel of the U.S. extended her to two grueling 8-6 sets.

Miss Evert's usually impeccable back court game took a heavy pounding from Miss Eisel's spirited attack do serve and volley.

If she had not served 13 double faults, Miss Eisel might have achieved a shock win over Wimbledon's colorful history.

Miss Evert's game is being romantically linked at Wimbledon with Jimmy Connors, 19, of Belleville, Ill., the young pro U.S. tusle prospect who is doing his own trail-blazing at Wimbledon this year. Connors has surged through three rounds of the men's singles with vocifierous support from his greatest fan, his mother Gloria. His still-court power today should take him into the quarter-finals at the expense of 30-year-old French international Francois Jauffret.

But the highlight of the men's fourth round should be the centre court fourth-round meeting between No. 2 seed Ilie Nastase of Romania and Tom Gorman of the U.S., who beat Nastase in straight sets on the way to the semi-finals last year.

Manuel Orantes, the 23-year-old Spanish left-hander and third favorite, is expected to defeat Romania's Ion Tiriac, 19 years his senior.

The other fourth-round match brings together Pierre Barthes of France and Australian Colin Dibley, who is seeking to reach the last eight for the second successive year.

The quarter-final spots in the top half of the draw were filled Friday by South of the U.S., the favorite, earned a Monday meeting with Russia's No. 1 Alex Metreveli, while Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia and New Zealand champion Jonny Parun won their matches and also will battle for a semi-final berth.

Smith, 25, is still striving to find the touch which took him to the final last year. But Friday night he gave a warning to his rivals in getting better with every match.

Downs Detroit 3-2

Pat Has Tigers by Tail

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"All I said," Billy Martin was explaining, "was he's gonna get Tigerlis against us the next time he's in Detroit." Instead, the Tigers came down with a severe case of Dobsonitis.

Because of the Detroit manager's comment, Pat Dobson said, doing a little explaining of his own, "I wanted to win that game more than any game I ever pitched."

And he did just that. The tall right-hander limited four-hitting while Baltimore Orioles, taking advantage of the Detroit hurler's ineptitude in the field, scored a 3-2 victory Friday night to slice the Tigers' lead in the American League East to a single game.

In the rest of the American League, Tuesday Rangers turned back California Angels 7-1, New York Yankees edged Cleveland Indians 1-0, Chicago White Sox defeated Oakland Athletics 6-5 in 11 innings, Minnesota Twins beat Kansas City Royals 2-0 and Milwaukee's game at Boston was rained out.

Martin, who has embroiled himself in more than his share of baseball feuds, began this one with that "Tigerlis" comment a week ago, when the Tigers played in Baltimore. He also suggested his players "would rattle the seats with boomers" when they got a shot at Dobson.

Willie Horton managed to rattle a few in the left field stands with his sixth home run in the second inning. But that barely made up for a misplay which paved the way to two Baltimore runs in the first.

Dobson, a former Tiger hurler who rode the trade route to Baltimore and became 20-game winner in 1971, figures he has came the target of Martin's wrath because of an aside he offered in spring training, the suggestion that Detroit pitcher Tom Timmerman, his old roommate, would be more effective as a reliever than as a starter.

The Birds nearly six hits against Detroit, one of them a gift, courtesy of Horton.

Jumpy Joe Helps Cubs Nip Pirates

It was nervous-nervous time for Chicago Cubs Friday night. Joe Pepitone—remember him? He's the shakes before the Cubs' 4-3 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates and Rick Reuschel—a name to remember—joined him in the late innings.

"I haven't been that nervous since the seventh game of the 1964 World Series," said Pepitone, returning to action for the first time since April 24 after two months on the voluntarily retired list.

Reuschel's first game in the majors more than two weeks ago. He won it in relief and has won two subsequent starts.

"I was listening to the game on the radio and you bet I was nervous," the 6-foot-3, 230-pound right-hander said as he stretched out on a table in the locker room with ice packs on his back and ankle. He blanked the hard-hitting Pirates on two hits for 7 1-3 innings before the ankle-back combination let him out and relievers Dan McGinn and Jack Aker blew most of a 4-0 lead.

While the third-place Cubs climbed within 3½ games of Pittsburgh, New York's Mets trimmed Montreal Expos 7-3 and pulled within three percentage points of the Pirates in the national League East. In the West, Cincinnati Reds lost to San Diego Padres 4-3 in 13 innings and Houston Astros bowed to Atlanta Braves 5-3 so the Reds remained one-half game in front of the Astros. Elsewhere, San Francisco Giants trounced Los Angeles Dodgers 8-4 and St. Louis Cardinals downed Philadelphia Phillies 4-1.

The Mets jumped on Montreal rookie Balor Moore for four runs in the first inning—two walks, Jim Fregosi's single, Cleon Jones' two-run double and Jim Beauchamp's sacrifice fly—and got their final run in the ninth on Willie Mays' 649th career homer. Tim Foli and John Boccabella homered for the Expos before Danny Frisella saved the victory for Jon Matlack with three shutout innings of relief.

Billy Joe Booth Killed

DORCHESTER, Ont. (CP) — Billy Joe Booth, 32, retired nine-year veteran of Ottawa Rough Riders of the Canadian Football League, was one of two persons killed Friday when their aircraft apparently exploded over this village 10 miles southeast of London.

Police said the second person was identified as James Maguire Jr., 34, of Morgan City, La.

Booth, who lived in Harvey, La., and Maguire were reported to be on their way to Ottawa to go fishing.

Witnesses said the four-seat Piper Cherokee Arrow exploded, then plummeted to the ground.

Police said no one else was aboard.

Officials at London airport tower said the plane was en route from Windsor to London and was circling for a landing when the accident occurred. There was no record of a flight plan.

Booth played nine outstanding years for Rough Riders as end or tackle.

In 1964 he was Eastern Conference all-star at offensive tackle, shifted to defence the following year and was all-star end, eventually becoming defensive captain.

He retired after the 1970 season.

Ballard said earlier he and Orr are interested in bidding on United States rights, but Fisher said there would be no announcement on those rights until Wednesday.

"The games from Russia will be transmitted by satellite," Bricker said prior to the announcement. "But I hope to make good use of the game films, too."

Ballard-Bobby Buy Rights

TORONTO (CP) — Doug Fisher, chairman of the executive committee of Hockey Canada, said Friday Canadian radio and television rights to all eight games of the Canada-Soviet hockey tournament this fall have been awarded to Ballard-Orr Sports Enterprises for $750,000.

"The $750,000 goes to Hockey Canada, to be split, ultimately, between Hockey Canada and the National Hockey League Players' Association pension fund, along with whatever additional profit there will be from that program," Fisher said.

Hockey Canada, which negotiated the tournament between the best of Russia and stars of the NHL, estimates that the cost to sponsors will be between $2 million and $3 million dollars. Cost of line and time charges and production charges will be as much as $1.5 million.

"We are guaranteed a profit of at least $750,000. We hope it will go as high as $1 million," Fisher said.

"In this instance, Ballard-Orr Enterprises is a non-profit organization."

Swayze Switches Roles--He's Really 'Beautiful'

By RANDY DERRY
Sports Staff

Beautiful Bruce Swayze has a dual personality, the only thing is that he's been hiding the good half and showing the bad.

The 240-year wrestling veteran from Hollywood, California, has travelled the circuit in both the U.S. and Canada plus Europe, Japan and Australia and has found they all have one thing in common — nobody likes him.

"I'm in that ring to win and nothing else, I fight tough and since I'm not as big as some of those other wrestlers I have to resort to some rough tactics," observes Beautiful Bruce. "I know I'm not the most popular man but I have to look after myself."

Looking after himself is not often just a matter of defending himself from an opponent in the ring but usually a bevy of angry fans who would like nothing better than to string him up.

"I really don't make an effort to rile the fans but my style of wrestling just doesn't seem to agree with them."

Whether it is style of wrestling that irks the fans or whether they remember some of Bruce's proteges in the past, he has made few friends. Managing was the initial push that got Bruce into the wrestling game coming in with the one time national and world champion tag team duo The Fabulous Love Brothers. Bruce is now strictly a wrestler and not managing anymore because it was "too time consuming" but with men like Cruncher Verdu, Baron Siculaiza, and Abdulla the Butcher under his wing at one time fans aren't likely to forget his infamous past.

Bruce isn't bothered by his "bad guy" status and plans to stay in wrestling for a long time to come, "Most people have a love for sports and want to become involved in some aspect of it, wrestling happened to be the sport I'm good at. I like the sport, perhaps the travelling is the greatest one after awhile but still it's a good way to make a living. Except bad injuries I plan to stay in it for a while longer."

Despite Bruce's infamous past, which includes the very recent past, he recorded a first at Friday night's wrestling matches. Not only did he emerge as the good guy, he had the fans' standing and cheering for him.

Bruce had opened the night's card with an unpopular win over Pat Kelly and the 1,500 - plus fans were readying themselves for another typical Swayze night but he reversed his form and became an instant hero following the featured 10-man battle royal.

Beautiful Bruce and one-time tag team partner Eric the Red came out on top of the two survivors in the 10-man brawl and Bruce was ready to split the $1,000 prize money 50-50. Eric had other ideas though and proceeded to rough the unsuspecting Swayze up.

All former relations between the two wrestlers were quickly terminated and a running feud lasted the entire evening, with Beautiful Bruce assuming the unfamiliar role of crowd favorite.

The official results had the pair splitting the prize money but the unofficial results have Swayze out for revenge in the seamless tease bout in the next pro card.

As for the other members of the battle royal Chief Little Bear was the first to fly over the ropes followed by quick succession by Ron Doner, the Wildman, Junior Mr. Canada and the Kelly Brothers. Vic Rossattani remained the lone good guy against Red, Swayze and the Beast but was no match for the trio and was thrown out.

Smythe said he was not interested in the job.

The Globe and Mail says that Armstrong, a long-time Leaf veteran and quarterback previous to various administrative capacities last season, will move into the coaching job and Frank Bonello, Marlboro coach the last two years, will take over the general manager's chair.

Are Soccer Photographs Essential?

Sports Editor.

I wonder if you are aware of the new ruling in the organized soccer league in Belleville.

My son, who is a member of the Richard Ellis Flyers in the Bantam league, was told he had to have three pictures taken of himself.

These were to be attached to forms he had to sign, giving his full name, address, phone number, date of birth and also his parents' nationality.

I signed a form at the start of the season, allowing my son to play. This year I paid the fee asked for. If he does not have these pictures taken he will not be allowed to play soccer.

These boys play soccer for the fun, and it is hoped that they will learn some sportsmanship and fair play at the same time. I hardly think this is possible when adults use these tactics. It only shows that the boys are not being trusted to play on their proper teams.

You would think that the coaches would know their own players or perhaps they are the ones not trusted. I am also very puzzled as to why they want to know the parents' nationality.

Mrs. Doreen G. Davenport,

Bruce Becomes Beautiful

Some men are born with glory and others have it thrust upon them. Such is the case of Beautiful Bruce Swayze who reversed his bad guy image and became an instant hero in Friday night's professional wrestling card. Bruce took his cues from Pat Kelly in the first bout of the night (top) but came back to dethrone the Irishman much to the ire of Belleville Memorial Arena wrestling fans. Swayze's eventual battle with Eric the Red appeased the crowd though and he left the fan's favorite. Remaining in the come-back mood Bobo Johnson returned from this flip by the Little Brother (right) to win the midget tag team bout with his partner Tiny Todd.

Armstrong To Coach Marlies

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says that George Armstrong will be named coach of Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series at a news conference Tuesday.

The Marlboros have called the news conference, but did not give a reason.

But Tom Smythe, general manager of the Toronto junior club for five years, confirmed Friday night he has been asked to leave the Marlboro organization and has been offered a job as assistant to Ray Miron, general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs' farm club at Tulsa.

Rookie Prizes Could Key B.C.

Eric Emerson
Staff
Sports Writer

The hottest team in the CFL this season may not be the Calgary Stampeders, who won the pitching arm of second-stringer Jim Lindsey to a surprise 23-23 win over the league all-stars; or the Montreal Alouettes who have a new defensive coach, a new defensive star and, they hope, a new-look offence.

It may not be the Hamilton-Tiger Cats, who are out to prove that black can be beautiful even at quarterback; or the Toronto Argonauts, who have added Eric "The Flea" Allen to the swiftest backfield alignment north of the 49th parallel.

As anyone west of Moose Havelocked can readily tell you, the team to keep an eye on this season will be the British Columbia Lions.

The B.C. Lions? The same Lions who finished fourth and out of the playoffs with a 6-9-1 mark? The same B.C. Lions that manager-coach Jack Gotta called the most disappointing squad he's ever had to become a Minnesota folk remembered.

Added to the solid nucleus of Evenson, speedy flanker Tony Gabriel and tackle Ken Sugarman and fellow-star Ken Phillips, the first-year phenoms could prove to be a match for even Calgary's defending Grey Cup champs.

CFL NOTES: The Alouettes are banking heavily on their own rookie prize, JUNIOR AH YOU. The 240-pound, Hawaiian - born end is reported to be stronger than Edmonton eyeballing Elm by 30 pounds. He began impressing Montreal coaches in the first practice by chinning himself on the McGill Stadium goalposts.

The Argos own prize, Michigan all-Americans ERIC ALLEN edged the fierce contest of him this season by leading the first Argonaut backfield game in rushing. "The Flea" scampered for 76 yards in Toronto's 27-20 victory.

In Ottawa, rookie DENNIS DUMMIT earned a reprieve from the axeman for a shaky performance in the Rough Riders' 24-20 win over Calgary. Coach Jack Gotta felt that the former UCLA quarterback's inferior showing was due mainly to inexperience so he was retained in spite Barry Thorsfildes and Paul Brothers for the backup spot behind Rick Canatta.

Hamilton's rookie hope is black quarterback CHUCK EALEY, who has never been a starting signal caller in high school or college. Are you listening, Wayne Harris?

Ron Estey, a big defensive tackle, showed that he has the mobility for the big CFL fields by moving to defensive end for the East-West college encounter. He was a major factor in limiting the high-octane scoring potential of Milgrom and Tagge.

The third rookie threat for B.C. will be Ray Nettles, a speedy linebacker who drew notice in the All-America game with a key fumble recovery.

ANOTHER ROOKIE, who wasn't selected for the All American game, but who could be a big man in the B.C. future is quarterback Don Bunce. The Stanford product stated that he could fill the mast-size shoes of predecessor Jim Plunkett by leading his team to their second consecutive Rose Bowl victory last year.

The ex-Stanford Indian could assume the starting role or at least push sophomore Don Moorhead to the same kind of heroics that saw him lead Michigan to a 1970 upset over previously-undefeated Ohio State in the most celebrated collegiate game of the season. Another way the Lions could enjoy the kind of victorious ending they lacked since Joe Kapp took his last gulp of champagne from the Grey Cup and suggested moving to become a Minnesota folk remembered.

Added to the solid nucleus of Evenson, speedy flanker Tony Gabriel and tackle Ken Sugarman and fellow-star Ken Phillips, the first-year phenoms could prove to be a match for even Calgary's defending Grey Cup champs.

CFL NOTES: The Alouettes are banking heavily on their own rookie prize, JUNIOR AH YOU. The 240-pound, Hawaiian - born end is reported to be stronger than Edmonton eyeballing Elm by 30 pounds. He began impressing Montreal coaches in the first practice by chinning himself on the McGill Stadium goalposts.

The Argos own prize, Michigan all-Americans ERIC ALLEN edged the fierce contest of him this season by leading the first Argonaut backfield game in rushing. "The Flea" scampered for 76 yards in Toronto's 27-20 victory.

In Ottawa, rookie DENNIS DUMMIT earned a reprieve from the axeman for a shaky performance in the Rough Riders' 24-20 win over Calgary. Coach Jack Gotta felt that the former UCLA quarterback's inferior showing was due mainly to inexperience so he was retained in spite Barry Thorsfildes and Paul Brothers for the backup spot behind Rick Canatta.

Hamilton's rookie hope is black quarterback CHUCK EALEY, who has never been a starting signal caller in high school or college. Are you listening, Wayne Harris?

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Sunday, July 8

Aries (March 21-April 19): See if you can enjoy just being alive when you're. Try looking with deliberately naive eyes, as if you hadn't seen familiar surroundings before.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Sharing your fantastic hobbies and gaming should be enough. Don't tend to your accustomed acts of abnormality functions early and quietly.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Get an early start, make the rounds of your neighborhood to discover what might be helpful. Evening is good for entertainment.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Word from distant sources may have more importance to you than some of the nearby routines. Share experience without pressure.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): After you've done a normal amount of amenities, your part of community rituals, take yourself off for a private session with plans.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Clear your head of the system with a holiday, no thought of work. Seek an old friend you haven't seen for a while. Compare notes.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Everybody will feel a bit easier if you let others make the plans and decisions while you go along for the ride, so to speak.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): It's a good day to collect rewards. Relaxation is well earned, but be sure you don't skimping expected appearances.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Make this a serene and quiet family day, with something a little special for all. Share the feelings by action rather than talk.

Capricorn (Dec. 23-Jan. 19): You can make today an inspection of your possessions. There's much picking-up and throwing-out to do, and good reasons for doing it.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19): Some thoughts over your budget may start a fresh idea. Gather friends and family about you for a mild celebration.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): All promises to be well so long as you overdo no special pleasure, sampling a little of those things you can handle with no problem.

Monday, July 9

Aries (March 21-April 19): If you want anything done, do it yourself. As seasonal distractions and holiday-spending intentions reduce efficiency and attendance.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Life with friends and family goes on with much fun. Don't neglect your work, keep a change in mind for tomorrow.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Your energy is high and life is interesting. Stay at the surface, with as much distance or movement as conditions permit.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Come forth with your ideas early, defend them if necessary in discussions. They turn out acceptable to all when fully understood.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Take your mind off office politics, work programs, and let current routines proceed. There is enough to keep you busy all day.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): No business at hand should be published—nothing official should be pursued. Give any white elephants to charity.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Creative work is favored, but not much business gets done. Don't make now are priceless later. Extend yourself to enrich all new contacts.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Make the most positive kind schedules you should keep your share of details closely in mind so you can put off later.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Time tips for self-improvement, tests of your skills, but avoid personal competition for better or worse.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Horse and family affairs take first priority. Skip work routine today. Defer new starts for next week or later if you can.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Side-step pressures; let others pick up their share of leader-ship. Time limits on loans hadn't thought of, but feasible.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Opportunity presents itself for immediate application of today's ideas, particularly where revision of work habits is your goal.

Tuesday, July 4

Aries (March 21-April 19): If there's a way of provoking you, somebody will blunder into it. It's up to you to know how to cope with it, by containing yourself.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): You should be no routine to not suspect or understand fully.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Select a few interesting activities. Unexpected news comes your way, perhaps an invitation to explore fields you've never seen.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): All moods and temptations aside, your loved ones, good friends claim your time and attention. Are somewhat critical moments.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Faraway places fascinate you—can you manage transportation?

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Now your life shows you how firmly you're tied to your past and society in general; your own and related people in particular.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Renewal of communications, is today's theme. Your area of great service in subtle ways you may not.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Let care and caution from a confusing start to a full and enjoyable day by letting things unwind at a natural pace.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Don't try to take charge to get your group together and agree on a plan of fun, but once started you've got a day and evening of good fun.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Using the break from normal schedule for activities that you make necessary small journeys can bring holidays.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Activities involve younger people. Where you have a hobby well developed, a potential leap forward into new benefits is possible.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Listening through the morning as you work out details tells you where your chance is later in the day to build stronger family ties.

Boy 'With Spleen' Finds Life Tough

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a boy, 15, and two or three years ago the doctor told us I have a spleen and cannot take up sports or go to gym. I like sports so much, but am not allowed to join in any.

What is a spleen? What causes it? Is there any cure for it? I get pains in my stomach; does this spleen cause them? Is the spleen inherited?

Some other doctor told my mother I had thalassemia minor. Is that the same thing? —J.W.

Everybody has a spleen (unless it is removed surgically). What the doctor said, no doubt, is that you have an enlarged spleen.

It's a useful organ. It stores red blood cells, destroys old cells, helps make certain white blood cells. People get along if the spleen has to be removed because other organs take on the tasks performed by the spleen, but it's better to keep the spleen if possible.

Tissues of the spleen are very soft, and it is extremely difficult, if possible at all, to stop bleeding if the spleen gets ruptured in an accident, by gunshot, or whatever, in such emergency cases the blood vessels leading to it and from it are closed off and the spleen removed.

The blue in your case is thalassemia, a family of also called Mediterranean anemia or Cooley's anemia, as it is seen primarily in people with Mediterranean ancestry—so yes, it is a hereditary ailment.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have hair on my face and am very self-conscious. I read that shaving of having it removed permanently, but I have heard that it is not guaranteed and that more hair grows.

Would you advise me to have it done? Please answer soon as I am going on a trip and would like to have it done before I go. —Miss

If you're in all that rush, I'd advise you to wait until after your trip.

Hair removal by a registered electrologist (meaning one who has passed the requirements to be BY HAIR REMOVAL) is about 90 per cent of the hairs that are removed. About 10 per cent of the hairs may not be destroyed the first time, and have to be treated again.

It's not a quick process, as each hair root has to be treated individually, and the usual practice is to spread the entire job over a series of treatments, unless only a very few need to be removed.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Opening lead — ten of diamonds.

You don't have to be an Einstein to usefully employ the everyday mathematics of bridge. The ability to count to 13 covers at least 90 per cent of the situations that confront that arise, and most of the other problems encountered can be solved in astonishingly simple fashion.

Take this hand where both experience and logic should lead to the right method of play. Assume West leads a diamond, which you win with the ace. You draw two rounds of trumps and must try to avoid losing both a spade and a heart.

One way of playing the hand would be to cash the A-K of hearts and lead another heart in the hope of finding the suit divided 3-3. In that case your last heart would become a trick on which to discard a loser from dummy.

The probability of a 3-3 heart break is only 36 per cent, and this method of play is therefore not particularly attractive.

But a different method of play would make you a decided favorite to land the contract. After drawing trumps you should lead a low heart to dummy, planning to finesse the nine.

Assuming that East wins with the jack or queen, you lead another heart. If he's a saturn and play another low heart, this time planning to finesse the ten. In the actual hand, the ten wins and the rest of the tricks are yours.

The probability of finding West with the queen, the jack, or both of them is 76 per cent, or roughly 3 to 1 in your favor. Even if the figures 36 per cent and 76 per cent are totally unfamiliar to you, experience should tell you that second method of play is far more promising than the first. It's plain common sense, that's all.

Rivals Appeal

Credentials Before Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Parallel efforts to upset the California and Illinois decisions of the Democratic credentials committee moved toward a federal appeals court today.

Lawyers fighting the committee decisions said they would appeal Judge George Hart's ruling in U.S. district court Monday that the judiciary should not get involved in the debate.

Anticipating the appeals, Hart told the lawyers that the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia had agreed to hear arguments today.

Hart's decision not to meddle came in two cases:

—The move by Senator George McGovern's camp to overturn the credentials committee vote stripping him of more than 150 California delegates.

—Attempts by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley and 58 of his allies to upset a committee vote depriving them of seats as convention delegates.

The Illinois vote gave McGovern at least 41 supporters among the challengers seated by the committee in place of the Daley contingent. McGovern forces first sought a compromise in the Illinois dispute, but after the California upset, they stood firmly against Daley.

Supporters of Senator Hubert Humphrey initiated the challenge to the winner-take-all aspect of California's primary, and Humphrey picked up most of the delegates taken from McGovern and apportioned among all who ran in that state.

In ruling on the California challenge, Judge Hart commented:

"It might not be cricket; it might even be dirty pool, but is it unconstitutional?" His answer was that there was no clear constitutional principle involved.

"Stop the tape!"

Second Atom Bomb Exploded

PARIS (Reuter). — The usually well-informed Paris newspaper Le Monde said today France exploded a second nuclear device in the Pacific June 30.

A defence ministry spokesman declined to comment on the report and said a communique on France's controversial nuclear tests would only be issued after the end of the present nuclear series.

Quinte 'Lucky' At 48 Reading

TORONTO (CP) — Disgruntled travellers returned from holiday weekends Monday, fed up with rain and cold temperatures that came close to records set more than a century ago.

Some record lows were set today and forecasters are looking for little change in southern Ontario temperatures. But there is a gradual warming trend in the North.

The Quinte area was lucky. The mercury only fell to 48 degrees, one full degree above the record low for the month of July, set in 1930.

"It's unbelievable," said Dave Rudik, a forecaster at Toronto International Airport which hit a low of 41 degrees overnight, equalling the July 4 record set in 1938.

"We'll be lucky to reach our norm of 70 even at the warmest part of the day—either today or tomorrow," said Mr. Rudik.

"It should read the low 70s on Monday and Friday but there is no marked warming trend until the end of the week—and that's for sure."

Three Ontario points shivered this morning as all-time low temperature records for the month of July were either set or tied.

The northern community of Moosonee dipped to 29 degrees, beating the July record low of 29 set in 1943. The Bruce Peninsula town of Wiarton recorded 40 degrees to match the July low record in 1954 and Muskoka slipped to 35 degrees to match marks set in 1945 and 1965.

North Bay recorded a reading of 39 to break its July 4 record of 43 set in 1961. Other points matching record July 4 lows were Earlton, 30; Killaloe, 36; Sarnia, 45; Fletcher 42, and Hamilton, 47.

Dockers Accept Offer

MONTREAL (CP) — Striking Montreal longshoremen voted today to accept conditionally return-to-work proposals worked out by federal labor department officials, a union official said.

An executive of the International Longshoremen's Association said a closed-door meeting this morning voted to accept the proposals as long as certain changes are made.

Jean Marchand, lawyer for the Maritime Employers Association which is responsible for the proposals later today, said longshoremen in Trois-Rivieres also voted at a meeting in this morning to accept the proposals.

No further details of the meetings were immediately available.

Longshoremen were also meeting in Quebec City but there was no immediate word on action there.

Some 1,300 longshoremen have been on strike at the two ports since May 17 and last-ditch talks to settle the dispute were held with federal troubleshooters throughout the long weekend.

Directors of the employers association were to vote on the proposals today.

Meanwhile, the employers were awaiting possible court results before meeting later today to discuss further action including the filing of a $3 million damages suit against the ILA.

"I'm not a fanatic about it with drawing the suit if the workers decide to go back to work," said Mr. Mulvaney. "The union came to us last night and asked us to withdraw legal action and we refused."

Mr. McKeown said the papers were approved and ready for filing and the only holdup was the MEA's wish to wait for "the proper moment" to launch action in Quebec Superior Court.

"We don't want to inflame the situation, particularly now when there's no real urgency anymore," he said.

Koreans Will Seek Unification

SEOUL (AP) — South and North Korea announced today they have agreed in high-level secret meetings to set up machinery to work for unification of the long-divided peninsula.

Simultaneous announcements in Seoul, the South Korean capital, and Pyongyang, capital of North Korea, said the accord provides for a telephone hotline between the two cities to prevent accidental war and for a joint political committee to open exchanges in many fields and to promote unification of North and South through peaceful means without outside interference.

Also, the two governments also agreed to refrain from armed provocations and from slandering or defaming each other and to avoid accidental military incidents.

The agreements were reached at meetings in Pyongyang May 2-5 and Seoul May 29-June 1.

South Korean President Chung Hee Park and North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung participated in the talks in their respective capitals, the announcement said.

Fischer Ready, Spassky Balks

REYEJAVIK (AP) — Hours after Bobby Fischer ended his holdout and gave the world chess championship new life, Russian Boris Spassky put the match in doubt again today.

Spassky lodged a formal protest objecting that Fischer, the American challenger, "has violated the rules of the match" by failing to appear in Iceland for its scheduled start on Sunday.

The 29-year-old American challenger flew from New York after accepting London banker James D. Slater's offer to match the $125,000 purse put up by the Icelandic Chess Federation. Now the winner of the 24-game match will get $166,250 and the loser $83,750.

Each will also get 30 per cent of the $250,000 paid for the TV and movie rights to the match — $75,000 each.

The match, which could last two months, had been scheduled to start Sunday afternoon, but Fischer stayed in New York, demanding a 30-per-cent cut of the gate receipts.

The Icelandic Chess Federation, after negotiating since last week with Fischer's lawyer Andrew Davis, rejected the demand for a cut of the gate receipts. But it agreed to the previously Slater came forward with his offer to put up the money, saying: "Fischer has said that money is the problem. Well, here it is."

"I like chess and have played it for years," said Slater.

"Many want to see this match and everything has been arranged. If Fischer does not go to Iceland, many will be disappointed."

Fischer was quoted by a representative in New York as saying: "stupendous ... incredible and generous and brave."

Mystery Surrounds Slayer of Hijacker

SAIGON (AP) — The identity of the passenger who pumped five bullets into the young South Vietnamese hijacker of a Pan American World Airways jumbo jet at Saigon airport remains a mystery.

Conflicting reports spoke of a small, slim young man; a tearful-faced older man in a checked shirt; a sky marshal; a retired policeman; and a new employee of a Saigon civilian contractor.

South Vietnamese police were silent. They arrested the father of the hijacker, an office worker in Saigon, and there were unconfirmed reports that the young man's mother and sister also were taken into custody.

An American passenger who helped to subdue the hijacker said the killing was "completely unnecessary."

The passenger, who declined to be identified, said:

"The hijacker was on the floor and subdued when the pilot told the passenger to shoot him. He shot him once and the pilot yelled, 'Shoot him again! Shoot him again!'"

Barricade Prevented By Troops

After a four-hour confrontation between 8,000 masked men of the Ulster Defence Association and 600 armed troops, the UDA—the Protestants' answer to the Roman Catholics' Irish Republican Army—abandoned its plans to throw a steel barricade across Ainsworth Avenue in West Belfast.

But the army agreed to set up checkpoints on the avenue and search anyone entering the district for weapons. And it said the army—not the police—would maintain law and order in the area, assisted by unarmed UDA patrols.

"No members of the police will be allowed in," said a UDA leader. "We feel that if the Queen's War does not run in the Creggan and Bogside areas, it will not run here."

He was referring to the IRA's strongholds in Londonderry, the barricaded "no go" districts which in effect are autonomous IRA-Catholic areas from which the army and the police are barred.

It was to protest this area, known as Free Derry that the UDA began throwing up barricades during the weekend to create no-go districts of its own.

The army made no objections when the UDA barricaded off three other areas earlier Monday. But it took a stand in Ainsworth Avenue, it said, because the barricade would cut off about 20 Catholic families.

"The area will not become a no-go area," said British army headquarters. "The security forces remain responsible for law and order."

Arabian Show Is Popular

CORBYVILLE (Staff) — The equine silks competed for trophies and ribbons Sunday afternoon at Skinz Farms, RR1, Corbyville where an all-Arab horse show was staged to benefit the mentally retarded.

County Asks Action On Welfare Employables

Hastings county council last week concurred in a resolution from the county social service committee asking that legislation under the general welfare assistance act as applied to employable applicants be reviewed.

The resolution asks that no employable person be considered eligible to receive general welfare assistance where in the opinion of the welfare administrator there is reasonable grounds to believe the applicant has left full time employment without just or reasonable cause, or by his action or inaction gave cause to his employer to terminate his services.

Clerk-administrator Carl E. Bateman told council that the social services committee resolution had been prompted as a result of relief recipients quitting their jobs last winter on a tree-cutting program.

Haying Slowed

PICTON (Staff) — The rain in Little Spain has fallen on haying operations possibly affecting the quality of the crop.

Larry Matheson representative for the Ontario department of agriculture and food in Prince Edward said rain has delayed haying although a great deal of haying already has been put into silos for cattle feed. He added that "not a lot of dry hay has been taken off yet".

Mr. Matheson suggested "some hay won't be very good" because of the prolonged rainy period. However he described the recent weather conditions as "very good" for the processing pea crop.

Mr. Bateman said the workers quit their tree cutting jobs to go back on welfare because they received more on welfare than they would by working.

Tweed Reeve Barbara Allen moved concurrence with the resolution saying that it was carried Montegale Reeve S. J. Carr-Harris said any review of legislation was not likely to achieve the hoped for results.

He said he was in favor of the resolution, but said he felt there was a basic question which could starve a mother and her children because her husband wouldn't work.

Of the mother and children are supplied with the necessities of life, the lazy husband will not get to "rose in the pig trough" he said.

Sailing Class Has Wet Start

Junor sailing classes at the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club began amid Monday morning drizzle. The course, under the sanction of the Canadian Yachting Association is designed to teach everything from rigging to racing. Chief instructor for the course (standing in boat) is Rick Burnett.

Sailing Class Starts For Twenty Youngsters

Novice sailors got their feet wet in more ways than one Monday morning as seven weeks of junior sailing classes began at the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club.

A steady drizzle dampened the body but not the spirit as the class began the work of taking the boats from dry dock and rigging them in preparation for the five-day-a-week program.

Chief instructor Rick Burnett, said "the most important thing we will be able to teach everyone here is how to have safe fun while sailing".

Safety is a major consideration in the course with a mandatory regulation that approved life jackets be worn at all times.

Twenty youngsters aged 11 to 16 are enrolled in the course that will include two classes each day.

Ten students will be included in each class under the eye of three instructors.

The student will be taught the rules of the road and how to be a considerate sailor, by either Patti Hickey or Lou Jourard, the two other course instructors.

Knots, signal flags and,navigation, all important parts of the sea, will be taught to the youngsters with practical experience from their daily sail.

While on the harbor, sailing the 14-foot Nutshells, a safety power boat will be circulating, staying close to help anyone in trouble.

The boats used by the class were purchased by the Yacht Club this past year and will have their maiden voyages at the hands of the junior class.

ATKINSON — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Ethel Atkinson, who passed away June 28, 1971.
Those were days we most of her.
Who cherished our secrets, our sorrows and our joys.
Who taught us to love, taught us to live.
And taught us to trust God that you today.
Her life was a watchlist, for others
Her love
Her for what you received but for what you gave.
Her smile, a thought, just a silent prayer.
A beautiful memory of a mother so dear.

Percy Cole, 64, Dies

A native of Belleville and at time reporter with The Intelligencer, and the Toronto Star, Percy Thomas Cole, 64, died Saturday of a heart attack at his home in Quebec City.

Mr. Cole had retired in May after a lifetime in newspaper and public relations work.

As a 17-year-old youth Mr. Cole was working for The Intelligencer and as local stringer for the Telegram when a dynamite barge exploded on the old St. Lawrence Seaway killing several men.

Mr. Cole went to the scene and had the story wrapped up before the regular reporters arrived and was hired full time by the Telegram the next Monday.

While with the Telegram in the 1930s, Mr. Cole worked on all the major stories of the day, including the Moose River Mine disaster, the John Labatt kidnapping and many plane crashes.

He later became aviation editor for his paper and in 1946 became editor of the Monetary Times.

He later joined the Canadian Pacific Airlines in their public relations department and was transferred to Canadian Pacific Railway working in Toronto, Chicago and New York. For 10 years he was general manager for the eastern U.S. with the Canadian Government Travel Bureau in New York.

Mr. Cole's first wife died in 1946. He leaves his second wife, Johanna, and Dick, his brother Arthur with radio CFRB in Toronto and a sister, Mrs. Laura Ragsdale of this city.

Snowy Egrets Are Off Course

AMELIASBURG — Apparently tropic storm Agnes upset the normal flight plans of three large white birds from the southern United States.

One day last week Allan Weese of RR 1, Carrying Place, was surprised to find three snowy egrets feeding in his apple orchard, south of the Ronnette on Carrying Place road.

The birds, comparable in size to the blue heron, took off and flew south and west, but not before Mr. Weese was able to summon his wife and show her the unusual visitors.

Convinced the big birds had been blown off course in flight, Mr. Weese checked a book on birds he keeps which describes the natural habitat of the snowy egret as swamps in Florida and Georgia in the winter months and Oregon and northern British Columbia in the summer months. Although snowy egrets are rare in Ontario, the Weeses often see birds like them when they winter in Florida.

Car Sends Gas Pump Flying, Passenger Dies In Fire

Madoc Area Principal Honored

MADOC — Mrs. Florence B. McCoy, retiring principal of Madoc Township Central School, was honored by friends, former and present students, teachers and the community at large on June 24 with a testimonial evening.

The festivities began with a roast turkey dinner at the cafeteria of Centre Hastings Secondary School, with approximately 80 persons in attendance, including Mrs. McCoy's family and present and former members of the Madoc Township Central School staff.

The group drove out to the Township School, where nearly 500 people crammed the gymnasium and filled the hall for the myriad of events.

A testimonial was given by S. H. Downer, former principal of Tweed Public School, where Mrs. McCoy taught for 18 years.

A trustee of the Hastings County Board of Education, Mrs. Fay Graham read Mrs. McCoy for her co-operation with the Board, and for the excellent condition of the school. This school, he recalled, was formed in 1961, amalgamating all the rural schools of the Township. Mrs. McCoy has been principal since that time.

Frank Tate, superintendent of the county board, and George Wallace, former principal and now Assistant Deputy Minister of Education, lauded Mrs. McCoy for her faithfulness and duty. Cecil Woods, Reeve of Madoc Township, thanked Florence for her service to the community, which, in addition to 21 years of teaching in Madoc, includes work in local and church affairs.

Mrs. Clarke Rollins, representing her husband, presented Mrs. McCoy with a plaque from the Ontario Government, and Mrs. Monies Tobin, chairman of the testimonial committee, gave her a lovely bouquet of carnations, a gift of luggage, a travelling alarm clock and an umbrella.

Perhaps the most touching presentation was that of the students, who gave their principal a replica of a plaque that will stand outside the school. Mrs. McCoy also received a certificate to commission a photograph portrait which will be mounted inside.

Mrs. McCoy thanked her staff, the administration of the School and the Hastings County Board of Education for their co-operation over the last 12 years, and expressed gratitude for having been able to serve her community, her church, her school, and above all, "her" children throughout a rewarding and full 43-year career.

Youth Dies When Auto Crashes Into Gas Pump

TRENTON (Special) — A Brighton youth died on the result of a fire that turned the car he piloted by was a passenger into a flaming pyre after the vehicle knocked off a gas pump and burst into flame at Bob's Gas Bar on the Carrying Place road south of here Sunday.

The report of an autopsy performed on the body of Raymond Andrew Jardine, 18, of Brighton, revealed death was caused from shock and third degree burns.

Police said death was instantaneous. They found his body behind the burned-out car. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jardine of 5 Addison Street, Brighton.

The driver of the car, Gregory Gardiner, 18, of 177 Dufferin Street, Trenton and a second passenger, Brenda Tyo, 16, managed to free themselves. Police found them injured in a nearby ditch. Gardiner suffered multiple fractures and concussion and was taken by ambulance to Kingston General Hospital for special care, Miss Tyo suffered a fractured arm and other injuries and is in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Constable R. A. McNichol of the Brighton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police summoned to the scene reported the sedan car involved was completely destroyed.

According to the constable's report, the car travelling west, crossed the highway from the south lane and as it entered the Gas Bar driveway crashed into a parked car, then careened into the pump, ripping the pump from its installation. There was a great flash and muffled explosion and the inflammable fluid burst into flames, the constable reported.

The fatality, still under investigation was the first of its kind on 11 traffic accidents the Brighton detachment was called upon to investigate during the weekend.

Shed and Antiques Lost in Sunday Fire

Fire destroyed a south George Street warehouse Sunday afternoon, which was filled with antiques gathered over the years by owner Ed Buckler.

The fire, spotted by area residents, was fed on a large pile of valuable, hand-hewn timbers collected from old buildings.

Among the valuables were hand-made beds, doors and household furnishings bought from auctions over the years.

Members of the Belleville Fire Department stopped a Canadian Pacific freight train for 10 minutes when it became necessary to use a water hydrant on the opposite side of the tracks from the burning, tin-covered storage building.

A spokesman for the fire department said the fire was brought under control about 30 minutes after crews arrived.

Mr. Buckley, after wandering through the building, described the contents as a "write-off". No estimate was made on the financial loss. An insurance policy covers the building and contents for $12,000.

No cause was set for the fire but the possibility of children smoking in the shed was not ruled out.

Neighborhood children use the building and surrounding property to play in, said a resident watching at the scene.

Miss Horton Honored

Forty-one years of teaching ended Friday for Miss Iva Horton when she retired from the staff of Queen Victoria School.

For several years she taught vocal music to all grades in Belleville schools and obtained an ACCM degree in piano from the Iala professor, Ernest W. Wheatley.

Before schools closed for the summer, Miss Horton was the recipient of many gifts. At the annual retirement banquet at Centennial Secondary School, Miss Horton received an oil painting from the Women Teachers' Association. She was given a surprise coffee spoon at the Women Teachers' Tea and an engraved sterling silver pin and earrings at a Home and School Association coffee party at Queen Victoria School Wednesday.

Principal Donald Lockyer, a former pupil of Miss Horton's, presented her with a set of tray tables on behalf of the Queen Victoria staff at a dinner at the Four Seasons Hotel.

Hospital Addition Approved

NAPANEE — Ontario Hospital Services Commission has given approval for a $450,000 addition to three departments at Lennox and Addington General Hospital.

The extension to the 78-bed hospital will enlarge the X-ray, emergency and laboratory departments by a total of 4,800 square feet.

The project may not be under taken this year but a start will be made as soon as funds are available. Plans are now almost drawn up and the hospital board hopes the work will begin in the near future.

The emergency department of the hospital treated more than 20,000 patients last year, well above the average for hospitals of similar size in the province.

Carnival Held For Residents

Steam Show Attracts 40 Exhibitors

More than 40 exhibitors from across the province converged on Campbellcroft this past weekend to put on a show of steam at the annual Antique Steam Show, sponsored by the Eastern Steam Association.

Stretching over the entire weekend, the show highlighted wood-burning, steam - driven vehicles dating well back into the 1800s.

Sunday, one of the warmer days across the Quinte region saw the largest of the weekend crowds filing past tractors and steam engines and filling the grandstand at the Campbellcroft Fair Grounds to see the grand parade of the steam era.

As one spokesman for the fair committee put it, "these exhibitors came from all over, back north, down south, out east and over west," all eager to toot their whistles for the equally eager spectators.

A change was made in the fair that originated in Cobourg eight years ago.

For the first time, no judging or prizes were included in the three-day-meet.

"In the past it always seemed that the same people were walking away with the prizes and this didn't go over too well," said the same spokesman.

This year it was just for fun.

While small children busied themselves eating pink candy floss and hot dogs sold to support area minor hockey, grandparents circulated among the puffing steaming exhibits, reliving old memo-

Noise and all That

Further to our recent editorial on noise occasioned by motorcycles and a letter from a reader calling for anti-noise legislation covering "motorcycles, cars, buses, trucks and planes."

Presumably the reader would want to include snowmobiles which he mentioned earlier as the subject of controlling (but not necessarily effective) legislation by most municipalities. In short he wants legislation to control noise, period. And he would like to see police forces equipped with a decibel meter to monitor noise levels.

All well and good — we agree there is too much noise of a general nature around and it should be curbed — but let us consider once again the snowmobile which is the new boy of the noise "culture" and which we consider one of the most exasperating in this context.

It is still only July, but recognizing that time waits for no man an area citizen wrote to Transport Minister Donald Jamieson recently calling for stricter measures to control the use of snowmobiles, and particularly in rural areas such as the north home locale — a county road in Prince Edward County which is used as a sort of snowmobile dragstrip, in some cases by youngsters who are under age.

Replies were received from a departmental assistant to Mr. Jamieson and from Gordon D. Campbell who describes himself as director of Road and Motor Vehicle Traffic Safety. The latter wrote in the following terms: "Under the Motor Vehicle Safety Act, we have developed and are continuing to develop safety standards for the design, construction and functioning of snowmobiles, which have the purpose of protecting persons against personal injury, impairment of health and death. Such standards are meaningful when addressed to the problems of snowmobile safety in an environment which presently includes operation on soft snow, hard-packed snow surface and some road surfaces.

"The official position of the snowmobile manufacturing industry has frequently been stated as recommending snowmobiles for off-road use only. A report of work conducted by Hovey and Associates, consulting engineers, Ottawa, for this department and recently made available to the public through Information Canada, makes a similar conclusion. However, as with all motor vehicles, the operation of snowmobiles is exclusively a provincial responsibility and we support the current position of most provinces prohibiting their use on main highways." No mention, we might add, of county roads and other rural routes which are also used by the public and which were the subject of the writer's original complaint.

However, we note that Mr. Campbell, like the snowmobile industry itself, recommends the machines for "off-road use only." Who then is going to enforce this? The police? They never seem to be around when some kid is barrelling along a road at 80 or 90 m.p.h. The municipality? Some hope! In many built-up areas in the country there is not even a speed limit, let alone a warning to look out for children at play or the occasional peculiar adult who enjoys a "quiet" country walk.

We understand that municipalities in the Northwest Territories of all places have passed strict regulations governing snowmobiles and we believe that until other municipalities follow suit, with regard to road use, speed, noise level, etc., things will be no different this winter. We commend these observations to the appropriate authorities, for proper action this winter if not before.

The Case of the 23,500 Would-Be Citizens

Mackasey Seeking Scapegoats for Immigration Hassle

By RICHARD JACKSON
(and The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Immigration Minister Bryce Mackasey has the inventive genius who introduced a new universal tax and called it unemployment insurance, is concerning himself with another administrative insanity.

He is going to take apart his department, official by official, he says. To get rid of the re-actionaries who do not like immigrants".

What he is really doing — if he actually does it — is destroying a department by hasty government policy that has allowed some 18,000 illegal immigrants to slip into the country and remain here as long as four and five years while they wait their turn for their appeals against deportation.

These 18,000 are apart altogether from the 13,500 'other visitors" waiting for their immigrant applications to be processed. How Mr. Mackasey is opening the door even wider for the 13,500 while promising to ease things a bit, too, for the other 18,000. That makes a total of 31,500 waiting to slip in through the "back door" by spreading regular immigration channels.

He saddled every working Canadian with it whether they wanted it or not, or ever could or would use it.

"Big-hearted" Bryce, as they called him, used his universal unemployment insurance plan to boost those who really do not want to work, to encourage bad, on and off the job again work habits, to further overload the working taxpayer, and to make the new scheme so complicated as to have everyone concerned, the UIC staff and the jobless running around in circles.

"Think of it," he smiled the other day, "work, is another tax on the working taxpayer, but as his contribution to the welfare of less fortunate workers."

But now, back in Mr. Mackasey's latest aberration . . . his promise to clean out the "reactionaries" of his department, a pledge dramatically made as only a symbolic drawing of an imaginary knife across his throat.

He wants to find a way to remove the embarrassment of having some 18,000 illegal immigrants on his hands.

The fact seems to be to axe his "officials in the gates" so he can be flung wide to anyone from anywhere who fancies living in Canada.

He says he "strongly favors" a more liberal immigration policy, and hints that to permit every tourist and visitor to apply for admission after entering the country just is not generous enough.

With 22,000,000 people we are under-populated," he says.

He has said, too, that while "there may be as many as 15,000 people awaiting appeals, with many people fearing there may be drug peddlers among them, I like to think that among them are future prime ministers."

But that is not what other parliamentarians say.

Among them, Calgary North Conservative MP Eldon Woolliams has warned that "Canada's loose immigration laws allowing entry of any hook, crook, criminal, drug-pusher and college crazy are the laughing stock of the world."

They are almost as funny as Canadian passports without which no member of the international underworld of crime and espionage would be.

And former Conservative Prime Minister John Diefenbaker has counselled with concern that Canada has become "the safe, secure and comfortable way-station for every assassin, terrorist, big-time drug boss or crime king who cares to stay over for a few days, weeks or months of rest and relaxation."

Others in the opposition — both New Democratic and Conservative — have said much the same thing.

Political bias? Perhaps.

But now listen to the expert, highly-respected Toronto barrister Joseph Sedgewick, QC, who was consulted by Mr. Mackasey's own government to study and report on immigration.

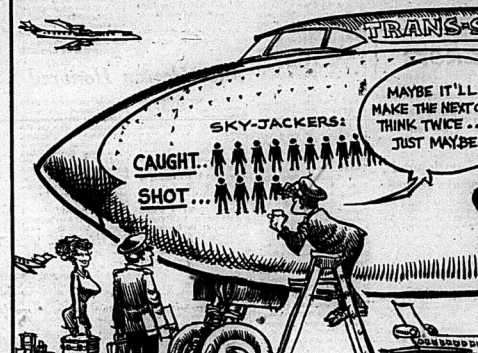
"The whole immigration system is breaking down . . . be warned by the Royal Commission report," because of the whole immigration mess.

"It is apparently common knowledge that it is easy for anyone from anywhere to enter Canada as a non-immigrant; as a tourist, a visitor, with a great many saying they are only staying a short time in order to avoid medical and hospital charges; and with no intention of leaving unless they are deported."

So there are 18,000 of them here now, backed up in appeal queue four to five years long, and more pouring in every day. That is government policy.

But the fault, not of the government, says Bryce Mackasey shoving the blame off onto his "reactionary" immigration officers "who do not like immigrants" and insist they comply with the immigration laws and qualify for admission and future citizenship.

"Big - hearted Bryce" seems to wear them all in with no questions asked.



Long Locks and Hair Nets for Germany's Soldiers

By JOHN HARRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Helmets and hippies in the army? Unheard of! But in the German army? Absolutely unthinkable!

It's true. One of the current moods problems of the West German armed forces and especially the army, is what do with its long-haired recruits. Everyone expects their hair would be cut off, widely and remorselessly the day they joined up.

Remember the way they cut hair in the old war movies? The soldier ended his first day in the army as a "shavetail," or as we would call him today, "a skinhead."

What has happened to the army which swept through Europe in the spring of 1940, came within an ace of winning the war in the first week, the rubbers, oiled military machines of Kaiser and Fuhrer?

Since post-war West Germany started to build armed forces again, a good deal has happened and it all reflects on the personalities of life among the youth of modern Germany.

A lot more of it is a result of the fact that the contemporary German army is a conscript army. The young West German has no choice. He must do his military service. Relates (some two conflicting elements together — anti-militarism among youth and old-fashioned discipline.

What gives way in the modern Bundeswehr, successor to Adolf Hitler's tough Wehrmacht of the Second World War, is a good deal of old-fashioned discipline. Instead of shoring off those locks, the young conscripts are literally permitted to wear hair nets.

Not because the Bundeswehr's senior officers and NCOs, many of them war veterans, know a long hair, but because it can get caught in military equipment, like a working part in a modern tank and strangle the young soldier.

In spite of such incredible realities in a German army, of all armies, the 495,000-man West German military establishment is still very professional with modern, German-built weapons.

About half of West Germany's very large total force of 1,000 men is made up of the West German designed and built "Leopard" heavy tank. It's a worthy successor to the wartime "Tiger" tank which rumbled across European Russia to be stopped only by winter weather and a Russian skill learned in tank warfare on the battlefield.

The West German army or Bundesmarine has eight West-German built destroyers and eleven (a) submarines (some of them built in the Second World War and modernized). The West German air force of Luftwaffe is armed mainly with U.S. aircraft. The 18 West German fighter-bomber squadrons of F-104G's have been a disaster area, since so many of them have crashed on training flights.

In spite of hairnets and permissiveness, the old fear persists. Can Germans in uniform threaten the peace of Europe again some day?

Computer Does It Again

BBC London Letter

With some brands of cigarettes, the smoker is given coupons that can be exchanged for free gifts. Just send them to the address given, and you receive a chosen article . . . or at least you should do. One customer, Joseph Begley, found out it wasn't quite as easy as that. What happened to him was reported on BBC World Service.

Mr. Begley had saved 2,000 coupons and sent off for a watch. It never arrived. He wrote to the cigarette firm to ask what had happened — and received three watches.

Being an honest man, he returned two of them, only to receive the next day more parcels. The following day he received 18, and the day after that the post office rang Mr. Begley to say there were 19 more parcels waiting for him. All contained gifts in exchange for coupons he had not sent in, including three tape recorders, a doll, a golf bag, two electric blankets, a carrycot, saucepans, a pressure cooker and LP records.

Mr. Begley wrote to the cigarette firm and asked them to stop. They did and blamed a computer error. They also sent him 10,000 coupons in compensation for his troubles.

With these coupons, Mr. Begley then ordered tools and a bedspread. He received a plant and two stepladders.

The Bureaucracy: A Body More and More in Public View

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

Perhaps there has never been a time in our history when public servants have been under fire and criticism as much as they are today. In the past, the public service was a large, impersonal machine and it was rare for anyone outside the nation's capital, or the provincial capitals, to identify directly with the bureaucracy.

But this has changed over the past few years as government gradually moved more and more into the lives of people, as citizens' action lobbies grew and more frequent contact with the administrators of a growing number of social and other programs brought the whole Ottawa machine into the public view.

The widespread publicity given in the past few years to the criticisms of the inevitable errors by Auditor-General Maxwell Henderson has alerted people to the fact that civil servants are human beings, as prone to making mistakes as employees in the private sector.

Prime Minister Trudeau's partially successful efforts to involve Canadians in participatory democracy and his consistent visits of leading political figures to all parts of the country has brought the whole Ottawa machine much more closely to the attention of the average Canadian.

Inevitably, most unwisely, to ask one of the prime ministers leading advisers in the field of external affairs to appear before it to explain government policies. It was an action that would never have been contemplated a few years ago and deserved the Mr. Trudeau's condemnation in the Commons.

All the leads up to recent comments about a recent lecture delivered by one of Canada's most experienced bureaucrat-politicians. J. W. Pickersgill under the auspices of the W. L. Clark memorial lecture series presented by the Institute of Public Administration of Canada. Mr. Pickersgill entitled his lecture "Bureaucrats and Politicians," and there are few Canadians who have not at one time or another had occasion to deal with the federal bureaucracy.

Mr. Pickersgill's own career in the federal civil service and political life has given him a unique insight into the relationship between the two. He started his career in the civil service in 1937 and still is going strong as president of the Canadian Transport Commission. He takes pride in the fact that he entered the civil service through a regular public examination under the much-criticized merit system of hiring and promotion. Appointed as a third secretary in the department of external affairs, he stayed only two months before being summoned to report for service in the office of prime minister Mackenzie King.

Mr. Pickersgill recalls that he had never met the prime minister and had no desire to serve in his office but the great depression and the war of 1939-45 changed his mind. He turned up the next morning but it was another month before he met Mr. King.

The prime minister had a reputation for being a hard man to please and Mr. Pickersgill expected his tenure to be a short one. But it worked well. King retired and Mr. Pickersgill was still in the job.

He became secretary to the cabinet in 1952 and a year later was a member of the cabinet and then a member of Parliament. A political career ended with the fall of 1957 when he took over the transport commission.

Mr. Pickersgill's knowledge of both sides of the fence, Mr. Pickersgill's knowledge of bureaucrats and politicians make interesting reading. Some of his comments are humorous, but

Students Buried

In Oxford House, a community in Northern Manitoba, eight Indian teenage Indian girls, victims of a home-from-school air crash in Winnipeg recently, have been buried. And it is said questions are being asked by their friends — like, is this program of bringing young Indians to the big cities for an education from their remote home regions, a good policy? For one thing contact with modern urban conditions and sophistication they acquire there, tends to create a much greater gulf between the young people and their elders. For this particular group the experience of the white man's world and his machines has ended in tragedy. It is not surprising that among the people of Oxford House there are, besides the all-encompassing grief, a culture

Museum Home To Be Razed

The old county registry office now used as headquarters for the Hastings county museum is to be under the wrecker's hammer.

At the last session of county council, it was intimated that unless there was serious objection, the old registry office would be demolished when the museum moved to Glanmore House on Bridge Street.

There were no objections, and the county finance committee has authorized the calling of demolition tenders for the structure. When the building is removed, the site will be used to increase parking facilities at the county buildings.

Rail Crossings Being Graded

Sidney Township road crews are proceeding with grading at Canadian Pacific level crossings on Aiken's and White's Roads.

Approval for the work was granted in a letter from the federal board of transport to township council.

Both crossings, as well as the CN crossing on White's Road, were the subject of controversy earlier this year after a White's Road resident narrowly escaped death when his car was sliced in two at the CN crossing.

The township is still waiting for federal approval before it begins grading at the CN site.

CANSAVE has New Funds Drive

Canadian Save the Children Fund organizers have initiated a new campaign across the country, and it seems to be catching on fast.

Displaying the smiling face of well-known Canadian television personality Fred Davis conical plastic coin boxes are appearing on counters in many local stores.

They are being used along with the penny beggar tin, a more familiar container.

CANSAVE has been raising money and supervising projects for needy children in this country and around the world for the past 50 years.

The Canadian Save the Children Fund is a member of the International Union for Child Welfare, an association with 100 members in 30 countries which works closely with the volunteer and government organizations.

Provided are clothing, medicine and shelter at a cost of approximately $775,000 annually. In addition, the organization initiates and supports schools, mother and teacher training clinics, day care centres, and village self-help programs to the tune of an additional $900,000 per year.

Fred Davis, in lending his name to the program said: "CANSAVE offers all of us the opportunity of meeting this challenge."

Belleville Rangers, the senior arm of the Girl Guides of Canada, has volunteered to distribute and renew the coin collectors as a service project.

Flivver Gets Axe

Inspector Gordon Wilkinson of the ministry of transport and communications removes licence plates from car which failed safe check at the Belleville fairgrounds. This week, a team of government mechanics checked almost 200 cars for major defects. Those which couldn't pass the test had plates removed until the owners have them fixed. For minor defects, drivers were allowed to leave, have the cars repaired and return for another inspection.

Joe Motorist Faces Showdown

Joe Motorist is a happy-go-lucky fellow who enjoys nothing better than to go zipping along downtown streets in his favorite flivver. One day this week, he was stopped by a motorcycle patrolman and asked to take his pride and joy to the fairgrounds for a motor vehicle check.

"I knew I should have taken her in to have that muffler fixed." Joe mumbled to himself as he joined a long line of distraught drivers.

For the past week, a large number of drivers have met a similar position, awaiting the thumbs-down signal for removal of their licence plates or the thumbs-up sign from ministry of transport and communications mechanics, signifying a fresh inspection sticker on the windshield and a "you're safe 'til next year" grin from the mechanic.

When it was his turn, Joe stood by as young mechanics gave his 1961 Whatzit the once-over.

Holes in the floorboards. Joe. That's a sure winner if it weren't for the leaky muffler. Rusted out fenders? Into age.

Given the gladiatorial death sign, the flivver was hauled off the inspection lane and strip of licence plates.

As Inspector Gordon Wilkinson tells all drivers, they can either have the car towed away and fixed up, or it will be impounded and eventually taken to the scrap piles.

While the inspectors are a little more lenient with volunteers who bring their autos in, all problem cars are given the same treatment.

Cars with major defects which require attention, drivers can return home, have the car's condition checked out at a garage, and return for an all-clear check. Otherwise, bring ownership papers and licence plates to the inspection.

Since the inspection lane was installed at the Belleville Fairgrounds, more than 200 cars and about 12 have been hauled off the road.

When city police find a car older than seven years looking somewhat in need of care, they send it along.

"We don't like to take off plates and keep a fellow off the road, but you'd be surprised at what we find," said Inspector Wilkinson.

Cracked frames, rusting undercarriages, rotten engine mounts, wheel arms, holes in the floorboards, bad brakes, all may turn up during these annual examinations.

And then there's the little old lady who only drives her 1958 Edsel to the market on Saturdays. It's a gem, and will probably run for another 30 years.

Gun Confiscated

A revolver carrying youth was stopped driving his car on Front Street at 1 a.m. Saturday and had the gun and ammunition powered pellet gun confiscated.

City police Constables Robert Cooper and John Walker observed a youth in the vicinity of the City Hotel, carrying what appeared to be a gun.

Robert Green, 22, of 218 Coleman Street, has been charged with having a weapon dangerous to the public peace.

Pubs Help The Elderly

OTTAWA (CP) — The social atmosphere of the old English public house helps elderly patients get better, says Dr. Mary MacDonald, head of the geriatric unit at the Nova Scotia Psychiatric Hospital, Dartmouth.

"Elderly people in institutions tend to become lethargic and withdrawn and spend much of their time just sitting," she says in an article in the Canadian Nurse magazine.

"If there is a set time of day for a small group to go to the pub for drinks and talk, there is then more interest in living."

She tried this type of therapy for elderly men and women on her unit last year, with the emphasis "on socialization rather than on drinking."

The pub was open—in a television lounge area—for one hour each afternoon. During this time, each patient was allowed one pint of beer or two ounces of wine.

It proved successful treatment, Dr. MacDonald said.

"Old jokes, old songs and social graces are remembered. People revive interest in past events and become involved in the present. A group spirit emerges."

She described some of the individual successes. One man who had resented his hospital stay stopped demanding his release. A woman who had had to be forced fed made her first voluntary feeding at the pub—a glass of wine.

Another woman, who had had a stroke and refused to do anything to help herself, also made her first attempts to try to drink alone at the pub.

Dr. MacDonald reported that staff liked the program. They said patients gathered spontaneously at pub hour and during this time topics of conversation came up which were continued during the rest of the day.

And during the summer months, when staff reductions threatened to close the pub, the staff was unanimous in saying the pub should continue, although it has been a strain on their part.

Dr. MacDonald said more women than men patients had been interested in the pub, they were more acceptable candidates for "pub therapy" and women benefited more than had been expected.

"After a year of pub sociotherapy, it has been worth it on the interest of patients, families and staff has grown to exceed all expectations," she said.

Chicken on Barbecue Requires Special Care

Chicken on the barbecue is tender and exceptionally juicy but can be a challenge to inexperienced chefs. To avoid a charred scorched skin, chicken requires more care over the coals than many other meats.

Use chicken halves, quarters, or pieces for grilling. Wak until coals are covered with grayish white ash, brush the chicken with oil or melted butter, and place skin side up on a greased grill. For medium heat, keep the grill 6 to 12 inches above the coals. Turn the chicken often to prevent scorching, and leave the skin side down for only 3 to 5 minutes at a time. Brush lightly with butter or a marinade after each turning. If the marinade or basting sauce contains a lot of sugar, use only oil or butter for basting during cooking. Wak until the last 10 minutes to baste with the sauce. This helps prevent scorching.

Food specialists at the Ontario Food Council, Ministry of Agriculture and Food, suggest using tongs to turn the chicken pieces, as piercing with a fork releases much of the juice and flavor. Grill chicken legs about 25 to 35 minutes, quarters for 40 to 50 minutes, and halves for 45 to 50 minutes. The chicken is done when it is fork tender and pulls easily away from the bone. The skin will be crisp and seared, the meat tender and juicy.

Teenagers Will Conduct Bible Clubs

Throughout Ontario over 60 teenagers will be conducting three to four Five-Day-Bible Clubs per day for children who live in almost every urban area of the province.

These clubs include colorfully illustrated Bible stories, songs and choruses, and they are sponsored by Child Evangelism Fellowship which is interdenominational in outreach. They are held on front lawns or in back gardens at the homes of interested citizens in country, towns and cities.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONNELL

Is too much expected of love?

YOU BET, some people believe it is not enough that "love makes the world go 'round." They expect love to do their thinking for them, too. As an example, a woman suddenly goes into a "mood," and then she will rave and storm because she will say the man she loves doesn't understand her. She thinks that since she and the man are in love, he should know what is bothering her without her saying a word.

Do kids resent both parents working?

NOT if the youngsters can understand why both his mother and father are working. Children who come home from school to an empty apartment or are greeted by a babysitter or some other parental substitute need parents who not only can supply an extra measure of love, but also ones who can explain to the children that though both parents are working, it doesn't mean they don't want to be with their children.

Are all con 'artists' charming?

MANY of the expert ones are; that's their stock in trade: ability to talk people and make them like it. Occasionally, though, a con artist will "score" though he may be the crassest individual in the world. Everybody loves a sucker game. He could even give his victims the impression he is stupid. Yet, so many people enjoy being "taken to the cleaners" they will let themselves be duped even by an obnoxious "con artist" just for the experience.

New Self-help Group Formed to Help the 'Housebound'

By DORIS CLARK

There is an ailment called agoraphobia — sometimes called the "Housebound Housewife Syndrome" — the sufferer panics if she even has to walk down the street to do the family shopping. They shake, vision blurs, there is dizziness and nausea. The only relief is to get back home.

Now a self-help group, with the backing of the Canadian Mental Health Association, has been organized in about four Canadian cities: Winnipeg, Vancouver, Calgary, and possibly Edmonton.

MISS SYLVIA BROOKS, R.T. (R), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brooks of RR 3 Demorestville, graduated from the School of X-Ray Technology, Belleville General Hospital, on June 30 and has received her diploma as a Registered Technologist in Diagnostic Radiology from the Canadian Society of Radiological Technicians. Miss Brooks has joined the staff of the Radiology Department at Belleville General Hospital.

Meetings happen regularly; the agoraphobic has a project she plans to do each week. It may be riding the bus; going to a concert; shopping; or even just speaking to her next door neighbor. At meetings the reports' success or failure, and other members suggest how it might have been done. Often what seemed a horrible experience breaks down, here, into a laughable matter; this makes repeated effort easier, with some of the panic fading away. Relaxation exercises are practised, and when there is pressure the exercises really help.

There are speakers; meeting finish with coffee and social chatter. Just sharing often gives the agoraphobic the help she needs.

Details of addresses to anyone interested.

Dear Doris: I would like to have an answer to "Bewildered" in your column.

Believe me, I can appreciate how hurtful it must be to have a husband with a roving eye, but surely she must realize he loves her. He comes back to her.

It may surprise her that there are many women who envy her: someone like myself who has been a widow for five years. What I would give for my man to take me out to dinner or dance, in fact anywhere! We never realize how lucky we are until we have lost what we have.

I am still young enough (early fifties) to make a good life, but, "Bewildered", sincere men are hard to come by, so try talking to your husband in a very calm way and I am sure you will be made to see he loves only you. Make the most of what you have. — Hold On.

Dear Hold On: It takes a heap of serenity to weather the humiliations handed out by a husband who is everlastingly jealous and suspicious. This is what is baffling to "Bewildered".

I agree that if there is a chance for a good marriage, the game is worth the candle. I'm sure your concern will help "Bewildered" with her thinking and with the challenge she has before her.

Confidential To Hurt: Why a family would carry a grudge to the point where one hotheaded member is left out of a sixtieth wedding anniversary is beyond me. After all, they are his parents too, and there should be room for forgiveness.

In any case, the others have relented of their prejudice against the brother who stuck up for him — your instinct. You now have confidential, and should go. Help your parents to enjoy what should be a triumphant recognition of a long and happy married life with a loving family around them.

(Leaflets mentioned by Doris are available to readers for 25 cents and a large, stamped envelope. If you have not received a leaflet requested, it must be that you have neglected to include the necessary eight-cent stamp.)

Ann Landers

Teacher Sees Tragedy Of Taking Drugs

Dear Ann Landers: I started to write a letter to the members of the national commission who advocated lifting the ban on pot, but I decided it would do a lot more good if I write to you instead.

I don't know what kind of research they did that brought them to the conclusion that pot is harmless, because I am a high school teacher who sees these kids every day and I can tell you it's a tragedy what is happening to hundreds of them. I've seen bright teen-agers deteriorate into zombies—lose interest in school work, sports, friends and cleanliness. Their reactions to almost everything becomes distorted. They become lethargic, passive and depressed. On Mondays especially, they come to class stoned, and fall asleep during study period. The most frightening part of all is that they can not think straight. That teen-agers should take such a chance with their precious mental machinery horrifies me. I wonder if those addicts not I suggest that they go to any high school in the country and talk to the teachers. This is where the research should be done—not in libraries or laboratories where they measure the effects of chemicals on mice. I don't really care much for mice. I love kids and I hate to see what marijuana is doing to them.

Do you have the nerve to print this? We'll see.—Oklahoma City

Dear O.: Here's your letter. I don't think you are correct in saying the presidential commission concluded that "pot is harmless," and it is certainly not true that its distinguished members are "addle-brained." Neither do I agree with all of their conclusions.

Dear Ann Landers: I gave birth to a lovely baby boy recently. We had been trying to have a child for five years—without success. I went through major surgery as a last resort to get pregnant. I tell you all this so you'll know how thrilled we are to be parents. Before the baby arrived my husband and I had some long talks about what to name our firstborn. Roy wanted to name the child after his father. I wanted to name him after my father. We compromised by agreeing to by-pass both fathers because of such strong feelings involved. We settled on Derek Lyle because we liked the sound of it.

Now both my father and Roy's father have let us know they are very upset with us for selecting a name simply because we liked it when we have perfectly good relatives on both sides. You can't believe the unhappiness this has caused us. My husband wants to rename the baby, using both our fathers' names. It would mean changing the birth certificate. I don't want to do it. Please advise.—Denver Mid Var

Dear Mid: Naming a child is the prerogative of the parents. You've made your choice and your parents should have accepted it and kept their disappointment to themselves.

If you have another child you might consider naming him (or her) after the grandpops. But this child's name should remain as is.

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids . . . and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most-important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and takes stinging action less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause ofhemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Research Project On Onion Flakes

WINNIPEG (CP) — A University of Manitoba professor hopes onion flakes will continue to be the world's third most-consumed condiment because the continued high rate of consumption could ensure the success of a two-year research project.

Dr. M. B. McConnell, an assistant food science professor, said he is confident that his research conducted jointly with the feasibility of dehydrating locally-grown onions, carrots and turnips will attract industry within the near future.

Dehydration of onions here could mean a $5-million-a-year industry, the prime competition to the world's largest onion flake producer, the United States.

However, Dr. McConnell says, establishment of such an industry is dependent on acceptance by commercial processors and spice distributors of the product.

"Distributors will have to feel the onion is equal in quality and comparative in price to the product they are already using."

But he added he fears the product could be rejected because it is produced from a green onion instead of a white onion, which possesses a higher solid content and yields a more flavorful and pungent onion flake.

He also said the white onions do not store well, whereas the locally-grown onions can be stored for long periods of time.

Although the dehydrated vegetables are highly processed, the carrots, onions and turnips retain more than 90 per cent of their original nutrient deposits.

Should industry accept the challenge to produce a dehydrated onion, Dr. McConnell said the product could have an excellent market.

"On the spice market, onion flakes rank second only to salt and pepper in the world," he brained-consumption members have children of their own. If

Nixon Said Now Ally Of Bigots

DETROIT (AP) — Bishop Stephen G. Spottswood, chairman of the NAACP board of directors, said Monday night that President Nixon is changing a course to move the United States away from a policy of equal rights.

In remarks prepared for delivery at the 63rd Annual Convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Spottswood said:

"The course being charted by President Nixon and the Congress, looking forward with Alastair Cooper's Colonel Nicholls, will be charged as bigots, will do more to set back not only the desegregation of America's public schools. It will be the first in a series of steps backward that we may not see the end of in our lifetime.

"If the courts can be stopped from enforcing the constitution in education," he continued, "they can be stopped in housing, employment, public accommodations and the administration of justice."

Spottswood referred to Nixon administration efforts to block court-ordered busing of school children, and to a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling that private clubs may refuse service to a black person.

Heroin Smugglers Jailed

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York man has been sentenced to 30 years in prison and his Montreal associate to six years for smuggling $3.5 million worth of heroin from Montreal to New York in a spare tire.

RCMP co-operated with U.S. officials in the case, in which sentences were imposed Friday by Judge Morris Lasker in Manhattan federal court.

Paul Oddo, 52, a New York bartender, was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment. Lucien Madere, 61, of Montreal, got six years. They were found guilty last May 18 of conspiracy and possession of heroin.

Federal agents said 22 pounds of the drug were found in the spare tire of Madere's car when the two were arrested last March.

MELROSE — Mr. and Mrs. Ken McMechan, accompanied by Mrs. McMechan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kimmett of Roblin, spent a recent weekend in Ottawa. Among the places of interest visited there was the Experimental Farm, when fruits and peonies were in profusion.

Mrs. Grant McLaren accompanied relatives to Ottawa last weekend where she visited her sister, Mrs. Jean Miller.

Mrs. Arthur English is spending a few weeks in Denmark with Mr. and Mrs. John Aronsen and family. Her daughter, Mrs. Asmussen is convalescing from a recent operation.

Miss Lorraine McMechan is reported improving favorably following surgery on Friday morning in Belleville Hospital.

Mrs. J. C. Milligan, a recent patient in Belleville Hospital has again returned to the manor with her health much improved.

A meeting of the Quinte pastoral board was held in Deseronto on Tuesday evening and the chief question considered was the disposal or otherwise of the former United Church in Shannonville. Pilfering of articles from the church kitchen prompted some action necessary.

Loch Ness Expert Won't Study Ogopogo

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — Mr. Denenhaw of Scotland, had Wanted: One monster hunter. Experience required. Must be able to recognize monsters on sight.

An ad along those lines might be in the mind of Kelowna officials, who have just been informed that permanent matters will prevent a member of the Loch Ness Investigation Bureau from studying Kelowna's Okanagan Lake for signs of British Columbia's own aquatic monster—Ogopogo.

Bill Denman, manager of Kelowna's chamber of commerce, said he has been informed that the Loch Ness bureau that their representative, a found it necessary to cancel a visit which has been in the planning stage for several weeks.

Chamber president Douglas MacLachlan expressed disappointment: "There haven't been any extensive studies of the Ogopogo compared with the Loch Ness monster. We hoped it would spark enough interest to start a proper scientific study."

Many residents of the Lake Okanagan area claim to have seen Ogopogo. Similarities between the lake and Loch Ness are cited as evidence that both bodies of water may harbor creatures unknown to science.

Murderer-hero Said in Montreal

BELFAST (AP) — Gusty Spence, convicted murderer and hero of Northern Ireland's Protestant extremists, has been safely spirited away to Montreal, a usually-reliable source said today.

He was flown out of Scotland after slipping parole from jail, the source said.

Informed speculation had surrounded the whereabouts of Spence, 39, since he was snatched by armed men on his way back to prison Sunday after attending his daughter's wedding.

Protestants feared he may have been kidnapped and inevitably executed by the Roman Catholic-based Irish Republican Army.

Republican sources were sure he had been spirited away by its own side.

But the feeling grew that Spence was in "safe hands."

The source said Spence was flown out of Northern Ireland to Prestwick, a Scottish airport near Glasgow, aboard a scheduled flight.

He got a connection to Canada and was in Montreal by Monday night, the source said.

Spence once was head of the Ulster Volunteer Force, a banned Protestant counterpart of the IRA. He was imprisoned for life in 1966 for the murder of a Catholic barman.

Bendale Faces Too Familiar

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

The fracas were all too familiar for the SACO peewees as they reached the final game of Saturday's Belleville Peewee Softball Tournament.

North Bendale, winners of the tournament for the past five years, made it six in a row with an 8-3 win over Belleville in the "A" championship of the eight - team event.

Despite the five - run margin, North Bendale had a few nervious moments as SACO loaded the bases with none out in the final inning. "Was I nervous with the bases loaded? You'd better believe I was!" exclaimed North Bendale coach Jim Gough after the final game.

Barry Holt put his coach's fears to rest however by coming on in relief to record the final three outs and clinch his nomination as the tournament's most valuable player.

Belleville coach Al Eros was pleased with his team's efforts despite the 8-3 loss. "We were just cutting under the ball that last game. We couldn't get solid contact with it. I think we did pretty well to come this close," he noted.

"They're a strong, well-coached team," lauded SACO assistant Ed Whyte of the "A" champs who have completed a 9-1 record this season in the Scarborough Minor Softball League.

Doug Campbell started the championship game for North Bendale, pitching seven hits before giving way to Barry Holt in the final inning. Holt had clobbered a triple and two singles from his short-stop position before his timely pitching appearance to earn his MVP selection.

Danny Vance, who pitched a no-hitter in the tournament opener, gave up 12 hits for Belleville and suffered from three costly fielding errors by his team-mates. Holt and third baseman Mark Shantz collect-

Stars Collide

North Bendale third baseman Mark Shantz waits for a throw that came too late to retire a sliding Danny Vance in the championship game of Saturday's Belleville Peewee Softball Tournament. North Bendale won the game 8-3 for their sixth consecutive "A" championship in the event despite the pitching effort of Belleville's Vance, who recorded a no-hitter earlier in the tournament. Shantz was another tournament star, recording three-hits in the final game, despite playing with an injured hand.

Broadloom Breaks Ice

Belleville Broadloom refused to be walked on for the 11th straight time as they recorded a 24-11 victory over Bob Hland — Red Barn Commissioners Monday. The win was the first after 10 consecutive Belleville and District Women's Softball losses suffered by the carpet team.

Marianne Sills hurled the win, allowing 12 hits and three walks, while striking out two batters. Terry Hounslow and Janice Lucas allowed 26 hits in a losing cause.

ed three hits for North Bendale, while Bill McQuad socked a homer and single and Vance a single and double for the losers. Belleville centre-fielder Brad Rose turned in the fielding highlight of the game with a brilliant sliding catch of Alan Glengow's sixth-inning fly.

The "B" championship proved to be a landslide for Erinigate as they hammered out a 20-1 win over Napanee. The game was halted after five innings. Zinni pitched a five-hitter for Erinigate with Dobsing capping four hits, including a homer for the "B" champs.

The high point of the tournament for Belleville was a 16-0 win over Port Perry in the opener. Danny Vance threw a five - inning, no - hitter, missing a perfect game when he hit one batter in the second inning. The first-year peewee hurler struck out 12 of the 16 batters he faced. It was his second no-hitter in organized softball and his first such effort under tournament conditions. Bill McQuaid had a homer and two singles for SACO.

Their second victory was a 13-2 effort over Springbrook as Vance pitched a six-hitter and McQuaid powered his second of three tournament homers.

The Mead Johnson Squirts, serving as a last-minute replacement for Don Victoria, gave a respectable account of themselves in the peewee affair losing 5-1 to Lindsay and 4-0 o t"B" champion Erinigate.

Tim Soule struck out 13 batters in his two starts for the Belleville squirts, while Andy Romit with two singles in the first game topped the Mead Johnson batsmen.

Brakemen Bring Home Bacon

COBOURG (Special) — The taste of Kod-Aid was indeed great for the Belleville Conductors and Brakemen peewee baseball representatives as they captured the grand championship of Saturday's annual tournament in Cobourg.

The Kod-Aid Peewee Baseball tournament pitted 12 teams from across Ontario. Belleville's championship win was good for an all - expenses-paid trip to a National League game between the Montreal Expos and the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates.

The railroad peewees captured the grand championship by edging Kingston 5-4 in the tournament finals. Belleville's winning run came on a squeeze bunt by Billy Gow after they had trailed Kingston 4-3 going into the final inning. A leadoff homer by Mike Burke, singles by Andy Lupenette and Gary Stapley and Tony Simard's double keyed the three-run uprising.

Peter Hall pitched the win for Belleville as he limited Kingston to only four hits. Bruce Bell, Lupenette and Stapley each had two singles in the grand championship game.

The eventual grand champs opened tournament action with a 10-0 win over Oshawa as Howie Coons hurled the win and Mike Burke and Brady Mills each collected two hits.

In second - round action, the Conductors and Brakemen trounced Peterborough 8-1 behind the three-hit pitching of Hall, who whiffed 11 batters in the process. Peter helped his own cause with a pair of triples while Lupenette and Coons each singled twice.

A 6-0 win over Lindsay put Belleville into the grand championship as Coons and Hall combined for a two-hit shutout. They struck out nine batters. Lupenette and Coons topped the winners at the plate by rapping two hits each.

The Conductors and Brakemen were managed by Ray Hall with George Mills serving as coach. Other tournament entries included Hamilton, Bowmanville, Cobourg, Thurlow, Milton, Agincourt and Carleton Place.

Girls from West Hit Softball Best

The East fell short in their victory bid despite the heroics of Lynn Brown who received the game's most valuable player award.

In regular scheduled action Monday night the AVCO-ettes moved into sole possession of first place in the senior division by stopping Mel Barriage 22-16, and Lucas Spur upset the previously unbeaten Clayton's TV juniors 18-5.

Als Bomb Out

MONTREAL (CP) Whirlpuy's defence scored two touchdowns and quarterbacks Don Jonas and Tom Pharr threw for four more yesterday as the Blue Bombers thumped Montreal Alouettes 43-20 in the opening game of the Canadian Football League's exhibition schedule.

Defensive back Grady Cavness intercepted a Jim Ciasey pass and returned it 11 yards for one major and defensive tackle Steve Hywell rumbled 38 yards with a Sonny Wade fumble for another.

Jonas, last year's outstanding performer in the CFL, threw two touchdown passes, kicked six converts and added a single on a missed field goal.

Montreal opened the scoring at 7:16 of the first quarter on Don Sweet's missed field goal.

Winnipeg took the lead for good just over four minutes later when Jonas marched the Bombers 85 yards in nine plays for a touchdown.

Louis Scott made a diving catch of a second-yard Jonas pass in the end zone, beating Alouette defender Dickie Harris. Jonas converted to give the Blue Bombers a 7-1 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Sweet narrowed the score to 7-4 midway through the second quarter with a 20-yard field goal.

But Winnipeg came back with another touchdown, this time on Jonas pass to Mack Herron from three yards out to cap a 71-yard drive which took eight plays. Less than a minute later, the Bombers made it 21-4 with Cavness' touchdown.

The Als rebounded to score on a nine-yard run by Chasey. Sweet's convert attempt failed, making the score at the half 21-10 for the Bombers.

Chasey, who played the entire first half at quarterback for the Als, hit on 10 of 17 pass attempts for 124 yards before giving way to Sonny Wade in the second half.

Both Chasey and Wade had one pass intercepted.

Wade and Jim (King) Corcoran, who shared second-half duties, completed eight of 19 passes for 73 yards in the second half.

Jonas, Pharr and Bob Cutburth, who shared quarterbacking duties for Winnipeg were good on 20 of 29 for 277 yards and no interceptions throughout the contest.

Paul Williams scored the only touchdown of the third quarter on the prettiest play of the night. Pharr hit Brian Thorpe with a pass on the Montreal 14-yard-line and Thorpe threw two Alouette defenders before flipping the ball to Williams who ran unmolested into the end zone.

Soviet Tosses Spear Furthest

OSLO (AP) — Soviet veteran Janus Lusis recorded the world's longest javelin throw of the year, winning the event an international track and field meet with a heave of 297 feet nine inches Monday night.

Smith 'Inspired' at Wimbledon

LONDON (AP) — Stan Smith, favorite in the Wimbledon tennis championships, confessed to feeling "kind of inspired" today as he shaped up for a vital match against a star from the Soviet Union.

Jim Connors, the other American survivor in the men's competition, faced second-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania.

The other quarter-final matches pit Georg Parun of New Zealand against Jan Kodes, the fifth-seeded Czech, and Australia's powerful Colin Dibley against Spain's third seed, Manuel Orantes of Spain, the third seed.

Smith, who lost to Australia's John Newcombe in the Wimbledon final last year, said he expected that Newcombe and other stars of World Championship Tennis were barred from the 1972 championships.

"I know a lot of the best men are not here this time, but I got

EVONNE GOOLAGONG

That match on Wednesday seems likely to cause traffic jams for miles around Wimbledon and a fierce crush inside the old ivy-covered stadium.

Miss Goolagong and Miss Evert never have met and their match already is being billed as the highlight of this year's tournament.

In the other women's semi-final, an all-U.S. affair, Billie Jean King, the No. 2 seed, takes on her old friend and rival, Rosie Casals.

More Germans

MUNICH (AP) — About 26500 male and female athletes from 122 countries have been entered for the Summer Olympic Games in Munich, the organizers announced Monday.

West Germany will have the largest delegation with 695 male and 118 female athletes, plus 134 team officials—a total of 637.

The Soviet Union will send the second largest group—382 men and 119 women athletes and 127 officials—or 628 persons.

Third largest group is the United States with 625 persons —369 men and 100 women athletes and 156 officials.

Canada if sending 238 athletes to the final year when they were. And I still raise being the Wimbledon champion the greatest honor a player can have."

Bunny Still Boss

NANAIA, Romania (Reuter) — Bunny Ahearne of Britain has been re-elected chairman of the International Ice Hockey Federation at the league's summer congress, it was announced Monday.

The congress granted West Germany's application to hold the world championships in Munich and Duesseldorf, while Austria will hold the 1976 tournament in Vienna and Innsbruck.

Moscow had already been awarded next year's championships are Helsinki the 1974s.

It was also decided to inaugurate in 1974 a world junior championships for players under 21.

Canadian delegates again proposed that professionals be allowed to play in world championships and the congress appointed a four-member commission to look into the question.

Final decision on the subject will be made next April at the federation's congress in Moscow.

Tigers Tamed In Own Lair

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Who's in first?

Well, the Orioles are, in Baltimore at any rate, and the Tigers are at Detroit.

Monday night they were both in Detroit, and that was too big for the Tigers, who suffered an embarrassing 12-3 drubbing before 52,835 spectators and a national television audience. When the holiday eve fireworks were over, the two rivals were in a dead tie for first place in baseball's American League East.

"I don't care how it can be any more even," said Baltimore manager Earl Weaver.

"We've tied, but in our paper we'll be listed on top and in the papers here Detroit will be on top."

Elsewhere, Oakland Athletics blanked California 4-0, Boston Red Sox trounced Minnesota Twins 12-2 and Texas Rangers edged Kansas City Royals 2-1. Chicago, New York, Cleveland and Milwaukee were idle.

Blanked for five innings by Tom Timmerman and trailing 3-0, the Orioles erupted for six runs in the sixth inning, seven in the eighth and two in the ninth. It was the most devastating setback for the Tigers since Cleveland beat them 15-3 July 17, 1966, with 21 hits—the same number accumulated by the Orioles.

Jerry Gates, Bobby Grich and Boog Powell all homered for Baltimore and Grich, Powell and Brooks Robinson each drove in three runs. Jim Palmer went the distance, seven-hit victory, scattering nine hits, including home runs by Jim Northrup and Gates Brown.

Detroit manager Billy Martin started out six pitchers and the Orioles scored on five of them. "It was," he said, "just one of those days."

Oakland's Catfish Hunter, who pitched a perfect game in 1968, retired the first 15 California batters before John Stephenson singled. The Angels' only other hit was Andy Kosco's seventh-inning triple.

Rudy May matched shutout pitching with Hunter until the seventh,when Sal Bando doubled and scored on Mike Epstein's single. The A's added four more runs in the eighth with Epstein and Dave Duncan delivering two-run singles.

Boston's scheduled starter, Sonny Siebert, showed up at the park tonight, but the ailing arm so the Red Sox switched to Luis Tiant and he held the Twins to eight hits, including a Bobby Darwin homer.

Texas reliever Jim Shellenback stymied Kansas City rallies in the seventh and ninth by striking out blinking Jim Mahoney for the third out both times.

McLain Starts Against Cubs

HOUSTON (AP) — Denny McLain, twice a Cy Young Award winner before being relegated to the minor leagues this year, makes his first start for Atlanta Braves against Chicago Cubs tonight, and the former 31-game winner says he's anxious to get it over.

Pirates Electrify Cubs Twice

Don't Pittsburgh Pirates know it.

The Pirates rode Willie Stargell's ninth inning homer to a 3-2 victory over Chicago Cubs Monday night, opening their lead in baseball's National League East to 1½ games over the idle New York Mets, who were rained out of a doubleheader at Montreal.

In other National League games Monday, streaking St. Louis Cardinals tripped Cincinnati 4-2, but the Reds maintained their one-half game lead in the West when Atlanta Braves stalled Pittsburgh Houston Astros 13-9, Philadelphia Phillies knocked off San Francisco Giants 4-2 in the only other game.

Burt Hooton was leading 2-1 and working on a three-hitter when Vic Davalillo opened the Pittsburgh ninth with a bunt single. Hooton got Roberto Clemente, whose ninth inning homer had turned a game around for the Pirates Saturday, but Stargell slugged his 15th of the year to give Pittsburgh another electrifying victory.

"It was just another typical Pirate finish," said Stargell.

It was the eighth victory in 10 meetings for the Pirates against Chicago and left the Cubs 6½ games back of Pittsburgh.

St. Louis ran its winning streak to seven games by knocking off Cincinnati as Rick Wise hurled a seven-hitter and slugged a two-run homer.

Wise's 12th career homer tied the score in the sixth and the Cards took the lead an inning later when Luis Melendez doubled, Joe Torre singled and Ted Simmons delivered both runs with a double.

The victory was the 16th in the last 15 starts for the Cardinals, now virtually tied with Chicago for third place in the East Division.

Cincinnati remained stop the West as Atlanta knocked off Houston. Hank Aaron's 656th career homer—a three-run shot —highlighted a five-run shot highlighted a five-run Braves' burst in the seventh.

The homer was Aaron's 17th this season and left him 58 short of Babe Ruth's all-time record.

Twins May Lose Top Kaat

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — It will be more than a month before Minnesota Twins learn whether Jim Kaat, their leading pitcher this year with a 10-4 record, will be able to pitch any more this season.

Duhamel Duel Fizzles Out

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

It was a case of machine over man in Monday's Dirt Track Motorcycle races at the Quist Exhibition Raceway, one of five such races this summer in determining the Ontario Championship.

The expected duel between Doug Sehl and Yves Duhamel failed to develop as mechanical problems plagued the favorites in the 45th annual dirt track championship.

Sehl proved to be the class of the field when his machines were in top working order, but that wasn't the case in the 250 c.c. class, where he coaxed a fourth-place finish from his ailing Yamaha, in the 750 expert class, he was unstoppable as he swept both heats and set a new single-lap record in winning the championship.

Duhamel's mechanical woes were even more extensive as he sputtered to third in the 250-event and failed to show for the final 750 race because of mechanical troubles.

The 22-year-old Sehl didn't feel that the presence of Duhamel, fresh from a weekend road racing championship at Mosport, gave him added incentive to win. "I'm not trying to blow my own horn, but I've raced against plenty of riders in the States that have beaten him. You can't go out there thinking you're the slowest guy in the world. It's a matter of confidence.

The Waterdown; Ont. rider had every reason in the world to be confident in the 750 final as he jumped into the lead on the first turn and held that position throughout the race. "It's just a case of reflexes and knowing the bike you're on," he said of the trick shot that proved to be a Sehl trademark in his four heats and finals victories.

Sehl won the eight-lap event in 3:38, recording at least two 25-second laps en route, breaking his own Belleville track record of 27 seconds. It was his fourth good start in Canada this summer and his fourth win in the 750 class, placing him in a strong position to retain his Number 1 plate as Canadian dirt track champion.

Hamilton's Maurice "Mo" Fraser, who trails Sehl by four points in the over - all standings, placed second in the Belleville race.

The younger Sehl brother (Dave is currently racing in California) collected over $500 for his two first-place finishes in the 750-class, along with a win in one of the 250 heats.

Montreal's Dave McLean found that "I had a lot of trouble seeing when there was someone in front of me, because of the mud. Instead of trying to pass you had to just sort of aim at him to see where you were going."

The Bultaco rider, a nine-year veteran of dirt track racing didn't have any such problem in the 250-expert final as he led from start to finish.

He felt the victory to be particularly satisfying because "I just don't beat Doug that often — when I do it's generally because he's had trouble with his machine." Fraser was runner-up in this event with Duhamel taking third and Sehl fourth.

Georgetown's Frank Wood rode his Bultaco to an easy win in the junior 250 event while Thornhill's John McEwen pulled his Honda into the lead on the second lap to win going away in the junior 750. All finals were eight-lap events.

A crowd of 2,300, the second largest ever, paid their way into the Belleville track, accounting for a purse of $1,700. Organizers of the event were the Piston Pusher's Motorcycle Club.

Right Adjustments

Doug Sehl of Waterdown, Ontario, makes some final adjustments before Monday's Dirt Track Motorcycle races held in Belleville. The 22-year-old rider took another stride towards maintaining his number one ranking in Canada by winning the 750-expert class in one of a series of five races to determine the Ontario championship. A crowd of 2,300 was on hand for the event, the second biggest collection of bike fans in Belleville's history.

Optical Eyes Best in Fifth

AOCO broke up a close game with five runs in the fifth inning to stamp the Post Office 7-4 Monday night and move into sole possession of first place in division C of the Industrial Softball League.

Ron McCoy lasted five and two third innings for AOCO and picked up the victory. He struck out three and walked three in allowing only five hits. Grant Collet took over in the sixth and stopped the Posties without a hit.

Tom Belnap led the winners into a two-point bulge over Brooke Bond with a double and two singles. Malcolm Johnson and Stewart Warner also banged out a double and single.

George Johnson spent the route for the Post Office, giving up eight hits and fanning two. Johnson also had two singles to lead all Postman batters.

Bob Chambers fired a three-hitter for Brooke Bond, fanning eight and walking only one. His team mates shook the cobwebs off their bats for him and pounded out 21 hits. Jack Walsh had four singles and Don Goodfellow three for the winners who scored in every inning except the sixth, including nine in the opening frame.

In another Monday night game the Utilities won a 9-0 forfeit from Stewart Warner when the latter could not field a team.

Quinte Closer To Second Spot

Rollins Construction are still pulling away in the Commercial Softball League standings but Quinte Hotel leader Glen Nobody else was in Monday night's double header action.

Rollins blanked the Globe Hotel 5-0 on Ken Demille's one-hitter to stretch their first-place lead to a full 10 points over Devolin Motors, who found their runner position in jeopardy after dropping a 5-0 contest to Quinte Hotel.

It was all Ken Demille in the second game of the double-header, as he fired a one-hit shutout against fifth-place Globe. It was Demille's fifth shutout in as many starts and left the Constructionmen's pitching staff still with a perfect 6-0 earned-run average after 12 games. He struck out six and showed perfect control while his teammates were pounding out 11 hits on his behalf.

Larry Mawby stroked a triple and single while Eddie Rapp Plane and Demille added two singles apiece for the winners.

Earl Foster gave up all five runs in his six innings of work on the Globe mound, and was responsible for ruining Demille's no - hit bid with a fifth inning double.

Gary Johnston added to his defensive laurels which won him the Labatt's player of the week award by picking up seven more putouts giving him a league - leading 71. The Globe's big first sacker is batting .286 and picked up two of his team's five hits last week. Gary has committed only one error in 79 chances.

A quick start enabled Quinte Hotel to move within one game of Devolin when the Hotelmen downed the Leader 4-1 after only two innings.

Paul Mercer singled to open the game for Quinte and then raced home for the first run of the night. Mercer drove in two more with a second-inning double to build the winning score. Dennis Leask and Lyle Shaver had singles in the opening surge while Ray Lesage added two singles to round out Quinte's six hits.

Ken Demille shut down eight men on strikes and allowed only six hits in picking up his third shutout of the year. He gave up a triple to Doug Olsen and singles to Jack Surry, Tom MacDonald, Vern Whelen and Jim Horwood.

Jamie Hunter was the starter for Devolin, giving up all five runs in his one and a third innings. Ron Marcele relieved in the second and shutout the Hotelmen the rest of the way. Marcele fanned eight and allowed only two singles.

Action resumes tonight when Howard and Roberts meet the Ellis Juniors at seven p.m. and Rollins play Quinte in the nightcap.

The Legion 99 bantams eked out a 12-11 home field win over Oshawa Legion 43 to start a perfect weekend for the local team. The Belleville crew travelled to Port Hope Sunday and walloped their hosts 13-5.

Clyde Rodley and Brian Turner fired the win over Oshawa striking out 13 and allowing nine hits. Scott Bowes was the big hitter for Belleville with four singles.

Bowes was again a major figure in Sunday's win over Port Hope hitting three singles in Belleville's 17-hit attack. Rick Coblin also stroked three singles and Brian Turner two doubles and a single.

Turner went the distance for Belleville, fanning nine.

In another ZONA bantam contest the Thurlow - Belleville Yardmen nipped Port Hope 9-8.

Graham Hits on Ideal Golf Gift

CLEVELAND (AP) — David Graham stood on the tee at the Tanglewood Country Club and suddenly realized he hadn't got on his wife Maureen, a birthday present. So he sank a $30,000 first prize in the $100,000 Cleveland Open Golf Champion-ship as a present for her.

The 36-y-e-a-r-o-l-d Australian from Sydney talked about it Monday after he sank an eight-foot putt for a birdie on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff to beat Bruce Devlin, his close friend and fellow Aussie. They had tied at 276 for the regulation 72 holes.

Graham and Devlin teamed to win the World Cup team championship in 1970.

George Knudson of Toronto fired a 70 in the final round to finish alone in sixth place with a 281 total, good for $5,460. Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg was grouped with several other players at 283 after shooting a 74-and won $2,926.

Gary Bowerman and Ben Kern of Toronto finished well back, each winning $300. Bowerman's total was 297 while Kern carded 298.

Canadian Crews on Move

HENLEY, England (CP) — It's on to Switzerland for three Canadian rowing entries after their appearances here in the historic Henley Royal Regatta.

Canada will be represented in international competition at Lucerne, July 7-9, by the St. Catharines rowing club coxed four in the final of the Stewards' Challenge Cup.

Peter King, vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Rowing Association, said Sunday: "The performances at the crews at Henley and at Lucerne will be taken seriously into account when the Olympic selection is made early August."

Further Olympic trials will be held in St. Catharines when the crews return from Lucerne.

Waples Tops

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Keith Waples, pioneer hurdler and pole in driver victories at Garden City Raceway's current meet Monday night with three more wins. His mounts have earned $208,000 this season.

The 42-year-old driver, who has piloted 4,198 races, has earned $238,119 through the weekend.

Walt Willing But Style Weak

The muscles were willing, but the technique was weak as Gary Walt missed his last chance for a berth on the Canadian Olympic team Saturday.

The Apollo Barbell Club weightlifter missed four press attempts in a specially - arranged meet at Metro Secondary School Saturday. The Belleville heavyweight was required to complete lifts in the press, snatch and clean and jerk" competitions totalling 1,047 pounds for a berth on the Olympic team.

The meet had been arranged so that Walt and two other lifters who barely missed the qualifying totals at the Canadian National championships in May could have one final lifting at making the standard.

Gary had press attempts of 380, 360 and 340 invalidated because he moved his feet after hoisting the weight overhead. The first two attempts would have broken the existing British Empire marks. "I had it (the lift) overhead, but I just lost my balance," he said of the press attempts which are generally his strong point. "It was kind of strange because the 380 and 370 lifts seemed so light. They went so like a feather, but I just didn't have the technique to keep them steady."

He finished the competition with a 275-pound snatch effort and 386 pounds in the clean and jerk, but admitted that "my heart just wasn't in it after missing those press."

Craig Cameron, 198 - pound light - heavyweight from Hamilton also missed the Olympic standard, while Sarzis's Bob Santavy, who was to attempt to better the middle-heavyweight mark, failed to show up.

Apollo heavyweight Price Morris had already gained a berth on the Olympic team by winning the Canadian Nationals in May. He is one of only three Canadian lifters to surpass the Olympic standard.

Enough to Pay Doctor?

GREENFIELD, Ind. (AP) — Two motorcyclists were taken to hospital after with critical injuries after they tried to win $10,000 Monday night by jumping their cycles 200 feet over a lake near here.

"A spokesman for Sportsman's Paradise said David Beaman, 24, of Roachdale, Ind., won $5,000 and set a world's motorcycle jumping record of 198 feet, 9 inches.

But Beaman also was in critical condition, undergoing surgery for several hours early this morning.

It's no longer a hobby for Junior West (right) and partner Bill Lee. And with results like they got from Lee' Bud Saturday night, harness racing could prove to be a rewarding profession also. Junior rode Bud to a photo finish victory of 2:07.3 in the featured eighth race over Hir Battles and Canal View Way. Bud returned $27 to Belleville harness racing fans who bet a record $44,366 on the night.

Harness No Hobby For Junior West

By RANDY DERRY
Sports Staff

After 15 years harness racing has finally become more than a hobby for Junior West.

"I've been in racing for 15 years, more or less as just a hobby," stated the Oreto native. "But two years ago I sold my service station, built a barn and a track and decided to try and make a living out of it."

Junior has been making a successful living in his new role as trainer and driver, accumulating six horses to train plus three of his own.

"As a business me and my partner Bill Lee, are still getting going. We always charge enough to survive but its hard to get the real good horses. Of course the better we get the better horses we'll get. You have to get well known in this business and the only way to do that is to prove yourself on the track."

If horse owners are watching Junior perform on the Belleville track his fledgling business will soon be booming. "I've had pretty good luck here — only been out of the money twice in four or five weeks of racing at Belleville."

Saturday night was not one of those times as Junior drove Lee Bud to a first place win in the Quinte Exhibition Raceway's featured eighth race. Bud's win was something special for Junior who has part ownership in the four-year-old—brown gelding. "It feels really good when you race your own green colts well, like Bud did tonight.

He was racing the best tonight and he sure proved himself."

Bud proved himself well, running the mile in 2:07.3 to nose out Canal View Way and Hir Battles in a photo finish. Bud returned $17 as he held onto the lead the entire race. The time was the second fastest of the year on the half-mile Fairgrounds oval.

A record mutuel handle was recorded by the 1,441 fans in attendance at the Saturday night meet when $41,366 passed through the pari-mutuel wickets.

Milligan Gets Jump

Glen Milligan got the jump on competition at the Central Ontario track and field championships this weekend. The former Trenton High School star won the junior long jump to head a group of local athletes qualifying for the Canada championships.

Milligan, representing the Queen's Track Club, jumped 22-feet, three inches in the junior and juvenile meet held in Oshawa Saturday. Ralph Vandervoort and David Simonds of the Belleville Kinsmen club earned fourths in the junior 110 and 800 metres respectively, while Trenton's David Thompson had a fourth in the juvenile 1500 metres and fifth in the 400 metre event.

At the hamlet and midget competition in Etobicoke Sunday, Dan Gutcoski of Belleville was third in the midget high jump while Kinsmen teammate Russ Sinonds placed fifth at the midget shot and discus events.

Douks Return Home

The return marks the final chapter in the great trek by the radical sect when some 500 Freedomites burned their tarpaper shacks at Krestova, B.C., in September, 1962, and marched to Agassiz to be near about 100 of their brethren who had been arrested in mass roundups, convicted of terrorist activities and sent to the special fireproof prison that was built at a cost of $300,000 to hold them.

The trek has ended as it began with members of the sect still at odds with the law.

Twenty-five Freedomites were arrested Sunday after a demonstration in front of the home of John Verigin, leader of some 10,000 orthodox Doukhobors residing in B.C.

The leader of the Freedomites, who claim to be pacifists, has been incarcerated with vandalism, burnings and nude parades since they first came to B.C. from Saskatchewan about 70 years ago.

The final trek started on Labor Day, 1962, with the burning of homes at Krestova allegedly by members of a sandy hilltop 400 miles east of Vancouver.

The 200 Krestova Freedomites marched westward for several days, their number swelling to about 1,200 men, women and children as other members of the 13,000-a-trong sect joined them.

They finally camped outside Mountain prison in August, 1963, at the same time their imprisoned brethren began a hunger strike.

Both the prisoners and the trekkers maintained that the convicted Freedomites were unjustly convicted for acts instigated by others and that they wanted a solution to Doukhobor problems. What the "solution" or even the "problem" was no one knew, not even the Freedomites themselves.

The hunger strike, joined by Freedomites outside the prison, continued for several months. Most imprisoned Freedomites accepted force-feeding. Some did not and were taken to an isolation cell where given the venous feedings. One of them, Paul J. Podmorow, 23, died in hospital. The hunger strike petered out.

Outside the prison, the Freedomite community established itself on the road leading to the prison, took on an almost permanent appearance. Tents were replaced by tarpaper shacks with wooden floors. Children attended public school in Agassiz and many younger members found jobs.

What remained after the last Freedomite in the prison was released in 1970 is that the members at the roadside camp dwindled to less than 200.

Maybr Wes Johnson of Kent municipality, which takes in the Mountain prison area, said Monday that he visited the camp Sunday and found it deserted. The small shacks still stood but much of the furniture was gone.

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

Here is a hand where declarer accomplished what might be designated an artistic triumph. True, only a part score was at stake, but, even so, South was entitled to good marks for his performance.

West led the king of diamonds and shifted to a heart. East won with the nine and returned a diamond, West taking the ace and continuing with the jack.

Analyzing the situation perfectly, declarer ruffed and returned a low club! As a result, he made the contract. West did all he could when he took the king and returned a club, but South was now in the harbor. He drew trumps, ending in dummy, and thus scored eight tricks consisting of five trumps and three clubs.

Had South relied on a club finesse, instead of conceding the club trick without a battle, he would have gone down one, losing three hearts, two diamonds and a club.

Actually, declarer's play was very well reasoned. He concluded that West's failure to lead another heart at trick four, instead of a diamond, was based on his inability to do so, and that East therefore had started with the A-Q-J-9-3 of hearts.

It followed that East would not have remained silent during the auction if he also had the king of clubs. So declarer credited West with the king — which was also consistent with his overcall — and deliberately bypassed a finesse that was destined to lose.

It is interesting to note that South did not make the mistake of leading the ace and another club. Had he done that, West could have stopped the contract by rising with the king and leading a third round of clubs for East to ruff. With one of dummy's club tricks thus eliminated, South would have finished a trick short.

Tomorrow: The right play.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Wednesday, July 5

Aries (March 21-April 19): Getting into the swing of normal routine turns out difficult. Avoid immediate action on rash decisions, especially buying luxuries on short notice.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Pause for remembrance: half forgotten advice comes back to help current doubts. Pain, agreement appears difficult to obtain.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Pressing your point only works better than bickering. If this isn't possible, leave discussion for later.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): You can put together a tidy package of settled fact and projected progress, and persuade others of its merits. A steady pace.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Taking on too much leads to disagreements with people you depend on. Mechanical equipment requires precise handling.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Use imagination to sketch in pictures for associates, rather than try to push them into teamwork before they're used to the idea.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23): Shading a financial situation to shelter a friend is not quite the thing to do. Your own budget need revision first.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21): Taking things personally comes all too easy, and it works both ways. Older people should be considered this evening.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Do your work thoroughly, first things first. Drive a good bargain, expecting no short cuts nor any special breaks.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Strong feelings tempt you into injudicious temper if you let them. Impatient moves in business tend to become inadvertently speculative.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Take stock of what you are, what you can be. Do something to improve matters. Find out how infrequently seen friends are.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Strive for personal serenity, knowing that the sound and smart of today's bickering pass sooner if you don't get entangled in exchanges.

Nitro for Angina

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What medication or treatment at age 80 is suggested, if any, for an occasional strong angina pain where an ECG doesn't indicate a problem? I have heard of using a nitroglycerine tablet in such cases.—F.L.

It is not unusual for patients with angina pectoris to have attacks of such chest pain even though an ECG (electrocardiogram) shows no abnormality when the patient is at rest. Sometimes, in these same patients, the ECG reveals abnormalities after a bit of exercise.

If a nitroglycerine tablet relieves the pain, it is pretty strong evidence that the pain is indeed angina, and not chest pain from some other cause.

Nitro tablets are what doctors call "the medication of choice" for angina. When pain occurs, a tablet slipped under the tongue brings very rapid relief. Indeed, if a patient knows himself well enough so he can tell what degree of activity is likely to provoke an attack, the nitro tablet can be taken before the pain starts, and may in fact prevent it.

However, such patients should remember that some degree of exercise should be taken regularly—not too much exercise, but whatever amount is possible just short of causing pain. Walking is of the best type of exercise for this.

To return to medications: So-called long-acting nitrites also may be tried with angina patients, if they work better for that's fine. In other instances propanalol (Indural) may be used.

Reminder: don't purchase too many nitroglycerine tablets at one time. They deteriorate rather easily.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What foods should a person avoid when he has high cholesterol? —Mrs. B.B.

In general, avoid saturated fats—those that are solid at room temperature.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In the service my husband developed a loss of wrist control. He couldn't raise his hand from the wrist. He took physical therapy treatments, lifting very small weights. The condition has recurred on occasion.

The doctor referred to it as "wrist drop." Can you enlighten us on this disorder?—D.H.

I suspect that what the doctor said was "wrist drop." This is usually due to a neuritis of nerves to the hand.

It can be due to metal poisoning, i.e., arsenic, lead or mercury. Alcohol sometimes is a factor. It can be caused somewhere along the course of the nerve.

Another possibility is a local infection, particularly abcessed teeth, so any such infection should be sought out and treated.

Treatment of infection plus continued physiotherapy should relieve the trouble.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I know a woman who became pregnant while still carrying an IUD. What are the chances of this happening in other women? —Mrs. I.C.

It happens occasionally, but the IUD appears to be about 90 per cent effective.

Hillcrest Proposed As Apartment Area

Dock Dispute Still Snarled

MONTREAL (CP) — The stalemated St. Lawrence River dock dispute was dropped back into the federal government's lap Tuesday after striking longshoremen in Montreal gave only a qualified yes to the government's take-it-or-leave-it proposal.

The Maritime Employers Association and dockers in Quebec City and Trois-Rivieres voted at meetings Tuesday to accept the proposals to end the seven-week strike hammered out during the weekend by federal labor department experts.

But the Montreal local of the International Longshoremen's Association voted to send the proposal back for modifications.

In Ottawa, Labor Minister Martin O'Connell said the government's next move would not be announced at least until today.

He said the Montreal dockers wanted withdrawal by employers of court action against the workers and a specified date for re-implementation of job-security provisions contained in the existing contract.

Bernard Wilson, the deputy labor minister who spent the weekend trying to bring the two sides together, said his proposals called for the job security provisions to take effect Oct. 12.

The two sides had until Tuesday night to reply, but Mr. O'Connell said earlier that that did not mean the government is committed to special legislation if either party rejected the proposal.

"The government is prepared to take its responsibility when the situation has been more fully clarified," he said.

Aside from job-security provisions, the government proposal called for lifting by employers

Thirty Die In Fire At Asylum

SHERBORNE, England (AP) — Thirty handicapped patients died early today in a fire which swept through a wing of a mental hospital.

Officials of the Coldharbour Hospital in this Dorset County town said flames destroyed a dormitory where 36 male patients were sleeping.

Nursing staff managed to get seven persons clear, they said. One of the rescued died later, and six suffered minor injuries.

Fire, ambulance and police Between 350 and 360 patients stay there. One-third are women.

Area Residents Welcome Plan

By IAN ROBERTSON, Staff Reporter

A radical proposal which could spell the rise of an apartment district in Belleville's northeast met with surprisingly quick approval by residents of that area last night.

If accepted by developers and planners working on the city's official plan, this motion could mark a change in the whole pattern of residential development here.

Members of Task Force B will suggest to planners a 25-acre portion of land be set aside in the Hillcrest area for apartments. It could house 10 per cent of the city's population if developed in this manner.

Unlike resident of other portions of the city who were loathe to accept high density housing in their districts, those present at the Hillcrest Community Centre heartily endorsed the task force proposal.

They felt that Hillcrest desperately needs redevelopment.

Ronald Bellmore, chairman of Task Force B, told those present that, with more residents in a revamped neighborhood, the city would have to provide proper community services.

"The only way to get these services is to have the population to support them," he said. "You don't have that population now."

The 25-acre area proposed for apartments is bordered by Camilton Road to the west and lies midway between Byron and Adam Streets. If accepted, this area could provide apartment housing for approximately 2,500 residents.

Two other parcels of land, one to the north of this plot, a second to the east, have been suggested for multiple housing. A one- to three-acre section in the centre of this territory has been recommended for commercial zoning. This would provide necessary neighborhood shopping.

Rounding off this square formed by the suggested zones, is another stretch of land, approximately 25 acres, running south of Bell Boulevard to Byron. This has been set aside for a commercial sports complex.

Premier Of France Resigns

PARIS (Reuter) — The government of Prime Minister Jacques Chaban - Delmas resigned today, it was announced.

While rumors had circulated on the move for several months, there was no indication that the resignation would take place before Frances legislative elections scheduled for early next year.

Chaban-Delmas, prime minister since President Georges Pompidou came to power in June, 1969, had come under fire from both the opposition and from within his own ruling Gaullist party since allegations of tax irregularities earlier this year.

He also was attacked for maintaining in his government a junior minister who had been sentenced in a building scandal but who resigned since then.

Two More Murdered In Ulster

BELFAST (AP) — Two new murders and a series of shootings brought new horror today to Northern Ireland, endangering the province's fragile ceasefire.

Two young men in their early 20s were found shot through the head on the road to Belfast airport, seven miles from the tense city centre.

The latest victims in a wave of unexplained killings lay one on top of the other at the side of the roadside.

Eight men were murdered in similar circumstances during the weekend. Six were Roman Catholics and two were Protestants. Police believe that all were the victims of sectarian murder—killed entirely because of their religion or for their activity in rival Roman Catholic and Protestant groups.

The two murdered youths are later identified as Protestants and brothers—Malcolm and Peter Orr, 20 and 19.

Flying Holiday Wrecks Oldtimers

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — "Boy, I'm having a ball," Junius Morrison told reporters at Omaha Monday as he headed south on a flight of nostalgia in his old-time aircraft.

Morrison had located the plane some weeks ago at Moses Lake, Wash. It was a Curtiss-Wright "pusher," like the one in which he had learned to fly 40 years ago.

The Eastern Airlines 747 Jumbo Jetliner captain purchased the Curtiss-Wright and thought it would be a lark to spend his vacation flying it across country.

On Tuesday, Morrison's flight of nostalgia ended. The Curtiss-Wright is tangled wreckage and the 59-year-old pilot dead among the weeds in a northwest Missouri field.

Hijacking Attempt Foiled

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A man who held a young girl at knife-point in an apparent attempt to hijack an American Airlines Boeing 707 at Buffalo International Airport surrendered to an FBI agent today.

He apparently decided he was not going to get out of the airport, said Richard Ash, special agent in charge of the FBI office here.

"If there's no shooting, I'll come out," Ash quoted the man as saying moments before he emerged from the aircraft carrying his hostage.

Ash said an FBI agent had sneaked aboard the plane and confronted the man. After the agent assured the man there would be no shooting, the man threw down his knife and carried the little girl in his arms down the ramp to a waiting police car.

The child was not harmed, Ash said, but was taken to a Buffalo hospital for examination. Blood on the child's clothing, Ash said, was from a slight wound the man had suffered.

Police identified the man as Charles Smith, 23, of Buffalo. The youngster, believed to be two or three years old, was not immediately identified.

The man apparently slipped aboard the unoccupied jet about 5 a.m. and demanded that American Airlines provide a pilot for the craft.

"I want a pilot. I want a God damn pilot," the man shouted to police and FBI agents who surrounded the plane as it stood at a terminal gate.

Police said Smith stabbed the girl's mother and a man on a Buffalo street earlier. They said after the stabbing, Smith grabbed the girl and drove to the airport.

Summer Arts . . . Playground Style

Tuesday was registration day for more than 600 Belleville youngsters who flocked to the city's 21 playgrounds. Here, East Hill Playground supervisor Robert Bailey conducts art class for some of the 50 youngsters who signed up for the seven-week playground program at the Bleecker Avenue park. Recreation and Arena officials have co-ordinated a program of arts and crafts, games, sports, swimming, bowling, and a host of other activities.

Fischer Apologizes

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Bobby Fischer apologized today for delaying the start of his $300,000 chess match with world champion Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union.

The American, whose dispute over prize money forced organizers to postpone the world championship round, said he had the greatest respect for Spassky as a man and as a player.

Ship Damaged, Crew Safe

Greenpeace in Collision

PAPEETE, Tahiti (Reuter) — The nuclear protest yacht Greenpeace III has been taken to the French operations centre for the South Pacific test site for repairs after colliding with a French minesweeper, according to messages reaching here.

The yacht was damaged by the minesweeper La Palmpolaise which sailed alongside to deliver a message. The ketch's radio was broken and the crew said they had run out of gasoline.

The yacht, owned by the Canadian Greenpeace Foundation, arrived at Muroroa Sunday for repairs. The three-man crew were reported in good health.

In Vancouver, Ben Metcalfe, Greenpeace Foundation chairman, said Tuesday night he received a radio message from the 36-foot ketch saying the vessel was about 125 miles southwest of the Mururoa Atoll when "they witnessed a sudden glow lasting four minutes and excessive winds and turbulence."

Mr. Metcalfe said there were no reports of damage or injury to ship or crew.

Police Ignore Court

SASKATOON (CP) — Motorists picked up on suspicion of impaired driving will not be allowed to consult a lawyer before taking a breath analysis test, Police Chief John Kettles said Tuesday. The Supreme Court of Canada has ruled a man should have been allowed to consult his lawyer before taking the test. Chief Kettles said there would be no change in procedure until a directive to change was received from the attorney-general's department.

Towing a Problem

TORONTO (CP) — Most automobile companies may have designed safer bumpers for 1973 but they neglected to provide one that can easily be used in towing, an Ontario Motor League official said Tuesday. Herb Ronson, director of service, said only the Ford Motor Co. Was able to demonstrate that its new model designs had bumpers strong enough for towing.

Hanoi Raided

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. planes made heavy strikes against the Hanoi region Tuesday, the U.S. command announced today. More fighting also was reported on the northern front in South Vietnam, east of Quang Tri City and southwest of Hue.

North Vietnam said the U.S. planes bombed and strafed residential areas of Hanoi, "killing or injuring many persons and destroying or damaging hundreds of dwelling houses." It said two U.S. F-4 Phantoms were shot down.

American Prisoners Said Moved to China

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Rev. Paul A. Lindstrom, chairman of the Remember the Pueblo Committee, said Tuesday he had "positive information" that American prisoners of war were being transferred from North Vietnam to China.

He said that as recently as June 4 to 6, nine American pilots had been transferred from North Vietnam to China.

He claimed that Henry A. Kissinger had tried, but failed, to get these or any other prisoners released. Kissinger, U.S. President Nixon's special adviser, was in Peking last month.

Apartments Sought

Residents were intrigued with the proposals set down at the final meeting of area B task force.

They envisioned a well-built up area, uncluttered with commercial enterprises, and industry kept within its present boundaries to the north and east of Hillcrest's residential districts.

Many expressed concern with inadequate sewage, roads and recreational facilities in the area.

It was felt that such redevelopment and increased population would force the city to improve the situation.

Mr. Bellmore said an apartment district along Cannifton would "keep your high rise areas along an arterial route," without interfering to any great extent with private homes.

Some questioned the construction of a sports complex in the middle of the district. This prompted a reply from the task force chairman, that such a complex would undoubtedly increase land values.

He said that such private enterprises have often co-operated with the community and could most probably be induced to do so in this case.

"There will be adjustments to this plan. There's no doubt about that because there may be some things we don't know yet, but I'm confident this area can be improved," he said.

In an effort to improve the aesthetic value of the area, planners included the Hillcrest Auto Wreckers land on Centre Street in the multiple housing zone. The task force readily accepted this move.

"The only way you're going to get rid of eyesores, and I'm using that for want of a better word, is to zone the area for a high enough density to make it worthwhile for a developer to buy it and develop it," said Mr. Bellmore.

With the proposal for an apartment lane on Cannifton, several residents asked about the status of traffic flow along this main arterial route.

The chairman was unable to indicate either the progress of resurfacing on Cannifton Road or the status of the CN railway crossing.

He could only repeat reports that either an underpass or an overpass would be constructed to alleviate the restricted flow of traffic.

One resident suggested commercial zoning be allotted for the area now proposed as apartment area. However, it was felt that commercial zoning would cut into the residential area too much.

"Besides," Mr. Bellmore said, "North Front is commercial and Cannifton Road is not. Cannifton is a natural truck route."

When asked if this commercial zoning would allow cafés to be constructed, one woman resident ended further arguments when she said "we wouldn't want that here, there."

The chairman said commercial zoning would increase traffic and destroy efforts to build up the area for residential use.

Exodus From School Brings Council Action

PICTON (Staff)—The transfer of about 10 per cent of Queen Elizabeth elementary school pupils to other schools in the county has prompted action on the part of Picton town councillors.

A four-man committee of council will call a public meeting at which the parents of 63 transferred pupils will be asked to explain their action.

The council committee was formed after word of the high number of transfers from the 750-pupil school was brought to council's attention.

It is comprised of Mayor Margaret Ackerman, Town Clerk Andrew Jarvis and councillors William Lane and Harry Ahearn.

Councillors Lane and Ahearn attended a regular meeting of Prince Edward County board of education and reported to council last night that they found trustees "very, very defensive".

Mr. Lane said the trustees' attitude indicated to him that there is a problem at Queen Elizabeth.

Council also received a letter of complaint from a ratepayer.

In an interview today, the ratepayer said she wrote council concerning the student transfers at Queen Elizabeth because she had been contacted by many concerned parents.

She said all of them complained that school principal Carl Reid apparently does not discipline the teachers and in turn they fail to discipline the children.

She added, "Many parents hesitate to complain openly because they fear it will be taken out on their children."

Tourists Join Campers On Quarry Picket Line

A group of about 150 tourists and campers from West Lake resorts picketed Lake Ontario Cement trucks at The Sandbanks today and tied up sand removal operations during the morning.

The campers, reported by a resort owner, to be irate because of the noise of loading and trucking operations at the Sandbanks, began picketing about 10 a.m. this morning.

Lake Ontario Cement Co. manager Bruce Price was at the site by noon, together with three Ontario Provincial Police cruisers. One truck, loaded with sand, was prevented from leaving the quarrying scene, and the tourists had halted two empty trucks attempting to enter the site.

William Barrett, son of Sandbanks Beach Resort owner Mrs. R. F. Barrett, said tourists driving along the road are stopping to join the picketers, who are brandishing homemade cardboard box picket cards.

Mrs. Barrett said the cement company had promised to cease sand drawing operations during July and August because the noise disturbed vacationers.

"But they (the loader and trucks) were at it at 5:30 yesterday morning and the loader operated incessantly all day," she said. "They started this morning at 6:30 a.m. and the tourists got mad. Some of the kids, the oldest about 12 or 14, asked me for cardboard and crayons this morning and got out there. They've been joined by teenagers and adults since, but am getting the blame for it."

Police removed a barricade which had been erected by the picketers shortly before noon and most of the campers left their dispersed. However, one spokesman said "we will be back tomorrow if the quarry-hat hasn't ended."

Most of the persons on the picket lines were from the Oshawa and Ottawa areas, with only a few locals involved.

Police indicated they would continue to keep an eye on the situation.

CFB Trenton Gets New Crash Trucks

TRENTON (Staff) — CFB Trenton's 38-man fire department has received the first of four new crash rescue vehicles.

One of the trucks that features a new extinguishing agent called light water arrived this week. The other three will be received later this year.

The fire department will have to revise its fire fighting procedures once the new equipment comes into full operation. One spokesman said today the new vehicles will necessitate "attacking fires differently."

The new extinguishing agent used in the vehicles is a trade secret of a Montreal firm, Canadian Laurentian Ltd., and is said to eliminate the possibility of "flash back fires". These fires start when the blanket of protein foam used to cover petroleum fires are disturbed.

A vehicle, for example, driving across foam could allow sufficient air to get to a hot gasoline spill underneath to cause re-ignition.

The base fire department has informed the department of energy and resources management it intends to set fuel fires here to test the new equipment through the summer.

Picton Mayor Claims PE-Hastings Union Sure

PICTON (Staff) — Picton Mayor Margaret Ackerman said today members of town council she is convinced Prince Edward and Hastings counties will be joined by regional government.

Mayor Ackerman who attended the June convention of the Association of Municipalities of Ontario held in Ottawa said it was "very apparent" through a number of provincial treasurer Darcy McKeough, that regional government will be effective here by 1975.

She added: "Our county is unique in that it is geographically cut off from Hastings County but I do believe it is inevitable that the two at least be joined into one regional government."

Mayor Ackerman said she considers it "important" for Prince Edward to have one municipal government and noted that a proposed county plan should be reviewed.

A plan for the county featuring Picton as the nucleus for urban development is needed according to her.

The mayor said she bases this contention on the fact that Picton can offer water and sewerage services as well as fire and police protection on a share cost basis.

No further expenditures should be made for the county plan in her opinion until "the county itself decides which way it will go".

A meeting between Picton town councillors, Bloomfield village councillors and Hallowell township councillors will be held July 13 to discuss extension of services. The meeting will be attended by Larry South and Robert Dunn, engineers with the department of the environment invited at the request of Mayor Ackerman.

"This area planned for urban development should be of the united municipalities of Picton, Hallowell and Bloomfield," declared Mayor Ackerman.

Picton Favors Plan For Pool Operation

PICTON (Staff) — Picton town council has agreed in principle, to assume administrative duties for a public swimming pool at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute during after school hours and holidays pending completed construction of the pool.

Coun. Charlebois, chairman of the Quinte Isle swimming pool committee last night explained the Prince Edward County board of education has granted approval in principle for installation of the pool at PECI and for the operation of operating costs it plans to absorb.

It is necessary, however, for a municipal body to agree to "the planning, organizing and financing" of the balance of operation costs for the years the pool will be used by the general public in Prince Edward.

Mr. Charlebois requested council to appoint members of the town recreation and parks committee to work with members of the county board of education as the Prince Edward swimming pool committee.

He stressed the importance of reaching an agreement with a municipal body to control use of the pool on holidays and after school and said the pool must be for all of Prince Edward or this group would not be interested in its construction.

When asked by one councillor for a cost figure for the pool Mr. Charlebois said no firm price is available since only rough plans have been submitted.

He added, however, that an estimate of $190,000 to $200,000 has been offered by two firms for the Olympic size pool.

Maintenance costs based on comparisons with a similar pool in Trenton should be approximately $18,000 per year.

The provincial government will pay for 70 per cent of this amount.

Unofficial" donations for the pool whose construction was spearheaded by the Picton Rotary Club total an estimated $40,000 already.

When asked why the county of Prince Edward was not approached to handle the administration of the pool after school hours Mr. Charlebois said it is because if the town agrees to operate it and bills the other municipalities for its use.

Coco's Captured Crowd

Hundreds of children filled the Quinte Mall yesterday to giggle at the high-jinks of Coco the Clown. Coco was in town to remind the children of the Hannaford Circus coming to the Belleville Memorial Arena, Thursday, July 6. Earlier in the day Coco visited Hastings Manor, the Happy Hall Nursing Home for Retarded Children and Belleville General Hospital.

Quinte Hastings Trail To Open Saturday

After seven months of planning and development, the Quinte Hastings Recreational Trail becomes a reality this weekend when ceremonies at O'Hara's Mill will officially open the trail to the public.

The project was sponsored federally through the Local Initiatives Program and Raymond Perrault, parliamentary secretary to the Minister of Manpower and Immigration, will attend the ceremonies as guest speaker.

The opening will take place in the school house, located on the O'Hara's Mill Conservation Area, and will begin at 2 p.m., Saturday, July 8.

To give a real start to the trail, a group of hikers, camped 15 miles from the mill, will walk to the site of the ceremonies in time for the opening event.

These hikers will be led by Chris Benn of the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Master of ceremonies will be Fred Bemis, Industrial Commissioner for the city of Belleville.

The general public is invited.

UK Junior Farmers End Week's Visit Here

Two junior farmers from the British Isles visiting Ontario on an exchange program, have wound up one week each in Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

The two Quinte area visitors were among 45 junior farmers from the British Isles who came to Ontario in April for a three month stay. They are now on the final two weeks of their visit. The overseas party will tour on their own before returning home and most hope to make it to the west coast.

During their week stay the visitors attend agricultural and junior farm meetings and were called upon to talk on farming conditions in their home land.

John Rankin who spent last week in Prince Edward county is the first married exchange delegate. At 28, he has been married for seven years and has three children.

He admitted to be impressed at the vastness of Ontario and was surprised at the gravel country roads in contrast to the paved roadways in his homeland.

He lives on a 170-acre beef farm with his father where they run a 200 Hereford cow-calf operation.

Miss Davies who during her week at Foxboro attended a junior farmer meeting and a barnicle west was in Stormont county on Monday.

Plaza Sign Damaged Third Time

For the third time this year, vandals have broken the Belleville Plaza neon sign located on the south side of the mall.

Cost of replacing tubing and plastic faces for the individually lettered sign, damaged over the weekend, is $800.

In Janiikry, damage amounting to $140 when vandals smashed several letters and a similar incident in March required $150 to repair.

Sydney Smith, owner of Sydney Smith Signs which maintains the display, said the Toronto firm which rents the sign, E. L. Ruddy Ltd., is "at its wits end" over the problem.

Hydro Picketed

Members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, Local 1000, have formed a picket line in front of Ontario Hydro's Dundas St. East office after refusing to report for work this morning.

About 100 employees joined the walkout, staged at seven district offices throughout the province, including the local office in Toronto.

The Belleville centre normally retains a management staff of 70 but about 50 persons have been dispersed over the eastern Ontario region to man generating and transformer stations.

Bank Plans December Opening

TRENTON (Staff) — Bank of Montreal has announced it will lease new offices to be built at the corner of Dundas West and Albert Street here. They will be ready for occupancy by the end of December.

Manager John Gourlay of the bank's main branch in Trenton said today the new structure, to be built by Whitley - Robertson Investments Ltd. of Trenton will be of concrete construction with long, narrow windows.

The Saylor Building, occupied by Bill Shaw's Men's Wear, and Holmes Shoes, will be razed this summer to make way for the new structure. The new block will be one storey in height with a 60 foot frontage on Dundas St. West and 92 feet on the side-street facing the site of the proposed new town office-parking garage project.

Mr. Gourlay said the building will be back from both streets.

Also today Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce spokesmen indicated they expect their new main branch here, located on the site of Aziz's Specialty shop, will be ready by the spring of 1973.

Both banks earlier had considered participation in the convioamintan town office scheme promoted by Montrealer David K. Linden, a plan that was ultimately scrapped.

Each main branch bank is located now in old buildings along Trenton's main street, the Bank of Montreal at 41 Dundas West and the Bank of Commerce at 69 Dundas West.

Merrywood Open House On Sunday

Merrywood camp for crippled children will hold its annual open house this Sunday, July 9, from 2:30 p.m. to 5:30.

The camp, supported by the Ontario Society for Crippled Children through Easter Seal donations, will celebrate its 25th anniversary this year.

By the end of August, 288 boys and girls will have enjoyed two weeks of camp at Merrywood. Up to 72 handicapped children attend each two-week session.

Merrywood now has 22 permanent buildings, most of them gifts of service clubs in the eastern Ontario area.

For those attending the open house Sunday, Merrywood is located near Fort Elmsley, midway between Perth and Smiths Falls.

Already Approved

TRENTON (Staff) — Trenton and Suburban Planning Board Tuesday night approved final revisions to the new official plan for the town. Council is expected to give its approval July 17.

Council met with the board last night to iron out minor revisions to the draft plan.

New land use designations will be advertised within the next few days and one week will be allowed for citizens to submit objections. Once council approves, the document will go to provincial treasurer Darcy McKeough, who holds the municipal affairs portfolio for his signing.

Citizens Object To Proposal

TRENTON (Staff) — Council was called briefly Tuesday night for passage of a resolution to send petitions and letters of objection to the proposed town hall - parking garage project to the Ontario Municipal Board for consideration.

Eleven individual letters and three petitions were received by the town protesting plans to build the midtown development. Number of signatories to the petitions is not known — one petition is two pages long, another three and the last four.

How to stop crawling insects from crawling in on you this summer.

Not all the bugs that bug you in the summertime are airborne. Roaches don't fly. Nor do ants, spiders, waterbugs, fleas, crickets, earwigs or silverfish. And trying to stop them with a spray insecticide that's meant for killing flying insects is tough. Because those bug killers don't have the staying power that Crawl-Tox has.

The big difference in Crawl-Tox is an ingredient called Djazinon. It keeps working effectively week after week. Spray baseboards, drain pipes and steps and you'll stop most ground attacks before they even get started.

Unless you have a special ant problem, of course. If you do, the best defence is to attack with Tat Ant Traps.

Just place Tat Ant Traps wherever you see ants — indoors or out. Ants will take bait from the traps back to the colony — and in 3 to 5 days, the entire colony will be destroyed.

Crawl-Tox and Tat Ant Traps. Between them they can stop anything that crawls.

Gets to crawling bugs before they get to you.

Kills ants where they live.

City Plans Evaluation Of Staff

A former Peterborough city clerk Edward A. Outram now employed with Totten, Sims, Hubicki Associates, will do a job evaluation for the approximately 45 employees at Belleville city hall.

City council at its last meeting agreed with the CUPE local which represents city hall employees that such a study was advisable and timely.

Mr. Outram, formerly Peterborough's city clerk and chief administrative officer, retired two years ago and has been employed with the consulting firm in its offices throughout eastern Ontario.

Belleville city manager J. R. Reynolds said today that Mr. Outram would meet with the council committee and union representatives before commencing the job evaluation.

As It Was

Some Dominion Day (or Canada Day as some seem to be calling it) sights and reflections from the downtown area.

Front Street was quiet enough as we drove along around 4.30 p.m., except for a couple of policemen getting out of their car and heading for a coffee shop. Trouble? Maybe, maybe not. Farther along two more policemen were apparently in conversation with a youth — this was in that stretch across from the Victoria street intersection that often seems to produce . . . shall we say "incidents."

So it seemed a busy enough afternoon for the police. Meanwhile we had stopped to see if a supermarket were open when a pair of youngsters of around 10 or 11 years asked us for a dime, a nickel or something. We were getting into the car when they tried the same stunt on a boy of about their own age and he refused, despite their cajoling, saying he needed it himself. And more power to him! It is a sad sight, on this day of recreation and remembrance of what has gone into the making of this country — the sacrifices and hardship — to see a couple of kids trying to bum loose change.

Not far away four teenage girls sat on the sidewalk, their backs to the store walls. And up by the bus stop near the Four Corners another quartette — three youths and a girl — were similarly parked.

Maybe there is some kind of moral in all this — an encouragement to improve our way of life in the days ahead, to afford our young people the best possible recreation facilities and outlets and to encourage their use, and at the same time to discourage indolence and the notion that panhandling is the done thing; that something-for-nothing is the going philosophy. For our part, we suggested to the two boys that they might go out and do something for someone to earn the money.

Park or Housing?

A while back we talked about the area around Dussek Street, a relatively remote and perhaps little-known area of the city off Stanley street and north from Bleecker. There is a number of small industries in the Stanley-Dussek area, but what interested us most was the open ground there, with what seemed like a soccer pitch in one corner and a fringe of trees on a rise on the edge of the residential area beyond. In short, a green belt of sorts not far from the tracks.

Now it looks as if this forgotten area of town may have caught the attention of the planners. In the report of the proceedings of the Task Force A meeting of Queen Alexandra school, consultants Totten, Sims, Hubicki Associates Ltd. were reported as suggesting that a stretch of property south of Dussek, east of Stanley to Herchimer be zoned for medium high-density construction — townhouses and walkup apartments. Residents of the area however were of the opinion it would be better served by restricted industrial zoning, accompanied by a green belt on the south edge following a natural contour.

This sounds substantially like the area we had observed and we suggest that if any construction is contemplated in final plans some of this pleasant little area of potential parkland be preserved. In fact we wonder if it might not be better given over entirely to park development. As it is, probably not many Bellevillians know it is even there. Properly developed, it could become a pleasant oasis for evenings and weekends.

Throne Speech

Some folks, members of the media included, are at odds with a few of the names in the news from the South Pacific, where France has been conducting further nuclear tests. For instance in a picture of the Canadian protest vessel Greenpeace at anchor in Auckland, N.Z., the CBC had printed along the bottom of the screen, "Aukland," while in the case of Papeete, the port of Tahiti, the name should be pronounced not as it is spelled but as Pa-pai-ai-tai.

The 'New Math' and all That Educational Developments Around the World

By TOBY BURKE
In UNESCO Features

In a classroom in Quebec, nine-year-olds are noisily arranging colored blocks into groups while a teacher asks them to make up statements about the groups; they are learning logic, which is fundamental to the computers which will play a much more important role in their lives than in their parents'. This is new mathematics.

In another classroom, on the other side of the world, in Ravenna, Italy, 11 to 14-year-olds are looking for the first time at navigation charts and chatting to the teacher about them; in the course of the chat they learn a little about navigation and the difference between kilometres and nautical miles and work out for themselves a formula to discover how far a ship can travel without refuelling. This, too, is new mathematics.

Both examples come from a number of sample lessons reported in a new Unesco source book, "Teaching School Mathematics", by W. Servais and T. Varga. Aimed at people involved in curriculum planning and development, neither in expression nor approach does it set out to help parents puzzled by junior's homework, which asks him, for instance, to make a group containing the first consonant, George Bernard Shaw and a one-legged sailor. But it does throw a powerful light on the reasons for the new mathematics, the hopes it arouses, the ways to get it across and the difficulties to be overcome.

The authors, a Belgian and a Hungarian, survey the principles and theory of the new approaches to mathematics teaching. Contributions from Poland, Japan, United Kingdom, Italy, Italy, the USSR and Canada are used to show the differing ex-cet of curriculum reform throughout the world; specimen syllabuses are detailed and a chapter by an educational psychologist deals with the processes by which mathematical learning takes place. But the most important chapter for parent and uncommitted teacher is the introduction, which puts the case for reform.

Nobody could quarrel with the reformers' view that, while the science of mathematics is rapidly expanding, the teaching of it in schools is way behind, so that there is a clash between demand and accomplishment. What is more encouraging, and more debatable, is their conviction that most pupils, not just a gifted few, can reach a high level in mathematics if properly taught; the question is to decide what, and how, to teach.

Emphasis is laid in the book on teaching mathematics as a tool for use, by allowing children to find out for themselves (and this includes making mistakes) through tackling real problems. At the same time, the authors urge that children ought to enjoy mathematics and to be allowed to appreciate its beauty through solving puzzles. Another fundamental point of the book is that mathematics should be taught as a whole, so that weight is given to "unifying concepts" such as red, relation and function. By making up sets of items, children learn between six and 12 acquire a grasp of concepts which, it is argued, will be a powerful aid to clear thinking. Shaw, the cosmonaut, and the one-legged sailor are in a set — of human beings.)

One point is likely to find agreement, even among those who are not sure of the details of the new mathematics. The word "new" in the description, points out, is only a manner of speaking. Cuneiform (3,000) urged that although parrot-fashion learning might have been justified when there was a shortage of books, in the age of printing it should be replaced by learning from experience. The age of computers is hardly ahead of its time if a start is made now.

The French Dis-connection

NDP Axes Wafflers— But What of the Future?

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

The New Democratic Party has come through its most recent crisis of indigestion.

It has discarded the Waffle group, and that it has settled at least the most public, and probably the most severe, of the many internal attacks it has had to conquer over the years is partially since its inception.

Indications are it may suffer some long-term damage from this particular affliction. But at least the cancerous element would seem to have been removed. It should survive.

But with survival, just what is the NDP?

This is a question the party didn't ask itself publicly on this occasion, though it might well have.

But it must have been a question which a good many of its members asked themselves privately.

For the Waffle has been challenging at the roots. Its extreme advocacy of nationalism and of public ownership have been both blunt and basic.

And in this it has, unlike the party itself, been specific — both in what it wanted done and in the extremes to which it would go.

Logical questions for an NDPer to have asked himself when considering the Waffle situation would have been: Just what are we and what are they? Just what is the NDP? Does it stand for anything? Is it just an alternative to the Liberals? Is it only a medium through which power-loving labor leaders and power-dreaming academics see some avenue to power? Is it really only a forum in which those bred to dissent can dissent? Or is it a party? And if it is what does it stand for and what should it stand for?

Above all, what does the NDP stand for that the other parties don't stand for?

The NDP will survive but it might well have a much healthier future if it answered these questions.

It also might make things easier for the public.

For I believe it is warranted to say that the detached public today really doesn't know just what the NDP really is.

The NDP says it is for the people. But what party isn't?

Here in Ontario it says it has been more able and progressive than the Liberals. But what might the Liberals have been without this third party in our essentially two-party system?

A lot of the time it gives the impression it hungers for power for the one reason that it believes it can do things better than anyone else.

A failure of the Waffle could be that it didn't force the party into thinking, and saying, what some of these things would be.

Thurlow Farm Sludge Question

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

In reply to the letter in last Tuesday's Intelligencer re sewage sludge being spread on Mr. Merle Robinson's farm in Thurlow,

In the Environmental Control Act, the matter of farm fertilizers is not in question. Animal refuse does not contain infectious hepatitis virus as it is present in human excreta which is contained in the sludge in question.

The signers of the petition recognize the need for disposing of this material, but the disregard for the location near Harmony School is inconsiderate. Surely an isolated spot could be found for this gentleman's "business".

Mr. Robinson, according to a letter received by the petitioners, has been given guidelines to follow which includes "that within a specified time limit the digested sludge will be removed or disced into the soil". This has not been done.

The Township of Thurlow passed a bylaw prohibiting any dumping of sludge in the Township and this is being totally disregarded.

We hope this clarifies some points for the public.

France and the Bomb

By JOHN HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The nuclear threat still hangs over us, in spite of the recent emphasis of the Stockholm conference on pollution dangers and the Nixon-Brezhnev agreement to limit new nuclear missiles.

The latest sign is the French determination to go ahead with their new series of nuclear tests in French Oceania. This is a small cluster of islands, including the fabled Tahiti, still under French rule, which the late president de Gaulle and now—President Pompidou, uses for such tests.

Already a host of Pacific-rim countries from Peru in South America to Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines, have asked the French to call off the tests. But Paris has been adamant.

The immediate result for France will be a breakdown in some agreements and some export markets, chiefly in the Third World, which she has developed during the last decade.

But for the world at large, it could push the nuclear powers who have not signed the nuclear test ban, France and Communist China, into a round of incessant testing.

The Communist Chinese certainly have the nuclear bomb. They have conducted about half a dozen nuclear tests in their remote Sinkiang laboratory sites since 1964. Up to now, it is believed the Chinese have not yet developed the vehicle which could launch it to an inter-continental target — like the United States or the Soviet Union.

And there is the possibility, though vehemently denied officially, that Israel already has a small nuclear device or the package of skills to explode one when it is ready.

The rumors of small tactical nuclear weapons of Soviet manufacture in Egyptian hands have been, mercifully, wrong.

Nevertheless, the spectre of tactical nuclear weapons coming into action during a fourth Arab-Israeli war in the future, is a prospect which military analysts take seriously.

For the moment, it is France we are watching—and wondering why de Gaulle's heirs wish to follow a costly nuclear program which may have cost the French as much as $4 billion to date.

Economically, the French can't afford it. The country is starving for urban renewals Much is of French housing is the worst in Europe this side of the Iron Curtain.

But the French are trapped with their nuclear program, since without it, the expensive force de frappe of the late General de Gaulle, giving France an independent deterrent, would be meaningless.

Meanwhile, non-nuclear powers, but with the basic components to become one, like Canada, are trying to develop nuclear power for commercial uses. Canadian nuclear-powered reactors, powered by Canadian-made heavy water, are becoming more famous in the world.

This week, the president of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., is in Britain trying to sell the Canadian nuclear plant package to the atomic energy authority of that country.

One country why post-de Gaullist France could not divert its now substantial nuclear know-how to peaceful purposes.

After all, who wants to fight the French?

Elected or Citizen Boards

The Toronto Star

Is it possible for aldermen to sit around giving themselves good advice? Some aldermen apparently answer that question with a resounding yes.

Percy McHugh, Toronto city treasurer, has introduced an amendment to the Planning Act that would allow municipal councils to pack planning boards with elected officials.

This is a destructive proposal.

Planning boards give advice to municipal councils about their official plans. What this comes down to in practice is saying what is the best way for buildings and high-rise apartments ought to go.

One of the chief reasons for having a planning board at all is the backup of experienced private citizens who are not subject to the pressures and pressures as municipal councillors can advise councils about new real estate developments. Under the present system, councils can appoint some aldermen to planning boards but the majority of members must always be citizens. Now Mr. McKeough wants to change the rules so that councils can fill planning boards up with aldermen.

This could turn planning in Ontario into a cozy little world of self-interest. Aldermen sit in committee rooms scratching each others' backs while the private citizen is left standing out in the hall.

In his recent decision on Metro Centre, Ontario Municipal Board chairman J. A. Kennedy had some harsh words to say about what can happen when politicians begin to dominate planning boards.

The OMB went back to the original specifications for Metro Centre that had been drawn up by the city's professional planners. Mr. Kennedy said: "In this connection, one observes that nearly every motion in planning history with respect to the advice of the planning staff was by the same alderman sitting as a member of the planning board. . .One is left to wonder how a member of council decides in planning board what advice he will give himself in council."

Such advisory board will become farcical if they are dominated by the very politicians they are supposed to advise. Mr. McKeough should withdraw his proposal immediately, and ensure that planning boards continue to have citizen majorities.

Ability Before 'Grass-Roots'

Pickersgill's Analysis of Bureaucracy and Government

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

In a recent column, reference was made to a lecture by an experienced bureaucrat-politician, J. W. Pickersgill. He outlined his views on the relationship between the elected representatives and those in high administrative positions in the public service.

Mr. Pickersgill does not hold with the view that a hard and fast line can, or should, be drawn about the participation of bureaucrats in the making of government policy. The commonly accepted theory is that the politicians are charged with making the policy and the bureaucrats with carrying out that policy without question.

In real life, it doesn't work that way. Participation of the bureaucrats in policy-making has been prevalent throughout the 35 years of Mr. Pickersgill's connection with the Ottawa scene.

He believes top public servants who are merely automatons are not likely to be very good administrators. Unless the public servant understands the policy he is administering, he cannot do an effective job.

If he does understand it thoroughly, he is almost certain to find imperfections in the policy and improvements which can and should be made. If he reports his views to his particular cabinet minister, then he is seeking either to make new policy or change the existing line laid down by the government.

Another of Mr. Pickersgill's conclusions is that public servants should be non-partisan but should not attempt to be neutral as between the government and the opposition of the day. He feels they owe loyal service to the government in office, or regardless of whether they agree with that government's policies.

"Governments are the only office by the electors, and public servants have no right to sabotage or even to obstruct the decision of the voters," Mr. Pickersgill contends.

This recalls the days following the 1957 and 1958 general elections and the surprise victories of the Diefenbaker government. Many Conservatives here then, now say they made a mistake in not replacing many of the top public servants. They believe a number of these were not so closely tied to, and associated with, the long succession of Liberal governments, they failed to perform adequately for the new Conservative administration. Indeed, in some cases, they believe some did try to sabotage and obstruct the fledgling and inexperienced Diefenbaker cabinet.

Widespread firings or demotions of public servants by succeeding governments of opposing hue, are certainly not unknown, particularly in our provincial political sphere. One can recall what happened when a Liberal government took over from the New Democrats in Saskatchewan and, more recently, when a New Democratic government regained control of that province.

To return to Mr. Pickersgill, he makes one other interesting point having to do with the so-called grass-roots involvement in decision making of modern, and in more modern terms, Mr. Trudeau's participatory democracy. When Mr. Pickersgill was still a politician, he made the observation that the place for grass-roots was in the ground, and nobody had found a substitute for brains and knowledge.

"Policies are merely means to ends, and the means of achieving the ends the public wants in a democratic independent society are rarely simple. Policies must be based upon experience, study and reflection."

Youth Group Walkers Support Ottawa Bills

For a change, there is to be a demonstration in Ottawa in support of the federal Government and young people from the Quinte area have a chance to get into the action.

Toc Alpha, a youth group based in Toronto, is planning for five of their members to walk from Toronto to Ottawa (275 miles) carrying a brief in support of the restrictions placed on alcohol and tobacco advertising in Canadian media.

Toc Alpha is concerned with the use and abuse of both of these commodities and is an off-shoot of earlier temperance groups.

To augment the five walking the entire distance, Toc Alpha has set out 11 stretches of 25 miles between Toronto and Ottawa and is asking area residents to walk, drawing attention to the issue, and to show the government that more restrictions are needed.

The group of five will begin their walk on Aug. 19 and expect to be in Ottawa in 10 days.

Inspectors Concerned With Wrecked Cars

Minnesota at Boston N

Rusting automobiles may be considered eyesores by environmentalists, but safety officials are more likely to refer to them as "deathtraps".

Most youngsters can't resist the temptation to play driver in the front seat of an old flivver ending its days under the hot sun.

But because they have been abandoned and sit exposed to the weather, these old family autos soon become dangerous. Unlike refrigerators, which become airless chambers for a suffocating child, the incidents of serious injury in old abandoned jalopies deal most often with fire.

Take the tinder dry interiors of seats and carpeting, add leaking oil and remnants of fuel, and old cars can and do become infernos.

Safety inspectors Paul Stephenson and Reg Christopher of the Belleville Fire Department have issued a joint warning to parents, drawing their attention to the summer holidays.

"With the arrival of warm weather and vacation days, when children are out of doors and at play much of the time, abandoned cars become attractive to children seeking fun.

"To help avert tragedy, teachers and parents can warn children of the hazards of playing in and around abandoned cars. The fire department urges all people owning such vehicles to arrange for the removal of these unsightly hazards."

The following is one account of tragedy.

"Two sisters, aged three and nine, were playing with matches in an abandoned car when the cotton dress of the younger girl accidentally caught fire. Her sister ripped off the flaming garment, but burns had already covered most of the little girl's body. She died a week later."

While this story comes from outside of Belleville, and Inspector Christopher admit "We haven't had any such tragedy here," both inspectors agree that to be "forewarned is to be forearmed".

Pea Crop Harvesting Is Crucial

Green peas have made their seasonal appearance on the Belleville farmers' market, and pea canning this week got underway in Prince Edward county.

But three of the county canners have varied predictions as to the prospects of the season's crop.

Baxter Canning Company at Bloomfield commenced harvesting and canning peas on Monday but were rained out in the afternoon.

Larry Matheson, Prince Edward department of agriculture and food representative said that with the wet weather there could be a problem getting into some of the fields. Continued rain could also result in rotting of the roots and under peas.

There are approximately 4,000 acres of peas in the county this year with an estimated value of $400,000. Last year's blow-average crop was worth $97,000.

County Happy With Space

The Provincial ministry of government services is running out of office space at the Hastings county administration building and court house.

As a result, it wants to know if the county has any immediate plans for extending the building, constructing a new one or whether it is making additional space available to the province.

Council, however, feels that the present administration building erected about 12 years ago will be sufficient for the county's purposes for some years.

Therefore it has suggested to the province that if further accommodation for administration of justice purposes is required, it would have to be found at another location.

Quebec Fights Crime

Police Powers To Be Wider

QUEBEC (CP) — Justice Minister Jerome Choquette declared war on organized crime in Quebec Tuesday, introducing legislation in the national assembly which will give the Quebec Police Commission new and increased powers of investigation, search and seizure.

Under the proposed legislation the police commission will be allowed to:

Search on its own warrant any establishment believed connected with organized crime without going through the normal, time-consuming process of obtaining a search warrant from the courts;

—Employ "any measure necessary to carry out the required search";

Examine and seize any books or other documents by its own warrant;

—Hear private testimony at an impending inquiry commission into organized crime.

—Accept written testimony from persons residing outside the province who might fear returning to Quebec if their lives are endangered.

—Hear private testimony at an impending inquiry commission into organized crime.

The Justice minister said he is confident the new powers will make the planned crime commission's inquiry "much easier and more effective."

"We hope to get the hearings under way sometime this fall," he said.

In Ottawa, Justice Minister Otto Lang said he did not want to make any superficial comment on the legislation. His officials would communicate with Quebec about the bill and he would reserve comment until then.

A news report of the legislation was "the first I've heard about it," he said.

Mr. Choquette has already established a 90-man committee of lawyers and policemen to collect as much information on organized crime as possible before the inquiry beings.

He said "no comment" when asked by reporters what progress the committee had made so far.

Being Retired

OTTAWA (CP) — John O. Weldon, 64, is not being reappointed to the body that reviews taxation decisions and he says the decision by the Liberal government is political.

He said in an interview that he accepted appointment to the Tax Appeal Board in 1962, when the Diefenbaker Conservative government was in power, with the ideal hat he would get a reappointment after his first 10-year term expired.

Air Canada Cancels Concorde Options

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada announced Tuesday it has decided to cancel the four delivery positions it holds for the Anglo-French Concorde supersonic jetliner.

Yves Pratte, board chairman, said in a statement the decision followed an extensive marketing survey in Canada by the airline on the potential for a medium-priced supersonic travel.

"Results of the study, coupled with an exhaustive operational evaluation of the aircraft, indicate the Concorde at the moment is not suitable for the national carrier's type of operation."

Air Canada has been quoted a price of between $55 million and $60 million including the cost of spare parts for each of the jetliners.

Mr. Pratte said Air Canada could not see a Canadian market large enough to allow the airline to make adequate use of the Concorde on its over-water routes.

There were "very few routes, if any, in the Air Canada system that could generate sufficient traffic volume to support a premium-priced supersonic service."

Air Canada paid $875,000 to reserve four delivery positions for the Concorde in December, 1966. The funds the airline has on deposit with the manufacturers are fully refundable, Mr. Pratte said.

LONDON (CP) — Canadians are frugal in their air transport tastes and that is they the Anglo-French supersonic Concorde won't be flying on Canadian routes, says Keith Granville, chairman of the British Overseas Airways Corp.

Prairies Prepared For Worm Invasion

EDMONTON (CP) — The worm watch has paid off and the Prairies, caught napping last year, are awake for an outbreak of Bertha Army worms in the repeseed crop this year.

Last year, the voracious caterpillars damaged a million acres of rapeseed in Saskatchewan and 200,000 acres in Alberta. Damage in Manitoba was small.

The worm watch started last fall with reports of worm pupae in the soil, indicating another infestation this year under the right conditions.

Now, particularly in Alberta, army worm moths are laying eggs on rape plant leaves.

The next two or three weeks will be critical as chemical warfare against the pest nas re-fected during the egg stage—it has to catch the emerging worms. They were well advanced before the outbreak was identified.

Joe Gurba, head of Alberta's pest control branch, said Tuesday this year's watch was responsible for the early infestation of red turnip beetle in the rapeseed during its early stages.

"Even then we had a problem because the only registered insecticide for the beetle was DDT and supplies now are nonexistent in Alberta."

Mr. Gurba said a crash program showed Gutbior, a chemical registered for use against other rapeseed pests—the flea beetle and the diamondback moth—was effective against the turnip beetle.

"We obtained registration from Ottawa for its use within two days and were able to deal effectively with the problem which hit the parkland areas of central Alberta."

The British airline has ordered five Concordes for delivery in 1976 and these will be placed on routes to the United States, Japan, Australia and South Africa, Granville said at a Canada Club dinner Tuesday.

"It is a great disappointment that Canada is not included in the present plan," he added. "The tendency on the routes between our two countries is for a higher percentage of economy-class passengers than on the other routes to which we have allocated Concorde.

STOL Future Cloudy

OTTAWA (CP) — The outlook for the short take-off and landing aircraft is still cloudy.

While transport department officials are confident the STOL demonstration project linking Ottawa and Montreal will get underway next summer, Canadian air carriers remain unconvinced that there is a need for STOL service in Canada.

The market prospects for a Canadian-built STOL passenger-plane are also uncertain though industry department officials hope it will revive the faltering Canadian aircraft industry.

The government has already moved to carry out some of the recommendations in a 1970 Science Council of Canada report which said the STOL project should be regarded as a major national program.

The Ottawa-Montreal demonstration is designed to show whether aircraft passengers want to travel to STOL. The aircraft planned for the project is the de Havilland Twin-Otter, a 16-seat plane.

Federal funds are also being channelled into development of the de Havilland DHC-7, a 40-seat aircraft regarded as the leading Canadian STOL candidate for a large scale inter-city service.

THE HASTINGS COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

AUDITOR'S REPORT

TO THE SUPPORTERS OF
THE HASTINGS COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

We have examined the Revenue Fund and Capital Fund Balance Sheets of The Hastings County Board of Education as at December 31, 1971 and the Revenue Fund Statement of Revenue and Expenditure and Statement of Source and Application of Capital Funds for the year then ended. Our examination included a general review of the accounting procedures and such tests of accounting records and other supporting evidence as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Board as at December 31, 1971 and the results of its operations and the source and application of its capital funds for the year then ended, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted for Ontario School Boards applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Venetian lace enhanced the bodice front and back, as well as the high neckline and hemline. The long sleeves had Venetian lace cuffs. A wedding band circlette which was trimmed with matching lace fell to a long silk illusion veil which was trimmed with soft lace. She carried a shower bouquet of yellow roses, apricot shaded carnations and baby's breath.

Matron of honor Mrs. Suzanne Bradshaw, was attired in an apricot floor length gown of imported sheer over taffeta. She carried a posey bouquet of Woburn Abbey roses, daisy mums, bachelor buttons, miniature carnations and baby's breath and ivy.

Bridesmaids, Mrs. Joanne Lambert and Miss Sherry Grills, cousin of the bride were dressed in similar attire to the matron of honor. Club Activities

WHITE CANE CLUB

The final business meeting of the Quinte White Cane Club before the summer recess was held at the Recreation Centre.

First vice-president Pat Baverstock welcomed the members and friends and Mrs. Maude Rollins played the piano accompaniment for the opening songs.

One minute's silence was observed in memory of Mrs. Harvey St. Onge of Trenton, a Club member who had passed away on June 25. A passage of Scripture and an appropriate poem was read. The sympathy of the Club had previously been extended to the family.

A "thank-you" note was read from Sarah O'Shea, who had recently returned home from the hospital.

Following the business meeting, the election of officers took place. The new executive is as follows: president, Pat Baverstock; 1st vice-president, Floyd Reid; 2nd vice-president, Wilma Morris; secretary, Helen Wardhaugh; treasurer, Clarence Morris.

Conveners of the various committees include: Wilma Morris — transportation, Clarence Morris — recreation: Maude Rolling — the benevolent fund and Gladys Seldon, press reporter.

Final plans were made for the annual picnic to be held at the Recreation Centre on July 8. A lively sing-song was enjoyed before the Kinettes served lunch.

At the close of the evening three members of the Kinette Club presented gifts to the bowlers. Wilma Morris and Helen Wardhaugh received attractive identification bracelets, with the recipient's name and the year on one side of the disc and a figure of a bowler in blue enamel on the reverse side. Key chains with the discs, similar to those of the women, were presented to Aurel Calaise, Earl Chapman, Harvey Bailey, Harper McElrath, Clarence Morris, Floyd Reid, Francis Toppin, Tom Wardhaugh, Harold Yateman, Ray Payne and Harvey St. Onge.

On behalf of the bowlers, Helen Wardhaugh thanked the Kinettes for the lovely gifts and for their untiring assistance in keeping scores at the Saturday afternoon bowling games.

Wilma Morris expressed the appreciation of the Club members for the lunches provided during the year. Members are also most grateful to the Lion's Club, who so faithfully provide transportation to and from the meetings.

Church Archives Searched

MADOC — Mrs. Cecil Blackburn and Miss Alma Shoreroft returned to Madoc after a few days in Toronto at the United Church Archives spent searching out data pertaining to all the churches in Madoc Township.

Allen Ketcheson and Eric Sandford provided rides to and from Toronto for them. The two amateur historians are hoping that anyone having information about their subject will get in touch with them.

In her report Mrs. Blackburn noted the aspects of good reporting and that it was essential to have all the details, as much of the history sent in is very scanty and leaves much to conjecture. Facts are facts, but if only half there they are not nearly so interesting to read.

Couple Wed 40 Years

A setting of red and white roses complemented the table which displayed a beautiful anniversary cake for the reception held for Dorothy and Peter Jarvis of Belleville, formerly of Peterborough and Campbellford on the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary, June 27, 1972.

The couple received many gifts, also many cards of congratulations. A gift which will be treasured for many years to come was a book composed by their daughter Arlene, containing all the memorable events of their life from the time of their marriage.

All the family was present for the occasion. Those attending included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellis, Susan, Kurt and Tammy from Peterborough, and Angela from Campbellford and Angela from Campbellford and Mr. and Mrs. Diebert Whiteman, Peter and Melanie, of Campbellford, at whose home the reception was held on Sunday, June 25, 1972.

QUICK RIDES

VANCOUVER (CP) — A dial-a-bus service provided for senior citizens by two Vancouver young people is proving a great success. The two, Ron Sandlin and Gail Belice, received an Opportunities for Youth grant to finance the venture. Senior citizens can call a number and a van will come by to pick them up on swings through the city.

Free Recipes Available At Ont. Brewers Retail

What do Beer Souffle, Steak Stroganoff, Syllabub, Cheesy Crab Soup, Beer Jelly and Lobster Amandine have in common? One might assume their common denominator was the gourmet chapter in some very expensive cookbook that today's homemaker covets, but never buys.

In actual fact all these recipes and more are available free of charge to anyone who walks in to one of the 386 Brewers Retail Stores in Ontario. A series of six colorful, explicit recipe folders has been produced by Joan Fielden for Brewers Retail Stores, with the first recipe booklet in the series — Beer and Fish — available now.

It is anticipated that today's innovative, and inquisitive home cooks will welcome these new ideas and eagerly collect the series, which consists of Beer and Fish, Beer and Vegetables, Beer and Dessert, Beer and Eggs, Beer and Cheese and, finally, Beer and Meat. Each booklet will debut at monthly intervals from now until the late Fall.

Some of the recipes are old favorites with the added zest of beer; others offer a challenge to the homemaker to produce a new dish that will surprise and delight her family and friends.

Any cook worth her salt knows that a little pinch of this and a dash of that adds great flair and individuality to a recipe. These recipes show how beer provides the inexpensive ingredient to make every woman's cooking her own "specialty".

These recipes are not restricted to women only. More and more men are attending gourmet cooking classes and experimenting at home, serving the dishes with pride to friends. This series of recipes will also prove attractive to this growing rank of male home chefs, but unfortunately it offers no guarantee that they will wash the dishes after demonstrating their culinary prowess!

Doris Receives Queries On Wedding Etiquette

By DORIS CLARK

Round about May and June the letters pour in asking questions about wedding etiquette. When I think the answers might help more people than the one who asks, I publish them.

But there are others who can help — your minister or priest, for example, who has doubtless officiated at many and assorted kinds of nuptials. There are brides' counsellors happy to clear up puzzling questions.

When the chips are down, the one important rule is that the proper etiquette is the behavior which shows consideration of guests. When in doubt break with tradition in favor of friendliness.

Dear Doris: I'm 14 and very mature (mentally) because my mother left when I was nine and we have no electricity. I wash and iron all my clothes by hand.

Now, I just go through life as if it just eases by. I join groups but it doesn't seem to help. I hate to admit it but I'm always baking and sewing. I really want my father to adopt or take care of a Negro or any other baby for the summer around the age of five or six. There is no one around our block keen to baby sit for.

I've sat kids before (for days) and I love it. I'm very bored and lonely. My father loves me but he's very busy.

Can you please tell me could we rent some little tyke that needs a home for the summer? — Just Jo.

Dear Jo: Honey, what you have got to learn to do is play. The groups seem meaningless to you because you have tackled serious responsibility at a young age — very young. Next time you join a group, learn to laugh with them, play their games and

IT can if the disappointment is something apart from love. A career setback, say, may not seem so overwhelming if the person has someone to love. A girl, for instance, might have lost out on a promising opportunity. If she has her love, she can, perhaps accept her disappointment because she will then be thinking of how she can please the one she loves, rather than dwelling on the impact of the disappointment upon herself.

cal help from the Canadian Association For Children With Learning Disabilities, 80 Eglinton Avenue East, Toronto, Ontario.

The leaflets are on their way.

(Doris receives 10,000 letters a year, from readers. Please remember to supply the stamp for your reply if you do what they think is fun.

It's highly unlikely that there is a stray child of five or six who needs a summer's worth of adopting; but you could put a little notice up in your nearby store or church, offering some baby sitting.

Why be ashamed of the baking and sewing? This is what can draw other girls to you — and boys too. How about putting on a very simple party with some of those goodies you can bake?)

Dear Doris: Please send me all three of those most interesting subjects you mentioned: Pre-wedding Parties, Facing Forty (me), Don't Be Shy (for my younger girl).

Here is a new problem for you. My daughter has trouble with spelling and reading; forgets it so quickly. For five years I have struggled and do not know whom to turn to. I do not like to ask other people for help as I always thought our personal life was personal. — Worried Sick.

Dear Worried Sick: Are you expecting perfection? Many children have trouble learning and remembering, often just a matter of never having learned to concentrate.

You need knowledge about your child's level of ability to learn, and should be in touch with her teacher. Keep friendly relations between home and school.

If she really is suffering disability, you can get practi-

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Does love soften disappointment?

Can parents and teeners communicate?

THEY always have; only parents sometimes don't realize how clearly they are "coming across" to the teenagers. James DiGiacomo and Edward Wakin, in "We Were Never Their Age" (Holt, Rinehart and Winston), tell parents not to be shocked when they hear what teenagers ascribe to them ("Where did he or she ever get that idea? I never said that in my life."). They never said it, but teenagers get the message" in non verbal ways.

Is it best to ignore annoyances?

NO ONE can, really; nor is it necessary to ignore all the little annoyances that can get under a person's skin. Indeed the little annoyances can make it easier for someone to lose his cool because he tries to ignore them. Often a man will snort off against some pesky nuisance, and then get twice as mad because he mistakenly thinks it was foolish of him to let such a minor thing anger him in the first place.

Women's Institutes

SPRINGBROOK WI

The June meeting of the Springbrook Women's Institute was held with 20 members in attendance at the home of Mrs. Clarence McKeown, with Mrs. Gerald Burkitt and Mrs. Dickie as co-hostesses.

Mrs. Williams opened the meeting with a poem on thankfulness.

Mrs. Williams then thanked the lunch committee and the hostess for opening her home. Mrs. Burrow read the minutes of the May meeting and a short time of business followed.

Birthday wishes were then extended to Mrs. Clayton Burkitt and Mrs. Annie Bateman. The collection of pennies was then taken for the pennies for friendship fund.

A short time of lively singing was then enjoyed.

The resolutions convener, Mrs. E. Heath and Mrs. Arthur Burkitt then presented the program. Mrs. Heath gave an interesting reading on the topic 'What good is a resolution' explaining some of the benefits that had been accomplished by former resolutions.

A humorous poem was read by Mrs. Arthur Burkitt. Mrs. Bernice McKeown read a poem explaining why one farm boy left the farm. Another reading was given by Mrs. Burkitt.

The members were then divided into groups for a pie contest conducted by Mrs. Burkitt. Another contest conducted by Mrs. Myrtle Cassidy had a novelty prize. The lucky winner, Mrs. Grace Brown received two real looking little mice.

A time of thankfulness followed, with Mrs. George Williams and Mrs. Gerald Burkitt each giving an incident for which they had cause to be thankful.

Friendship cards were signed to be sent to Mrs. Jennie Meiklejohn and Mrs. Florence McKeown, who are residents in the Campbellford Nursing Home.

Lunch was then served and a social time followed.

Hemmed Out

MONTREAL (CP) — Hugh Purdy, adult education director for the Protestant school board of Greater Montreal, says men are not allowed to take part in the board's sewing classes. "It's the try-ons," he explained. "The women wouldn't be able to try on the clothes they're making if there were men in the class." He says the matter is being studied.

CATHERINE FERN 'SPINELLI, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Spinelli, Belleville, received her diploma in Secretarial Science from Ryerson Polytechnical Institute, Toronto. Miss Spinelli has accepted a teaching position at Fellows High School in Pembroke.

Ann Landers

Handwriting May Not Reveal Real Personality

Dear Ann Landers: I've been writing to a young man who is stationed in Germany. I have never met him but he is a friend of my cousin who is also stationed there. According to my cousin, this fellow is tops. We have been corresponding for five months and he sounds like my kind of man. We have exchanged photography and small gifts.

My aunt came to visit last week and my mom mentioned my "mail-order romance." Auntie asked if she could see a sample of my friend's handwriting because, according to her, handwriting can tell more about a person than months of face-to-face conversation. "A person can fool you by being a good actor, but his handwriting tells the real story," she announced with a tone of finality that has always made me dislike her.

I reluctantly showed Auntie three paragraphs of a recent letter. She bellowed:

"Drop him. The way he dots his i's shows he is impatient. The style of his m indicates he is caustic and sharp-tongued. He does not close his o's at the top, which means he is talkative, shallow, and probably a bore.

I was crestfallen and annoyed. Is there anything to what she says? I am very upset. — Need To Know In Jacksonville

Dear Jack: Getting analysis is more of a parlor game (and a business) than a science. It is not possible to analyze a person's personality or character by examining his handwriting. I have made this statement before and the results have been incredible. Thousands of letters from indignant handwriting "experts" poured in. Nearly every one typewritten!

Dear Ann Landers: I see by your new picture that there is something shiny on your left shoulder that looks like a hearing aid receiver. You've been frank enough to tell your readers that you can't read without glasses, but your lords are your own. Now, how about your hearing? Is that an aid or not? — Nosey Parkerish

Dear Nos: My hearing is still pretty good. So far I can hear just about everything I want to.

That "shiny thing" is a gold pin, the centre of which is the vice-presidential seal — a gift from Senator Hubert H. Humphrey on my 50th birthday.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I work in the same building and have lunch together nearly every day in the building's cafeteria.

For several weeks now a certain secretary manages to be right behind my husband and she is full of small talk. She leans on him, suggests certain dishes, discourages others and has entirely too much to say.

I asked my husband who she is and he says he doesn't know her name or where she works. I believe him but she still makes me uneasy. I feel like a hypocrite being pleasant to this annoying broad. She really spoils my appetite. Should I stop being sweet and two-faced, and tell her off? — Irked

Dear Irked: The ideal solution would be to find another place to eat. If this is not convenient make up your mind to keep smiling or you might create a problem where none exists.

Soccer Star Thinks Hull Sold Himself Short For Million

TORONTO (CP) — Pele, world soccer star from Brazil, said here Tuesday that Bobby Hull, who jumped from the National Hockey League to a week ago to the World Hockey Association, "made the biggest mistake of his career" when he signed with Winnipeg Jets for $1.75 million.

Of the former Chicago Black Hawks' star, Pele said: "Hull, like myself, is one of the greatest athletes in the world. I know he got $1 million from the WHA and what ever else you say, it's a lot good, then the money is not enough.

"I don't have a manager," Pele added. "I make my own deals and if I had been Mr. Hull I would have asked for twice the amount."

Pele, in Toronto to play with Santos of Brazil Wednesday night in an exhibition game against Toronto Metros of the North American Soccer League, declined to say how much he earns.

"Sure, I turned down a 13-million offer from Inter-Milan and Milan — but money isn't everything," Pele said.

"I hate discussing money. Everywhere I go people want to know how much I earn. I'm more interested in promoting soccer."

Trevino Fights for 70 At Narrow Cherry Hill

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Defending champion Lee Trevino, struggling through with a one-under-par 70, labelled Cherry Hill's rolling, narrow and well-bunkered fairway a severe test for this year's Canadian open golf championship.

The El Paso, Tex., pro toured the 6,750-yard, layout Tuesday and declared it in championship form, particularly holes seven, eight and nine—the ones on which this year's No. 2 money winner of the Professional Golfers' Association tour went over-par.

Four birdies enabled the 33-year-old Trevino to shoot his one-under-par round in preparation for Thursday's start of the 72-hold quest for the $30,000 first prize in the $150,000 tourney.

"Anybody who can finish any of those holes under par has a shot at the championship," said Trevino, winner of more than $200,000 last year and $125,072 dollars so far in 1972.

South African Gary Player was out at the crack of dawn for his initial try at the new Cherry Hill layout and s hot at the enormous 465-yard par-four seventh hole that is expected to create a lot of problems for the 156 pros and amateurs Thursday and Friday.

The low 60 and ties after 36 holes survive for the championship Saturday and Sunday.

CBC-TV's live coverage of the tournament runs Saturday from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. EDT and Sunday from 3 p.m. to conclusion.

Arnold Palmer, golf's first millionaire, was to fly his own plane in today, giving the Canadian Open an entry list that includes three of golfdom's big four.

LEE TREVINO

Only Jack Nicklaus, leading money winner on the tour this year with $188,051, is passing up this week's outing. He's resting for the British Open next week.

Player, meanwhile, is considered the biggest threat to dethrone Trevino, his accuracy on the long, lush fairways figuring to give the touring South African an edge.

The narrow, tree-lined and often dangerously-trapped fairways are considered to be the biggest test for today's pro golfers and Cherry Hill's prevailing winds from the south make reveral of the holes play longer than their actual yardage

Knudson, who has been having difficulty getting untracked this season, holds the Cherry Hill club course record, 65, set at the Ontario Open in 1960

Winnipeg's Wall Honemoui appears to be straightening his game out. He finished 18th at Cleveland last weekend and included in his rounds a hole-in-one on the third day.

Only two amateurs, veteran Nick Weslock of Burlington, Ont. and Lee Lowrey from nearby St. Catharines, qualified for the Open.

Since 1914, when Karl Keffer of the Royal Ottawa club won at Toronto golf club, Canadians have fared badly in their own national championship.

Only Pat Fletcher of Scarboro, with a 280 at the Point Grey Golf and Country Club in Vancouver in 1954, has broken foreign domination of the Canadian Open in nearly 60 years.

Wonder Girls Pack Them In

LONDON (Reuter) — Fifteen thousand spectators squeezed into Wimbledon's centre court today for the women's singles tennis semi-final meeting between defending champion Evonne Goolagong, 20, of Australia and 17-year-old American wonder girl Chris Evert.

The first meeting between the two superstars of the younger generation is a natural crowd-puller and would fill a stadium many times bigger than the Wimbledon arena.

The other semi-final today brought together two American veterans of the international circuits, Rosemary Casals and three-times Wimbledon champion Billie Jean King.

Mrs. King, 28, was the obvious favorite to advance to the final, as she has beaten 23-year-old Miss Casals 16 times in the last two years without once losing. One of her wins was in the final of the U.S. Open last September.

The outcome of the clash between the defending champion and Miss Evert is far less predictable.

A year ago, with nothing to lose, Miss Goolagong became the darling of the centre court, playing fluent, sparkling and happy-go-lucky tennis to urge past the more favored players and take the title.

Now as champion and top seed, she is playing below the form of a world beater, often appearing to lack tactical skill and making a higher proportion of errors even when not under pressure.

But to her credit she has pulled out the big shots when they mattered most to survive five rounds.

Miss Evert has come through her first Wimbledon with icy-cool efficiency to reach the semi-final stage.

The slim American blonde ra-

CHRIS EVERT

ces on precision driving from the baseline while Miss Goolagong has natural flair, athleticism and a wide repertoire of strokes. Miss Evert plays with intense concentration whereas Miss Goolagong is prone to inexplicable mental lapses which her 62-year-old coach, Vic Edwards, calls "walkabouts."

The men's singles semi-finals will be decided Thursday with top-seeded Stan Smith of the United States lined up against Czechoslovak Jan Kodes the man he beat in four sets in the final of the U.S. Open last September; and second favorite Ilie Nastase of Romania paired against Spanish left hander Manuel Orantes.

The quartet came through in Tuesday's one-sided quarter-finals. All four matches were decided in straight sets. It is more than 20 years since that last happened at Wimbledon. Smith is the only one to have played in the semi-finals before having reached the final here a year ago.

Centre Attraction

Australia's Evonne Goolagong is shown in action Monday at Wimbledon in quarterfinal women's singles match against Francoise Durr of France. Miss Goolagong won the match, 8-6, 7-5, thus moving into the semifinals against Chris Evert.

Army Coaches Marlies

TORONTO (CP) — George Armstrong, longtime captain and right winger with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, has been appointed coach of Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, the Marlboros announced Tuesday.

Armstrong, a scout with the Leafs since his retirement a year ago, takes over from Frank Boucha who becomes general manager of the junior club and Jack White, former assistant manager, becomes executive vice-president.

The club said Tom Smythe, former general manager, has been offered the post of assistant general manager with Tulsa Oilers of the Central League, a Maple Leaf farm club, but has not yet decided whether to take the position.

Wind Failing French Mariner

LONDON (AP) — The wind is failing Frenchman Jean Yves Terlain in his headlong bid to win the transatlantic single-handed yacht race in record time.

The 37-year-old long-haired mariner radioed to base Tuesday that he was baited by long periods of calm some 500 miles from the finish at Newport, R.I.

He complained: "The boat is hardly moving."

Race organizers said the poor winds would probably help the lighter multi-hull vessels. They placed Frenchman Alain Colas, sailing the 70-foot Penn Duick IV, ord American Tom Follett, in his modernistic, super-light 46-foot trimaran Three Cheers.

"The multi-hulls are breathing down Terlain's neck," said a spokesmen for the race's sponsor, the London Observer newspaper.

Terlain has reason to dread a drop in the wind. His three-masted monohull covered 13 —Friday the 13th—in the bewitched and bewildered as the race a whopping 33-ton, 280-foot schooner.

Designer Dick Carter said: "In light winds Vendredi will stick to the water like glue."

Three Cheers, with the bearded Follett from Miami, Fla., at the helm, is a much-fancied entrant.

The craft is built of cold-moulded plywood and Follett said before the race began more than two weeks ago it was "hopefully no light at all skim along the top of the water."

Briton Brian Cooke, who did well in early stages in his 59-foot ketch British Steel was considered to be far behind Follett, Colas and Terlain to make any impact.

Pacer Not Ready to Retire

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Bylocks of R. Jefferson N. does not want to take off his shoes and retire.

The 13-year-old pacer, owned by Harry Loyens of London, Ont., won the third race at Garden City Raceway Tuesday, covering the mile in 2.04 3-4.

Singleton Allergic To Ball Suit

MONTREAL (CP) — Most young professional baseball players are eager to get into their team's uniform. Except maybe Ken Singleton of Montreal Expos.

Lately, he has been itching to get out of his—it gives him hives.

"I never want to touch it again," the 24-year-old outfielder said Tuesday, his troubled mind somewhat relieved with the discovery that it apparently was the wooly fabric that caused several severe outbreaks of hives in the last month.

"And just to be safe, no chocolate ice cream either," he added.

Singleton's case had allergists at Montreal General Hospital hitting the books again. They tried dozens of tests to determine what triggered the itchy red welts which broke out over Singleton's body and left team-mates shuddering in sympathy.

"It's awful what happens," said Manager Gene mauch.

"It looks like he just stepped out of a shower of mustard gas."

"I don't know what you'd look like after a mustard gas shower," team doctor Bob Brodrick said, "but Gene's description sounds right."

Singleton first began scratching in spring training camp with the New York Mets, switched from a wool to cotton undershirt and got relief.

Traded to Montreal, he steadily grew more and more uncomfortable in the Montreal uniform.

Two weeks ago in Cincinnati he burst out in hives from neck to knee and was sent home. The condition cleared up. Last week he broke out again on a flight between St. Louis and Pittsburgh.

"I told him to take it easy, get dressed, sit on the bench and I'd find a spot where he could win us the game," Mauch said.

"He sat there. By the fifth inning he was squirming in his uniform and had to leave. By the end of the game . . . well I just felt so sorry for him, the state he was in."

The doctors first suspected a food allergy and ran extensive tests. Then they ran blood tests to see if it was another form of illness.

Nothing.

Four hours after the uniform went on, he broke out again. Finally the obvious answer came—it must be the uniform.

Last Sunday he sat for four hours in the Expos clubhouse wearing the new-style double knit uniform, a sample the Expos had made before deciding whether they might switch.

He wore it and didn't break out this time.

However, he can't wear it in a game because the pants do not fit. He is not even supposed to wear it because league rules dictate that uniforms must all be the same.

Durocher Protests

Denny Saved by Downpour?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It rained all over Denny McLain's parade but the moisture left Leo Durocher a lot more upset than it did Atlanta's newest resident.

McLain, making his National League debut, was trailing 3-2 in the eighth inning Tuesday night as Atlanta Braves tried to sweep a baseball doubleheader from Durocher's Chicago Cubs. Atlanta had taken the opener 5-3.

Jose Cardenal, who had homered off McLain earlier, and Don Kessinger opened the Chicago eighth with singles and suddenly, Denny had runners on first and third with none out.

Just as suddenly, the Atlanta skies opened up with an enormous downpour. The rain hit so swiftly that the ground crew was unable to get the tarps down over the infield. Soon, it was a swamp and the game had to be called, rescuing McLain from a precarious situation and leaving Durocher rather agitated.

Leo decided that the Braves' ground crew didn't move quick as fast as it might have if the two runners on base were rooting Atlanta uniforms and formally protested the rainout.

National League president Chub Feeney said he would give careful consideration to the protest and ruled that the game could not be rescheduled until he ruled on it.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, New Astros Mets split a double-header with San Diego Padres, winning the opener 2-0 on Tom Seaver's one-hitter, but dropping the nightcap 4-2. Cincinnati Reds dropped St. Louis Cardinals 6-1, Philadelphia Phillies edged San Francisco Giants 1-0 and Montreal Expos slugged Los Angeles Dodgers 7-3 and Houston Astros shut out Pittsburgh Pirates 6-0.

A crowd of 50,507 showed at Atlanta Stadium for a gigantic July 4 fireworks display and McLain's 4-2, Cincinnati's Denny an ear-shattering standing ovation as he walked out to the mound to start the second game.

"I've never experienced anything like that," said McLain, "not even in Detroit. Tonight was unbelievable. I could have got the saints in heaven in that first inning after that."

All he had to do was get the Cubs of Chicago and for three innings, he did that easily.

"I had good velocity," said McLain, "I've got myself in super shape and I think I could pitch forever."

DENNY McLAIN

The Cubs started nibbling away at McLain in the middle of the fourth inning and by the eighth, he had given up nine hits, the last two to Cardenal and Kessinger.

At that point, Durocher was rubbing his hands in the dugout, anticipating some runs. Instead, he got some rain. Maybe McLain has friends among those saints in heaven.

The Braves won the first game of the doubleheader, scoring four runs in the seventh inning on homers by Paul Casanova and Mike Lum to crack a 1-1 tie.

Casanova opened the inning with his first National League homer and Lum added a three-run shot as Ron Reed picked up the victory, scattering seven hits.

Seaver took a no-hitter into the ninth inning and retired the first two San Diego batter before Leron Lee cracked a broken bat single for the Padres' only hit.

It was the fourth one-hitter of Seaver's career with the Mets. Seaver got Nat Colbert on a game-ending double play but the Padres' slugger hit one out in the eighth inning of the second game in the 2-1, 2-5 Derrell Thomas' ninth-inning single drove in two runs, giving the Padres the victory.

The Mets picked up one-half game with the split when Houston shut out Pittsburgh, shaving the Pirates National League East lead to one game over New York. Larry Dierker hurled a eight-hitter for his fifth shutout of the season. He also drove two runs in with a squeeze bunt and a single.

Cincinnati remained one-half game in front of the Astros by ending St. Louis' seven-game winning streak.

Pete Rose doubled home three runs in a five-run second inning for the Reds as Ross Grimsley, 6-3, earned the victory.

The struggling Dodgers were beaten by Montreal with Ron Woods and Ron Fairly homering for the Expos.

Los Angeles starter Tommy John surrendered three runs in the second inning, two of them on Bob Bailey's single and the third on a triple by winning pitcher Carl Morton.

Dobson Douses Fireworks

Three comeback pitchers, two rookies and 20-game winner kept the July 4 fireworks to a minimum in the American League Tuesday.

Pat Dobson, one of Baltimore Orioles' four 20-game winners last season, hurled the Orioles into sole possession of first place in the American League East with a three-hit, 11-strikeout, 2-1 victory over Chicago White Sox.

Detroit Tigers skidded into second place when Kansas City Royals' Roger Nelson, fighting back from two years of arm miseries, blanked the Tigers 1-0 on four hits for his first complete game and first triumph as a starter since 1969.

Rookie Lynn McGlothen notched his first major-league triumph with a three-hitter that propelled Boston Red Sox past Minnesota Twins 2-0.

Jim Lonborg, the American League's Cy Young Award winner with Boston in 1967 but a Baltimore's Dobson, surrendered a three-run homer run to Dick Allen and second-innings singles by Bob Reicsandt and Mike Andrews but kept the White Sox hitless thereafter. Manager Earl Weaver was impressed by the route-going performance, Baltimore's 15th in the last 25 games, but not by the Orioles' accumulated first-inning problems.

The Orioles tied the game against Stan Bahnsen in the fifth on Brooks Grich's single and Dave Johnson's triple and scored the winning run in the sixth on consecutive singles by Dave Leonhard, Boog Powell and Merv Rettenmund.

Kansas City got Nelson the only run he needed against Detroit in the first inning on Amos Otis's bunt single, a sacrifice and John LaRoche's infield hit, which loser Bill Slayback threw wild to first base.

Boston's McGlothen, a 22-year-old right-hander, held the Twins to fourth straight baseball in the second inning and singles by Danny Thompson in the third. Rookie shortstop Juan Beniquez accounted for one of the runs off loser Ray Corbin with his first major league homer.

Aboard the only baserunners were in Oakland, where Sal Bando hammered a grand slam home run off New York's Mel Stottlemyre in the fourth inning and the Athletics put on a gaudy pyrotechnic display after the game.

Bando's seventh home run of the season and fifth career grand slam followed Joe Rudi's double and walks to Mike Epstein and Bill Voss.

Utilities Flash Power

Belleville Utilities recovered from a power shutdown to score an 11-6 win over Morch Mariners in an Industrial Softball League battle Tuesday while the Belleville Leaders were taking a 4-1 verdict from Foley's.

Trailing 6-3 after three innings, the Utilities found their batting eyes to pour across eight unanswered runs on the last-place Mariners.

Brian LeRow started for the Utilities, giving way to Wilson Bulpit in the fourth. They yielded eight hits, six by LeRow, and managed 10 strikeouts, while issuing three bases on balls. Paul Sharpe faced a 17-hit deluge on the Morch mound.

Bulpit proved to be Utilities' top plate threat, powering a triple and two singles while Jack Banville and Steve Ethier each connected for a double and two singles. Don Robert and Gary Clark had two hits each for the Mariners.

John Quinn banged a tight four-hitter to lead the Leaders past Foley's 4-1. The right-hander struck out seven and walked two in pinning the loss on Don Smith. The Foley's pitcher yielded nine hits and three walks, while fanning four.

Bob Wilkes and John Belanger wielded the big bats for the winners with two hits apiece, while Joe Dontaler equalled that total for Foley's.

Only Three B Entries

The "Big Three" of the Eastern Ontario Junior B league were the only teams to make it under the wire for admission to the OHA next season, but other possible entries are still in the running.

Peterborough, which last captured the league championship and pennant last year along with Oshawa and Belleville, who trailed the Lions in the league standings all applied for admission to the OHA before the July 1st deadline for Junior B teams.

According to OHA secretary Bill Hanley this doesn't rule out the possibility of other applicants still being accepted for the Eastern Ontario league. "Actually July 1st was the deadline, but we can still take late. entries if it means filling out a group."

This would still leave the 1972-73 door ajar for centres like Kingston, Trenton and Gananoque who have expressed interest in icing junior B teams.

Mead Squirts Soak Printers

Andy Rosati started on the mound for Mead Johnson, giving way to Tim Soule in the fifth. They allowed the house league champs a total of three hits, while striking out 10 batters and issuing three walks.

Soule connected for the big Mead Johnson blast with a bases-loaded triple in the third as the OASA squirts totalled 15 hits against Bob Dall and Steven Pearce.

Ron Begley and Andy Rosati had three singles each for Mead Johnson with Darrell Cooke contributing a triple and single.

Cozy Gals Keeping Grill Hot

BYB'S has been making the long run to the top in the Women's Softball League this year but last night they ran into a brick wall slowing down any first place aspirations.

The Yorktown girls ran into a red hot Cozy Grill squad and dropped a 6-3 decision to the first place owners.

Sandra Claus held the losers to six hits while fanning 15 in moving the Grill four points up on BYB'.

Verna Hill, Sharon Francis and Claus each had a home run and single to lead the winners 13-hit attack.

Sue Morton took the loss. She struck out three and walked one. Judy Johnson punched a home run and triple in a losing effort.

Supreme Fence Flyers refused to be fenced in as they disassembled the Steelworkers 11-0 in a Belleville Minor Soccer mosquito game Tuesday.

The Flyers carried a 4-0 lead into half time before striking for seven unanswered goals in the second half. Gary Fredericks paced Supreme with four goals while Dale Clarke contributed a hat trick.

Local Ponies Beat Pressure

The pressures were on and the circumstances bad but the Highlands of Hastings Pony Club shook them all off to record two division champions in a one day combined event at the Frontenac Hunt and Pony Club.

Diana Doornbos captured the Division I pony club level which includes dressage cross - country and stadium jumping while Darcy Lawson took the same honors in the A and B pony club level of Division 2.

The Belleville girls overcame competitors from Brockville, Ottawa, and Kingston besides battling pouring rain and unsure footing to win the over-all titles.

Ups and Downs

Mike Wright of the Steelworkers Mosquitos had his ups and downs in a Belleville Minor Soccer contest on Tuesday night, leaping high to tip a shot over the net and bending low to scoop one up. The Steelworkers wound up on the low end for the night as they dropped a short-handed 11-0 verdict to Supreme Fence Flyers.

Waite Joins No-Hit Club

Rollins' Keep One-run String

There's a black cloud hovering over Quinte Hotel. It's got Scotty Reid jinxed, while little old cloud-maker Ted Waite is still rolling along.

Waite fashioned a no-hit 1-0 shutout over Quinte Hotel and Reid Tuesday night for Rollins' 12th straight victory without a loss.

In the first game of the Commercial Softball League double - header last night Howard and Roberts moved into a tie with Deveth Motors for second spot by ripping the Ellis Juniors 8-4.

Waite's no-hit effort gave Rollins their third consecutive 1-0 win over Quinte but it took an unearned run in the top of the seventh to pull out the victory.

Wayne McTaggart singled with two out in the seventh, stole second and then raced home with the only run of the game on a throwing error by Quinte short-stop Terry Lesage.

That run broke up a pitching duel between Reid and Waite, former teammates. Waite won the battle picking up 11 strikeouts and walking five in his no-hit bid. Reid allowed three hits and shut down 11 men on third strikes.

Ralph Plane, Steve Legg and McTaggart were the only hitters of the game.

Waite joined Reid and Howard and Robert's Bob Ethier in the league's no-hit club besides increasing his personal record to 6-0 with five shutouts, and a 0.00 earned run average.

There was no indication of pitching battles in the first game of the night as the Printers unleashed 20 hits in handing the Juniors their 11th straight loss.

Steve Rees led a bevy of Printer batsmen with two singles and a 236-foot blast over the right field fence. Dwight Rathwell had a triple and two singles while Gary Goyer and Bob Swan each connected for three singles. Larry Potter added a double and single to the winners' field day at the plate.

After a slow start, the Juniors did a little hitting of their own, pounding out 10 hits but it was too little and too late. Wayne Andrews stopped a two-run triple for the losers' only extra-base hit with Brian Garieny and Terry Meagher each had two singles.

Bob Swan pitched the win while both Ron Hill and Dave Horwood saw action on the Juniors mound.

Next Commercial League action will be Thursday night when Deveth Motors meet Howard and Roberts in the battle for second place and the Ellis Juniors play the Globe Hotel.

Goolagong Meets King

BULLETIN

LONDON (AP) — Defending champion Evonne Goolagong of Australia defeated 17-year-old Chris Evert of the United States, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 today for the right to meet Billie Jean King in Friday's final for the Wimbledon tennis crown.

Mrs. King gained the final with a 6-2, 6-4 win over her old friend and foe, Rosemary Casals. Both are Americans.

Win Closest

The Belleville Juveniles played it close in Tuesday night's Quinte Lacrosse League game at Trenton, but not close enough to win.

Dan Payne produced two goals for Belleville, including the winner in their 4-3 victory. Gary Reid and Wayne McGeachy picked up single goals for the winners who continued their dominance over the Trenton squad.

Golfing Duet

Good things come in pairs and the Bay of Quinte Country Club will be sending a pair of good golfers to the Ontario Junior Girls' Championships in Peterborough July 10 and 11. Mary Edwards (right) and Pam Carruthers both qualified for the provincial championships in the Kingston district playdowns. Marg, 18, shot a 91 to win the district while Pam, 17, came up with a 96 to also make the finals in Peterborough.

Marcus Young Or Robert Welby

During Cynthia Lowry's vacation, the column is being written by invited guests, each of whom is asked to respond to specific questions about some special area of television. Here is the report of the star of Marcus Welby, M.D., the ABC series that for the past two seasons has been one of the most popular programs on the air.

Written For The Associated Press
By ROBERT YOUNG

Q. Do you encounter personal problems because of your television image?

A. There is such a thin line between character roles and actuality in the minds of viewers it is a constant source of gratitude to me that I play Dr. Marcus Welby each week instead of some hood. The letters I get addressed to Dr. Robert Welby and to Marcus Young attest to the images the tube can superimpose upon a captivated audience.

Let me make one point: The only medicine I'm qualified to prescribe is entertainment. Don't ask me to tell you what's wrong with you. Tell it to the man in white.

Even my wife is sometimes confused about where Welby leaves off. I came home one evening from a long day on location and not a little grouchy. "You'll have to excuse my husband," Betty told the surgeon friend who was visiting us. "Bob's had a hard day at the hospital."

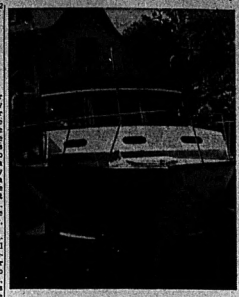
Our film studio has been deluged by advice-seeking mail ever since we began and we have the network and local stations covering the program. Many of the letters ask me to diagnose symptoms. In general, I answer each letter by thanking the writer for considering me both a friend and an expert. However, I add the disclaimer that my MD stands for medical drama, not doctor.

Q. What are the rewards the role has brought?

A. Young people write that they have been inspired to enter the medical profession. A lady wrote she had changed her mind about committing suicide as a result of a statement on the importance of life I made in one of our episodes. A man in Des Moines had a friend race him to the hospital in the middle of a Welby show. At the emergency ward he announced he had a bleeding ulcer because, in the show, I was talking to a patient and described the symptoms. They were exactly his own. The man was right. Within an hour, he was on the operating table.

We have a technical consultant on the series, a general practitioner, who says he believes the popularity of our show is due to a devotion to accuracy. Dr. Thomas L. Stern, said: "I believe that the Marcus Welby show has caused some behavior changes in some physicians who see an image they would like to copy, the image of fatherly compassion that viewers would like to see in their own physicians."

These are the residual benefits, very rewarding to any human being but especially rewarding to an actor.



Six Months' Work

Ken Swallow spent six months pouring over plans and creating his 40-foot dream. The dual - engined cruiser was lowered into the water only after a crew of men cut a hole in the wall of the garage where the boat was built. The boat is to be moored at Morch Marina.

Chamberlain May Be Through

HAMILTON (CP) — Officials of St. Joseph's Hospital said today Gail television entertainer Charles Chamberlain, suffering from a heart condition and lung congestion, was in satisfactory condition.

Mr. Chamberlain, a stop-dancing balladeer on the Don Messer television show, collapsed last week during a recital for the ill here.

Hospital officials say it is possible that Mr. Chamberlain, who began his singing 40 years ago in New Brunswick, may not be able to resume his entertaining.

The 61-year-old singer has been unable to talk to reporters, but it was expected that he would be available for an interview soon.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — The Bayside Bible Study group met at the home of Mrs. Margaret Cleaves of Bloomfield on Wednesday.

The Rev. John Bunner delivered his farewell message to the congregation of Westminster United Church on Sunday. Misses Linda and Pearl Johnston played throughout the service while Jeffery Reid read the Scripture and assisted Rev. Bunner in the communion service.

Fans Number 50,000 For Rolling Stones

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Close to 50,000 rock fans turned out Tuesday night when British Rolling Stones made their U.S. Independence Day appearance at Washington's Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Stadium.

It was the stadium's biggest turnout for a rock concert since the Beatles played there six years ago.

Appropriately warmed up by Stevie Wonder's hard rock band, the spectators in the tiered stands made the stadium vibrate when the Stones opened up with Brown Sugar.

Security guards stood on the bandstand to keep fans from getting to the group, but occasional scuffles broke out with the youngsters who made it onto the podium. Some of them were hauled away by police.

At least half a dozen persons were arrested for possession of marijuana before the stadium opened Tuesday afternoon. It was not immediately known how many others might have been held for similar or other offences.

Nor was it immediately known how many were injured in the crush or by July 4 fireworks tossed into the crowd.

One of 200 officers assigned to the stadium said "there were a few arrests" but he couldn't give a number.

He also said several people were slightly hurt.

It was the Stones' 21st stop in the 33-city North American tour which began last month in Vancouver.

The Stones' next appearance is in Norfolk, Va., followed by St. Louis. They go to Canada for shows in Toronto and Montreal before winding up their tour with a three-night show in New York.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Thursday, July 6

Aries (March 21-April 19): Attend your own basic of operation in person, if you have to forage far afield, keep in touch so nothing surprises you.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Conservative approaches work out best. Add more time and patience than usual. It may be difficult to stay within established plans.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): If conflict starts somewhere, meet it head-on with whatever you have ready, but be sure you don't start it unbidden.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Cater to your personal needs and comfort. Health checkups are in order. Begin a new diet or exercise regimen, at a moderate pace.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Keeping your ideas within reasonable bounds is a challenge. Visitations a variety of interesting questions.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Unfamiliar people aren't likely to be what you imagine from their appearance. Suspend judgement until you understand them better.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Collect benefits, help those who are less stable. Circumstances surrounding your work are temporarily tense, but can be relieved soon.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Surprises are the order of the day, at home as well as on the road. Allowing extra time helps, though plans without complaint.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You can't always get what you want, and this is one of those times. Accept whether you can make do with a second choice.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Downward trends are not to be taken lightly, just something that challenges your resourcefulness. An alternate solution is available.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Guard against letting your attention wander as many distractions pop up. Most have little connection with your interests.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Just when you have things in a half-way state, changes are likely. Romantic enterprises are particularly delicate.

Syphilis Caused by Germ, Not Dirt

By G. C. THOSTESON MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In a recent article you said a heroin addict could contract syphilis by using a borrowed needle.

Could you explain more fully? I had always been taught that syphilis could be caught in only one way, by sexual contact.

Also could you explain about a false positive reaction to the Wassermann test? My doctor took the test at the beginning of my last pregnancy. I had a severe cold and possible ear infection at the time.

The test was positive, but a subsequent one, one month later was negative. I assume the positive Wassermann was caused by my illness. Is this correct?

Yes, syphilis can be transmitted by a contaminated needle—one recently used by someone with the disease.

The point is—and I've been trying to emphasize it—that syphilis, other venereal diseases, too, is caught in a germ, not by some hard-to-understand cause.

In spite of all the efforts to educate people to this fact, I keep getting inquiries about VD is caused by unusual sex practices, by uncleanliness, by infection at the wrong time of the month, by all sorts of other theories.

All wrong. Syphilis is caused by a germ. The germ can be transmitted by a dirty needle, if the germ has recently contaminated the needle. It can, at times, be transmitted by kissing if the person with the disease has an active syphilitic sore and the other person has an open cut or break in the skin, so the germs can get in.

But for the majority of cases, sexual contact transmits the disease. The germs, you see, do not survive except in conditions that suit it. Thus it is transferred by "skin-to-skin contact." It is not transmitted "by a toilet seat," or such means.

As to your false positive, this is not so uncommon. So when it occurs under suspicious circumstances, another test is called for. By "suspicious circumstances," I mean situations in which it seems unlikely that the patient really has syphilis.

Such false positives can result from various illnesses chiefly virus infections which would fit with your bad cold.

The usual practice, when checking a suspected false positive, is to switch to one of the newer, more basic tests called the VDRL. Such tests are less likely to be affected by illness other than syphilis.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is chicory in coffee harmful? I understand that it acts as a diuretic for edema, helping the body get rid of excess fluid. Is this true? —P.B.

Chicory, a member of the native family, adds color and flavor to coffee. Coffee itself has a certain diuretic property, but to my knowledge chicory does not. Too much chicory can make coffee bitter, though.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I heard on the radio that cancer researchers suspect that cancer is communicable. Please explain this, as my mother-in-law has cancer and I want to do to avoid getting it? —B.B.

Better ask the radio gentleman to explain it. Doctors, nurses and others who take care of cancer patients don't have any higher incidence of cancer than anyone else, which to my mind sheds a lot of doubt on the idea of cancer being communicable. I'm not going to worry about it unless somebody comes up with some facts to the contrary, and I haven't seen any so far.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1♠	3♠	4♥
Pass	Pass	Pass	—

Opening lead — king of spades.

Let's say you're West, defending against four hearts, and lead the king of spades in response to partner's preemptive overcall. Your illustrious partner plays the jack on the king and the question is what to do next.

Of course you don't see all four hands, so the problem is to find the best play at trick two without this advantage.

You might feel tempted to lead another spade in obedience to partner's signal, but if you did this it would inevitably cost you the contract.

East would win with the ace but could make no return that would embarrass South. If a best play would be another spade, but declarer would ruff low in his hand and, whatever you did, your only additional trick would be the ace of trumps.

Shifting to a club, a diamond or a low trump at trick two would also prove ineffective and, in fact, against any one of these plays South would eventually register eleven tricks.

The right play at trick two is the ace of trumps, followed by a spade to the ace at trick three. When East now leads another spade, South cannot prevent you from scoring the setting trick with the nine of trumps, whether he ruffs high or low.

Actually, the recommended play at trick two is certain to succeed unless East has eight spades, and this extremely remote possibility should be dismissed from consideration, if only because the bidding would be unattractive in that case.

Upon full reflection, the ace of hearts play stands out a mile, but it is not an easy play to find unless everyone very kindly rings a loud warning bell at the start of the hand.

Tomorrow: A sure thing.

Approval Being Sought in Commons For Takeover and Baby Bonus Bills

OTTAWA (CP) — The government appears intent on getting approval of its controversial legislation dealing with foreign takeovers and family allowances during an extension of the Commons session officially called for another reason.

Industry Minister Jean-Luc Pepin got past one apparent roadblock to the foreign-ownership legislation Tuesday night but he still faces 20 proposed opposition amendments to the bill.

The Commons was to have started its summer recess Friday. The government extended the session into this week in case it needed legislation to deal with the St. Lawrence dock stoppage.

Marcel Lambert PC-Edmonton West, said bluntly Tuesday this was a protest to get Parliament to work on stalled legislation.

The government did not deny that it intends to keep the House sitting all week.

The foreign-takeovers legislation would have the industry department screen major takeovers to determine whether they were in the best interest of the country.

Family-allowance legislation, which the government also hopes the Commons will deal with, would make increased baby bonuses available to the poor who pass a means test and take them away from the rich.

The opposition has been highly critical of both pieces of legislation, although the Conservatives suggest they will vote for them.

When the takeovers legislation was reported back to the Commons from committee last week, the government faced more than 20 opposition amendments.

By deferring recorded votes until a late date, the Commons now has dealt with 13 of these.

Tuesday night, the NDP and Conservatives withdrew two amendments that would have required the federal government to consult with provinces about takeovers affecting them.

Max Saltsman NDP-Waterloo and Gordon Fairweather PC-Fundy Royal did this after Mr. Pepin introduced an amendment under which the government said the economic and financial interests of a province affected by takeovers would be considered. The Commons passed the government amendment.

Mr. Pepin said the government would not accept the obligatory nature of the opposition amendments but added it is committed to the principle of provincial consultation.

U.S. Agency Reports

Some Detergents Can Blind

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some non-phosphate detergents on the market can cause irreversible blindness if accidentally rubbed into the eye, says an unpublished U.S. government study.

"The results of this study indicate the rather sharp demarcation between moderate ocular damage caused by soap in phosphate detergents and the intense caustic of carbonates and metasilicates," the National Institutes of Environmental Health Sciences concluded.

The Food and Drug Administration, charged with protecting the U.S. public from hazardous substances, has reacted to the report with disdain.

"They are treading outside the realm in which they should be operating," said an official in FDA's bureau of product safety. "We have the charter we have the mandate."

The institute's study, conducted by Dr. David P. Rall, the director, said veterinarians Dr. Donald S. Feldman and John A. Moore, concentrated on nine synthetic-detergent products purchased near its Triangle Park, N.C., facilities.

The FDA disagrees with the institute's testing methods, particularly because the eyes were not washed after exposure.

"In a household situation, when you get something in your eye you would immediately wash it out and not wait 24 hours," said Jerry Donovan, deputy director of the Division of Chemical Hazards.

Dr. Rall said, however, that whether you wash or don't wash is not very important. Most of the damage has been done in three to four minutes. . . In terms of practicalities, it's going to be a good many minutes before a mother washes her baby's eyes."

The failure of Fukuda, 67, to get the leadership post also was a defeat for Sato, who long ago chose the foreign minister as his heir-apparent and had hoped through him to maintain a role as elder statesman adviser.

Technically, the stocky, gravel-voiced new prime minister was elected today only as party president, the parliamentary ratification is a mere formality in view of the LDP's solid majority.

A tenacious man, Tanaka—who lists golf as his leisure interest—defied Japanese tradition in winning the election. Apart from his relative youth, he rose to the top in parliament rather than the bureaucracy, which has produced almost all Japanese prime ministers.

Man Who Issued Ban Said to Have Interest

OTTAWA (CP) — Allegations that officials of the revenue department released confidential information were made Tuesday in the Federal Court.

Lawyer Gordon Henderson, appearing for W. W. Buchanan, former chairman of the anti-dumping tribunal, said Mr. Buchanan was accused of having a pecuniary interest in a tribunal decision concerning sheet glass on information supplied on a confidential basis to the income tax department.

The attorney-general's office withdrew the allegation of pecuniary interest Tuesday, but has two other allegations it hopes to prove in order to set aside a tribunal decision made March, 1970.

In the decision, the board decided that sheet glass imported from Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Poland, the Soviet Union and Romania was being dumped in Canada and harming this country's major producers, Canadian Pittsburgh Industries and Pilkington Brothers Canada Ltd.

Last May, the government filed a motion in the Federal Court asking that the decision be set aside because Mr. Buchanan had a pecuniary interest, also a special basis by reason of former association with the two Canadian companies, and because he took part in the decision without attending public hearings into the matter.

In his opening arguments Tuesday, Mr. Henderson said that Mr. Buchanan, because of his prior association with the glass companies as a consultant, had taken a holiday when the sheet glass case was heard. He said Mr. Buchanan signed the judgment in the case only because the board was told by John Grey, a finance department lawyer, that he should sign to give the judgment its full force in law.

Legal Aid Late

KINGSTON (CP) — Stories of an escaped prisoner who spent three months in jail without ever meeting his legal aid lawyer and a Kingston woman who spent one month in jail waiting for a legal aid lawyer were told in provincial court Tuesday.

Robert Hayes, who escaped from Kingsville prison on April 2 and then gave himself up to authorities the next day, told court he had been waiting for his legal aid lawyer "but I haven't seen her once."

Hayes, who had 799 days to serve on a robbery conviction, filed a motion in the Federal Court asking that the decision be set aside because Mr. Buchanan had a pecuniary interest, also a special basis by reason of former association with the two Canadian companies, and because he took part in the decision without attending public hearings into the matter.

In his opening arguments Tuesday, Mr. Henderson said that Mr. Buchanan, because of his prior association with the glass companies as a consultant, had taken a holiday when the sheet glass case was heard. He said Mr. Buchanan signed the judgment in the case only because the board was told by John Grey, a finance department lawyer, that he should sign to give the judgment its full force in law.

Judge Gordon Hall reserved judgment.

Defence counsel, Douglas Cunningham, who entered court with the certification just as the case was called, said the delay was caused over confusion as to whether the social and family services in Kingston or Belleville would investigate the case.

Humphrey and McGovern Aides Wage Bitter Verbal Warfare

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Aides to Senators Hubert Humphrey and George McGovern are spurring verbally in a stormy map for next week's Democratic national convention with a federal appeals court considers the crucial California and Illinois credentials challenges.

Jack Chestnut, Humphrey's campaign manager, demanded that McGovern fire or repudiate Rick Stearns, one of his campaign aides, for saying that he favored a third party to "punish" Humphrey should the Minnesota senator win the Democratic presidential nomination when voting takes place Wednesday night next week.

"Talk of punishment of the Democratic party is irresponsible and can't be tolerated," Chestnut said, reacting to the Stearns comments which seem to be part of an effort by some McGovern aides to convince party leaders that denial of the nomination to the Democratic senator would split the party.

Supporters of Humphrey and McGovern argued both California and Illinois credentials cases before the U.S. circuit court in Washington Tuesday.

Judge George Hart of the U.S. district court refused Monday to overturn Democratic credentials committee decisions awarding 151 McGovern delegates from California and 59 uncommitted delegates from Illinois headed by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley.

In this weekend convention centre, meanwhile, the city council planned to reconsider today whether it will reverse a decision against granting campaign use the young convention-goers expected in Miami Beach for next week's convention.

Tom Southwick, one of McGovern's youth workers, announced arrangements to open a youth centre in a downtown Miami Beach hotel through which the young people will be able to get information about convention activities, which are to be shown on television monitors and "If it (the party) wants to push the self-destruct button on these issues, that's its Fire Commissioner right," he argued before the court.

The California case, heading for a convention showdown on Monday night, is the most crucial because the 151 delegates from McGovern by the committee decision to require proportional representation of the 271 delegates may leave him short of a first-ballot nomination.

Including the decisions reached by the credentials committee, the latest Associated Press count gives McGovern 1,285.6 first-ballot votes—497.1 short of the 1,509 needed for the nomination. Restoration of the 151 California votes could leave him less than 100 away.

Far behind the Sen. Dakota senator are Humphrey with 698.35; Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, 381; and Senator Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, 295.55. A total of 494.4 are uncommitted.

Quick Results Unlikely From Korean Conference

SEOUL (AP) — The South Korean government warned its people today not to expect speedy results from its agreement with North Korea to work for improved relations and reunification of the Korean peninsula.

Premier Kim Jong-pil urged the country to maintain its vigilance, asserting that a piece of paper signed by the Communists containing promises does not mean anything unless the pledges are implemented.

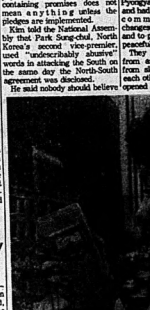
Kim told the National Assembly that Park Sung-chul, North Korea's second vice-premier, used "undescribably abusive" words in attacking the South on the same day the North-South agreement was announced.

He said nobody should believe that territorial reunification is around the corner.

"Our political ideology cannot agree with that of the Communists," he said, "and although our dialogue progresses as a result of the joint communique, we cannot change overnight our ideas, systems and life."

South and North Korea announced Tuesday that they will hold secret, high-level talks in Pyongyang and Seoul in May and had agreed to set up a joint committee to negotiate exchanges in a number of fields and to promote reunification by peaceful means.

They also agreed to refrain from armed provocations and slanderous and defamatory acts against each other. As a first step, they opened a telephone "hot line" between the two capitals Tuesday.



Widows' Pensions Raised

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Quebec national assembly passed a bill Tuesday which will increase pensions for widows and invalids although the following amendment which prevents any modification of the law until two years after it has been passed.

The delaying clause in Quebec's earlier legislation had been added to let the federal and other provincial governments adjust their programs in accordance with any changes.

The federal government asked that the bill be delayed in order to help create a uniform pension scheme throughout the country.

Russians Blamed

LONDON (Reuter) — The 10,000 Polish officers massacred in Katyn Forest, near Smolensk in the Soviet Union in 1940, probably were killed by the Russians, says a report released by the London-based then-British ambassador to Poland.

Sir Owen O'Malley's report, released by the British foreign office after 30 years, said: "We do not know for certain who murdered a lot of Polish officers in the forest of Katyn in April and May 1940. . . . I think that most of us are more than half convinced that a large number of Polish officers were indeed murdered by the Russian authorities."

Chess Match Scheduled for Thursday

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — The world championship chess match between Bobby Fischer and Boris Spassky now is scheduled to start Thursday afternoon following another postponement, this one demanded by the Soviet champion.

After holding out for more money and getting it, the American challenger came to Iceland for the postponed opening Sunday. But Spassky refused out of the noon drawing to decide who would move first because Fischer was not present. He had sent his second, a Roman Catholic priest.

Officials announced a new 48-hour postponement of the opener, originally scheduled for last Sunday. They hoped both players would be ready to meet on Thursday.

Fischer arrived in Reykjavik early Tuesday. The Icelandic Chess Federation had rejected his demand for 30 per cent of the gate receipts, but he agreed to come after a London international banker doubled the $125,000 purse which he and Spassky will divide.

The 29-year-old American grandmaster was resting from the overnight flight in a guarded villa at the edge of town when Spassky contacted the isolated in the holdout departure.

The 35-year-old Soviet champion read a prepared statement calling the American's conduct insulting and intolerable. It said Fischer, by refusing to appear at the opening ceremony last weekend, had insulted Spassky personally and the Soviet Chess Federation and had jeopardized his right to play for the title. The statement demanded that Fischer be punished.

However, Max Euwe, president of the international federation, said the Russians had not formally requested punishment. "What should I do?" he asked. "Put him in the corner?"

Fischer was staying away from reporters and did not comment on the Soviet statement.

In New York, Col. E. B. Edmondson, director of the U.S. Chess Federation, called the dispute a charade and said it had "gone far enough." Edmondson said if either player fails to appear for Thursday's match the other should get the world title by default. He said he was speaking as a member of the international federation's five-member advisory Board.

With the contributors from the London banker, James D. Slater, the winner is to get $156,250 and the loser $93,750. In addition, each player will get another $75,000 from the television and film rights.

Parole Official Wants One Body In Full Control

SEPT-ILES, Que. (CP) — Andre Therrien, vice-chairman of the national parole board, said Tuesday there should be only one body responsible for letting someone out of Jail.

He said at a news conference that he supports comments of the Quebec Police and Fire Chiefs Association there are two weeks a person can get out of jail because penitentiary authorities are allowed to grant a weekend or even 15-day leaves to prepare a person for parole. However, these passes are given without the knowledge of the parole board.

"There have been cases where a person was permitted out on a pass supposedly to prepare him for parole when, in effect, that person was even ineligible for parole," said Mr. Therrien, adding that the board claims it has no say in the matter.

Second Inquest Is Started Into Death of Ottawa Man

OTTAWA (CP) — Witness reluctance overcome, the second inquest into the Dec. 15, 1971 death of Frank Sreter opened Tuesday.

Sreter, a 36-year-old University of Ottawa student died as a result of a highway accident on Highway 17 east of Ottawa. He and Natrat Hijazi were on their way to Boston to visit Dr. Frank Sreter, Sr.

At the initial inquest in February it was decided no testimony of staff from Ottawa's Montfort Hospital that Sreter died of a lacerated spleen. No blame was then attached to the hospital or its staff.

But Dr. Sreter maintained his son's death was medically preventable, and demanded exhumation and re-examination of the body. This took place May 24. As a result the second inquest was ordered by John Yaremko, provincial solicitor-general.

The reluctance of the witnesses came to light early Tuesday when coroner Dr. J. E. Gendron said some of them had "expressed strong fears of being re-examined."

Dr. Gendron did not specify which witnesses they were, saying only that they feared facing a battery of lawyers a second time.

In testimony Tuesday at least three persons suggested the young man had not appeared badly injured following the accident.

Gilles Lamarre, the ambulance attendant who took him to Montfort Hospital, said he was "very surprised" to hear of his death the next day.

An ambulance driver for seven years, Mr. Lamarre said Sreter had not appeared seriously injured and complained only of a cold back.

Provincial police constable J. L. Stafford said others in the accident appeared more seriously injured and he noted only that the ground under Sreter appeared damp, which its constable thought was caused by the icy slush in which he was lying.

Donald Allcrette, driver of a senior St. John Ambulance permit, also said he did not think Sreter the worst injured at the scene.

At one point he said he thought Sreter had told him he felt his spleen had been injured. But Mr. Allcrette decided under examination his memory could have been faulty.

The original autopsy report on the accident said Sreter was dead on arrival at Montfort Hospital, but Constable Stafford and Mr. Lamarre both said Tuesday he was alive and talking with them on the drive from the accident scene.

Mr. Hijazi said Sreter had been pinned under their car in the accident and had complained of pains in the area of his abdomen.

He also said Sreter was conscious throughout the ride to the hospital and up to the time they were taken to different hospital rooms.

The inquest was to continue today.

Fish Die

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The cause of death of thousands of fish in Dingman Creek last weekend, between nearby Lambeth and Delaware, may not be known for several days, an industrial waste engineer for the water management branch of the environment ministry said Tuesday.

Meditators Have Vision

GRANBY, Colo. (AP) — A mass meditation ceremony attended by about 2,000 young persons marked the culmination Tuesday of the Strawberry Lake religious festival.

The march to Table Mountain, overlooking Lake Granby and the Front Range beyond, had been planned by the Rainbow Family of Living Light, the Oregon group that sponsored the festival.

Many of those attending the prayer session, on the flat-topped mountain hiked along a remote nine-mile trail in sub-freezing overnight temperatures to be there at dawn. Others were shuttled by bus early Tuesday.

Among objects lugged up the mountain were flges, violins, cats, children and a large glass-framed picture of 14-year-old guru Maharaj Ji.

After the meditation, some youths spoke of seeing the image of a white running buffalo in a snow formation on the front range. The image, participants said, was an Indian symbol of the union of the white man and the Indian.

Authorities, however, were skeptical.

"They're probably on a trip," said Grand County Undersheriff H. L. Henderson.

Ulster Defence Group Sets Up Own Courts

BELFAST (AP) — The civilian army which now controls much of Protestant Northern Ireland has followed the example of the underground Roman Catholic-based Irish Republican Army in setting up courts.

The Protestant army, the Ulster Defence Association, or UDA, denies it was behind last weekend's executions in which six of the eight victims were Roman Catholics.

But it admits punishing its own members found guilty of indiscipline.

The most spectacular case was the brutal beating of a teen-ager who was later lashed to a lamppost with a placard reading: "Breaking and entering and attempted indecent assault."

The UDA said he was given the services of a defending officer and pleaded guilty.

Fraud Charged

OAKVILLE (CP) — A warrant has been issued for the arrest of a former Oakville businessman alleging he defrauded a now-dead Oakville couple of $2,000 in selling them a machine that is supposed to cure cancer.

Det.-Sgt. Robert Mansfield said Tuesday the charge against Robert De Nutte, former president of Ionaflux of Canada Ltd., has been laid on behalf of the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Davide Wrenchlife.

De Nutte now is believed to be living in Belgium, he said.

Davis to Attend

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis will attend the United States Democratic Party convention, as a spectator, next week in Miami Beach where the party will choose its presidential candidate.

Donkey Parades

TORONTO (CP) — About 500 people and a donkey took part in an anti-airport rally on Toronto's city hall Tuesday.

The rally—sponsored by a group against the proposed new international airport in Pickering Township—was heavy on humor and light on speechmaking.

The donkey was named after Federal Transportation Minister Donald Jamieson and a man dressed as a clown was labelled Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough.

A group of youths armed with farm implements were dubbed the Pickering Fusiliers. They pulled a mock anti-aircraft gun to city hall.

Fear Unrest

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal legislation to permit negotiation of the impact of technological change during the course of a collective labor agreement will cause labor unrest and retard Canadian industry, the Senate was told Tuesday.

Senators Ernest Manning (SC Alberta) and Allister Grosart (PC—Ontario) made the claims as the Senate debated amendments to the Canada Labor Code.

Can Substitute

WINNIPEG (CP) — Except where specifically prohibited by the prescribing doctor, substitution of cheaper generic equivalents for brand-name drugs on prescription orders would be welcome mandatory under amendments adopted by a legislature committee Tuesday.

Two hours of this is as much as most men can stand.

One was found innocent and discharged; another was made to sweep the roads of a Protestant housing development for an hour. The third was given 90 minutes of stiff physical exercise.

Flights Late

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian transport commission is investigating the reasons why two Donaldson International Airways charter flights to Britain left Toronto 36 hours late.

The flights, chartered by York-Overseas Teachers Club, were scheduled to leave Saturday and Sunday but did not leave until Monday and Tuesday.

Premiers Meet

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa met with Premier William Davis of Ontario for about 90 minutes today, but both men were tightlipped as they left the meeting to have lunch.

Premier Bourassa's executive assistant said the premiers discussed ways of obtaining a greater share of federal revenues for the provinces.

Study Murders

OTTAWA (CP) — The question of how to deal with killers of policemen is currently under study by the government, Solicitor-General Jean-Pierre Goyer said Tuesday.

Check on Funds

OTTAWA (CP) — The possible misuse of federal funds given to the provinces to support second-language instruction in schools has caused the government "some concern," Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons Tuesday.

He said State Secretary Gerard Pelletier is to review the way the federal money is spent by the provinces to ensure that the goals of the program "are in fact be pursued with this money."

Railway Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is committed to a "fairly imminent" start on extensive railway and highway construction projects in northern British Columbia and the Yukon, a spokesman for Transport Minister Don Jamieson said Tuesday.

An economic-feasibility study on the proposed railway projects was presented to the Commons on behalf of Mr. Jamieson, who was in Vancouver.

Hire Police

OXFORD, N.S. (CP) — Mayor Donald Sweete of Oxford said here Tuesday night council had obtained the services of a private security agency on a trial basis to police the town.

Seek Ships

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — An electronic search will begin near here this month for the last two unrecovered ships lost on the Great Lakes during the War of 1812.

The 110-ton Scourge and the 112-ton Hamilton, converted merchant schooners used by the United States Navy in the sacking of York and the capture of Fort George, sank in Lake Ontario on Aug. 8, 1813.

Courts Blamed

CLINTON, Ont. (CP) — Town councillors in this community of about 3,000 miles northwest of Stratford have placed part of the blame for outbreaks of hooliganism here on the slowness and leniency of Huron County courts.

Strike in Chile

SANTIAGO (AP) — Railway employees went on strike Tuesday for higher pay, paralyzing train service throughout Chile.

Sentence Cut

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Court of Appeal has reduced to three from five years the penitentiary sentence of a Kitchener youth for attempted extortion, robbery with threats of violence and theft.

Malcolm Laughlin McNeil, then 18, had been sentenced Dec. 19 by Provincial Judge Frank Costello.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League — Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: We would like to visit the Magdalen Islands and-or St. Pierre and Miquelon. Can you provide any information about these, and the best way of getting there?

ANSWER: In the Gulf of St. Lawrence 135 miles from the coast of Gaspe Peninsula, the Magdalen archipelago covering 55,000 acres is comprised of nine islands and seygral islets. These islands were first visited by Jacques Cartier in 1534 but were not settled until 1774 when the Acadians fled Nova Scotia.

This remote area now has a population of about 13,000 and a growing economy. Farming and fishing are the main industries; Magdalen lobsters are said to be the best in the world. Visitors will find sand - duned beaches, rocky coastlines and a countryside sprinkled with quaint houses. French is the spoken language for many Magdalenians also speak English.

The eight main islands are connected by bridges and sandbars. The island of Rocher-aux-Oiseaux, a large bird sanctuary, may be visited by boat through arrangements with the local fishermen. The Magdalen Islands are accessible by ferry from Pictou, N.S., Charlottetown and Souris, P.E.I. Daily air service is available from Charlottetown, PEI and Moncton, NB.

ST. PIERRE AND MIQUELON ISLANDS — These islands off the southern coast of Newfoundland now constitute France's only remaining holdings in North America. The combined areas of St. Pierre and Miquelon, once titled the Island of 11,000 virgins, total only about 93 square miles. Yet these small granite islands were much coveted and fought over by both England and France from 1660 until 1783, when by the Treaty of Versailles, France was given permanent possession.

The town of St. Pierre, most important on the islands, epitomizes the small French village. Its hospitable population, delightful French street names and interesting architecture all provide a refreshing change. Side trips may be taken once a week from St. Pierre to Langlade, a lovely beach section, and Miquelon Island. The town is accessible by boat from Fortune, Newfoundland, and North Sydney, Nova Scotia. Air service between Sydney, Nova Scotia, and St. Pierre is usually available daily, though subject to weather conditions. A Canadian passport is desirable when entering; however Canadian tourists without one are admitted upon payment of $1.10.

QUESTION: We are driving through Pennsylvania shortly; can you give us any information on conditions there after the recent floods?

ANSWER: The U.S. 6 Bridge of the Susquehanna River at Towanda is open for emergency vehicles only. U.S. 220 has two bridges out between Picture Rocks and Muncy Valley; and these are expected to be long term closures.

The unnecessary travel order has been lifted in Berks, Reading - Lancaster Valley area; to the present time there have been no reports on closures of accommodations in the central and eastern Pennsylvania area.

The Wilkes - Barre area seems also to be the hardest hit, communications are still erratic into that area, and it is under the control of the National Guard and travellers should avoid Wilkes - Barre under access to the city is by special pass only. All major highways through the Wilkes Barre - Scranton area are open and serviceable.

PM Sorry Concert All French

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau apologized to the Commons Tuesday for a French-only commentary at a July 1 Parliament Hill concert. He said future Dominion Day celebrations — planned by the government will be bilingual and multicultural.

In response to opposition complaints that there was no English commentary during a recital by Quebec pianist Andre Gagnon, the prime minister said he had talked about the July 1 performance with State Secretary Gerard Pelletier, whose department was responsible for its organization.

Mr. Trudeau did not answer suggestions that he reprimand Mr. Pelletier, but he did say: "I think I can give . . . the undertaking that after the next election Mr. Pelletier will be in another portfolio."

Later, outside the Commons, the prime minister said his remark about the state secretary's future was "partly in jest."

And, he said, it was "an indication that after the next election I hope to be in a position to shuffle all my members and ministers and I would have no intention of keeping Mr. Pelletier in that portfolio."

Canadian Traveller Dies As FBI Guns Hijackers

Ottawa Moves To Open Ports

OTTAWA (CP) — Tough federal legislation to re-open three strike-bound Quebec ports, idle since May 17, might take effect Friday.

The bill banning strikes, worker slowdowns and employer lockouts until the end of 1974 was introduced hastily Wednesday as a final solution to the labor disputes in Montreal, Quebec and Trois-Rivieres. The government could repeal the act earlier than 1974 if it chooses.

The Commons gave it first reading and then general approval—second reading—Wednesday, waiving normal rules.

The strike has backed up exports of grain and other commodities and deliveries of imported goods. It has kept Parliament sitting beyond the scheduled June 30 summer adjournment date and has involved a labor agreement between employers and the International Longshoremen's Association that had been described as a model one.

Common rules controlling the normal legislative pace were waived Wednesday with unanimous consent by the opposition, also calling for speedy passage of the rarely-used legislation. If that speed is maintained today, the bill might get the final Commons reading, then Senate approval and the finishing touch of royal assent by Gov.-Gen. Michener or a deputy by tonight.

Failing that, it seems certain to be in effect by Saturday and some of the 1,200 longshoremen at least will be back to work in the three ports by Monday. Employers say only about 700 would be needed initially.

The legislation was introduced by Labor Minister Martin O'Connell.

"Let's get the show on the road," said Lincoln Alexander (PC—Hamilton West), in support of the legislation. He criticized the government for not acting sooner.

"I want to see this law passed as quickly as possible," said New Democrat Leader David Lewis in a speech in which he criticized both the union and the employers.

McGovern Regains California Delegates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opposing Democratic forces today asked Chief Justice Warren E. Burger to convene a rare special session of the United States Supreme Court to rule on a political-legal tangle that carries with it Senator George McGovern's renewed hopes for a first-ballot Democratic presidential nomination.

At stake are 151 California convention delegates McGovern once appeared to have locked up and an effort to seat 59 Illinois delegates ousted by the Democratic party's credentials committee.

There was no indication when the chief justice might act.

Two groups are appealing a U.S. Court of Appeals decision Wednesday which reversed the party's credentials committee in the California case, but upheld it in the Illinois case.

First is the party hierarchy, which defended the committee as the proper body for deciding such matters and wants the high court to declare the election of convention delegates off-limits to the federal courts.

On the other hand, forces loyal to Chicago Mayor Richard Daley argue that the courts should upset the committee once more and restore convention seats to Daley and 58 allies.

McGovern's renewed hopes for a first-ballot presidential nomination ride on the verdict.

Protestants Defiant

BELFAST (AP) — Militant Protestants today were demanding another concession from the British government in exchange for two weeks of co-operation in the ceasefire in Northern Ireland.

The paramilitary Ulster Defence Association said it would barricade another Protestant section this weekend but after that would "grant 14 days of peace and grace" to allow British forces "to deal with the deteriorating position."

Bought Brinco Shares

Joey Smallwood Is Under Fire

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Former premier Joseph Smallwood was named by a royal commission Wednesday as one of three shareholders in a company that owned buildings rented to the provincial liquor commission and that bought shares in British Newfoundland Corp. at a time when Mr. Smallwood's Liberal government was negotiating with Brinco.

Mr. Smallwood, in a telephone interview from London, immediately denied having done anything improper. But the commission said the former Newfoundland premier was the third hidden shareholder in the company, knew he was a shareholder and was aware of at least some of the company's dealings.

The royal commission report, tabled in the legislature by Premier Frank Moores, said the seven buildings rented by the liquor commission from Brokers Trust Co. actually were owned by Investment Developers Ltd., a company owned equally by Mr. Smallwood, Arthur Lundrigan of Corner Brook, and Oliver L. Verdy, deputy minister of economic development when Mr. Smallwood was minister of that department.

Bankers Trust was a wholly-owned subsidiary of Royal Trust Co.

Mr. Moores said the government had obtained the services of J. J. Robinette, prominent Toronto lawyer, to advise "on what civil and criminal action might be taken against certain parties involved and the activities described in the report."

Finance Minister Joey Crosbie and William Marshall, minister without portfolio, will go to Toronto Friday to meet Mr. Robinette.

The royal commission, headed by a former lieutenant-governor, Fabian O'Dea, was appointed after Mr. Moores' Progressive Conservatives won election in March, ending 23 years of Liberal government. The second member of the commission was Donald Wilson, president of a local construction and engineering company.

While in opposition, the Conservatives charged that scandalous rentals were being paid by the liquor commission and described it as a "great scandal" and "stinking corruption."

The commission report said a "fair rent" for the seven buildings would have been $87,145.00 annually but the actual rent being paid was $72,192. At the same time, the commission found that the buildings were "poorly designed so that maintenance costs will be greater

ERA ENDS in Quinte antique business as three-day auction begins emptying the storerooms of Wannamaker's Antiques, at Foxboro. Examining warming pan, Myrtle Wannamaker, who launched enterprise nearly 40 years ago from hobby with husband Bert, is backed by a crowd of collectors and dealers as biggest district sale of its kind opens.

Area's Oldest Antique Shop Starts 3-day Closing Sale

By HARRY MULHALL, Staff Reporter

FOXBORO — The rural auction and antique sales season is nearing its annual peak.

But it'll be many a season before the Quinte district sees the like of the antique sale being held here.

Buyers arrived yesterday from across Ontario, Quebec and the U.S. for the first of three days of purchasing.

Under the rap of the auctioneer's gavel what they're buying is the demise of the district's longest-established antique dealer — Wannamakers of Foxboro.

"I'm just going to relax, I think — I hope. I'm not going to stay in business, that's for sure," says a slightly-wearied Myrtle Wannamaker as she surveyed the final moments of yesterday's opener from her verandah.

The attendance may not have been massive but it has been select — no bus chasing. No place for triflers, the sale drew mainly the collectors and the professionals — other dealers from other communities, some many miles away.

Three Agents Rush Plane

SAN FRANCISCO (CP) — "We wanted to stop the hijacking and stop it we did," said the FBI agent in charge, describing how authorities stormed a pirated aircraft and killed two hijackers in a gun battle that also took the life of a retired Canadian railroader who was looking for the "perfect spot" to settle in California with his wife.

Officials said shots fired by one of the hijackers killed retired CNR conductor Stanley Carter, 66, of the Montreal suburb of Longueuil and wounded two others after federal agents charged aboard an interstate Pacific Southwest Airline Boeing 737 taken over by two hijackers for six hours Wednesday.

The shootout took place while 81 passengers were still aboard the plane.

"Certainly we're not pleased that three passengers were wounded," said Robert Gebhardt, FBI special agent in charge. He made the statement before learning that Carter had died.

"But," he said in response to a reporter's question, "somebody had to make a decision."

Three FBI agents had sneaked up under the fuselage of the plane rushed aboard after the hijackers refused to release the passengers, Gebhardt said.

The slain hijackers had demanded two parachutes, $500,000 and passage to Siberia shortly after taking the plane over in the air, officials said.

Gebhardt said the FBI men moved in on the plane only after the hijackers refused to release the passengers until the ransom was handed over.

CN Men Here Knew Slain Man

Stanley Carter, the passenger shot during the attempted hijacking of a jetliner at San Francisco Wednesday, was a retired Canadian National Railways conductor and was well known among railway personnel in Belleville.

Mr. Carter and his wife had sold their home and all possessions at Longueuil, outside Montreal, and were on their way to California.

"They were going to find a perfect spot for their retirement," said Mrs. Earl Rochon of Vancouver, a family friend. "It almost sounds too good, but that's what they were going to do."

Joseph Hunter, retired CN conductor at Belleville, said he knew Mr. Carter well and was with him on the Turbo train when he made his last trip in August, 1970.

Mr. Carter was in charge of the first Rapido run and was well-known among travellers on the Toronto - Montreal run, always talking and joking with the passengers.

Mr. Carter has two sons in Vancouver, Stanley Jr. and Robert, and was in Vancouver for a month last summer visiting them and their families.

Mrs. Rochon said she and her husband visited Mr. Carter and his wife Lillian in Montreal two weeks ago.

"They were excited about their trip. They sold everything in Montreal except some presents from their grandchildren and a favorite set of glasses.

"They were leaving all the rest behind and were going to start a new life."

College Construction Plans To Undergo Staff Review

The time has come to reconsider Loyalist College's method of financing building programs, its board of governors decided last night.

At the suggestion of governor Donald M. Soutter, the college board asked the administrative staff to prepare a long range study of future building needs. If planning is begun soon enough, Mr. Soutter intimated, the college might find it more advisable to finance future construction on a stipulated fee basis instead of the present management fee basis.

The management fee basis has been used so far by community colleges to get buildings up in time to accommodate student enrolment. It speeds construction by up to six months over the usual fixed price system, and Loyalist has always come in under the estimated budget by using the system.

But both governors and administrators agreed that the fixed fee system is easier to handle, if planning begins two years in advance of construction.

Under the management-fee system, the college decides upon the amount of space needed and the facilities that must be accommodated within that space. Once the ministry of university and college affairs approves and architects are hired, plans are 30 per cent completed when a contractor is hired.

The contractor acts as the college's agent and is paid a percentage of the cost of the building. In effect, sub-contractors perform the actual construction, with the contractor acting as mediator between architect and sub-contractors.

As the building rises on its foundations, the architect completes the detailed plans for its completion.

But while the process is under way, a multitude of "change orders" pile up, and with the "change orders" could be reformed "authority to commit funds", complained college planning director Nick Fraser.

Although the stipulated-fee system is favored by governors, they admit the present system has served the college well.

The present $3.5 million building program at the moment is $140,000 under the originally estimated budget.

then usual." Mr. Moores described as "unbelievable" the method used to determine the value of the buildings.

He said that an inflated value would be put forward to Royal Trust Co., then Royal Trust would advise what amount could be advanced for mortgage purposes and the company would value the property to match the amount received for the mortgage.

Before the commission report was tabled Wednesday, Mr. Smallwood said in a telephone interview in England:

"Sandy and contractor and reputable are my suggestion or hint that I had anything whatsoever to do with those leases or the buildings or the company that owns them."

Mr. Lundrigan, a prominent businessman and lawyer, said the liquor commission were "a normal business deal - it's as simple as that." He said claims that rents were high were "a matter of opinion."

Mr. Moores said "the commission has found that Mr. Smallwood was the chief shareholder in Investment Developers Ltd., that he knew he was the chief shareholder, that the company and knew of its dealings with the Newfoundland liquor commission."

The government has stopped paying rent to the Bowring buildings and intends, if necessary, to introduce legislation to cancel the leases.

He also said the government has decided to stop doing business immediately with any firm involving Mr. Lundrigan, Mr. Vardy and Arthur Hiscock, and a local electrical contractor and Liberal supporter who leases a store to the liquor commission in Mount Pearl, about five miles from here.

Premier Moores said he had also asked the Bar Society to provide a thorough examination of why interest payments were forgiven on a loan made to the three principals of Investment Developers Ltd.

The royal commission said 3,000 shares of the company were transferred at the time to Montreal and used as security for a loan to purchase shares in British Newfoundland Corp. Brinco was set up to develop mining and hydro-electric projects in Labrador and is the major shareholder in the giant Churchill Falls hydro power station.

Premier Moores said the three men borrowed between $1.5 million and $1.6 million from the BNC when it was started in 1953 but most of the borrowing took place in June 1965.

"It is important to point out that when Mr. Smallwood left Brinco shares, Mr. Smallwood and his government arranged several mining concessions with Brinco as well as negotiating the sale of the Churchill Falls development.

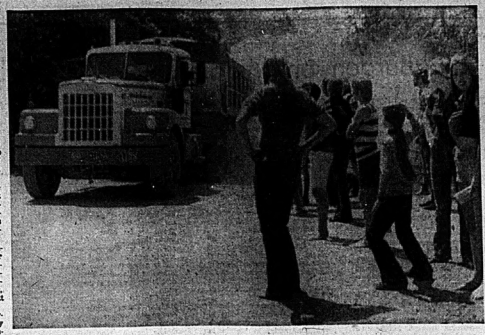
One-Tier Proposal Renewed

PICTON (Staff) — A brief proposing a county government system for Prince Edward, prepared in 1969, will be updated for presentation to Darcy McKeough, minister of economics, the treasury and intergovernmental affairs.

The decision to update the report was made last night at a meeting of county council's county government committee with representatives from the department of municipal affairs in Toronto.

All members of county council attended the meeting for a general discussion of county government with department of municipal affairs representatives Ronald Farrow, G. Church of Toronto and Scott Summerville of Trenton.

Prince Edward county warden Ross Downey said today he supports county government on a one-tier basis but disagrees with the concept of a two-tier system. He suggested a two-tier system would be hindered in its operations by red tape and leave Prince Edward "right back to where it is".



Vacation Swim Class Completed

More than 7 people either learned to swim or improved their endurance in the water after completing a five-week course at the Belleville Family YMCA.

A spokesman for the Y said the course is designed to teach people to swim in a short period of time.

"The crash program is necessary when so many people will be taking to the water on vacation," said the Y spokesman.

In the pre-beginner class, taught and examined by Joanne Tugnett and Janet Ward, 48 of the 91 applicants passed.

Four out of 10 applicants were awarded their junior standing after a class taught and examined by Jim Cleveland physical education director for the Y.

Six-year-olds to adults participated in the course.

Vandals Destroy Property

PICTON (Staff) — A report from Picton police chief George Pitt this week informed town council that wilfull property damage here last month totalled $1,110.

No description of the vandalism was provided in the report.

Picton recreation director Wayne Ring told council that a fountain and a small building at the Delhi Athletic Field were wrecked during the holiday weekend but he had not called the police since he could not pinpoint when the damage occurred or offer any other information.

A flag also was stolen from the playground.

Advice of 45 Years Ago Obviously Was Good

Back in 1931 at the age of 54 Sidney township farmer Frederick W. Marner was advised by his doctor that for health reasons he would have to give up work on the land.

So he took the physician's advice, gave up farming and moved to the city where the following year he opened a grocery store at 62 Queen St.

There, the long hours behind the counter seemed to agree with him and for the next 30 years he operated the corner store. He retired in 1962, turning the business over to his son Wallace.

That was 10 years ago but at 95 Mr. Marner is still physically active while his appearance belies his advanced age. Born in Scotland, Mr. Marner came to Canada in 1911, originally settling in the Foxboro area.

Now a resident at the Maple Haven Nursing Home on Avonlough Road, west of the city, Mr. Marner will celebrate his birthday on Saturday, July 8.

Family members will gather to offer birthday congratulations but otherwise it will be a quiet day for the nonagenarian who 40 years ago was almost given up by his doctor.

Wrist Broken

An elderly man was admitted to Belleville General Hospital yesterday after he was struck by a car in the parking lot of the Bellcrest Nursing Home at 431 Dundas Street West.

City police report, Raymond Lucas, 79, a resident at the home, suffered a fractured right wrist and knee injuries after being struck by a car driven by Monte Moorcroft, 38, of 282 College Street West.

Frankford Bridge Project OK'd at Cost of $1,182,993

While residents of the Belleville - Rossmore area are campaigning for a new bridge over the Bay of Quinte, the village of Frankford is to get a new structure over the Trent River and canal.

Wednesday Quinte riding member Dr. R. T. Potter announced that the department of transportation and communications had awarded a contract to Looby Construction Ltd., of Dublin, Ont., for the reconstruction of 1.5 miles of No. 33 highway at Frankford, including the Trent River and canal bridges.

The contract for $1,182,993 also includes reconstruction of a .4 mile diversion for Hastings county road No. 5 easterly from Highway 33.

Frankford Reeve William Rose said his village had been requesting a new bridge for the Highway 33 route for the past eight years.

The announcement from Toronto gave no indication when a construction start would be made on the Frankford bridge but Mr. Rose said it could be any time.

The new bridge will replace the present antiquated one lane steel truss structure which was opened prior to World War I.

The present river bridge and canal swing bridge will remain until the new structure is completed following which they will be removed.

The new bridge structure will commence just north of the village's main intersection on the west side of the river and will cross the river and canal at an angle to the northeast. It will provide access to the village park and campsite located between the canal and the river.

Looby Construction, the general contractor for the new Frankford bridge is already working in the Belleville area. The firm has the sub-contract for building the CPR-Highway 2 overpass now under construction just west of the city.

The .4 mile diversion on Hastings county road 5, is necessary to provide a direct access from the Foxboro - Frankford road to the new bridge approach on the east side of the Trent Canal.

The county road diversion, to be paid for entirely by the province, will pass through the gravel pit area north of the Oaks Restaurant to connect with county road near the eastern limits of the village.

The new bridge over the river and canal will be high enough to permit passage of pleasure boats on the canal without the necessity of a swing bridge.

Yesterday, with the official opening of the Trent Canal for the 1972 season, the need for a new canal bridge was clearly indicated.

Highway traffic at Frankford was held up for a longer than usual time to allow the passage of a contingent of pleasure boats up the canal.

Council Not Pool Operator

PICTON — An administrative unit is needed to supervise the Prince Edward County swimming pool program during holidays and after school hours.

Town council has agreed in principle to appoint members of the town's recreation and parks committee to work with county school board members in administering the program, pending completion of the pool.

A report in Wednesday's Intelligencer said town council had agreed in principle to act as an administrative group.

Parents Blame 'Open Class' For Picton School Problem

PICTON (Staff) — The open area teaching system featured at Queen Elizabeth school has been criticized harshly by several parents who have had their children transferred to other schools in Prince Edward County because of it.

Town council Tuesday night voted to hold a public meeting between parents and a special committee of council to discover the reasons behind the 63 transfers reported from QE school.

"I'm very much against it," said one mother discussing the open area teaching at QE in an interview yesterday.

She claimed her daughter "cried and had nightmares and did not want to go to school" while enrolled at QE but experienced a complete change in attitude after a transfer to Pinecrest school in Bloomfield.

The child's mother noted she was unable to concentrate when in a group of four students under the open team system and often failed to catch up with class work by doing extra reading at home.

When the problem was discussed with school principal Carl Reid the mother claimed she was told her daughter would be faced with learning to concentrate in a group when she left school eventually to take a job.

The mother said a problem seemed to exist between the principal and staff members since teachers "get off out of sight and haven't a clue what the students are doing". She said she had been told by one teacher that her daughter had done extra work and completed several projects, when, in fact, she had only finished one.

The only regret is that she wasn't started at Pinecrest at the beginning of the year," said the parent who said she was very much in favor of the system at the Bloomfield elementary school.

Another mother whose two youngsters have been transferred from QE said she and her husband were dissatisfied with their accomplishments.

She observed her son and daughter appeared unable to cope with the open area teaching system and needed a structured classroom.

After transferral to another elementary school she said both children began to cope readily and each has passed this term.

Youth Saves Chum While Swimming

CANNIFTON (Staff) — A drowning was averted yesterday afternoon by the quick action of a 15-year-old Belleville youth.

Timothy Nickason, 14, of 43 Grove Street, was in the water with two friends on the north side of the Cannifton Bridge in the Moira River yesterday afternoon.

Tim, a non-swimmer, apparently panicked when he got into deep water.

His friend of 10 months, John Wesley Henry, 15, of 56 Safe Boulevard, dove in and swam to his rescue.

Although John admits he's never had any lifesaving exercise, he said it seemed the best thing to do at the time. "I was sitting on shore and as soon as I saw him go under, I jumped into the water," he said.

Fighting the swift current, John managed to bring his friend close to shore, but was unable to complete the rescue. "I had him in to shore, but he grabbed me and took me under."

At this point, John's brother Gary threw out an inner tube they used for swimming. "He grabbed hold of it and we got him to shore," the youthful rescuer told The Intelligencer.

Ontario Provincial Police from Belleville report the Nickason boy was rushed to Belleville General Hospital. He remains in hospital for observation.

The open area system was named by a third mother as the reason she sought a transfer for her son when he became a grade 5 student at QE.

Although he had been termed "exceptional" in mathematics in Grade 4 he began to do poorly in this subject at the Grade 5 level where open area teaching begins.

The mother said he enjoyed a "good year" in Grade 6 at Athol school and regained interest in his subjects.

She added that Grade 6 seemed to be the largest class at Athol school, evidence to her that many parents must have sought transfers as their children proceeded into the open area teaching system at the Grade 5 level.

Another mother volunteered that "no big beef" prompted a decision by her and her husband to seek transfers for their three children but "a lot of minor problems" became obvious at QE.

She said their children "basically were not getting the type of education they felt was necessary" and one daughter was "pestered" by fellow students. When this was drawn to the teachers' attention the girl was blamed for teasing the classmates but the problem resolved itself as soon as she was transferred to Athol school.

The children's mother added: "Although classes at QE apparently were "fun" sometimes the youngsters were frequently tense. At Athol school she said they relaxed and now enjoy classes so much that they do not want a summer vacation.

"It's hard to put your finger on it," declared the young mother discussing the problem which led to the transfers. A list of children transferred shows that often three to four students in the same family have been moved to other schools at their parents' request.

Go North Man!

Things the travel posters don't tell about: like, man, we are heading north into darkest Hastings, for the first time in a while and — right on Daddy — the scene is changing; for there, where we turn into Bancroft's main street the first pair of citizens to pass are two young males in blue jeans with head bands atop the usual generous growth of hair.

And up in Haliburton, across from The County News there is some fencing heavily emblazoned with peace signs and other insignia of the New Left and we think of other places around the world where this kind of thing may be seen — like Stonehenge and well just about everywhere, man.

Along the route, through Madoc where the sewage treatment development has absorbed a large tract of land just this side of the village, north into the woods and lake country, we stop at Jordan Lake but retreat hurriedly because of the bugs. At Robinson Lake things are a little better.

New park areas have been developed on lakes along the way, some of them quite small but useful and attractive too. Back near Belleville we had noticed new houses along Highway 62 and a craft shop by the side of the road which was not there when last we took this route.

In any such venture into the hinterland there is always the evidence of the past, of obsolescence and diminishment that has seen better days, occasionally a place tucked away in the trees and you wonder why some folks seem to like being buried away in the woods, bugs and all. Maybe they develop an immunity. And scenes out of a Rolf Beny painting — eloquent of isolation with the farm bric-a-brac, abandoned machinery and auto hulks lying all around.

In Haliburton it is still hazy, but we drive to the Skyline lookout anyway and there is visibility enough to observe a far horizon across the rooftops of the community below and across vast tracts of woodland. It is lonely up there too and besides, the mosquitos are zeroing in again; our binoculars pick up a beach and some parkland area beside the lake and that is where we find them — the usual teenage girls in the water but the water's edge is a little uninviting, with some litter although we have seen much worse. Good enough though for a paddle by a two-year-old and a spell on some cooling sand. And as the afternoon wears on the teenagers go home and another couple and their two small children arrive. It is quiet by the lake — and cool and soon it is time to leave for home.

Demolition?

We are a little disappointed to note that Hastings county council has decided that the old registry office now housing the county museum is not worth preserving.

Once it is demolished the loss is irreparable. Is there nothing of value to which the building might be put rather than having to see it go — another victim of the greedy demands of the automobile? For the plan is to use the empty space in Church Street for additional parking at the county buildings.

It is a while since we have been in the old museum (as such its contents are being moved to their new home at Glanmore House on Bridge Street) and we recall the interior was a little cramped. Nevertheless it might serve say as a branch library, a nursery school, a teen centre or some such possible use.

At least, some further thought might be given to its future. After all, demolition — like death — is so final.

Tempus Fugit

He is a bold one who chooses to remind us that the year is beginning to decline, just ever so slightly, a fraction or so less daylight and all that. It is nothing to worry about really, although the thought of our hard-won summer being the relatively brief thing it is can never be far from mind. Meanwhile we can still take pleasure in the sunny sights all around: the yachts on the bay, the city's leafy avenues, the mystic pockets of shade, flowers in Corby Park, the pretty girls downtown and the passing scene generally.

An Opposition MP Throws in the Sponge

Growing Tax Burden on Middle-Class 'Irreversible'

By RICHARD JACKSON
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Taxpayers in the middle income group have to be born losers the way things have been working out these last two years since former Finance Minister Benson left for "reform".

They lost, initially, when Mr. Benson, in engineering his "reform" rammed it through Parliament with the help of government pill-driving majority, said they would have to carry the bigger tax-load because "that's where the money is".

They lost again, when, in his first budget five weeks ago, the new Finance Minister John Turner neglected to mention that income tax rates are going up three percent at the end of the year.

They continued losing again just the other day when Welfare Minister John Munro said that if poverty was to be wiped out, they would have to pay for it in what he called "resource transfers of magnitude" — in plain words, money from their taxes — to and for the poor.

Now they are still losing with the coming retirement from Parliament of an MP who has to be considered one of the few consistently effective defenders of the increasingly disregarded right of middle income taxpayers to keep a fair share of their incomes.

They are relatively few because, unlike Jack McIntosh, Conservative MP for Swift Current-Maple Creek, most parliamentarians, regardless of party seem more than willing to have the government pay for almost anything any special interest or pressure group wants.

They find it so easy to say let the government pay, forgetting the government can spend only what it gets out of the taxpayers.

But Jack McIntosh always remembers it, and knows that when it comes to paying, the big middle income group, "the guy earning between $7,000 and $12,000," as he brackets him, is "it".

And figures in National Revenue's latest "Green Book" on income tax statistics confirm him — that "fall guy in the middle," as he calls the $7,000 to $12,000 bracket, pays 49 percent of the total tax bill.

Why is Jack McIntosh, a veteran of 14 hard-working years in Parliament, giving up?

For two reasons:

1. He is convinced from what he has eye-witnessed at the centre of national political action here that what he terms the small "l" liberal drive for the welfare state of socialism is irreversible, with its crusading activists at work in all parties except Social Credit.

2. He is without conviction that Conservative leader Robert Stanfield, even should he win the next election could — even if he sincerely wishes it—throw what he terms "this welfare Cadillac" into neutral, much less into reverse.

But could not it be better for Jack McIntosh, holding to his small "c" conservative faith so unalterably, to remain in Parliament and continue his lonely fight against the supremacy of the welfare state?

"Too late," he says, "the game is over, and John Munro, Bryce Mackasey, John Turner and Edgar Benson, with their Liberal, Conservative and New Democratic allies are the winners."

Jack McIntosh is completely honest in his disillusion.

He has long since dropped out of the Conservative caucus, lacking faith that either the party as it is now constituted or Robert Stanfield in its leadership can change things.

It is a fact of life that Edgar Benson's tax "reform" has overloaded the middle income group to the point where it works three to four months every year for the government just to pay the tax collector.

It is a fact that John Turner is loading on another three percent in the tax rate at the year's end.

And in the Commons, Prime Minister Trudeau himself has confirmed Welfare Minister Munro in his warning to the middle income group that it alone will have to pay those "transfer in magnitude" tax funds to the poor.

Mr. Munro had sounded like Edgar Benson in declaring, the way Nova Scotia Conservative MP Patrick Nowlan and Jack McIntosh, among others, resent it, that government tax policy is geared to "suck it to the middle income group to help the upper brackets and seduce the poor".

Did the Prime Minister have any more ideas in mind, asked Robert Stanfield, in order to punish the middle income group "other, of course, than it's becoming three percent increase in income taxes?"

And the Prime Minister countered that Mr. Stanfield better "keep in mind" the fact that the middle income group will have to pay "the next time he pressed for more for the poor".

Worried Liberal MPs, fretting about Mr. Munro's latest threat to the middle income class, have asked him, almost pleadingly, in the Commons, if he really meant it — praying for a "denial" — but so far no firm answer.

Meanwhile, Jack McIntosh, among an increasing number of other like-minded MPs, has had enough, and will be leaving at the end of this Parliament.

"I'm becoming a bit confused about who the real liberators are—the Americans liberated my arm and the North liberated my leg!"

Senator McGovern Still A Mystery Man to Many

By JOHN HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

How much do Canadians know about the policies of Sen. George McGovern who could be the next president of the United States? Not much, and understandably so.

Until a few weeks ago, when his campaign "took off," he was unknown to most Americans. And even now, the U.S. media are running stories or doing TV documentaries on what makes McGovern run.

The senator's path to the White House, as of this date, has more than the usual encumbrances to it. Assuming he gets there, he first must be chosen in Miami Beach next week as the standard bearer of the Democratic party against President Nixon.

And that looks as though it's going to be something of a political bloodbath, since the Democrats in the United States, like the Conservatives in Canada, have their political breasts in public.

Sen. McGovern will face, or will find it necessary to impose, a credentials fight on the floor of that convention, since his party's national credentials committee took away 151 of the votes he won in the California primary.

No one can be quite sure why these votes were taken away from him, nor why the Democratic party headquarters in Washington was bombed last month by a group of right-wing Cuban exiles and known former CIA agents existing there.

Can it be McGovern's left-wing views, or extremism even for the liberal Democratic party? Are Americans at the point of not keeping up the crusade against communism, keeping governments as small as possible, having less rather than more taxation, afraid of McGovern and his personal record?

If they feel that way about these issues they should be.

His program, if even implemented the way he has outlined it during his campaign, would radically change the direction and national purpose of the United States.

On defence, McGovern not only wants out of Vietnam now, but a reduction of $32 billion in defence spending spread over the years 1972-75. His 56-page study of defence budget re-allocations sees these huge sums going into needy social sector projects.

McGovern who claims, with accuracy, that about 40 per cent of U.S. companies paid no corporate income tax last year, would bounce the corporate rate up to 52 per cent from 48 percent 48 per cent, and, over a period, end such historic perks as depletion allowances in the petroleum and oil depletion allowance.

He would increase U.S. federal aid to schools, elementary and secondary, by about $15 billion over present figures and would support school busing to the extent it honestly achieves the necessary racial balance in a community.

The senator would boost federal expenditures even higher through his proposed health insurance plan, funded by Washington, guaranteed to everyone. This is still a radical measure in the U.S. where "medicare" means a limited federal assistance program to citizens over 65, not the universal plan known in Britain, Sweden or Canada.

McGovern on income would come close to the also controversial guaranteed annual wage by substituting minimum income grants of about $1,000 yearly in place of welfare payments.

Any one of these programs strikes terror into the heart of the American conservative, in or out of the Democratic Party.

McGovern appears to want a social democracy along the Western European or Canadian lines — in a democracy which likes a good deal of talking about equality, but where millions of Americans violently oppose the welfare state and social change.

Hazen Argue Gets His Way

Senate Approves Standing Committee on Agriculture

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

Sen. Hazen Argue has finally attained one of his ambitions. He has convinced his colleagues in the upper House to establish a Senate standing committee on agriculture — a subject close to his heart.

In recent years, it has been the special committees established by the Senate which have received the most publicity and attention. The committee on poverty, one on science policy, Sen. Davey's committee on the mass media and the joint Senate-Commons committee, on the constitution, are examples of these. But, as is the case with the Commons, much of the day-to-day committee work of the Senate is done in permanent standing committees.

It has been 40 years since the Senate had a standing committee on agriculture and since his appointment to that body, Sen. Argue has attempted to take some of the emphasis away from the big grain and export problems and direct more attention to the problems of the farmer. The new committee will have a membership of 21, chaired by Sen. Argue with Sen. Herve Michaud as vice-chairman. Among the members will be the government leader of the Senate, Paul Martin, and the leader of the Opposition, Sen. Jacques Flynn.

The new committee lost no time in getting down to business with a study of the annual report of the Canadian Wheat Board. It will also study the agricultural legislation that comes from the Commons and the chairman and vice-chairman plan to make a preliminary survey in July of some of the farm problems in New Brunswick, particularly in the areas where incomes are especially low.

Sen. Argue sees a Senate committee on agriculture as having many useful functions including making enquiries into specific agricultural problems of a regional nature. He also envisages the committee looking into some of the matters that threaten to cause bitterness and division between eastern and western agriculture, such as the current question of feed grain pricing.

The Commons standing committee on agriculture has, at times, been a strongly partisan body and has seen some stormy sessions during examination of such legislation as the Farm Products Marketing Act. Perhaps Sen. Argue's Senate committee will be able to bring the Senate's traditional sobriety and thought to bear for the benefit of the important agricultural segment of the economy.

The New Democrats' recent attack on the increases in the federal government information programs is bound to attract some support from the public when people realize that spending on departmental information programs has risen from $35.5 million in 1969-70 to almost $60 million for the current fiscal year. In addition, Information Canada has been established in the meantime with its own steadily rising budget.

Animal Deaths on Highway

Cornwall Standard - Freeholder

During the summer, there is always a substantial loss of life on the highway, not only human life, but the lives of animals.

Perhaps the serious loss of life among people due to highway hazards overshadows considerations of the damage to wild life, and this is as it should be. However, we cannot refrain from an occasional feeling of revulsion and distaste as we see the roadsides littered with the bodies of animals here and there.

Are some of these things avoidable? We suppose that many are not and there are probably some such incidents when the driver is not even aware of what he did. But the commonest cause must be high speed, even excessive speed.

Although the animal is almost invariably the helpless victim, and is all too often left to die from injuries along the roadside there are some which take a sort of revenge on the motorist.

Large animals, whether wild or domestic, can cause severe damage to the vehicle striking them at high speed.

Another animal which is often killed on the road, the skunk, often takes an altogether different kind of revenge. Skunks are among the commonest victims because they are so confident of their defence they do not back down or hesitate for anything. They will scoot to allow themselves to be run over by a speeding car.

And sometimes, not always, the scent gland's leave their trademark, which is certainly difficult to overlook. The smell of skunk on a car is sometimes a sort of punishment for doing the crime himself. It overwhelms the dead animal. However, it must be true that, no matter how reckless the driver, no one runs over a skunk on purpose, and it is all too often left to die on road who have been known to do this sort of thing to other species.

It's A New Badge For Bill Warring

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

Bill Warring is carrying a new badge today.

But then, the 56-year-old George Street resident has been carrying one for almost 30 years.

The difference is that his new one reads "Detective Retired" on its shiny surface.

Last night Detective William Warring was honored by fellow officers of the Belleville Police Department at a dinner and reception at the Elks Hall. It was an evening charged with emotion, for the easy-going but steadfast detective is the first officer in approximately five years to retire from the force. He joined in 1946.

Bill Warring is not a man who feels comfortable with ceremonies. He talked briefly about his early police days with the RCAF military police at Mountain View Airport and the era in which Belleville was manned with only seven policemen.

Fellow detective Donald Yearwood recalls, "he's the type to give breaks. He took 19 times as many drunks home as he turned in."

It was Detective Yearwood who related what may be the veteran officer's finest hour. It's a fact that Detective Warring didn't make mention of it.

On a warm summer's day several years ago, two uniformed officers radioed for assistance. A man with a levelled shotgun was holding the officers at bay.

A car arrived at the scene. Bill Warring, dressed in plain clothes, walked up to this man he knew and asked for the loaded gun. The man gave himself up. There weren't any heroics involved. It was just a job that had to be done.

Like the only time Detective Warring ever fired his police revolver.

"This was my first big case."

"I had just picked up another constable when we got a call to Jimmy Clark's gas station at Dundas and Charles. He'd had a robbery.

"We pulled into another station near the tourist park (where the Kinsmen Pool now stands). We saw these fellows breaking into the other station, a Regent gas station."

At the time, he was armed with his service revolver, the other policeman Jack Balyo, a set of handcuffs.

"I ran down toward the park and told him he'd better stop. He didn't, so I fired into the air. I fired again, low but wide of him and he ran into the bush.

"I fired another and saw him wiggle into the bushes near a trench. I told him to come out. Just then, I saw another one coming at a dead run and told him to stop or I'd let him have it. He flattened right down."

After escorting the pair back to the police car, a third man was observed going over a fence. His partner ordered him to stop or he'd shoot. "But he had no gun," he chuckled. "I fired into the air and he stopped."

It was learned that the trio had stolen a car from Hamilton, Detective Warring's home town, driven to Montreal, stolen licence plates and on the way back, robbed five service stations.

One of Belleville's most intriguing crime cases, which involved the theft of one of Canada's rare philatelic items and testimony by one of the world's leading authorities on stamp collections, was handled by Bill Warring.

While a widow was visiting relatives in Toronto, a youth broke into her Belleville home stealing her late husband's valuable stamp collection.

In order to identify one of the stamps, Cadillac's foremost dealer, K. Bileski of Winnipeg was brought to court in Belleville and showed the court his tiny initial on the rear of the stamp for which the collector had paid $1,500.

"Down through the years we've had quite a bit of crime here," he said, recalling the time bigtime Toronto hoodlums blew two gasoline station safes in Belleville and then set an old-fashioned shootout with police in Peterborough. "They've gone and others have taken their place."

The tributes were many and most followed those made by ex-Chief John McLaughlin and present Chief Douglas Crosbie, and the ex-chief: "he was a real dependable, sincere policeman who gave freely of his own time."

Says Chief Crosbie: "Bill's been a dedicated and loyal officer."

But the finest tribute may have been paid recently. Detective Warring had reason to visit a downtown store. And while there, a young woman clerking at the retail outlet said to him: "I remember you. When I was a little girl, I used to wait for you to help me across the street."

He still has a few more days to serve as court officer during Hastings County Court Sessions. After that he may travel south to Florida.

"I don't really know what I'd like to do just yet," he said as he left the reception.

"But if anyone ever needs any help, or calls me, I guess I wouldn't mind helping out."

Tradition Begun

Canadian Is Killed

Carter was overheard by a passenger in front telling his wife after the shooting: "I'm gone."

The distraught Mrs. Carter told her husband: "No! No! You will be all right."

"A shot rang out, and Mr. Carter was hit in the back," said Vincent Rocco of Sacramento, who said he was sitting next to the Canadian.

Rocco, speaking with tears in his eyes, said Carter had been asking about retirement possibilities in Southern California.

In San Diego, actress President J. Floyd Andrews said: "The FBI took this out of our hands and directed the action. They stormed the aircraft and in the ensuing melee the hijackers were shot and the passengers injured." At the time Andrews did not know that Carter had died.

The wounded passengers, reported in fair condition in hospital, were Victor Sen Yung, 56, a Universal City, Calif., actor who plays the Chinese cook in the TV series Bonanza, and Leo Gormley, 66, of Van Nuys, Calif.

The dead hijackers were identified by cards from their pockets as Dimitr Alexiev, 23, of Hayward, Calif., and Michael Aamundt, 26, of San Francisco.

Reuters news agency said they were believed to be Bulgarian refugees. The Associated Press said it was believed the two emigrated from Russia in the mid-1950s.

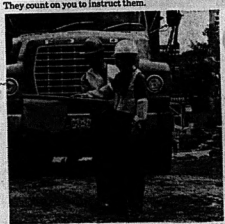
Student safety on the job. The now and future dividend

Students are the futures of Canada. Invest in them. They can do all kinds of jobs for you, and will, all through summer.

Remember if you're an employer, the students count on you to instruct them, about their responsibilities and about the hazards of the job. Introduce them to appropriate safety clothing and equipment and most important, establish with them the proper attitude of accident prevention. What they learn now they teach in the future.

If you are a summer working student learn to work safely. Listen and observe carefully. New opportunities, work procedures and new environments are most rewarding when you go through the day without accidents. Take care of yourself. That's Self-Defence. It works for you and those around you. Safe habits pay great dividends now and in the future. Have a happy summer.

They count on you to instruct them.



They're students still.

Self-Defence—most rewarding.

Self-defence. It works.

Many Ontario Doctors Not Paid Since April

TORONTO (CP) — Many Ontario doctors have received no payment from the province's medical care plan since April, an Ontario Medical Association spokesman said Wednesday.

Ronald Brownridge, assistant secretary of the OMA, said doctors have flooded the association headquarters with calls of complaint. They could be owed an average of $10,000 each, he said.

Mr. Brownridge said the government advised the medical association that no cheques would be mailed out in May because the health and hospital insurance plans were being merged, with a new monthly payment system being set up.

But they were assured payment by June 25, he said, and to borrow money from their banks to pay their staffs.

A spokesman for the Ontario Health Insurance Plan said the bulk of cheques were out on or before June 25, with less than 200 doctors, who did not have their claims in by the May 10 deadline, not paid yet.

May Be Tests

TORONTO (CP) — Compulsory annual vehicle inspection and psychological tests for new drivers may be necessary to stop the carnage on Ontario highways, Gordon Carton, provincial minister of transportation and communication, said Wednesday.

Gets Injunction

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Jacqueline Onassis has won a permanent injunction limiting the photographic activities of free-lance photographer Ronald E. Galella.

Oppose Death

CALGARY (CP) — Canadian Jaycees approved a motion Wednesday urging the federal government to abolish capital punishment.

Mistrial

TORONTO (CP) — Judge Lloyd Graburn declared a mistrial Wednesday in the month-long trial of six men charged with conspiring to distribute obscene pocket books here and elsewhere in Ontario.

In dismissing the jury, Judge Graburn said the mistrial developed because a witness had gratuitously given inadmissible evidence, necessitating a new trial.

On trial are Gordon McAuslane, Maurice Geller, Victor Santangelo, Mason Hauser, Ross Wise and Maurice Festing. They were remanded to Aug. 7 when a new trial date will be set.

They were charged with their companies, Capital Distributing, Cross-Canada News and North American News.

Found Guilty

Opportunities for Youth Program Under Attack

TORONTO (CP) — Is the federal Opportunities for Youth program an effective means of providing jobs to give students money to return to school or a make-work device aimed at buying off a discontented segment of society?

Doug Rowland, New Democratic Party member of Parliament for Selkirk, raised the "make-work" charge in the Commons March 30, suggesting that the program was essentially for middle-class youth.

The MP's charge was backed by the report of an evaluation committee set up by the department of the secretary of state under whose jurisdiction the program operates.

The report said the program's main goals, as defined by the government, had been to provide jobs to give students money to return to school and to provide summer activity which the students involved considered worthwhile. It contended the program had largely failed to reach the first goal, but had been fairly successful with the second.

Max Beck, director of the program, admits that in a rush to get the project operational by the summer of 1971, a number of shortcuts were taken and perhaps made the program less effective than it might have been. His staff has taken steps to change this situation for the current summer program.

"There have been salary increments right across the board for one thing," said Mr. Beck in an interview Wednesday. "Where the maximum last year was $75 a week, it's been increased to $90 and the period of time they can work on the projects has been extended to as long as 18 weeks so that some students can make as much as $1,000 this year."

Mr. Beck said criteria have been built into selection of the projects so that students who show the greatest need will receive the most money.

Also, priority is given to projects in communities where unemployment is high and income low, he said.

"Last year most of the money went to the major centres, especially the university towns. This year, out of 20,381 jobs created, 17,014 are being carried out in rural areas and 12,387 in centres with a population of more then 20,000."

This change in priorities reflects another criticism by the evaluation committee—that the program should serve communities "as defined by the community" since many municipalities had complained they had not been consulted about the projects.

Fireworks Pointed Toward Onlookers

TORONTO (CP) — All 14 fireworks launchers were aimed towards spectators at a Victoria Day display where a 13-year-old girl was killed by an exploding rocket, a coroner's inquest was told Wednesday.

Arthur Leggett, an engineering assistant with the Metropolitan Toronto works department, said the launchers were angled upwards between 67 and 71 degrees but laterally four of the 14 pointed to the spot 321 feet away where Lucy Innocente stood.

A rocket which failed to explode in the air landed just behind her and blew up, killing the girl and injuring three others in the city park.

The May 22 fireworks display was sponsored by a church and conducted by York borough firemen.

Det.-Sgt. John Holm of the Metropolitan Toronto police said he would not have fired any of the rocket-type fireworks in the conditions that existed atBorough of York's Smythe Park the night Lucy was killed.

Profit Was Main Motive In Eighteen Hijackings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Since last fall, when the man known as D. B. Cooper made world headlines when he bailed out of a Northwest Airlines jet, taking with him $200,000 in ransom money, there have been 16 other aerial hijackings in which the profit motive was the dominant one.

Cooper, to use the name listed in airlines records, bailed out somewhere between Seattle, Wash., and Reno, Nev., on the eve of the U.S. Thanksgiving Day—Nov. 24—and hasn't been seen since.

Most of the subsequent air pirates haven't been so lucky. Five of those who tried to emulate Cooper are dead—including the two men who were killed by FBI agents in San Francisco Wednesday night.

Ten of the ransom attempts ended with the hijackers either surrendering or being busted down and arrested. One hijacker killed himself.

Actually, the spate of ransom hijackings started before anyone heard of D. B. Cooper.

Paul Joseph Cini, 27, of Calgary, took over an Air Canada DC-8 bound for Toronto from Vancouver on Nov. 12, 1971, 12 days before Cooper's flight. He demanded and got $10,000 in ransom and a parachute, but was overpowered when he attempted to strap it on.

More Strike

TORONTO (CP) — About 10,500 Ontario Hydro workers were off the job Wednesday as the Canadian Union of Public Employees continued its rotating strikes against the public utility.

The workers off represented about 90 per cent of the 11,700 members of Local 1000 of CUPE which began the strikes June 26.

Graduation Ceremonies Held at Marmora

MARMORA — "Set goals and work towards them, continually reviewing and revising them so that they are formed in your lives," was the advice given by vice-principal elect Robert Bateman of Centre Hastings Secondary School on Thursday evening to the 83 graduates of Marmora Senior School.

The students received their diplomas before a capacity crowd of parents, friends and teachers in the gymnasium of the school which the students had decorated in the school colors of red black and white. Symbolic of their leaving the elementary phase of their education behind them the graduates walked in the beautifully decorated stage through an archway marked M.S.S. (Marmora Senior School) and, after receiving their certificates from principal Ken Gillies, left by way of another door bearing C.H.S.S. (Centre Hastings Secondary School) to begin their high school years.

Streamers and cloud shaped cards with the names of the 83 grads decorated the remaining walls of the gymnasium, as well as the entrance.

Mr. Gillies was assisted in the presentation of the diplomas by the two Grade 8 teachers, Mrs. Lorna Ketcheson and Jack Murphy.

Valedictorian, Patsy Vilneff daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Vilneff, said it was an honor and a pleasure to speak on behalf of all the graduates. She thanked parents for their understanding and encouragement and teachers for their unfailing assistance and interest.

Before the graduation exercises, the graduates, teachers and those members of the community who had assisted in extra-curricular activities during the year, were guests at a staff supper. The food was prepared by the Grade 8 girls under the direction of Mrs. Ketcheson and a few mothers and servers by the Grade 13 girls.

Head table guests included Mr. and Mrs. Bateman, Mr. and Mrs. Gillies, Mr. Murphy and Rev. John Peters who pronounced the blessing.

Women Crippled By Fear of Doing Well

MONTREAL (CP) — North American women are crippled by a fear of doing well but are confused and resentful of a tradition that has taught them they are little more than imperfect males, a symposium of women psychologists was told Wednesday.

Papers presented by women psychologists to an independent symposium at the Canadian Psychological Association meeting said that understanding of these conflicts in women is hamstrung by ignorance and often one-sided research.

The symposium, financed by contributions from participants, was sparked by unsuccessful attempts by women psychologists to have research papers specifically about women included on the official CPA journal.

The CPA program committee turned down two papers on women last year saying they would not fit into any scheduled discussion. This year they rejected a suggestion that an entire symposium be devoted to research on women, on grounds that they had already turned down numerous full symposiums on even more established fields of research.

Dr. Phyllis Douglas, past president of the CPA, told the women's group it will be Friday morning, they arranged the rib. "Changes are coming, partly prompted by the women's liberation movement, a new attitude among some mothers to bring up their daughters to be different from themselves.

"There are still those who live through their children as shown by reports on why people have children in first place. But children are being allowed independence to develop.

"Perhaps the secret is to show girls they can be mother and also do other things even though they may have to pay a price," she said.

Few Inmates Attend Church

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Ninety per cent of the 400,000 prisoners in American prisons never go to the prison chapel services because they identify the chaplain with the establishment and regard him as a part of the punishment process.

"But they'll listen to someone from outside," says a Dallas minister who seeks to reach them daily over a radio network of more than 60 stations.

Dr. Raymond Hoekstra—the man they call merely Chaplain Ray — believes he reaches around two-thirds of the penitentiaries and prisons, plus "countless" city and county jails and prison farms.

His broadcasts—Hoekstra spots bought from commercial stations—reach as far as Canada and Mexico. Cassette tapes of his broadcasts go even farther afield—to Haiti, Jamaica and Manila.

Hoekstra, 58, employs a full-time staff of eight plus some volunteers who operate from busy offices at the Forest Hills Conservative Baptist Church near White Rock Lake in East Dallas.

A high-speed duplicator tapes 5½ hours of programs in just two minutes, and then mail averaging 150 letters a day is opened and answered, cassettes are dispatched and mail stacked all over the station.

Each prisoner who asks for it gets a free Bible—a white one for the women and girls, a black one for the men. With each Bible go four "inspirational leaflets, usually one prisoner's tale of his conversion or the poems he wrote within his cell.

The big mailing response has made Chaplain Ray a kind of counsellor to many of the prison population. He helps where he can to answer problems.

Hoekstra says he tries to establish contact with his listeners by telling them that Him Himself was a prisoner—that He died on a death row, convicted by false accusers for political reasons.

"I explain how close He was to the world that they know—the world of criminals, and guards, and judges. It makes them feel: Well, He was one of us."

Hoekstra's prison ministry is financed by free-will contributions from churches, Sunday schools, prayer circles and individuals.

Divorce Is Simple Matter In Haiti

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Name of spouse? Date of marriage? Grounds for seeking a divorce? Is reconciliation impossible?

The answers come back almost as automatically to the well-dressed, efficient, ring-backing lawyer. After a momentary checking of papers, he signs the divorce decree with a hint of flourish and says crisply: "Divorce granted."

It is as simple as that under the laws of Haiti, the Caribbean island republic that has succeeded Mexico as the place to go for quickie divorces.

Several women in the group of a dozen now flew down from New York comes out of the judge's office with a tear or two glistening in their eyes. Even a few years of marriage leave their mark, and the impersonal hurry of the divorce proceedings stuns them.

Some voice the ritual "Free again!" and a few try attempts in banter. Others keep their impressions to themselves.

The business of divorce is a flourishing one in this country, and it is necessary for Americans to make the 2½-hour jet flight from New York. The liberal divorce laws require no prior residence in Haiti — the presence only of the two spouses and the desire of both to get a divorce. The absent spouse's agreement can be expressed in a simple notarized statement.

Haitian divorce courts do not rule in matters of alimony, partition of estates or child support. All parties are supposed to have agreed on those matters in advance.

Those arriving at Haiti's small but modern Francois Duvalier International Airport are met by a band playing native music and by Don Mackay, an American lawyer who has the foreign divorce market in Haiti all to himself.

He rounds up all those arriving on what soon becomes virtually half the "D-group" and drives them to the Castel Haiti Hotel in his station wagon. There he briefs them on the time they must be in court and the proper clothes to wear—cool and tie for the men, skirts for the women.

He collects from them the necessary documents and his fee of $700. The air fare and hotel charges are extra. A round-trip coach flight costs about $200 and single hotel rooms may run $25 to $35 a day. There are divorce package plans, including air fare, one day at a beach with two meals and transportation and arrangements for divorce documents needed, for about $400.

After Mackay's briefing at the hotel, the divorcees are free for the rest of the day.

The next morning Mackay drives his clients to the court house. Nobody is in the judicial presence more than five minutes. Afterwards there is no rejoicing, merely a businesslike, friendly exchange of farewells with the lawyer.

The divorce papers are mailed to the client's address within a week.

Cookie Sales Not Included

MONTREAL (CP) — Lawrence Hannigan, Montreal urban Community chairman, scoffs at reports that girl guides might be prosecuted for selling cookies door-to-door.

Mr. Hannigan said that it is offensive to suggest that urban community police "would have so little judgment as to take action against girl guides or groups of that nature."

A food bylaw passed last week by the urban community executive, which stiffened a number of regulations regarding food processing and sales, forbids door-to-door sales of any foods except fruits, vegetables, bread and milk.

Concern was expressed that the bylaw might be applied against girl guides and annual cookie sales or school groups who sell chocolate bars to raise funds.

CENTRES TO OPEN

EDMONTON (CP) — Day care centres for released mental patients will be established in Alberta to provide a tool to break the patterns of isolation and loneliness that often result in re-admission to hospital. These non-therapeutic centres are regarded as one of the concepts for a successful readjustment to the community.

Clubs Enjoy 'Fun' Golfing

TWEED — The Tweed Kinsmen and Kinettes held their year end shindig in the form of a 2-ball foursome at the Tri Poglar Golf Course, at nearby Stoco. The project was under the guidance of Kin Tom White, Junior and King Gerry Witherden.

Everyone was paired off with an unsuitable partner for the tournament. The weatherman co - operated beautifully.

Periodically two good hour rests, made the rounds with lemonade and ice water, to sustain the golfers' strength and maintain high spirits.

The day was topped off with a barbecue with Kin Gerry Witherden in charge of the hamburgers and Kin Ken Schwager, brought in charge of the buns.

Kin Chettleburgh who will be leaving Tweed soon to commence a new position in Sault Ste. Marie, was presented with a Kinsmen beer mug.

Tom White presented first place trophies to Kin Don Legge and Miss Gail Elkington and Second - place trophies were awarded to Kin Bruce Walker and Kinette Merne Witherden.

The most honest golfer awards went to Kinette Carol Norris, and Kin Stanton Casady.

Kinette president Carol Norris presented Kinsmen, president Robert Bush with a cheque for the purchase of more playground equipment for the Bridgewater School for Trainable Retarded Children, at Actinolite. These monies were realized from the Kinette rummage sale held in May this year.

Ann Landers

Reader Claims Family Crest Misrepresented

Dear Ann Landers: I am not saying this to impress anyone, but our family lineage goes back to the Hugenots. We have a family crest which has been authenticated by undisputed authorities. The intel. record authentication was done in 1936 and cost $2,000.

Several days ago we visited the home of friends whose last name is similar to ours, but not identical. They proudly displayed their so-called family coat of arms which was sent as a gift by a brother who, they confided with pride, had gone to a "great deal of trouble and expense" to have the family lineage researched in New York.

To my surprise the crest was almost identical to ours. I view this as blatant misrepresentation, if not a fraud, and I wonder if I should tell these people they have been bamboozled. I have made a study of genealogy and heraldic research and I feel certain that some scoundrel copied our coat of arms because of the similarity of names. I'd like your advice.—Umbrage

Dear Um: If you lived in the United Kingdom, were this sort of thing is taken much more seriously, you could sue a person for using your coat of arms if he was not entitled to. In this country, however, family crests are turned out like sausages by mail-order houses, who sell them as decorative wall pieces. They make no claim to authenticity, in many instances. My advice is to skip it.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read your comment to "Pittsburgh Lawyer," and I am boiling. What do you think about my situation?

My husband and I are in our 50s. After a hectic three years which involved unbelievably nightmarish hassles with his wife, he was finally granted a divorce and married me. Now, two years later, he gets a hysterical phone call from his ex-mother-in-law. It seems his former wife is in a state of near collapse.

She simply cannot handle their two teen-agers. The girl (age 16) has just had her second abortion and the boy (age 15) is dropping acid and pulling guns. "You must take these kids!" she shrieks. "It is your moral responsibility!"

I raised three children who are all college graduates and making good lives for themselves. Now my husband tells me I have to help him with these monsters. Of course I am leaving. Did I have a choice?—Too Young For Suicide

Dear Too Young: Yes, you had a choice but you weren't equal to it. I am sorry for all of you—especially those pathetic kids.

Dear Ann Landers: I have this itching under my arms and on my back that is driving me crazy. It comes and goes. I first noticed it six months ago. I'm sure it's eczema. Should I put salve on it and keep it covered or would it be best to let the air get to it? I've gotten a lot of advice from people who have had this same thing but no two people agree on what to do about it.

I know you aren't a doctor which is why I am writing to you. I don't want any medical advice. I want common sense. The only time I have been really sick is when I went to a doctor ten years ago. I nearly died. Please hurry your answer. I am going to do as you say, Ann Landers you.—Nashville Reader

Dear Nash: First you diagnose your own skin disease and then you ask me to help you treat it. Sorry, no deal. It could be an allergy—or the manifestation of an emotional problem—or a parasite. I'm not about to guess, and neither should you. See a dermatologist.

Family Reunion

MOORCROFT CLAN

Descendants of the late John and Agnes Moorcroft held their annual reunion at Queensboro Institute Hall on Sunday, June 25, 1972. Chairman Tommy Moorcroft of Whitby welcomed about 60 members and asked them to observe one minute silence in memory of three members who have passed away since the last reunion.

Following a delicious picnic dinner, a program was enjoyed by all. A new committee was formed including Donna Janice Rollins and Mabel Thompson and one more to be added.

Lloyd Starke from Peterborough led in an enjoyable sing song and Linda Moorcroft of Whitby entertained with a piano selection. Donna Moorcroft of Foxboro gave an enjoyable commentary on her unique experience during her two years in a Mission Hospital in India. She told about hospital patients whose family would remain in the room and sleep and cook their meals right in the hospital room.

An interesting account was given by Alma Moorcroft of a trip to Ireland made last year by her sister Minnie. There, she visited a 300-year-old church that was attended by Moorcroft ancestors. She also visited some Moorcrofts still living there.

In researching a book about churches which she is writing, Alma found out some interesting facts about the Moorcroft family tree.

Mrs. Harry Moorcroft won a prize for having the longest generation from John and Agnes Moorcroft. In the fourth generation, Mrs. Boyd Moorcroft won a prize for having a birthday closest to the reunion day. Rick Moorcroft won a prize in the next generation for having the longest handspan. The youngest person present was Ronnie Easton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Easton of Bancroft.

Another hour was spent visiting and renewing old acquaintances. It was decided to meet next year at Zwick's Island on the second Sunday in July.

Successful Living

Toddlers for Television Commercials

By DORIS CLARE

Someone asked how to get a lovely blonde baby into the modelling business. Dial Turnstile 2-1414 for research and came up with some facts:

It seems producers are forever looking for new faces. Many commercials do not need a speaking model, since the voice is added later.

For the first three jobs the union (ACTRA) will grant a temporary permits at a cost of $50, each. More activity and the model must join up.

If the union is local, it does most of the casting. If still pictures are needed for catalogue work, model agencies are best. Preliminary selection is made from photographs; a Polaroid snapshot will do—in quantity.

Much work is concentrated in five or six large Canadian cities; but local television stations do produce local commercials and may well be interested in your appealing and attractive baby or toddler.

Dear Doris: I read where appointing a friend or relative as executor of a will was placing a heavy responsibility on that person.

Yet the columnist said he had interviewed trust companies who were not interested in managing small estates, and suggested having a lawyer as executor.

I have no one to serve in this capacity and would greatly appreciate your opinion.—Choosing An Executor:

Dear Choosing: Sometimes the executor of a will turns out to be a great big headache — one you would not wish on a beloved relative. Certainly you should get his consent first.

In my experience trust companies handle estates large and small with the greatest of goodwill and that is where I would send you. Try discussing it with an official of a trust company in your town.

No charge is made by a trust company when the will is made out, but a fee on a percentage basis is collected when the will is probated.

A good lawyer is a wise choice too. It depends largely on whom you pick, the availability of services, and your confidence in the individual, whether it be lawyer or trust company.

Dear Doris: Here it's me again, needing help! My husband writes poetry and he would like to have some of his works done on wall plaques.

We have two hanging on the wall; one is a plate with a bible verse on, and another one is with a poem on called "Mother."

We would life to know who makes them. (The whole finished product.) — Grateful Twins

Dear Grateful: I am sending you an address where commemorative china plates and other ceramics are made in Canada, and where you might get special wall plaques made.

But wouldn't it be more fun and more original to make your own plaques? You use plaster casting moulds, ceramics techniques, or ready-made plaques of pine or pressed board. You can get the materials in a hobby shop or from a handcrafts company whose name and address I will send, you.

(Have you an idea — about people — that you'd like to share? Write to Doris.)

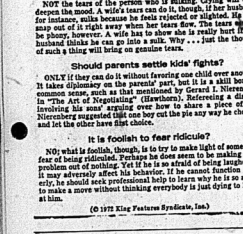
Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Can tears wash away a sulk?



NOT the tears of the person who is sulking. Crying will only deepen the sulk. A wife's tears can do it, though, if her husband, for instance, sulks because he feels rejected or slighted. He will snap out of it right away when he sees how she feels. The tears must be phony, however. A wife has to show she is really hurt if her husband thinks he can go into a sulk. Why . . . just the thought of such a thing will set off genuine tears.

Should parents settle kids' fights?

ONLY if they can do it without favoring one child over another. It takes diplomacy on the parents' part, but it is a skill born of common sense, such as that mentioned by Gerard I. Nierenberg in "The Art of Negotiating" (Hawthorn). Refereeing a dispute between his sons' arguing over how to share a piece of pie, Nierenberg suggested that one boy cut the pie any way he chooses and let the other have first choice.

It is foolish to fear ridicule?

NO; what is foolish, though, is to try to make light of someone's fear of being ridiculed. Perhaps he does seem to be making a big problem out of nothing. Yet if he is so afraid of being laughed at, it may adversely affect his behavior. If he cannot function properly, he should seek professional help to learn why he is so afraid of ridicule. Then he can begin to make a move without thinking everybody is just dying to laugh at him.

Aussies Conspicuous By Wimbledon Absence

LONDON (Reuter) — Top-seeded Stan Smith of the United States meets fifth-seeded Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia in the men's singles tennis semi-finals at Wimbledon today in a repeat of last year's U.S. Open final won by Smith in four hard-fought sets.

The tall, 25-year-old Smith, with his big serve-and-volley games, is an exponent of grass court play, whereas the other two semi-finalists, all from Europe, are acknowledged clay court specialists.

The other semi-final brought together second favorite Ilie Nastase, the brilliant Romanian strike player, and Spanish left-hander Manuel Orantes, the No. 3 seed.

For the first time in many years Australia, which had monopolized the men's title since 1966, was not represented at this stage—reflecting the absence of their professional stars.

Smith does not share the claim that his European rivals are purely hard-court experts.

"Nastase, Kodes and Orantes are good players on all surfaces," Smith said. "You can't really say they are just clay court specialists. Some are little better than others, but all these guys are pretty good on the grass stuff.

"Kodes was tough at Forest Hills. He always says he can't play on grass and then he goes out and beats all the players. He's going to be very tough. He has a good return of service and is a very good competitor."

Kodes, who never has before got beyond Wimbledon's second round in seven visits, thinks Smith has a slight edge because the American will be playing on his favorite surface.

"I've at last found what to do on grass," he said. "I'm improving, but I still have troubles."

Kodes twice has beaten Smith on indoor courts and if he can do that on grass today he will be the first player from Czechoslovakia to reach the men's final since Jaroslav Drobny won in 1954. But Smith must be favored with his tremendous power game.

Australian Evonne Goolagong, the 20-year-old reigning champion, and Californian Billie-Jean King will contest the women's final on Friday.

In a match which fully lived up to all advance publicity, Miss Goolagong Wednesday clashed for the first time with 17-year-old American tennis sensation, Chris Evert, and just when her crown seemed certain to topple she turned pending defeat into glorious victory by 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Little Chrissie, a high school student from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., played the finest tennis of the tournament to lead 6-4, 3-0, and seemed to have the champion reeling headlong to defeat.

But Miss Goolagong, with characteristic flair, fought her way out of the crisis, won seven games in a row, and though the American twice gained service breaks in the deciding set she lead 5-3 and 3-2 the champion hauled her back and finally delivered the knockout.

Miss Evert said afterwards: "I'm very satisfied and relieved because now the pressure is off. The next time I play Evonne the pressure will really be on her.

Mrs. King, 28, champion from 1966 to 1968, beat Rosemary Casals of San Francisco 6-2, 6-4 to reach the final for the sixth time in seven years. The odd time out was last year when she lost to Miss Goolagong in the semi-finals.

Mrs. King said: "I'm glad I now have the opportunity to play Evonne again. That other last year has bothered me for 363 days."

Pele Wins Game, Fans

TORONTO (CP) — Santos of Brazil defeated Toronto Metros of the North American Soccer League 4-2 here Wednesday night in an exhibition game before 18,539 fans.

Pele scored the winning goal for Santos at 12 minutes of the second half from a penalty kick. It was the world soccer star's 1,000th goal in Santos uniform. He previously passed the 1,000 goal career mark.

Metros led 2-0 after the first four minutes and kept Santos off the board until two minutes before half time when Jose Pereira cut the margin to 2-1. Miguel Perrichon and Paolo Barison were the Metro scorers.

Jose Eduardo Americo tied the score in the four minutes of the second half before Pele notched the go-ahead goal. Brasinoda D'Alexandre had the scoring for the winners at 22 minutes of the final half.

The game was abandoned with more than a minute remaining when fans swarmed on the sidelines seeking Pele's autograph.

NORDIQUES SIGN TWO

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec Nordiques of the World Hockey Association announced Tuesday they have signed centre Jean Payette and defenceman Francois Lacombe. Payette, 26, played with Tulsa Oilers last year, and won the Central Hockey League scoring championship. Lacombe, 24, has played with California Golden Seals and Buffalo Sabres of the National Hockey League. Province Reds of the American League and Salt Lake City of the Western League.

SHACK IS BACK

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Veteran winger Eddie Shack has signed a two-year contract Wednesday with Pittsburgh Penguins of the National Hockey League. Shack, 35, scored five goals and had nine assists with the Penguins last season. He previously played with New York Rangers, Boston, Toronto, Los Angeles and Buffalo.

Western Underdogs Nip Stamps, Saskatchewan

CALGARY (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos, picking up all their points in the first half under the direction of quarterback Bruce Lemmerman, defeated Calgary Stampeders 18-14 in a Western Football Conference exhibition game Wednesday night.

Lemmerman, in his second year with the Eskimos, mixed passing and running plays with efficiency in the first half as Edmonton took an 18-6 lead before 18,145 fans.

However, in the final 36 minutes the Stampeders got 14 points and put on a defensive and offensive performance similar to that displayed by Edmonton in the first half.

Gene Foster and Sam Scarber each scored a touchdown for the Eskimos, both on rushing plays. Dave Cutler converted both TDs, booted a 43-yard field and a 40-yard single on a wide field-goal.

For the Stampeders, defender Grey Cup champion Quarterback Jesse Mims put them on the scoreboard midway through the second quarter with a 42-yard touchdown run after taking a handoff from Jerry Keeling. Gary Kerr, a rookie wide receiver, narrowed the margin in the fourth quarter on a 67-yard pass and run play engineered by Stampeder quarterback Jim Lindsey.

REGINA (CP) — British Columbia Lions showed how explosive their offence can be Wednesday night by romping to a 31-0 win over Saskatchewan Roughriders in a Canadian Football League exhibition game.

The victory ended a seven-year fast for the Lions. The last time they beat Saskatchewan was September, 1965.

JIM YOUNG

Jim Young led the Lions with two touchdowns on passes of 35 and 87 yards.

Don Morehead was the steadiest of the Lions' pivots, throwing two touchdown passes. Young took one for 35 yards

Jonas Stuns Ex-mates

TORONTO (CP) — Don Jonas moved Winnipeg Blue Bombers to two late-quarter touchdowns and a 14-14 tie with Toronto Argonauts in a Canadian Football League exhibition game Wednesday night.

The former Toronto quarterback summed a crowd of 21,313 fans with a virtuoso performance in the game's dying moments, marching the Bombers 85 yards in seven plays for Winnipeg's first score with little more than five minutes remaining and capitalizing on a third-down gamble with 21 seconds left to tie the score.

Ed Williams carried the ball over for the first Winnipeg touchdown from eight yards out, and Paul Williams took a three-yard Jonas pass for the second, with the quarterback converting both.

Until Jonas got the Winnipeg offence rolling, Joe Argon appeared in firm command of their first exhibition appearance of the year.

With Joe Theismann and Greg Barton alternating at quarterback, they came out of the scoreless opening quarter deep in Winnipeg territory, led 10-0 at halftime, picked up another three points in the third quarter and had just padded their lead to 14-0 in the fourth when Jonas ignited the first Winnipeg drive.

Arnie's Forecast High

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino came in from the rain Wednesday and both predicted that the winner of the 1972 Canadian Open golf championship would finish Sunday with a high score.

Palmer and Trevino, defending champion, started their practice rounds late Wednesday on the Cherry Hill club course near here.

Trevino started about 1 p.m. and Palmer about 15 minutes later. About 3½ hours later, the 6,751-yard Cherry Hill course was drenched by a downpour just as Trevino was finishing. Palmer quit at the 16th hole.

And with the rain making last-minute moving of the narrow fairways doubtful, neither of the two tournament favorites saw much likelihood of anyone making a low score.

"It's going to take a high score—about 275 to 280, I think," Palmer told a news conference after his practice session.

"If we keep having this rain and they don't get a chance to mow those fairways, it's going to take about a 278—six under par," said Trevino.

Weather permitting, the field of 150 which includes 23 Canadians, was scheduled to start teeing off at 1 p.m. EDT today.

The CBC national television network has live television coverage scheduled Saturday from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from 4 p.m. until the finish. When the winner collects the $30,000 first prize and a trophy presented by Peter Jackson cigarettes.

Both Trevino, because he is defending champ, and Palmer would like to win the Canadian title.

"I haven't won this tournament since 1955," said the 43-year-old Palmer. "I'd like very much to win here. It's as important a tournament as any on the pro tour."

While Trevino and Palmer are the main attractions here and both have been inked as tournament favorites along with

ARNOLD PALMER

South African Gary Player, neither expressed complete confidence in his own game.

"I'd be happy with my game if I had won the U.S. Open," said Palmer. "My putting was as good as it could have been."

Palmer has been in contention in several tournaments this year but has often dropped behind, going three over par on one or two holes.

He said there was no one thing he could pinpoint that puts him in trouble.

"There is no pattern to it . . . it's just sort of a matter of going into a bad nine holes."

Trevino, who suffered a mild case of pneumonia before the U.S. Open two weeks ago, said he has been resting up in the interval and is happy with the way he's hitting his shots.

"Today was only the fourth round of golf I've shot since the U.S. Open but I've been hitting a lot of practice balls."

"I'm hitting it probably a little better than I had expected after such a long layoff . . . I like the way I'm hitting it but I don't have the confidence I would have if I had been practising more."

Trevino again singled out the seventh, eighth and ninth holes as especially tough tests, as did Palmer.

"The whole tournament is going to start at the seventh hole," said Trevino. "I'm not saying the first six holes aren't good ones, but there's a chance for some birdies there.

"But on seven, eight and nine and the back nine, there's going to be a lot of bogeys and that's why I don't think anybody is going to run away with this.

"The guy that wins here is going to shoot at least one under par for the layout is 71.

Coffey was the game's top hitter with two singles followed by Carm Milligan, Pat O'Connor and Frank Farrell with other timely safeties. Fire Carnilton it was John Tweedy Ken Abrams, Larry Adams, Bob Neilson and Howard Meeks with one single each.

Red Sox Pitchers Starve Green Monster

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lee Stange, who spent four American League seasons pitching for the Red Sox in Boston's Fenway Park with the friendliest left field wall in all of baseball, laughed out loud.

Stange, now the Red Sox' pitching coach, was watching reporters and club officials scurry through record books after Mark Fidrych five-hitter beat Minnesota Twins 2-0 Wednesday night and gave the Boston hurlers five straight complete games.

"Forget about looking it up," advised Stange, who has seen his share of pitchers beaten alley by the close-in left field wall they call the Green Monster at Fenway. "It probably never happened before. Not in this 'ball park anyway."

The Red Sox have forgotten about their hurlers since last Saturday. Since then, they've started five different pitchers and received a complete-game victories, which is about as good as a pitching staff can do. Certainly as good as any staff Stange remembers can do.

Pattin's victory was the second consecutive shutout in the string, following Lynn McGlothen's three-hitter against the Twins Tuesday. The other route-going efforts in the string belong to Ray Culp, John Curtis and Luis Tiant.

And all the while, the Green Monster in left field starves.

Elsewhere in the American League East, the Baltimore Orioles blanked Chicago White Sox 1-0, Kansas City Royals topped Detroit Tigers 8-2, New York Yankees downed Milwaukee Brewers 4-1 and California Angels nipped Milwaukee Brewers 1-0. Texas at Cleveland was rained out.

With the pitching staff coming on strong in the East, the Red Sox have won six straight games and eight of the last nine. The Sox' streak has moved Boston into third place in the American League East, five games back of division-leading Baltimore.

The Sox nicked Jim Perry, 6-6, for a second inning run on Carlton Fisk's double, a wild pitch and Rick Miller's sacrifice fly. They got their other run in the eighth when Tommy Harper drew a hit by a pitch, stole second and rode home on Carl Yastrzemski's infield hit of the game.

Baltimore edged two games in front of Detroit at the top of the American League East as Dave McNally limited Chicago to five hits and Brooks Robinson's second inning homer accounted for the only run of the game.

It was an 11th shutout of the season for McNally, 9-7, who outdueled Wilbur Wood, 12-9.

McNally escaped a bases-loaded none-out jam in the eighth by getting Jim Kaat and the victory. Singles by Mike Andrews, Ed Herrmann and Rich Morales put the stylish left-hander in a deep hole.

Kaat of Chicago City jumped on Mickey Lolich for three first-inning runs and thumped the sagging Tigers, who now have lost five of their last six games to slip behind Baltimore.

The Royals bunched hits by Cookie Rojas, Hal McRae, Richie Scheinblum and John Mayberry plus an error for a five-run uprising in the sixth inning. Then they kayoed Lolich, 13-6, with three more runs in the sixth. The Tiger ace allowed 10 hits and was disgusted with his performance.

Felipe Alou and Thurman Munson clouted home runs for New York. The Yankees, who have dropped their last seven games, tagged Holtzman for 11 hits as he dropped his sixth game in 17 decisions.

Yaz Can't Bow Homer

BOSTON (AP) — A three-time American League batting champion with 257 lifetime home runs, Carl Yastrzemski of Boston Red Sox still commands respect, but his days as a long-ball threat may be over.

Yastrzemski, who will be 35 next month, can't buy a homer, but his $165,000 salary.

Yaz, who signed for a fat bonus and joined the Red Sox in 1961, earned a career high with 44 homers as he led Boston to the pennant in 1967 and earned the most valuable player award.

He slipped to 15 homers in 1968, but bounced back with 40 in each of the next two seasons, being rewarded with a fifty-thousand-dollar three-year contract.

Yaz really hit the skids last year, finishing with only 15 homers, a .254 batting average and just 70 runs batted in. He was plagued by a hand injury and personal problems.

After playing in this fifth consecutive All-Star Game, Yaz connected for only four homers, the last on Sept. 3. He hasn't hit one since.

"We don't know what the trouble is," Red Sox General Manager Dick O'Connell says. "Last year he had problems which we didn't publicize. He hasn't any problems this year."

Bad Knees Oust Two

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Scipio Spinks, Cardinal righthander who tore ligaments in his right knee in a game at Cincinnati Tuesday, will be lost for the season, the club reported Wednesday.

Spinks, 24, was to undergo surgery today and will have to wear a cast for six weeks and undergo therapy for another six weeks.

Al Santorini will take over Spinks' starting spot in the pitcher rotation, but the Cards said it was not immediately determined who would be brought up from the minors to bring the roster up to the 25 limit.

Spinks, obtained at the start of the season in a trade with Houston for Jerry Reuss, has a 5-5 record, led the club with 93 strikeouts and had a 2.87 earned-run average.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota outfielder Tony Oliva underwent another operation Wednesday on his right knee. Oliva, 1971 AL batting king, first had surgery on the knee last September to be healed this season on the disabled list. Oliva returned briefly to the active list and was placed on the disabled list again about a week ago when he had difficulty running.

Cosy Catcher Can Throw, Too!

Every good catcher should know how to handle pitchers, but Suzanne Fobert went one step further Wednesday — she proved she could handle pitching assignments.

The regular Cosy Grill backstop made the most of one of her infrequent mound appearances by hurling a no-hitter as the Belleville and District Women's Softball league downed Belleville Breadmont 17-1.

Fobert struck out eight batters, while giving up two walks en route to her no-hit performance. Mary Ann Sills allowed 2½ hits on the Belleville Breadmont mound.

Cathy Brown sparked Cosy with a homer, double and single while Sharon Francis added a homer and single and Fobert two singles and a double.

The victory by Cosy kept them two points ahead of the Belleville Yardmen's Benefit Fund as BYBF recorded a 14-13 decision over the Bob Blaind-Red Barn Combines.

Linda Empey and Sue Morton gave up 13 hits in support of the win, while losing hurler Terry Hounsiaw yielded 14 tallies.

Penny Hughes paced the winners with two homers and a single, while Leah Harper and Donna Preston had four hits each. Valerie Brown and Terry Hounsiaw each connected four times for the losers.

Yardmen Not Welcome

The Belleville Yardmen midgets were un-Welcome-in an Eastern Ontario Baseball contest Wednesday night, dropping an 8-7 decision to the Welcome juveniles.

Belleville outhit the winners 14-8 but couldn't produce when needed. Dave Sine fired a double and two singles and Rob Robins a double and single for the losers.

Ron McTaggart was tagged with the loss. He fanned six Welcome batters.

It was an accommodating trip for the Thurlow bantams but the score was too close to be comfort for Belleville as the local Legion 99 nipped their closest rival 4-3.

Mike McClelland and Clyde Hooley combined for a five-hitter for Belleville fanning 10 and walking six. Brian Turner had a single and double. Brian Masterson and Bruce McDonnell took the loss for Thurlow.

In a peewee house league game the Plane's Concrete tykes stepped out of their class and fell to the Monument Chrysler peewees 14-3.

Terry Kingman and Greg McDonald hurled the win with Paul Dent doubling for the only extra base hit made by the winners.

In a strictly peewee contest, Gagne Masonry cemented a 22-5 win over Foster's behind the strong pitching of Gary Badgely and Will Gagne.

Jerry's Motorcycle tykes were unable to keep up with the Jones' last night as Kevin Jones fired a two - hitter at them to lead his Kinsmen to a 12-3 victory.

Home runs by Paul Walsh and Wayne Wright paced Bob's Sport Shop to a 15-8 win over Quinte Athletics.

Bantam Tourney Hosts

Legion Strong on Slab

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

The Legion Branch 99 bantams don't figure to be out of their depth in the Belleville Golden Bat Tournament this weekend — at least not out of pitching depth.

The Belleville representatives will head into the tournament with no fewer than five pitchers a factor upon which Legion coach Ron Lucas will be backing heavily. "This figures to be one of the strongest-looking teams we've sent into the tournament," said Lucas of the team that he and fellow coach Red Culkin have assembled. "of course there's no telling how they'll fare once the tournament gets under way, but if we've ever going to win it this looks like the year."

The Legion bantams have managed a 6-6 record in Eastern Ontario baseball play this season. "We're just starting to jell," notes the coach. "This tournament's what we've been building for. It's the biggest thing we'll be taking part in this season."

Lethanders Bill Whalen, Clyde Routley and Brian Turner are all available for work on the Belleville mound along with Mike McClelland and Rick Culkin, both of whom deal from the right side. In addition to their pitching prowess, all five are hitting over .400 with Whalen's .539 mark pacing the team.

Not only will the Golden Bat tournament be the biggest thing that Belleville will be taking part in, but the biggest story of the 18 teams will likely take part in this year. "They tell us that it's now the largest bantam baseball tournament in the entire province," relates Ron Lacerenette, head of a 60-man committee working to ensure continued success of the venture.

"We've expanded to 18 teams from 16 this year, but we still had to turn a number of applications down. Places like Kitchener, Waterloo and Newmarket had to be turned down because we just couldn't find room for them."

Included in the 18 teams who did manage a starting berth will be the defending grand champions from Cobourg, along with Peterborough who took the "B" title last year. Scarborough Village, winners of the grand championship the first two years, figure to be a serious contender once again while Toronto Legion, Leaside-East York and Welland could also field strong entries.

A total of five diamonds will be put into use for the tournament with games taking place at Parkdale, YMCA, Cannifton, CNRA and Prince Charles.

Some billets for out of town teams are still required and anyone able to help is asked to phone Mrs. Jean Reid, (968-7462), Mrs. Vi Christopher (962-6736) or Mrs. Irene Lapenette (962-3618).

Belleville will open tournament action Friday night at 6 p.m. at Parkdale where they face Thurlow Aper Friday night bouts will feature Peterborough and Cobourg in a rematch of last year's grand championship and Guelph taking on Port Hope.

Parsons Too Generous

Parsons were a little too charitable with the ball in Wednesday night's Charity Cup match with Belleville United, dropping their first game of the season 2-0.

Mario Colicvigh and Baptiste Zannette scored the United goals, both in the first half of play. United now advances into the second round.

In another Charity Cup contest CFB and Quinte Transport forced a replay of their game by battling to a 2-2 draw.

Lino's Show Soccer Class

Lino's Pizza proved to be the best of two leagues last night by whipping Whitley Travellers 4-1 in an exhibition game.

Lino's, who are tied for top spot in the Kingston and District Soccer League, jumped off to a 2-0 halftime lead over one-of the Quinte League's top teams with goals from Kevin Kirby and Joe Romano.

Printers Won't Share Lead

The Ellis Printers didn't go for the idea of sharing first place in the senior division of the Girls' Minor Softball League so Wednesday night they remedied the situation with a 30-17 whipping of Mel Barriage.

The win gave the Printers a two point bulge on the AVCO-ettes atop the league standings.

In two junior games played last night Lucas Spar hung on to third place with a 21-3 spelling of Doug's Foods and the Yardmen stopped Ed Thomas 25-4.

UIC Can See Caboose Of Industrial Train

Unemployment Insurance Commission kept CNTA caboose in sight by taking a 16-3 Industrial Softball League win from Stewart Warner Wednesday. The victory left UIC one point behind the trailmen in the battle for the B Division pennant. Mead Johnson kept it a three-team race by downing Canadian Tire 13-3 to stay four points off the pace.

Bernie Coughlan t a m e d Stewart Warner with a four-hit pitching performance, which included three strikeouts. He walked six batters. Jim Heen and Dennis Ray worked for the losers allowing 17 hits and eight walks to UIC.

Bill Hosley clubbed a triple and three doubles to spark the win, while Garnet Bird was good for two doubles and a single. Coughlan, Joe Clarke and Tom Stinson each had two; UIC hits while Dennis Ray paced the losers with a double and single.

Sonny Holoway's four-hit pitching kept Canadian Tire winless in 11 starts this season, paving Hosely to the 13-3 victory. Holoway stroked down 10 batters on strikes while walking six. Andy Pradden and Ken Williams gave up 14 hits in a losing cause.

Blaine Young crushed a triple, two doubles and a single for Mead Johnson with Mark Reid adding two doubles among his four hits. Holoway added a homer to the attack with Wayne Storms rapping three singles. Alex Belch powered a homer and triple for CTC.

Orchards Drop Big Apple

The Bayview Orchards learned a costly lesson in Wednesday night's Prince Edward North Shore Softball League schedule and Belleville received a bonus from their teachings.

Bayview outhit Belleville 7-4 but costly errors let Belleville slip by for an 8-3 victory.

Rick Goulah fired the win, striking out five and walking one. Gary Thompson, Mike Redick, Dave Clark and Greg Herkel all hit safely for Belleville.

Tom Licker had a home run and single for Bayview but their own blunders cost them the game. Dwayne Dextator and Don Ronter shared the pitching duties, striking out six and allowing only one walk.

Downs And Ups

Laying down bunts or swinging up a storm, the Belleville Legion 99 bantams will be attempting to make their presence felt in the fourth annual Belleville "Golden Bat" Tournament this weekend. The three-day tournament will pit 18 teams from across the province in baseball competition for the golden bat awarded to the grand champions. Jeff Merrill of the Legion 99 team (top) shows his bunting form, while Scott Bowes (bottom) is going for the downs. Belleville opens tournament action Friday night against Thurlow.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Friday, July 7

Aries (March 21-April 19): With no special challenge or problem, take the time to clear up your week, get everything back to normal for near future.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Among the many things to spend money on, your home and personal needs should come first. Add something to your savings with any surplus.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Give others a little space and rest while you listen and think about what's happening. Then present your plans. Celebrate this evening.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Select activities which require little or no close co-operation. Double-check facts. It pays to remember that machines do not care.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Friends may be a little abrasive, harsh-spoken, but they help nonetheless. Consultation with technical experts is favored — seek the best.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You may have to work around group activities to get your work done. Little of what you are doing would be understood.

Libra (Sept. 22-Oct. 22): Early decisions tend to be premature—new information, more people have to be taken into account. You can learn much by being alert.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): If you are wide-awake you may get a brief insight that puts everything into a larger context. You need extra care in money matters.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): In effect you wind up the week in competition and general resistance—press or subside, according to what you are doing.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You'll be proud of restraining your temper. Gather your wits and go on with essential activities. Let the later hours be for privacy.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Remember that not all minds follow similar logic patterns; avoid misunderstanding by keeping discussion simple and basic.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Assign priorities early in the day, decide where your main energy is to be directed, stick to them. There's much to do and many distractions.

Tunes in the Head Hallucinations

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What does one do when one is over 70 and all the time has distressing musical tunes going through the head, without any sound of voices?

How can a person get relief as soon as possible?—S.D.

Folk who tell me of hearing such "voices" usually add that I take kindly to my answer, but the experts tell us that such people do not really hear "tunes." These are called auditory hallucinations.

I don't mean by this that they are totally imaginary. They aren't. But they are based on ringing of the ears, which is a pretty common complaint, causing sounds, buzzing, hissing, all sorts of odd ear noises.

These noises are usually related to changes occurring in the inner ear, but the sounds may be interpreted from person to person. The ringing sounds may have more than one musical tone, which happens. In human nature to try—pretty much unconsciously—to fit the sounds into some familiar pattern. Meaning a tune.

It would be natural belief that an accidental combination of noises may at times fall into the tonal pattern of "Rock of Ages" or "Yes, We Have No Bananas" or whatever tune you happen to hear.

Another bit of circumstantial evidence is that people who think they hear such tunes invariably "hear" some tune that is familiar. I've never heard of anyone who hears a tune of music. They just fit the odd sounds into music they already know.

What to do about it? The changes in the inner ear are of various kinds. Otosclerosis is a common one, a fusing or tightening of the tiny bony structures that conduct sound. This causes not only ear noises but impaired hearing, especially in older patients. For that, you need the services of an ear specialist, but treatment by surgery is being carried out successfully even in well-advanced cases.

Another source of ear noises is impacted ear wax pressing against the eardrum. Removal of the wax is the answer.

High blood pressure, as well as several other possibilities, also can make ear noises.

Your physician or an ear specialist should determine what problems exist in your case, so that relief can be provided. There is scant chance, however, that you can hit on the correct answer yourself without professional guidance.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had a baby, and about two months ago my hair began falling out in piles. Is the pill doing it? I stopped the pill, but I am not sure I'm not losing more hair than ever. I am only 19 and hate to go bald this young—Mrs. B.

Such "post-partum loss of hair" happens very so often, and assuming that no scalp disease is responsible for your hair loss, you probably will find in a few months your hair will be back to normal.

I admit that it is most unnerving to a woman when this happens. My experience shows that this type of hair loss is temporary.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What would cause a person in the late 50s not to be able to control the kidneys in the winter? In the summer, I do.

What goes in must come out —and in summer a good deal of fluid is lost in the form of perspiration, and a great deal less in winter. The difference would be made up by the kidneys, expelling more urine when there is less perspiration.

Since you note no difficulty in summer, I would doubt that there is anything wrong with the kidneys or "kidney control."

Opening lead — queen of diamonds.

Most of declarer's plays are based on how he thinks the opponents' cards are probably divided. You're not expected to play them perfectly, as though you see the location of each missing card, but you should play most of them as if that were the case.

Consider this deal where it would seem that you must win the club finesse to make the slam. If East has the king, you make six; if West has the king, you go down one.

But closer study reveals that the slam is ice-cold regardless of where the king is located — provided the hand is played correctly.

Ruff the diamond lead, cross to dummy with a trump, and ruff another diamond. Then play another trump to dummy and lead the singleton spade.

If East follows low, you play the ten. As a result you lose a spade trick on West that you don't have to lose, but there is a redeeming factor — you've assured yourself the slam.

Whatever West returns, the contract is in the bag. If he leads a spade or a club, it goes right into one of your tenaces and there is no club loser to contend with. If he leads a diamond instead, you discard a club from dummy as you ruff in your hand, and discard another club from dummy on the ace of spades.

If East plays the king of diamonds on the lead from dummy, the outcome is exactly the same. You win with the ace and return the jack.

You ruff if West covers the jack, or discard a club if he follows low. Either way you wind up with twelve tricks.

Tomorrow: Bidding quiz.

DARING DUCK

Trudeau's Plane Use Is Questioned

OTTAWA (CP) — The propriety of Prime Minister Trudeau's use of government aircraft last weekend in an "unofficial" election campaign was questioned by opposition members of the Commons Wednesday.

On a one-day excursion Saturday, Mr. Trudeau used both a transport department Viscount and a Canadian Forces helicopter to visit Earlton and Swastika in northeastern Ontario.

Another military helicopter was used between Earlton and Swastika to ferry reporters covering the prime minister's trip.

M. T. McCutcheon (PC—Lambton-Kent) asked Defence Minister Edgar Benson in the Commons for an assurance that "ethical guidelines" governing the use of government planes in an election campaign were not violated on the northern trip, which he described as part of an "undeclared" campaign.

Though not yet called, a federal election is widely expected before the end of this year.

Mr. Benson replied by saying he was sure the use of government aircraft was "much better than in Ontario"—a reference to revelations about the private use of provincial government planes by Ontario cabinet ministers earlier this year.

He insisted that federal ministers haven't violated the ethical guides laid down in Parliament last week.

Mr. Benson said government aircraft are used for government purposes, with certain privileges extended to the parliamentary opposition including its leader, Robert Stanfield.

Mr. Stanfield asked under what conditions government aircraft are available to him.

Mr. Benson replied that they are available on a space-available basis to all MPs, including the leader of the opposition.

Queried as to whether it was true that the two helicopters were flown dead-head from Ottawa to accommodate the prime minister's party, Mr. Benson explained to opposition jeers: "We have aircraft available for training flights."

Reports of Mr. Trudeau's weekend foray said it carried a definite election-campaign tone.

The visit was organized by supporters of Jack Duff, the former Maple Leaf hockey player and now Liberal candidate in Timiskaming riding.

Stanfield Will Make 3-day Tour

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield begins a three-day tour of small-town Ontario today.

The trip was to have begun Tuesday, but the Commons decision to sit this week to deal with the Quebec port strike led to shortening the tour to three days.

A revised schedule was issued Wednesday. Among communities cut from the itinerary are Stratford, Listowel and Goderich.

After breakfast at a session citizens home in Shelburne, the Conservative leader planned to meet youth leaders in Mount Forest, dine with businessmen and municipal officials in Arthur, have coffee with businessmen in Elmira, tape a television appearance in Wingham and attend a barbecue near Kincardine.

Friday he meets reporters over coffee in Owen Sound.

Friday afternoon he moves to Collingwood.

Saturday, he visits Gravenhurst, Bracebridge, Huntsville, Muskoka Pioneer Village and Parry Sound.

Approval of Takeover Bill Doubtful

OTTAWA (CP) — Doubts arose Wednesday over whether Parliament will approve bills to establish a screening agency for foreign takeovers and set up a new system of family allowances before a summer recess.

Since the start of the summer was delayed last Friday—to keep a Parliamentary watch on the St. Lawrence ports stoppage—the House has been debating the foreign takeovers bill. The government has made it clear it would like the legislation, along with the baby-bonus bill, passed in the meantime.

But the Conservative opposition is digging in its heels. Party spokesmen ssy they want a repeat of the 1969 rules debate when Prime Minister Trudeau said the government "footed" the opposition by making incidental changes in the legislation while getting its main changes through the House.

This time, the government says the House is sitting into July because of the St. Lawrence ports tie-up, and Conservatives are reluctant to allow other legislation to breeze through in the meantime.

This was the reason for Wednesday's dispute over whether the emergency back-to-work bill for the ports would go to the Commons' labor committee or be examined by the full House.

Liberal House Leader Allan MacEachen wanted the measure to go to committee while the House, presumably, would continue to discuss the takeover bill. Opposition MPs raised a howl and, after inter-party negotiations, it was decided the full House would deal with the legislation.

Notice was given Wednesday of a government motion in the name of Prime Minister Trudeau that the Commons should adjourn until Sept. 28 after passage of the foreign-takeovers and family-allowance bills or at the close of the regular sitting Friday, whichever comes first.

Hees Answered

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Otto Lang said Wednesday a decision not to reappoint John O. Weldon to the federal tax appeal board was based on judgment of ability.

Mr. Lang was asked by George Hees (PC—Prince Edward-Hastings) why Mr. Weldon, 64, was not reappointed to the review board he joined in 1962 although he has six years to go before mandatory retirement age.

Stanbury Won't Stop Phone Hike

OTTAWA (CP) — Communications Minister Robert Stanbury said Wednesday he would not interfere with a Canadian Transport Commission decision permitting Bell Canada to increase rates.

But he plans to meet the company to question a reduction in expansion plans.

He told New Democratic Party Leader David Lewis that he sees no supportable basis for substituting his judgment for that of an independent regulatory body.

Mr. Stanbury said the government would have been criticized if it had interfered with the decisions of the CTC which was charged with setting just and reasonable rates.

He said no government had

Lang to Examine New Quebec Law

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Otto Lang said in the Commons Wednesday he will examine new Quebec search-and-seizure legislation to see whether it conflicts with federal jurisdiction.

The legislation was introduced in the Quebec national assembly Tuesday. Under it, the Quebec police commission would have new powers of investigation, search and seizure.

Mr. Lang said the government will examine the legislation "from the point of view of our own interest in it." He added: "Of course, we shall then communicate with the responsible authorities."

May Order Cigarette Warnings

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal health department is considering enforcing inclusion of a health warning in all cigarette advertising published by newspapers and other journals.

"The department is giving consideration to requiring the inclusion of a health warning in all permitted print media cigarette advertisements," Health Minister John Munro said in a written Commons reply Wednesday.

In the reply, to New Democrat Barry Mather (NDP—Surrey-White Rock) Mr. Munro added that, in addition, the department was considering "other possible ways of combatting—the detrimental effects caused by cigarette smoking."

Powers No Threat To Rights

QUEBEC (CP) — Extraordinary search and seizure powers for police in the war against organized crime won't endanger the fundamental rights of Quebecers, says Justice Minister Jerome Choquette.

Among new powers granted to the Quebec Police Commission by the proposed law introduced Tuesday is the right to search on its own warrant any establishment believed connected with organized crime without going through normal channels of obtaining court warrants.

It would also allow the commission to "employ any measure necessary to gauge the" required searches" and, examine and seize any books or documents with the search warrant.

Mr. Choquette said Wednesday in the national assembly the bill is aimed at crime, not Quebecers.

Way Now Seems Clear To Start Chess Sunday

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)

Bobby Fischer made a full and genuine apology to Boris Spassky today, and organizers of the world chess championship said the two would meet for their first game Sunday night.

The organizers said it had been agreed in principle to hold the contest tonight to determine which player would have the white pieces and with them the first move.

The young American, in a letter delivered by hand this morning to the world chess champion from the Soviet Union, apologized for his "disrespectful behavior."

Fischer, whose delayed arrival doubled the prize money for both him and Spassky but also started an avalanche of confusion, asked the Russian to "accept my sincerest apology."

"I simply became carried away by my petty problems over the money with the Icelandic chess organizers," he wrote.

The written apology from the American challenger was one of the chief conditions posed by the Russians before Spassky would sit down at the chess board with Fischer.

Fischer told Spassky: "I have extended you and your country, the Soviet Union, where chess has a prestigious position.

The temperamental American also apologized to Dr. Max Euwe, president of the International Chess Federation, and Icelanders. "the thousands of fans around the world and especially to the masses of fans and many friends I have in the United States.

However, Fischer brushed aside a demand from the Soviet Chess Federation that he forfeit the first match because of his tardy arrival. He said this "would place me at a tremendous handicap" and he didn't believe the "world's champion deserves such an advantage in order to play me.

"I know you to be a sportsman and a gentleman, and I am looking forward to some exciting chess games with you," Fischer concluded.

Earlier there had met other demands the Russians made on him and suggested that the start of the match be delayed further.

Israeli Cabinet Split Over Civil Marriages

JERUSALEM (Reuter) — The over-arching conflict between state and religion in Israel has once again flared, this time over the issue of civil marriage for people barred by the rabbis from wedlock.

In its previous religious disputes, a full-scale crisis within the coalition cabinet looms.

Premier Golda Meir has even threatened to resign, not in opposition to a coalition member's proposed civil marriage bill but to highlight the split and force a breakdown in coalition disciplines.

The dispute is only the latest in a series of religious prov'ems since the Jewish state was established 24 years ago.

They range from the antics of ultra-orthodox religious in attacking sex boutiques, stoning vehicles travelling on the Sabbath and making death threats to pathologists carrying out autopsies, to the cabinet's difficulties in reaching decisions on whether a Jewish layman sometimes has to formally supersede his wife to remarry.

The conflict is between moderate elements representing a majority of the politicians, trying to find a forward-looking 20th century society, and a vociferous minority trying to live in accordance with the ancient rabbinical traditions.

The most religious conflict in Israel all the more acute is the peculiar condition of the Jewish religious courts vested in a political set-up in which the religious parties have much more power than their political bases due through actual electoral strength.

Because of the failure of the ruling Labor party to ensure an absolute majority, it has been forced throughout almost the whole of its political existence to be wedded to the National Religious Party.

Because Labor members accuse the NRP of continually using the blackmail of a threat to withdraw from the coalition to maintain the religious status quo.

At present only religious marriage is permitted in Israel, meaning both partners must be Jewish or converted in accordance with rabbinical law. There are also other biblical restrictions.

The modernists say they recognize the importance of the Jewish people preventing assimilation of the Jewish nation during 2,000 years of exile.

But now that there is once again a Jewish state, they say religious restrictions should be relaxed.

Wave Kills

LE LAVANDOU, France (AP) — A French navy patrol boat, cruising at high speed close to a series of Riviera beaches, threw up a huge wave which caused one death and injured at least 21 other persons Wednesday.

Quebec Proposes To Hit Polluters

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government has proposed severe penalties for polluters and a single cabinet portfolio to handle all ecological problems.

Major polluters will be fined up to $10,000 a day under the bill introduced Wednesday in the national assembly. Fines up to $200 are provided for such infractions as littering a highway or operating a motor vehicle which does not meet pollution control standards.

There was no indication in the bill of regulation of what new norms of acceptable pollution will be.

Victor Goldbloom, minister responsible for the environment, said various government agencies are working out standards and regulations, to be added to the bill later.

Many environmentalists express a deep early dissatisfaction with the bill.

"It's like fighting a bulldozer with a water pistol," said Helene Lajoie de Montreal, president of the Quebec committee le Pollution (SVP).

She said the bill is not strong enough to frighten polluting industries into cleaning up. It will only chase after the effects left by the more flagrant violators.

The bill gives the minister power to regulate pollution of water, air and soil and to control levels of noise, radiation waves and magnetic fields.

All municipalities will have to provide a certain quality of drinking water.

The government will issue "certificates of approval" on pollution control measures which will be a prerequisite for industrial development or expansion.

The bill calls for the establishment of an elaborate system of monitoring stations to watch for detecting sources of air pollution. It also proposes an emergency alert and reaction program to deal with accidental sudden major pollution, dangerous to public health.

The use of outboard motors on lakes and rivers will also be regulated according to the size of the body of water and obnoxious or useless noise will be limited.

Mr. Goldbloom said the fines of up to $5,000 for a first offence and double for subsequent offences are established to match those of such laws in other provinces. He said he did not want to give industries the impression that it was easier to pollute than Ontario.

He said he expected the bill to be passed by the end of the year.

Catholic Says Vietnamese German Jews of Seventies

CHICAGO (AP) — A Roman Catholic theologian who visited North Vietnam last month is "appalled" by U.S. bombing raids says the Vietnamese people "are the German Jews of the 1970's" except that the enemy is Americans are B-52s and fighter-bombers.

Paul Mayer, a former Benedictine monk who left the priesthood in 1968 to marry and join the Catholic Resistance Movement, said in an interview:

"It is very clear that the U.S. target in the war is not military supply depots and factories but the Vietnamese people themselves."

"It's very clear from the damage I saw in North Vietnam that we are killing civilians on a mass scale," said Mayer, a full-time faculty member at the New York Theological Seminary.

Mayer, 41, a German who entered the U.S. in 1938 as a Jewish refugee and became a naturalized Catholic at the age of 16, says most Americans "aren't even remotely aware of what's being done in their name."

"They're like the good middle-class Germans of World War II who didn't know the facts for themselves what's really going on over there. They believe what they hear — that we're winding down the war."

Mayer goes on trial today in federal court in Newark, N.J., on charges resulting from a raid on railway tracks used to carry munitions to the U.S. naval headquarters at Leonardo, N.J.

Stampede Starts

CALGARY (CP) — Sixty teams and a wiry Indian cowboy called Tom Three Persons climbed on a musclebound horse called Cyclone and the vigilant aftermath gained the ruler the world's first bucking horse championship.

That was the first year of the Calgary Stampede and today, when the rodeo celebrates its diamond jubilee, emery cayuses and hornery cowpokes still are the main attraction.

"Boots and saddles" is the call to action for most Calgarians as well as the thousands of tourists who visit the Stampede city every year; cowboy hats and boots are worn by many residents a lot down to the work in full western gear, right down to the six-shooters.

The rodeo features $110,000 prize money and has attracted the top ropers and riders in North America.

A youth parade, beginning at 9:30 a.m. MDT, was to start the celebrations today and Premier Peter Lougheed, a Calgary lawyer, will officially open the show at 9 p.m.

Played With Fox

Three Receive Rabies Shots

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Three people are undergoing anti-rabies treatment after handling a fox they believed was friendly — only to discover its jaws filled with porcupine quills. Quinte Area health authorities reported this morning.

The bizarre episode with a bitter ending occurred on a Trenton-area farm, one of the more recent localities in a current rabies threat, Dr. C. R. Lenk, Hastings and Prince Edward counties public health officer reported today.

The three adults — not identified by health authorities — approached the fox when it appeared friendly, although a fox instinctively flees humans said the health officer. One person was bitten while they were handling the animal and, prising open its jaws they found them filled with quills — indicating a fight with a porcupine. Attempts were made to restore the quills, said Dr. Lenk.

Then the fox was taken to a local veterinary, but died en route. Rabies was later identified in the animal. Precautions call for a fairly painful 14-day series of injections.

Meantime, in Prince Edward County, five children also have been reported bitten by a dog which is now under observation for possible rabies contamination.

Anti - rabies clinics were launched last month in both counties by federal authorities and thousands of cats and dogs have so far been vaccinated.

The Trenton - area incident, said Dr. Lenk, again emphasized the urgent need to avoid handling all forms of wildlife or strange, domestic animals while the disease is still current.

McGovern Wants Kennedy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Senator Edward Kennedy still will have "first refusal" on the vice-presidential nomination, Senator George McGovern captures the Democratic presidential nod, sources close to the South Dakota senator said today.

Despite Kennedy's repeated statements he won't be available, the offer probably will be made because polls show he would strengthen a McGovern-led ticket, the sources said.

Activity in this steaming Democratic national convention city, which has been limited this week to advance logistical preparations by the candidates and half-dozen protest groups, picks up today as the party heads for an opening Monday.

Most of the major presidential candidates except McGovern — fly here to start wooing arriving delegates in their bid to overtake the South Dakota senator.

Senators Hubert Humphrey, Edmund Muskie and Henry Jackson; Alabama Gov. George Wallace; and Representative Wilbur Mills all scheduled afternoon arrivals. McGovern is due Saturday afternoon.

IRA Gets Arms, Cash From U. S.

LONDON (AP) — British investigators have established that arms and funds are reaching the Irish Republican Army mainly from U.S. and European sources, including Britain itself.

To stop the flow of money and arms to the IRA the British government has sought the help of such countries as the United States, Japan, Canada, the Irish republic and even, on one occasion, Czechoslovakia.

Gun-running, by definition, is an underground operation. Consequently just about every government approached has stressed that its capacity to control this sort of traffic is limited, officials say.

Britain has repeatedly asked the United States — and Japan — to track down and halt leakages of a high-velocity rifle, the IRA for use in Northern Ireland.

Ports Likely Open Monday

OTTAWA (CP) — Government legislation to end a seven-week labor dispute at three St. Lawrence ports was expected to pass the Senate and receive royal assent late today, sending striking longshoremen back to work by Monday morning.

The bill passed the Commons unanimously Thursday, just over 30 hours after it was introduced by Labor Minister Martin O'Connell.

The legislation would order the 2,200 longshoremen in Montreal, Trois-Rivieres and Quebec to report for work. It called, and would prohibit them and their employers from, any walkout, slowdown or lockout until the agreement runs out at the end of 1974.

Port operators have said only about 20 per cent of the men would be required immediately.

Brian Mahoney, lawyer for the Maritime Employers Association said the MEA "is delighted at the quick passage of the law and intends to comply immediate it is proclaimed."

Jean-Marc St. Jean, president of the Montreal local of the International Longshoremen's Association was not available for comment and the union's office refused comment.

Earlier Thursday, Mr. St. Onge said he did not know what his union's reaction would be if the bill was passed.

Mr. Mahoney said the MEA "would expect to be calling men back to work at the very latest Monday morning," assuming the legislation is proclaimed today.

The Senate gave token first reading to the bill Thursday night and it is expected to be passed and given royal assent later today.

Food Less, But House Costs Rise

OTTAWA (CP) — Food on the dining room table cost a snade less last month, but it cost the average family more to keep a roof over its head.

Statistics Canada reported today the over-all consumer price index, a reflection of the cost of living, rose to 138.5 from 138.3 in May, based on 1961 prices equalling 100. The index a year ago was 133.

Grocery prices declined last month, but restaurant meal prices rose, pushing the total food index up. The drop in the cost of food served at home was largely measured in what cost $13.33 in May cost only $13.32 in June.

The change in the over-all index was too small to be measured in terms of the purchasing power of the consumer dollar. It remained at 72 cents, in terms of what a dollar bought in 1961.

Task Forces To Meet With QPB

Representatives of four task forces which have been meeting recently on recommendations for Belleville's official plan, will be invited to meet Aug. 3 with the Quinte Planning Board.

Alderman Arnold Orr, QPB vice-chairman made the suggestion at the regular monthly meeting of the board last night. He added that the four task forces present their reports at the next monthly session.

Board members agreed, deciding to hold the August meeting at city hall.

When planners first agreed to call upon the citizens of Belleville for their suggestions they would like to see two in the way of future planning, he area was split into four districts. Each appointed a chairman and has held several meetings, Only Area C, west of the Moira River, has yet to hold a final general meeting.

Ald. Arthur Keegan said the meeting Aug. 3 would eliminate "the necessity of having two meetings".

Hijacker Surrenders Quietly

OAKLAND, Calif. (Reuter) — A hijacking in which a young gunman forced a Pacific Southwest Airlines jet to fly up and down the California coast ended quietly early today when the hijacker handed over his gun to the captain of the plane he seized, Oakland airport officials said.

It was the second hijacking of a PSA jetliner in two days.

Early today, the captain at the Boeing 727, hijacked as it was about to land at Sacramento, Calif., airport Thursday night with 58 persons aboard, radioed to the Oakland control tower: "This kid is really scared."

Minutes later, the airport officials said, the pilot radioed that the hijacker had handed over his gun.

The captain, Jerry E. Blakely of La Mesa, Calif. said the young hijacker, who first took the plane to San Diego to pick up a $50,000 ransom and then forced it to fly to Oakland, wanted to surrender in a well-lighted area.

FBI agents radioed instructions to the hijacker and ordered him to come out of the plane backwards when it taxied up in front of the passenger terminal.

As the plane drew up the back steps were let down and the captain came out in shirt sleeves, followed by the hijacker.

He was searched by FBI officers halfway down the steps and then taken away by car.

Officials said he was a young white man of medium build and wearing glasses and a light-colored military jacket.

The hijacker had ordered a "swift lift" helicopter to be standed by for him at the airport but lost his nerve when it came time to transfer to the other machine.

Officials said he intended taking the plane captain and one of the passengers, a California highway patrol officer, with him while making the transfer.

They said both men had been handcuffed in the hijacker's bid and the captain appeared to have his wrists bound close together when he came out of the plane.

Officials at the airport here, located near San Francisco, said FBI marksmen were rushed into place at the airport when the hijacker announced in San Diego that he wanted to be given a helicopter in Oakland.

Russia Charges U. S. Planes Start Floods

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Pravda said today U.S. planes had been undermining North Vietnamese dikes to let the water flood the lowlands, then showering the population with what it described as pellet and fragmentation bombs when it tried to stop the flood.

Pravda commentator Yuri Zhukov said that during the period from April 19 to June 28, U.S. aircraft made 77 strikes at 37 sections of dikes and 32 "hydro-technical installations," dropping 764 heavy aerobiton bombs and hundreds of containers with pellet and fragmentation bombs.

Bid to Rule Christ's Trial Unfair Dismissed

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli Supreme Court on Thursday threw out a request by an Israeli lawyer to rule that Jesus Christ got an unfair trial.

Yitzhak David said he made the appeal "in the hope that it may reduce the anti-Semites of the world by even one person."

But the court ruled that the issue was "historic, not juridical", and that David had "not proved he suffered personal damage" through what he called a "miscarriage of justice" against Christ.

The judges argued that Jesus was tried by the Roman occupiers of Israel, not by a civilian court. But lawyer David said Christ was brought to trial before the Sanhedrin the Jewish court of ancient times.

The court insisted Christ was sentenced by the Romans and that David should take the issue before an Italian court. David cited Israeli laws empowering Israeli courts to rule on cases heard by the former Turkish and British occupiers of Palestine.

Divisions Of Land Queried

PICTON (Staff) — A Bloomfield resident, John Mallory, last night declared that Prince Edward County ate "definitely dictated by theories in the final analysis" and without a comparity plan" a tremendous amount of division of land agreement can be evidenced here.

Mr. Mallory raised the question of land division during a public meeting sponsored by the Ministry of Treasury, Economics and Intergovernmental Affairs to discuss the Provincial Land Use Guidelines.

He was told by panelist Cecil Louis that the government policy concerning land severances is "very restrictive" where no official plan exists and applies to all counties in Ontario, not just Prince Edward.

Mr. Louis said if 100 applications from an area with no official plan were to be submitted to the Ministry most of them probably would be rejected.

He indicated a restrictive policy would continue to apply in Prince Edward until an official plan is adopted.

Scarcity A Bait for Bait

Cold weather has cut supplies of bait worms across Ontario, and scarcity is its own bait for youths like 15-year-old Harry Semark, who often works at little-known, local night time industry, picking dew worms for local supplier. Shortage has caused price increase for first time in years.

Cool Nights Cut Crop; Bait Worms Sought

After years of price stability, inflation has finally hit the lowly dew worm, in the Quinte district as elsewhere.

But it's not tied to any money-easing policy.

Simply blame it on the weather.

Right now in the Belleville area the industry — a thriving if little-known business — is bait worm collecting at a six cents a dozen.

Or should be.

The problem is cold weather — an unseasonable chill which causes most soil life, including dew worms — to slow down.

Hence the number of worms harvested has declined from other years and the resulting shortage has forced up the prices upward, says a man who is perhaps the district's biggest supplier.

So widespread is the shortage, reports sports supplier Bob Blakely, he's receiving inquiries for bait from across the province, even the U.S.

"There's a growing demand every year since Canada's many fishermen... And the cold weather adding to the shortage has created hardship," he says. "For years worms received at 25 cents a dozen. This year they're up as much as 35 cents."

Nonetheless, despite the widespread queries for help, he says he intends continuing to supply the Quinte-area outlets first.

Supplying resort and sports centres around the district is a busy chore — although by its nature, its activity goes barely noticed.

Stealth is the key to the craft and the worm harvesters thus must work by night — preferably with a rain to lighten and effect as possible.

It's an industry that bustles while most other workers are abed, with the worm-pickers gleaning their crops on leased lands — preferably cleared and lightly-lawned areas like golf courses.

At the moment, Bob is a one-man picking regime on corses at Picton and at CFB Trenton.

Other pickers—mostly youths of high school age — are known to the fellow "when they'll pass dark hours in search of the bait crop. Darkness is needed, since even moonlight "acts like a searchlight to keep the worms wary."

So much do the dew worms shun light, the pickers must wear flashlights fastened to their foreheads masked by thick paper. Dropped into cans strapped to their knees the worms later are transferred to more-filled boxes holding up to 500 specimens.

Depending on conditions the young harvesters may glean anywhere from 200 to 1,000 worms a night. More skilled "professionals" can triple the take, says Bob.

At present he has a work force of about 40 many of older teenagers because of the hours — and the turnover is fairly high.

"We're always looking for new pickers," he says.

Payment is based on a per-thousand-worms basis and in his six counties, he says business he's known a some youths have made enough to earn up to an average $50-$100 a week.

The season runs from early May to October and ideal conditions call for rain and warm temperatures, only bring the bait to the top of the soil.

In recent weeks, though, while there's been rain, night temperatures have cooled earlier than usual.

Thus, business "is short all over and every major production centre has somebody . . . trying to buy worms."

There's also an added side pressure on local demand. Commercial eel fishermen who use worms in the Bay of Quinte are now making big catches. Both, and the call for bait, have also been stepped up from than source.

Despite acquisition from other supply sources "we've plenty to do keeping the local trade right now," he added.

Scottish Thistles Grow To Giant Proportions

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

POINT ANNE — The Wilkes Akeys here are trying to grasp a nettlesome problem: Scottish thistles bristling big as Christmas trees around their-home here.

"We didn't think they'd grow at all," says a bemused Mrs. Akey. "But, now. Look ..."

Not only did the thistles grow — they haven't stopped.

At last measurement, three specimens flanking their house wall had sprouted close to nine feet tall by yesterday. Another, on the lawn, rivals the proportions of a stopping six-foot Scots Guardsman.

Meantime the Akeys a re still awaiting an explanation from the source they purchased the seeds which bred the monstrous science-fiction replicas of Scotland's national emblem: Scotland itself.

Origin of the phenomenon dates back two years when the Akeys went to visit their daughter-in-law and grandson in Scotland. Observing a thistle in its indigenous climate, Willie Akey pocketed seeds to see if he could reproduce thistles at his home back here. His daughter-in-law child and purchased him some seeds.

Last year he planted them — and they appeared, to a respectable thistle measurement of a foot or so.

"I didn't expect they'd go any further," said Mr. Akey, 58, and a retired Canadian Cement Lafarge Co. employee.

Then came the 1972 growing season and the thistles again started growing — growing and growing.

Baffled, Mr. Akey doesn't know whether it's the species of seeds or some mutation that's occurred because of climatic change. He wrote his daughter-in-law to find out — and, as yet, has received no reply. His next step is to send photographs of what he believes may be a phenomena of botanical gigantism gone slightly mad in their own backyard. Meantime, there's another pressing problem: the giant-size thistles are sprouting their emblematic purple blossom — which precedes seed-casting.

Friends have asked for some seeds, and he's ready to oblige.

Meantime, Mr. Akey's contemplating the inevitable—pulling the whole blooming works to the torch.

"After all," he says, eyeing the towering thistles, "you couldn't have them all over the place. It'd be more than you'd want. Wouldn't it . . ?"

Logic Is Required In All Planning

PICTON (Staff) — Planning proposals must be based on logic, not emotion and suggested changes must be justified before they can be considered.

Cecil Louis, a member of the plans and intergovernmental branch of the Ministry of Treasury, Economics and Intergovernmental Affairs last night told Prince Edward municipal officials and others that "everything must be done in a logical way".

His suggestion was prompted by comments from Hallowell town George Vincent who said members of the county planning board frequently were cautioned by their planner that 'some of their ideas would not be approved at higher levels.

Mr. Vincent indicated this might jeopardize indirect control of local planning from Toronto.

He said he agreed that some guidelines were necessary for planning board members but felt that suggestions from municipalities and councils should be included in a county plan.

Mr. Louis reminded him that the planner is hired by the county and has strong reasons for his proposals. Changes or new concepts cannot be introduced without explanations and justifications.

A county resident told Mr. Louis Prince Edward is not "a Greek state" and rights should not dictate all matters since this would not increase the quality and betterment of life in Eastern Ontario.

Mr. Louis said everything but pure mathematical precision" be asked as many at the meeting applauded.

Mr. Louis stressed logical justification is needed in planning for the future and pointed out that problems of the present just as hardship but the entire province.

The planning must be logical to avoid future expenditures occasioned by lack of foresthought.

Chairman for the meeting, M. Jannill, told county residents public participation is important in planning and encouraged them to fill out questionnaires and to submit briefs expressing their views as individuals or as groups.

Milk Stolen

Someone with either a powerful thirst or a large number of kittens, is richer by 12 jugs of milk, this morning.

City police report the jugs, valued at $37.21 were taken some time between 6:30 a.m. and 8 a.m. from the Loblaws dairy store on Pinnacle St.

Deliverymen unload quantities of milk and bread at the front door, ready for store personnel when they arrive at work in the mornings.

Northern in City 25 Years

On July 7 1947, 20 years ago, Northern Electric started its Belleville Manufacturing operations. Initial production began in rented quarters on the premises of Reliance Manufacturing Co. on Water Street. At the same time, building was under way for a new plant on Sidney Street. Sod-turning ceremonies for this took place on June 19.

Starting with eight employees from Northern's Montreal specialty products division, operations expanded until at one time 1,200 persons were employed. Today, operations cover an area of more than one quarter of a million square feet and provides employment for approximately 1,000 persons. Between 34 and 45 million dollars worth of telecommunication equipment is shipped monthly.

A number of expansions have taken place since the occupancy of the original building in 1948. The first addition was added in 1951, which saw the beginning of large scale government contracts for radar equipment. Further additions followed in 1954 and a new office was added in 1961. Additional warehousing was provided in 1959 and 1966. In 1964, Northern built and operated on a lease-back basis for the federal years, a plant on Adam Street. This was the beginning of the Industrial Park. The need for environmental changes saw the demolition in 1970 of the 135 foot high chimney, long a Belleville landmark.

The first product manufactured in 1947 was the Monimel Electronic Organ. There followed a variety of complex electronic equipment, including fire alarm and traffic equipment, broadcast equipment and a host of various kinds of audio and radio equipment. During the 1950s and early 1960s the Belleville plant manufactured a wide variety of quantities of radar and airborne navigational equipment, as well as other communication equipment designed for special communication installations.

A high point was in 1963-71 when satellite manufacturing was carried on. The communications satellite Telstar 4, the satellite used to cover President Nixon's visit to China, was built in Belleville. Today, main manufacturing emphasis is on telephone equipment, with an advanced electronic business switching system as the newest addition to the product line.

IN MEMORIAM

ALLEGO — In loving memory of a dear husband and father who passed away July 7, 1971.

Sadly missed by wife Ann and son Joe.

Of a loved one gone to rest,
God took him in his best,
Not in anger but in love,
He knew what was best.
The flowers we lay upon his grave,
Will fade and die away,
But the love for him what lies beneath,
Will never decay.

—Never forgotten by son Alex and daughter-in-law Sandra.

ANGER — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, who passed away July 8, 1971.

Sadly missed by wife Ann, son Joe and daughter-in-law Sandra.

Time cannot change them, it's true,
But memory holds them dear,
No loving remembrance of you,
Could be dearer than it is here.

—Sadly missed by wife Ann, son Joe, grandchildren Kent and Lorraine.

Trenton Crime Increases

TRENTON (Staff) — Crime increased by 2.4 percent in 1971 says the annual report of the year by Trenton police chief David Saunders.

In his 30-page report released yesterday, Chief Saunders points out such major crimes as robbery, break and enter, theft of motor vehicles and general theft are increasing here.

However, he points out there were no murders, attempted murders or rapes in the town during the year.

The overall statistic for crime was based on offences under 21 general categories of the criminal code, many of which showed a decline from the previous year. These included wounding, assault, carrying offensive weapons, threatening, trespassing, vagrancy and breaches of bonds and court orders.

However, the chief points to sizeable increases in several crime-rate areas, despite the modest overall increase in criminal activity.

"The drug problem is continuing to increase," he says. "During 1971 search under warrant was conducted on eight premises; 15 seizures were made; 11 under the Narcotic Control Act and four under the Food and Drug Act, resulting in nine persons being charged and taken before the courts." In 1970, there had only been one drug offence here.

The report shows criminal cases before the courts climbed 52 per cent in 1971.

"There was an increase in juvenile complaints investigated by the department in 1971, indicates the chief.

He states the number of motor vehicle accidents in the town decreased in 1971 but slightly slightly. There were a total of 646 accidents in 1971, 16 fewer than in 1970. A total of 108 people were injured in motor vehicle accidents in 1971.

In 1971 as in the previous year, Trenton had one traffic death.

Break and enters climbed to a total of 138 from 99 in 1970. There were 76 vehicles stolen, against 51 the year before and general thefts jumped to 493 from 344.

Chief Saunders also points out the number of impaired drivers increased substantially over 1970 — 74 from 59 cases.

The total of disturbance charges before the courts here zoomed to a total of 158 in 1971. In 1970 there were only 34 charges for disturbance of the peace.

Wilful damage incidents also jumped — to 26 from seven in 1970.

The chief's study also shows the number of individuals having their motor vehicle permits suspended here by court action increased to 96 in 1971 from 49 the previous year.

Through 1971, the report says Trenton policemen began compulsory firing range practice sessions and physical fitness programs. Members of the force attended lectures on explosives and bomb threats, bail reform and dealing with drinking drivers.

Tractor Lays Long Winding Load

Through a newly - formed process, it is now possible for Dale Cleave (top) from Bloomfield to lay 100 feet of drainage pipe a minute. In one process, the new machine plows the trough, feeds the pipe and then covers the trough over. He is now working on Murray Campbell's farm near Redonerville. Helping with the pipe is Treavor Cleave, Dale's son.

United Way This Year To Stress Participation

The magical figure or "target goal" associated with last year's United Appeal has been taken from the limelight with the emphasis this year on how many contribute, not how much from each individual.

George Zegouras, the campaign chairman for this year's campaign — to be called the United Way — urged a cutback of division chairmen yesterday, "this asking for 10 per cent more doesn't agree with me. We should be asking more people to give what they can."

"If we can increase participation we will raise the needed money."

A target, or goal, was set for the appeal after much discussion of whether a goal was needed at all.

James Marker, chairman of the commercial campaign, told the committee, "in the past the goal has been set so high that it wasn't reasonable and turned away some donors."

Others in the committee agreed that people are going to give what they can afford and no more.

The committee as a whole decided they must have some sort of goal to present to the public but they would downplay it when possible.

The figure for the appeal was quoted as $135,000.

Isidore Cooperman, director of the UCS told the committee "if we were to set a goal that would handle the operating deficits of the participating agencies in the United Way, we would have to say $150,000.

"It is silly to ask for that much with the country's economy like it is," he said.

Others around the table agreed the figure was too high ever to reach.

In last year's campaign, the fund drive at Loyalist College was not done on the 10 per cent more basis but on increased participation.

Because of that the over-all donation was doubled, said one member of the committee.

The agencies themselves will be asked to do more in helping with the campaign.

"I feel they were not doing too much in the past," said Mr. Zegouras.

This year the agencies will be writing accounts of people coming in for help which will be used in advertising.

The main body of these stories will be used in the month of September.

Starting day for the campaign has been set for Oct. 1.

To aid in increasing participation, each chairman will be given a list of both those who did and those who did not contribute last year.

Oshawa Youth Killed In Bicycle Accident

TWEED (Special) A midnight start on a return trip home from Crowe Lake west of Marmora ended in tragedy early today for three young Oshawa bicyclists.

One of the bike riders, Jack Ormiston, 16, of 772 Palace Street, Oshawa, was killed and his two companions were injured when their bikes were struck by a car from behind.

Driver of the westbound car was James Earl Wood, 27, of RR2, Oshawa. The midnight accident occurred on Highway 7 one half mile west of Marmora.

Injured in the mishap were Joseph Hoskin, 14, of 156 Harmony Road, South, Oshawa, who suffered a broken arm, broken leg, and neck lacerations, and Carl Mason, 14, 60 Harmony Road, Oshawa, who suffered back abrasions. Both boys were taken to Belleville General Hospital. The Mason youth was treated and released.

Constable Walter Baum of the OPP detachment office at Madoc, said the three boys had been visiting at a relative's cottage at Crowe Lake and had decided on an early start for their return trip to Oshawa. All three boys were related.

Police said there was good visibility on the highway stretch where the accident occurred. All three bicycles were completely demolished in the crash.

Coroner Dr. H. G. Parkin of Marmora pronounced the Ormiston youth dead at the scene.

Lucky Escape

Russell Rice of 30 Harriett Street is a lucky lad. At 5:45 city police report he crossed two lanes of traffic on Moira Street West and was struck by a car.

The three-year-old sustained cuts and bruises and remains in Belleville General Hospital for observation. Driver of the car was Mrs. Marie A. Sabot, of RR1, Carrying Place.

Quinte Planning Board Decision Expected Soon

TRENTON — A Bowmanville tour boat operator and his wife recognized the tourist potential of the Trent Waterway System and adjacent Quinte waters and decided to implement a regular and charter scenic cruise service from here, commencing July 1.

Ron and Florence Strong operated a similar service from Port Perry at Lindsay in recent summers.

Their new, all-steel hull cruise boat, The Miss Scugog, accommodates 40 passengers comfortably and carries 60 well within safety regulations.

It is 50 feet in length, 14 feet across the beam and a powerful diesel engine provides the motivation.

It is operated under a government license with an experienced captain at the controls.

The boat is berthed at the Government dock south of the Trenton Legion Hall, the departure point for all regular trips.

Cruise schedules set up so far include daylight trips from Trenton to Campbellford on Thursdays and Saturdays and Trenton to Picton on Fridays and Sundays.

There will be moonlight cruises from Trenton to Belleville on Fridays and Sundays, commencing at sundown and continuing until midnight.

Allen Vanclief Buys Funeral Home

The Grant Funeral Home at 68 North Front Street has been sold.

The new owner is Allen E. Vanclief, a native of Prince Edward County who took over the north end funeral home business on July 1 from Ray Grant who has operated the funeral service since 1930. Mr. Grant will continue to be available to assist in funeral arrangements.

Under the new ownership the Grant Funeral Home name will be retained with the added words — Allen E. Vanclief, Funeral Director.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Vanclief, the new funeral service owner is well known throughout the Quinte district. As an Ameliasburg township farm boy he attended Belleville Collegiate Institute and was active in county 4-H and Junior Farmer work.

Following high school, he took agricultural service in Belleville in 1959, receiving his salesman's license in 1962.

He remained in funeral service in the city until 1967 when he joined the credit and collection department of Allis Chalmers farm equipment working out of Guelph. In 1969 he returned to funeral service in Oshawa.

Mr. Vanclief is married to the former Frances Tucker of Sidney township who for several years worked as a secretary-and deputy clerk for the county of Hastings. They have three small children, Gregory, Jennifer and Leslie.

The Vanclief's are members of Holloway Street United Church while formally Mr. Vanclief is a member of The Belleville Lodge, AF and AM No. 123.

Quinte Boat Tours Ply Canal and Bay

The future of the Quinte Planning Board could be know as early as next week, Jack Bush, Sidney Township reeve and chairman of the eight-member municipality planning body told representatives last night.

When a ninth municipality . . . the village of Stirling. . . was given permission to opt out of the OPB in favor of the Hastings County Planning Board, four other municipalities announced, they too, were disgruntled. All five announcements were made on the same day.

None of the representatives of Trenton, Brighton and the townships of Murray and Brighton, turned up for that meeting. They have continued this practice to date.

Not only did this move make it difficult for the board to make decisions — the meeting was postponed due to lack of a quorum — but it affects the financial position. The board poltponed awarding a tender for new office space and held off hiring additional staff.

The department of municipal affairs was contacted and made aware of the situation. Darcy McKeough, minister of inter-governmental affairs, cleared the air slightly, by dropping the quorum count.

Wednesday, Reeve Bush, Belleville Mayor J. Russell Scott, Frankford Reeve William F. Rose and Quinte Planning Board director Bert Kenny met with the minister.

Although Mr. Bush admitted some decisions were made, he declined to elaborate. He said a letter is expected from the minister some time next week outlining the future of the board.

"Anything said right now might defeat the minister's purpose," he said, adding it "would be premature".

More on Planning

The proposal that may result in the establishment of an apartment district in the Hillcrest area offers the prospect of necessary new housing in Belleville and at the same time revitalizing this older area of the city that has seen better days.

The fact that the proposal, placed before a recent meeting of Task Force 13 members, has won their approval of residents is all the more encouraging. A new era of development for Hillcrest is something we have felt is long overdue and the idea of building apartments, along with safeguarding of a possible commercial sports complex, has a good deal of merit.

Moreover ,the choice of Hillcrest for such a development would be in line with prevailing developments in the big cities of the world, with apartment construction being confined to precise areas which do not conflict with other more traditional housing.

There is ample scope too in Hillcrest for the rehousing of residents in modern structures. Again, apartments could beat fill this need. The meeting — the final one of Task Force B — appears to have been one of the most productive of agreement among members. There may be changes of course along the way but that is what the meetings have been all about — an opportunity for discussion and public participation in the planning of Belleville's future.

A Faux Pas

Trust Secretary of State Gerard Pelletier to pull off a Dominion Day cultural event — the National Arts Centre orchestra and featured piano soloist Andre Gagnon — in which the commentary was entirely in French.

But wait a moment, perhaps Mr. Pelletier was not entirely to blame, for the commentary was by none other than composer pianist Gagnon himself and as the State Secretary said by way of explanation, a concert artist is usually accompanied by accompanied by any commentary. Consequently, he professed to have been taken by surprise.

There should be a printed program yes, but the rest is all part of the concept for the music — the main object of the whole exercise — and applause. Yet here was the oddly-garbed Mr. Gagnon (he would not have been out of place at Woodstock) with such flourishing up and down the keyboard every so often to announce the various compositions. Some were his own and were not without charm and technical skill (one entitled "The Lovers" was still in the air as recorded by Roger (Williams). However, so far as promoting his own personal charisma as a concert artist or the mystique usually associated with such occasions, Gagnon stumbled it all with a series of introductory dialogue — and in French only.

In our cultural endeavors in Canada we often fall between two stools — trying on the one hand to be oh so sophisticated, feeling a work say by Johann Sebastian Bach — sure he had two composer sons, but the old man was top dog and "Bach" invariably refers to him) and on the other indulging in unnecessary dialogue and almost oafish behavior.

The French have an expression for Saturday night's performance — faux pas. Next time let us have the concert but no dialogue please, either in English or French.

Area Activities

Most of us have seen the advertisements indicating community and recreational activities available in Belleville and it is difficult to imagine anyone enjoying good health and sound mind being at a loss for something to do. Some recent events that have taken our fancy were the Ice Capades show at Simca Farms, Corbyville, the Rose Festival and the opening of junior sailing and playground activities. The horse show was a reflection of the widespread interest in show hordes in Ontario and we understand it was a first for the Arabian breed in this area. The Rose Festival meanwhile continued a well-established tradition in a community noted for its fine gardens and parks.

No Let-Up

Aircraft hijackings seem to be continuing unabated and while three lately have been thwarted one of them resulted in tragedy, with the death of a Canadian and wounding of others. It is clear that ground searches of passengers must be stepped up if this most dangerous of latter-day crimes is to be kept to a minimum and preferably eliminated.

Diefenbaker Hits Out

Standing Order 43 Makes A Mockery of Parliament

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

The House of Commons, John Diefenbaker commented recently, reminds me of an insane asylum run by its inmates.

Mr. Diefenbaker was referring to the recent dismal day when the Commons wasted many hours on a procedural wrangling over what is known around here as standing order 43. His issue introduced a performance may have been a little too harsh—but not much.

Standing order 43 allows any member to introduce a motion dealing with some matter of urgent and pressing necessity, but only if he gets the unanimous consent of all the other members present to do so. The rule was one of those introduced a few years ago when the Commons adopted sweeping changes in an effort to become more efficient.

On the surface, it seemed like a good idea. In practice it has become a joke and a farce. The opposition parties have abused the rule and have used it in an effort to embarrass the government. And only a handful of four such motions are introduced almost every day. Very few would qualify under the criteria of urgent and pressing necessity.

The government has taken to refusing the unanimous consent required in almost blanket fashion. Of the dozens of motions presented only a handful have ever reached the stage of consent, followed by debate.

On the day Mr. Diefenbaker noted, one such motion, concerning the oil spill on the British Columbia coast, was allowed. What followed was almost two days of repetitious debate, strongly laced with new partisanship and flavored with the lowest essence of political gamesmanship.

So ridiculous did the whole thing become that by fewer than 11 other motions under standing order 43 were proposed following the dinner break and before the closing hour of 10 p.m. brought a merciful end to the charade.

It is not only standing order 43 that is not working. When the Commons voted to change its rules, it decided to make the committees much more important. Instead of the Commons as a whole examining the spending estimates of departments, the work was turned over to the smaller committees.

The theory was that estimates could be examined in greater detail by a smaller group of MPs without taking up so much time in the House and thus freeing the House to grapple with legislation.

Today you will look a long time before you find an MP returning close to completely happy with the practice. James McGrath, the MP for St. John's East, recently delivered a scathing attack on the committee system.

He points out that the rules require all committees to pass the estimates by May 31 each year and he also notes that the government members always constitute a majority on the committee. If an opposition MP attempts to alter one cent of spending by a government department, he is voted down.

The Newfoundland MP even claims that if the government is in any trouble during a committee meeting, the whip rounds up what he described as "reluctant goon squads" of Liberal MPs to attend the committee and support the department even though many of the members are not familiar with the issues under discussion.

He suggests, too, the public service has little respect for opposition MPs, knowing that they have no power to call the bill's estimates beyond a fixed deadline and cannot change a nickel in a spending program.

The nonsense of rule 43 and the breakdown of the so-called committee system are at least two good reasons our legislators had better soon go back to the drawing board to draft better and more workable rules of procedure.

Chiropractic Association Answers Critics

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Members of the chiropractic profession have been deeply gratified by the immediate response of the public and press across Canada to recent attacks by organized medicine on our profession. Press reports of proceedings during the recent annual meeting of the Canadian Medical Association in Montreal have reflected the customary derogatory CMA resolutions, paying us the usual handed compliment of recognizing us through vilification.

Fortunately for the public, not all physicians subscribe to the CMA's views or policies. Many of our members throughout Ontario, and indeed Canada, have received messages from physicians, who took the time and effort to apologize for the scurrilous remarks uttered by their parent body.

This announcement may well be only the beginning of yet another calculated union - wide smear campaign. Since the medical profession has been ranked over the coals by the public and governmental bodies during the past several years, CMA may now be attempting to discredit another health discipline in an effort to deflect some of the heat away from its own members. It is an obvious ploy to polish up the medical profession's somewhat tarnished image.

Chiropractic in Canada initially achieved its acceptance with the general public many, many years ago. The health insurance carriers were the next group to recognize our acceptance (the Workmen's Compensation Board of Ontario initiated coverage of chiropractic services in 1937), and more recently, due to public demand, the majority of the provinces have seen fit to provide coverage for chiropractic benefits for their citizens. Chiropractic has not sought, nor indeed, does it require the sanction of the CMA. On many occasions we have tried to initiate with the organized medical bodies a dialogue on topics of mutual interest, however, to no avail. It is time that our medical brothers came out of their ivory towers and changed their attitudes about the other allied health professions. Until then, it seems that the public will regularly have its intelligence insulted by this kind of hackneyed charge.

The CMA would be wiser and better serve the public interest, to look within its own professional ranks for instances of medical quackery. Chiropractic has justified its existence in the health care field by providing much - needed service to the public for over 75 years in spite of medical opposition.

A Family's Stolen Boat

Mary Janigan in The Montreal Gazette

Sometime last week a stranger robbed Aubrey Ratcliff of his last shred of faith in humanity.

The act was simple enough to accomplish: slip the moorings from his gleaming 150-horsepower outboard and disappear from the confines of the Repentigny Country Club.

But the stranger towed away far more than a material ornament in a rich man's life. A planner in an east-end copper refinery, Ratcliff is simply not wealthy.

The boat represented one of the few luxuries of his life and the major pleasure of his two young daughters.

"We used it every weekend, without fail, rain or shine," he lamented. "I can't afford a vacation this year and that boat was going to be our outlet.

"Whoever stole it has really successfully spoiled three or four years of my children's lives. I loathe and detest those people who are so heartless that they have to steal something I worked hard for."

Ratcliff scrapped the boat and an accompanying trailer in the spring of 1970. During the previous winter it had frequently visited a friend afflicted with cancer in a Montreal hospital.

The friend's dying request specified that his new, barely-used purchase be sold cheaply to Ratcliff. Thus for $4,000 the Ville d'Anjou planner received the boat and trailer worth some $7,000.

The summer of 1970 he moored the boat at the Jean Beaudoin Yacht Basin on Ile aux Trembles. Just prior to his family's Gaspe vacation, the $700 trailer was stolen.

"I had never thought to insure it because we used it only a few times a year," he explained. "The country club owner knew me another for $500 but it surely wrecked our vacation financially. I just couldn't believe things like that could happen."

Pointe aux Trembles police found no trace of its whereabouts.

The boat is insured but Ratcliff explained that he will only get about $2,000.

"I still owe about $700 in payments on it and-I'll never be able to afford a new one for years," he explained. "There were new gas tanks, paddles, everything we could name, aboard. It's simply financially irreplaceable."

Separated from his wife, Ratcliff, 40, lives with his two daughters, Christie, 11, and Maxine, 7, and a frisky mongrel named Boots. A Canadian citizen, he emigrated from Britain in 1956.

The theft was discovered by the family's Sunday outing.

"I kept looking for it even though it is obviously wasn't there said Ratcliff. "Then I had to keep the kids from crying. It had a awful impact on me because it meant so much. Monetarily it has proved to be a plague to live in with all these thefts."

Perhaps Clastic best expresses the family's sense of loss.

"There were bigger and better boats there but why did they have to steal the centre of our lives?" she said. "We used to wiggle around in it all the time and Maxine would colour things and we would try to sail and up in the centre.

"But I guess we can't have that fun anymore, can we, Dad?

Guaranteed Income Issue

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

A significant experimental program has been announced by Family and Social Services Minister Rene Brunelle.

The experiment is with income supplement, or the guaranteed annual income, as it is mostly called.

The project is to be a large one. It will cover 800 families at various locations in the province. It is expected to last about a year and will last for four years from then.

In the experiment, the incomes of the 800 families selected will be supplemented by the province so they have a minimum income of $3,000. Payments will be made by the province to guarantee this income.

But to encourage earning there will be a provision that they can, by earning, money, still get provincial payments over the set ceiling.

This may provide that only 50 per cent of the money earned in by work will be credited as earnings.

One of the strongest arguments in favor of the guaranteed annual income has been that our present welfare system discourages working.

Payments made for the most part only to those who are unemployed or are working part-time. There is no provision for the full-time worker with low earnings. And there are cases where family men will get more money by going on welfare.

But then those opposed to the plan have said that, with a guaranteed income from the state, there would be a tendency not to work.

This claim will be examined during the experiment.

Through continuing contact and comparison with a control group there will be findings as to whether the income plan actually does encourage work, and whether hamsit incentive and pride will mean that family heads still will want to work.

The experiment also will provide hard and reliable figures of costs.

There have been those who have said the guaranteed-income approach would be prohibitive in cost. Again, others have said it would cost less than our present welfare assistance.

Whatever the results of the various studies, the experiment itself is certainly will bring about basic changes.

Global Threat

Urban Guerrilla Warfare an Increasing Problem

By JOHN HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

What is the creeping global fear of our times? Not a nuclear war—Nixon and Brezhnev cooled that prospect in Moscow during their summit meetings—but the threat of urban terrorism.

In Uruguay, Northern Ireland, West Germany, Turkey, Israel and the black ghettoes of the United States, bombings, kidnappings, murders and other violence spread across the world is a grim escalation with no end in sight.

Some time ago, Prime Minister Trudeau warned us the major crisis facing our societies will not be the arms race, but the threat of internal violence. And he was right. Mr. Trudeau had in mind American cities near our border, Detroit, New York and Chicago, but until recently he was remembering the Montreal FLQ crisis of 1970.

In the Tet New Year arrival, we witnessed the wanton extremes which urban guerrilla bands have reached, unless the new civil war in Northern Ireland still takes precedence.

Ireland is home to the oldest urban liberation movement, The IRA (Irish Republican Army), responsible up to now for most of the bombings and killings in Northern Ireland, is over half a century old.

For a time, we consoled ourselves that urban guerrillas arrived in countries or areas facing insoluble problems of poverty, sovereignty and social upheaval.

We thought Uruguay's Tupamaros had Robin Hood-style intentions of stealing from the greedy politicians to give to the poor. That no longer true and probably never was. The Tupamaros have become an interparty-political power in a country where democracy has disintegrated into an unworkable and hopeless bureaucracy.

The Palestinian guerrilla movement is dedicated to Israel's destruction and the return of lost Arab lands. When they hi-jacked and then blew up multi-million dollar passenger jets in the desert two years ago, they disrupted the world's air travel system.

The most brutal guerrilla attack to date was in the Tel Aviv airport. It was carried out not by Palestinians, but three Japanese extremists they employed. The bloody Tel Aviv event raises an even more horrifying question.

Are we witnessing an international un-or-ff terrorist organizations in common global purposes of killing, kidnapping and intimidation? If so, what will be its goals? No one, not even some of the terrorist organizations, can be sure.

Internally, many of them, including the Palestinian guerrillas, have split ideologically. In Ireland for example, the top leadership of the IRA announced a split with their bombings and killings. But an apparent splinter group, calling themselves "The Provisional IRA," say they will continue the terror.

The three Japanese mass killers belonged to a Japanese Maoist terrorist organization concerned not with radical social change, but with the complete disruption of the existing social order.

The terror to come may no longer be the nuclear bomb, but world-wide urban guerrilla bombing tactics.

Labor Board Is Accused Of Favoring U.S. Unions

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Labor Relations Board was accused Thursday of discriminatory practices by the Council of Canadian Unions, an organization whose aim is to promote the growth of a national Canadian trade union movement.

PM Praises Pelletier

OTTAWA (CP)— Prime Minister Trudeau Thursday paid a glowing tribute to Stake Secretary Gerard Pelletier—two days after announcing that Mr. Pelletier would hold another portfolio after the next election.

KITCHENER, (CP) — Opponents of the Waterloo County board of education's plan to hold a Church and School Week Sept. 17-24 have formed a group that may seek an Ontario Supreme Court injunction to prevent the event.

Treat Wastes

TORONTO (CP) — A $97,000 project to treat wastes has been approved for the Bowen Lake food processing plant at Colborne, the Ontario environment ministry said Thursday.

R. Kent Rowley, secretary-treasurer of the CCU, told a news conference that by "improper conduct" the OLRB had consistently denied certification of unions affiliated with his organization and then had certified United States-controlled unions.

As an example, Mr. Rowley cited the Watson Manufacturing Co. of Paris, Ont., a subsidiary of Dominion Textiles of Montreal. He said the Canadian Textile and Chemical Union, of which he is president, had organized the workers but was denied certification and that the Textile Workers Union of America was certified "after we were thrown out."

"Generally, when we go before a three-man hearing of the Ontario Labor Relations Board, we find that one of them is an employer representative, who is usually hostile to us and another is a representative of an international union," said Mr. Rowley. "We figure we have two votes against us before we even start."

Mr. Rowley said one of the major issues at the fourth annual constitutional convention of the CCU, to be held here Saturday and Sunday, will be a call for a boycott of labor boards in a number of provinces, particularly Ontario and British Columbia.

Government Claims It Can Use Tax Data

OTTAWA (CP) — Assistant deputy attorney-general C. D. Munro told the Federal Court Thursday that his department can make use of information supplied to the income tax department.

He said tax laws allow the department to use such information where the good of public administration and justice can be served.

Mr. Munro's statement, boldly contested by opposing counsel, was made during a hearing of a government motion which seeks to set aside a 1970 decision of the federal anti-dumping tribunal which had the effect of imposing dumping duties on sheet glass imported from Iron Curtain countries.

The case continues today.

Cultural, Scientific Exchanges Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — A broad program of cultural and scientific exchanges between Canada and the Soviet Union, providing among other things for extended co-operation in Arctic development, was announced Thursday.

The program is a follow-up to a general agreement on cultural exchanges signed by Premier Alexei Kosygin and Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau when the Soviet premier visited Ottawa

It was worked out in Moscow last month in a series of exchanges in 1972 and 1973.

However, the clause concerning the Arctic appears to have a broader basis. Government officials say "co-operation will be established on a regular and long-term basis in Arctic science, resources and development."

Canadian and Soviet leaders have frequently expressed interest in a program of mutual co-operation for the North, covering such diverse technical problems as urban construction, mineral exploration and pipeline construction in permafrost zones.

The program announced Thursday also calls for efforts by the two governments to expand border exchanges, in accordance with the earlier agreement between Hockey Canada and the U.S.S.R. Hockey Federation for a series of games between professionals pros and Soviet all-stars this fall.

Lawrence Says Crime Cell Known

TORONTO (CP) — Justice Secretary Allan Lawrence assured the public Thursday that police have long known of the existence in Toronto of a Mafia cell known as the Siderno group and are maintaining surveillance over them.

Mr. Lawrence also said the group has attempted at times to establish a monopolistic control over all syndicated crime in the province.

But "as far as we know" none of the so-called organized crime groups, including Siderno, has been able to achieve a monopolistic position, although they continue to try.

He did not name the other groups, but said they were all engaged in syndicated operations involving extortion, narcotics, counterfeiting, stolen securities and other rackets.

In his telegram, Mr. Peterson identified the women as Mary Ann Gritchen, Eva Popoff, Pearl Poundorf and Polly Chernoff. He said they were released before the penitentiary on medical grounds.

The Reeve,
Members of Council,

I have examined the 1971 financial statements of the Corporation of the Township of Thurlow, which are listed on the attached Index. My examination included a general review of the accounting procedures, and such tests of accounting records and other supporting evidence as I considered necessary in the circumstances.

In my opinion, these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Corporation of the Township of Thurlow, and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in accordance with accounting principles, generally accepted for Ontario Municipalities, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Mrs. Johnston was presented with a gift in recognition of her time spent and work done to compile this record. It contains the names of the descendants of Alexander Johnston and his wife Mary Sumiters. There are now over 800 known descendants since there are a number in the fifth generation. One daughter of this union is still living. She is Mrs. William Forestell of Campbellford but was unable to attend.

It was decided to hold the 1972 reunion at Island Park on the last Sunday in June. If the weather is not favorable, the use of the banquet hall will be available again.

The afternoon was spent in visiting and enjoying music by some of the members.

WEDDINGS

BLAKELY — KELLAR

Rev. Purser officiated at the recent wedding ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church, Lakefield when Miss Jean Marlene Kellar, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kellar, Lakefield and formerly of Milford, became the bride of Steven G. Blakely, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blakely, Picton. Traditional wedding music was rendered by Miss McDougall, Lakefield.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length empire styled gown of imported nylon sheer over taffeta with the bodice featuring a stand-up collar and full sheer sleeves with wide cuffs enhanced with double ruffles and lace. The A-line skirt was trimmed with daisy appliques and delicate lace at the hem enhanced at the back of the dress by a sheer, deep panel of pearl which formed a cathedral train. Her headdress was a collection of delicate daisies and leaf motif held in place by a two-tier circular nylon net tulle veil with scalloped edges. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses, white mums and baby's breath.

The maid of honor, Miss Jane Kellar, sister of the bride wore a full length sheer lilac polyester daisy-flocked voile over taffeta empire styled gown with bodice and sleeves accenting the waistline, soft puff sleeves and ruffled jewel neckline trimmed with lace. A Swiss mohair lilac straw braid floppy brimmed hat completed her attire. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink carnations, white shasta daisies and baby's breath adorned with lilac ribbons.

Bridesmaids, Mrs. Claire Begbie of Oshawa and Mrs. Rosemary Anderson of Picton were dressed identically to the maid of honor but in pink and mint green respectively and each carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations, shasta daisies and baby's breath.

Ray Begbie of Oshawa was groomsman and the ushers were Robert Blakely, Jr. of Peterborough, brother of the bridegroom and Dan Simpson of Hamilton.

A reception was held at the Parish Hall, Young's Point where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a short-length two-toned A-line dress of plum and white bubble knit and polyester with a red rose corsage, white accessories and white straw hat. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a coat style short length dress of pink polyester crepe with ruffled trim, white rose corsage, white accessories and pink organza hat.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Western Ontario, the bride donned a burgundy and white polka dot skimmer dress with white accessories and a mint green corsage and white accessories.

On return, the couple will reside in Peterborough.

CANNIFTON-CORBYVILLE SR. CITIZENS NO. 343

Canniffton — Corbyville Sr. Citizens No. 343 recently held their annual church service with Rev. John A. Morrison occupying the pulpit. The members formed the choir during the service and Mr. Ed Hogle, nearly 90 years old from Hastings Manor recited a poem. Following the service, Mr. Hogle spent the dinner hour with Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Clare.

The following Wednesday, the last regular meeting before summer was held in Canniffton church auditorium with 42 members and two visitors in attendance. The president, Mrs. Olive Rose welcomed the members and thanked all for the great amount of work given for the recent bazaar.

The secretary, Mrs. Brenton read the minutes of the past meeting and the financial standing of the club. It was decided to have a bus take members to the picnic at Zwick's Island. Arrangements are completed for the bus trip to Smiths Falls at the end of August.

Willis Brenton cut the birthday cake and all sang the birthday song for those celebrating their birthdays. Ice cream and cake were then served.

Cattle Order Buyer Is A Woman

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — When Ruth Bartlett first started buying cattle, she says her male competition minded.

"They used to give me a rough time, but not any more.

"They would make wisecracks about some of the calves I bought. Sometimes they would run me up in the bidding and try to leave me stuck with too high a price. That doesn't happen too much now."

That's partly because she's cut down a lot on the competition. She now buys for Canada Packers, Nornern Meats of Kitchener, Kaser Packers, Elmer Bender of Buffalo and for many small abattoirs.

Mrs. Bartlett is believed to be the only woman cattle order buyer in Canada. She started 21 years ago, buying for the farm she and her husband, Jack, have at Hagersville.

"I had been buying some calves for ourselves, when one of the buyers for Monarch suggested I buy for them. I've been buying ever since."

Order buying involves knowing what her customers want. One firm may like lean calves, another may want a little more finish or a heavier weight.

A cattle buyer must be able to appraise the weight of a calf when it walks into the ring. "Sometimes the price

Ann Landers

Grandmother Regrets Love

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to say a few words to that woman who was mad at her folks for not having rotten grandparents because they refused to be available whenever they wanted to dump their children so she and her husband could enjoy weekends out of town.

I am a loving example of why grandparents should not be involved. Last Saturday I lost my beautiful grandchild. This child meant more to me than any living creature. His mother went to work and asked me if I would take complete charge of the baby. At first I didn't know whether I had the strength at my age to accept the responsibility (he was only five weeks old), but I agreed to try. Within a month I had my heart completely to that little boy.

Now, 18 months later, my daughter-in-law announces, out of the blue, that she and my son are getting a divorce and she is leaving in three days—with the baby—to live in another state with her parents.

I have died a thousand deaths since that day. The emptiness in my heart is indescribable. I never dreamed I could ache so much.

I am not blaming anyone, but life has taught me a bitter lesson. Never again will I become involved with a grandchild. —Heartsick

Dear Heartsick: Surely you don't regret having taken the child. He brought you much happiness. These are the things you should remember and be grateful for.

If you have love to give, why not take a foster child into your home? There are many younger sters who need what you have to offer. Please consider it, dear.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a 16 year-old girl whose mother humiliated her by yelling into the phone (loud enough for her boyfriend to hear) "Tell whoever it is that you aren't allowed to talk forever on a school night—then get off!"

You seemed extremely sympathetic to the girl but showed no understanding whatever for the mother. Your answer was a great disappointment to me because I've always considered you a help to mothers. This time you really let us down.

I have two teen-agers who tie up our phone five days a week from 3 until 10 p.m. On weekends, it's worse—unless they are out somewhere. Grandparents, doctors and friends cannot get through. I can't tell you how often I've been told: "Your phone is always busy. I've given up trying to call you."

I am sick and tired of the younger generation being resentful when limits are put on them. My children have come to me to lose my composure many times because they abused the telephone. If teen-agers would be considerate and thoughtful their mothers would not need to scream into the telephone and embarrass them.—Sinking In New Haven

Dear Sink: If you were unhappy with my first response you're going to be a lot unhappier with this one. What's the matter with you that you haven't set up some basic ground-rules regarding the telephone and seen to it that those rules are respected? A mother who would permit her teen-agers to tie up the only phone in the house for seven hours, five days a week, has abdicated her responsibility. Of course kids resent limits—but limits are essential. And beneath the resentment, kids want guidelines. Adolescents who can act like grown-ups are confused and unhappy. They feel that no one cares enough about them to enforce discipline. So get tough, Mother. Your children will respect you for it.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CORNELL

Can a sports fan be too fanatic?

YES, although there is nothing to be alarmed about if a sports fan is caught up in the frenzy of a dramatically close game or the excitement of a long pennant race. Once a fan begins to use an extreme devotion for sports as a personal escape, though, he should begin to question his motives. He should be sure he is not using sports to identify with heroes sports figures simply to avoid facing the problems and conditions of his own life.

Should parents 'give in' right away?

YES, if they know they will eventually let their child erode their determination not to give him what he wants. If he refuses to play with a babysitter, for instance, and they eventually give in to his demands, the parents might just as well save themselves the aggravation. They will have to teach their child that they mean what they say, otherwise each time he gets his own way the child will tighten his control over his parents.

Does a wife realize she nags?

YES, but that won't stop a compulsive nagger. In many cases, a wife will feel she would like to bite off her tongue to keep from nagging her husband, but she won't baby, either. Instead, a nagging wife can't always put her finger on exactly what gets her started. It could be resentment or boredom, although a wife very consciously neither resent nor feel hostile toward her husband at all.

Successful Living

Father Worries About Children

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I am 72, with a wife only 47. She is a Metis and I am a white Canadian.

You can imagine that there was a lot of trouble, with our ages and backgrounds so different. Yet we had nine children.

Six years ago there was a battle between us and she left me, and not too soon. There are two children with her: one 14, one six. I have one nine-year-old girl with me. The others are grown up.

Now she drinks and neglects them. How long must we live apart before we are legally separated? I do not like to see her neglecting the youngsters. —What Have You?

Dear What: A so-called "legal separation" is usually a mutual agreement worked out with a lawyer. There is no required separation ahead of time.

This is different from divorce. If a couple lives apart for three years and both agree to divorce, these grounds are sufficient. If one party will not consent, the length of separation before the other party may obtain a divorce is five years.

Your resource for help, and for attention to the care of seemingly neglected children, is your regional welfare officer, who will direct you to the marital counselor who helps with these things where you are.

Dear Doris: My daughter is being married and I need your help. One seems little interested in these things when not personally involved.

Do the bridal attendants introduce themselves or do the guests introduce themselves to the attendants? Many will be unknown to the groom's family and it will seem like a continuous round of introductions.

Also, we live far from the groom's parents. Could I invite them to spend the weekend at our nearby cottage, and looking after themselves? There just isn't room for them here. —Mrs. X.

Dear Mrs. X.: I know. We may go through certain routines without thinking when we are guests at a function organized by somebody else.

You, as attendant of the bride will be first in the receiving line. You reach out a welcoming hand to the unknown guest ask the name and pass him or her on to next person in line, repeating name.

This should work all along the receiving line, but if there is a slip-up, attendants should be briefed to smile and say who they are—"I'm Alice's sister", or, "I'm Mary Beth's roommate", inviting the guest to return the favor by identifying herself.

As long as you include the groom's family in all activities they will doubtless be delighted to have the privacy of a cottage of their own, when it comes to dressing up and bedding down.

Dear Doris: I would like to have a recipe for preserving rose petals for their scent. —Who Knows.

Dear Who Knows: I'd like to know too. We've been doing a little research without success. Perhaps one of our green-thumb readers will know just how this is done and write in.

(If something is troubling you, there's help to be had. Write to Doris for another slant on your difficulty.)

Strokes Determine Presidential Race

The smallest number of strokes, rather than the most ballies will be the determining factor of the "presidential race" at the Belleville Golf and Country Club Wednesday.

The Marysville course will be the site of the first annual Presidents' Men's Open, so-named because the new trophy for the event was donated by membership chairman Jim Bennett.

A total of $600 in prizes will be on the line, as well as a 1973 membership for the golfer coming closest to the pin on the 203-yard, par-three seventh hole. The $6 entry fee will entitle golfers to two free practice rounds (Monday and Tuesday) as well as the Wednesday competition.

Players will be using the newly - installed blue tees, which figures to lengthen the 18-hole layout, while most of the small bugs will be ready for use by Wednesday.

The competition will be divided into four flights with handicappers ranging from scratch to eight talking part in the "A" flight; 9-18 in the "B" flight; 19-25 in the "C" section and 26-36 handicappers rounding out the field.

Tee-off time for the tournament will be 8.30 a.m. Wednesday, July 12th.

Orchards Blossom

Bayview Orchards made good on their last chance Thursday night to record a 9-8 win over Wannamaker and Boily Stables in a Prince Edward North Shore Softball League contest.

That 64 going into the seventh inning the Orchards came up with three runs to win the game and move into a tie with the stables for third spot in the standings.

Jim Bell, Randy Dempsey and Jack O'Neil led the winners with two hits apiece. Bell started the game for Bayview, giving up six runs and four hits in his five innings of work. Jim Rader threw one-hit ball over the final two frames and picked up the win. The pair fanned 10 and walked five.

Gary Eardley went the route for the Stables, allowing 11 hits and striking out three.

Mead Johnson jammed the B Division standings of the Industrial Softball League a little tighter by lobbing a 9-3 decision from the Morch Mariners.

The Mead's victory left them in third place, two points behind CNR and a single point in back of UIC. Sonny Holoway and Ken Osborne combined to pitch the win, giving up five hits and the same number of walks. They struck out five batters. The Morch mound duties were shared by Paul Sharpe and Don Fobert. They allowed 14 hits and four walks while fanning three batters.

Blaine Young, Cliff Hinman, Tim O'Connell, Bill Sofa, Osborne and Rick May each had two Mead Johnson safeties. Bob Bogle had a pair of hits for the Mariners.

AOCO maintained their C division lead with a 5-3 victory over Constellation. Grant Collet earned the victory with a four-hitter, despite issuing eight walks. He struck out seven. The loss went to Steve Gatcum and Tom Bellis who yielded a total of six hits.

John Smith paced the Optical with two singles while Doug McKay and Paul Nobles each notched a double. Wayne May singled twice for Constellation.

In another C division fixture, Independents grabbed a share of second by trouncing Post Office 13-7.

Wally Hull buried the win for Independents with B e r t r a n d, Craig, Casselman and Lane getting three each. Campbell, Reid, Marriott and Pierce each had three Post Office hits.

Action tonight has CNR meeting Constellation in a 7 p.m. game at the Alemite with Canadian Tire meeting the Post Office at 9.30 p.m. There will be two drawn field in each game for assorted merchandise. All holders of paid admission tickets will be eligible to win.

Mulroney Batters Swing for Fences

Mulroney's Sunoco tykes canned the baseball strategy of hit and run, bunts and sacrifices and swung for the fences in a Belleville Minor Baseball League contest last night.

The Gasmen smashed nine home runs en route to a 34-8 stomping of the Corbyville tykes. Lorne Andrews pulled a grand slam homer and a solo circuit clout and Pat Dowling smashed a four-run shot to provide more than enough runs for the win. Jim Mulroney had two homers, a triple and a single, Dan Manning two homers and a triple, Terry Calder a homer, triple and four singles and Mark Davey a homer and four singles to round out the winners hitting spree.

In a warm-up game for this weekend's Niagara Falls preview tournament the Belleville Conductor and Brakemen preview squashed their Hamilton Merchant opponents 28-8,

Printing Teams Dropped

Howard and Robert Printing dropped into third place, while the Ellis Printer Juniors literally "dropped" a ball game in Commercial Softball League action Thursday.

Devolin Motors edged Howard and Robert 2-1 to move into a tie for possession of second place, while a dropped fly ball in the final inning handed the Juniors a 12-11 straight loss of the season.

Don Holoway stopped the Printers on a two - hitter in the battle for second spot. The big righthander whiffed six and walked three to beat Bob Ellder's five-hit effort. Ellder struck out 11 batters and issued a single base on balls.

Both Devolin runs came in the second inning on a walk, back-to-back singles by Jim Horwood and Eric Maher followed by Ron Marsele's sacrifice fly. Maher later added triple to his run-producing base knock, while Marv Stacey accounted for the winners' other hits with a pair of triples.

Dwight Rathwell and Moe Hunter were the only batsmen to solve Holoway's deliveries, stroking a single each.

The Ellis Juniors doubled Globe Hotel's hit total, but still came out on the short end of a 2-1 count. The winning Globe tally came in the seventh when Perry Reddick's two-out high fly to right was dropped by Terry Pope, scoring Bill Harrison from second with the winning run. Both Globe runs were unearned, assisted by three Ellis errors.

Ken Hill was a three-hitter to Harrison who gave up six hits in recording the win. Harrison whiffed three batters and gave up one walk, while the Ellis lefthander fanned five and walked one.

Harrison helped his win cause with two of the three Globe hits with Gary Johnson picking up the third single. Hill was the game's top batsman with a double and a single while batterymate Pete Stallworth had two singles. Glenn Carleton and Steve Cardwell had the lones other hits.

City Juveniles Bad Neighbors

Belleville refused to follow a "good neighbor" policy, when the Belleville Lacrosse League is concerned, as they thumped their closest rivals from Trenton, 11-2.

The local juveniles controlled play for most of the contest, leading 6-0 after two periods and scoring five more times in the third. Two big goals by Trenton spoiled a shutout attempt by Belleville goalie Peter Cox.

Neil Turner paced Belleville with a six-goal performance with singles going to Danny Payne, Kerry Reid, Rick Wait, Wayne McCeachy and Rick Barbeau.

Darryl Donnelly counted both goals for Trenton. The winners drew 10 of the game's 18 penalties including three misconducts.

Broadloom Loss Closer

Belleville Broadloom came back for more Thursday night in a Belleville and District Ladies Softball League game and although they came a little closer this time the results were still the same.

Broadloom, singling from Wednesday's 17-1 no-hit loss to the Cozy Grill, put on a stronger hitting show but still dropped an 11-7 decision to the Grill girls.

Sue Fobert couldn't keep her no-hit string of Wednesday night alive on the Cozy mound giving up 13 hits in four innings of work. Pam Claus relieved in the fifth. The pair fanned 10 and walked four.

Jo-ann Green paced first-place Cozy with a triple and two singles while Cathy Brown and Judy Paltz adding two doubles and a single each.

Marianne Silke gave up 15 hits on the Broadloom rubber with Norma Fuller stroking a triple and two singles in her support.

Riders Shade Cats

HAMILTON (CP) — Rookie quarterback Harry Theofilides marched Ottawa Rough Riders 81 yards to set up the winning, 14-yard Gerry Organ field goal as Ottawa beat Hamilton Tiger-Cats 22-21 Thursday night in a Canadian Football League exhibition game.

Organ's field goal, his third of the game, with six seconds left spoiled the suspicious debut of Hamilton's rookie quarterback Chuck Ealey, who led the Tiger-Cats to 16 of their 21 points and thrilled the more than 20,000 fans with his scrambling tactics. He shared the spotlight all with Wally Gabler.

The Riders scored first with Rick Cassata at the helm with an Organ field goal early in the first quarter, adding a touchdown when Ron Woodward took an intercepted Gabler pass for 44 yards.

Gabler passed six yards to Tony Gabriel to make it 9-6 after the first quarter.

Paul Brothers took over for Ottawa in the second, scoring newcomer Art Cantrelle over on an eight-yard run. Organ converted and added a 24-year field goal that quarter.

Ealey led the Ticats to 11 points in the second quarter and four in the final frame. The second-quarter points came off a 51-yard conceded single by Doug Mitchell, a five-yard touchdown run by Dave Buchanan, converted by Mitchell, who also kicked a 40-yard field goal.

After a scoreless third quarter Hamilton coach, Jerry Williams sent in junior Lee Bud Grant for 43-yard field goal attempt after Mitchell had missed a 16-yarder and picked up a single. Senter made it good, raising the score to 22-13. That set up Ottawa's drive and Organ's kick in the closing seconds.

Both teams had 20 first down, and were also almost even in total offence — 315 yards for Hamilton to 303 for Ottawa. But Ottawa had the edge on 1st ground, 184 yards to 96, while Hamilton ruled the air, getting 238 yards to Ottawa's 139. Ottawa passers were 18 for 24, Hamilton's 15 for 27.

King Courts Revenge

LONDON (Reuter) — Evonne Goolagong of Australia, Wimbledon champion in 1971, defended her title today against American Billie-Jean King, who held the title from 1966 to 1968.

Victory carries a prize of $6,000 and enormous prestige, but each girl will have a powerful additional incentive when they walk on to the centre court.

The popular 20-year-old Australian will be all out to confirm her position as a world-beater.

...and Gets It!

LONDON (Reuter) — Billie-Jean King of the United States won the women's singles title at the Wimbledon tennis championships today for the fourth time, beating reigning champion Evonne Goolagong of Australia 6-3, 6-3 in the final.

The 28-year-old Californian, who day to win 3-6, 6-4, 6-1, 7-5, and is the Wimbledon final for the sixth time in seven years, will be determined to avenge her 1971 semi-final defeat by Miss Goolagong.

That reversal was a blot on the American's superb record of Wimbledon final appearances and it has rankled somewhat ever since.

Mrs. King has shown peak form in the present championships and exudes confidence.

"I think I'm playing so well because I've never been happier," she said. "But I shall be happier still if I win Wimbledon again."

Miss Goolagong has had perilous moments in recent rounds, but she must have gained tremendous confidence from her narrow win Wednesday over the young American star Chris Evert in a match that will rank one of Wimbledon's classics.

The Australian said: "I feel I can do well in the final particularly after beating Chris. I'm a bit more confident than before". Miss Goolagong has produced tremendous speed and flair but her former penetration on service and fluidity on the volley have been missing.

Only if she is going to put together the full range of her exciting repertoire of strokes will she be able to prevent Mrs. King from regaining the crown. The American beat her 6-3, 6-3 in the final of the French hard court championships last month and also won in Dallas, Tex., in March.

Miss Goolagong's smiling demeanor, even in the depths of trouble, has endeared her to Wimbledon fans, who are certain to be behind her today.

But Mrs. King is by far too experienced and determined a competitor to be counted out.

"People haven't been for me for about four years," she said. "It's something I've had to adapt to. It was difficult at the beginning, but now nothing bothers me. They can throw cushions, throw money, or do anything they want."

While the title is being fought out, Chris Evert, the girl who is so nearly got to the final on her first Wimbledon challenge, will be out over the Atlantic flying home to Florida.

The men's singles final on Saturday will, like the women's final, be between the top two seeds—U.S. army Lt. Stan Smith and Jiie Nastase, a lieutenant in the Romanian army.

Smith, 25, who was a beaten finalist last year, outgunned Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia, Thursday in the semi-finals of the All England Tennis Championships.

Dorey Definitely Gone

BOSTON (AP) — New England Whalers of the World Hockey Association announced Thursday the signing of two National Hockey League players to their growing roster.

The Whalers announced the signings of defenceman Jim Dorey, a four-year veteran of the NHL, and Tommy Williams, a 10-year veteran of three NHL clubs.

The signings brings to 19 the number of players the Whalers have under contract for the WHA's first season of play which is to beginnhis fall.

Dorey, 25, a native of Kingston, joined Toronto Maple Leafs in 1969.

A four-year NHL veteran, Dorey played for the Leafs until last February when he was traded to New York Rangers for Pierre Jarry.

Williams, 32, played with Boston Bruins for seven years before being traded to Minnesota North Stars in 1969 and then to the California Golden Seals in 1971.

Last season Williams played in 32 games with the Seals before returning to Boston to play 31 games with the American Hockey League Braves.

Pronovost Too

CHICAGO (AP) — Marcel Pronovost, stalwart defenceman in the National Hockey League for more than 20 seasons, signed Thursday to coach Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association.

After playing with Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs, Pronovost joined Tulsa Oilers, a Toronto farm team, as player-coach.

He said the lumo by NHL super-star Bobby Hull into the WHA "was the World Hockey Association something to believe in."

Course Record for Openers

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Two young cuts with eagles and another with a new lucky belt buckle were looking for their improved fortunes to continue in today's second round of the Canadian open golf championship.

Bunky Henry, 28, with a course record six-under-par 65, held a one-stroke lead going into the second round of the $150,000 tournament on the 6,751-yard, par 71 Cherry Hill course.

"It's been a long time since I've led a tournament," said the Valdosta, Ga., native. "And I just hope my luck holds out."

Henry started the first round Thursday with two birdies and followed up with his eagle three. He collected three more birdies against only one bogey. His six-under on the back nine was only the sixth such nine-hole total on this year's pro tour.

One stroke back at 66 with his lucky belt buckle was 24-year-old rookie Tom Sanderson of Escondido, Calif., who has managed to win only about $2,500 this year.

Scoring the other eagle of the day was Sam Adams, of Boone, N.C., a rookie and one of only two left-handers on the regular tour.

Adams scored a four-under 67 and was tied with veteran Sam Snead, Gay Brewer and Lou Graham.

Sanderson, besides giving credit to his lucky belt buckle, cited his recent acquisition of sponsors, his recent marriage and a new putter for his success Thursday.

"John Schlee gave me a putter that he won $38,000 with and that made a big difference."

Sanderson, besides giving credit to his lucky belt buckle, cited his recent acquisition of sponsors, his recent marriage and a new putter for his success Thursday.

"John Schlee gave me a putter that he won $38,000 with and that made a big difference."

Australian Bruce Crampton and Bob Smith were tied with 68s, three under par, while defending champion Lee Trevino joined Bobby Mitchell, Mike Reasor, Deane Beman and Jim Colbert at 69.

Amateur Nick Weslock of Burlington, Ont., and Winnipeg Bob Panasiuk were the only Canadians to break par with 70s. They were in a group of eight that included veteran Chi Chi Rodriguez.

Arnold Palmer and South African Gary Player, perennial tournament favorites along with Trevino, were in a group of 74 at even-par 71.

Palmer, who wiped out three birdies with an equal number of bogeys, said he was having trouble with his irons.

"If I knew this course better, I think I would have had a better round today," said Palmer who had only one rain-shortened practice session Wednesday.

But despite Wednesday night's downpour, there was not but high praise from most of the players for the condition of the course.

"The course is in perfect shape, and I think it will rank among the top five on the U.S. tour this year," said Panasiuk. "I talked to a lot of the players and they all said they were extremely happy with the course. I think the profit from the U.S. Are having a real treat playing on a course that's in such good condition."

Trevino also praised the tournament marshals for controlling the crowd of 14,000 who turned out Thursday.

"With the job they did, it took us only four hours and five minutes to complete the round. I don't think I can remember when was the last time we went that fast and this isn't a short course."

Trevino predicted that Thursday's clear skies and winds continued, the greens would be "hard as a table top" by Sunday and low scores would be scarce.

"Right now the greens are still holding well. If you go in the rough you can blast out of it and still stop at the pin. But those greens are going to get a lot faster as they dry out."

The remaining field of 141 starts teeing off at 8 a.m. today and the low 70 and ties will make the cut for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

CBC television begins live coverage Saturday with a two-hour national broadcast beginning at 4 p.m. EDT, The Sunday telecast starts at 3 p.m. and continues until the winner collects the $30,000 first prize.

The field was reduced Thursday by two late withdrawals and one exclusion.

Ben Kern of Toronto withdrew after nine holes because of hernitis in his shoulder while Bob Goalby dropped out after aggravating an earlier injury.

Among other Canadians still in consideration were Wayne Vellner of Vancouver; Bob Cox of Richmond, B.C.; Wiff Simonelli of Winnipeg, George Knudson of Toronto and Ken Fulton of Montreal, all in a large group at 73, two over par.

Another stroke back were John Morgan of Victoria, Phil Giroux of Montreal, and Ken Trowbridge of Bolton, Ont.

Elliott Asked to Quit Tourney

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — John Elliott of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was asked to withdraw from the Canadian Open golf championship Thursday after he argued with a tournament official over a penalty.

The husband of golf professional Sandra Post Elliott, formerly of Oakville, was assessed a two-stroke penalty by tournament supervisor Jack Tuthill on the 17th hole for delay of game.

Elliott finished his round but later argued with Tuthill at the clubhouse over the penalty and was asked to withdraw.

Elliott had shot 36-36—71 for a 72 total, counting the two-shot penalty.

The young Florida pro was involved in a dispute with tournament official Jack Tuthill at the Canadian Open two weeks ago when it was discovered he had 15 clubs in his bag, one over the limit.

Tournament officials assessed Elliott a four-stroke penalty on the final day of the 54-hole tournament but it cost him a share of the lead.

Last weekend, at the Barrie Invitational he missed a short putt on the 18th hole in the first round and withdrew.

Lee Bud to Face Feature Veterans

Lee Bud will be out to make it two in a row at Quinte Exhibition Raceway this Saturday night but he'll have to beat some of the best to do it.

Bud, winner of las week's feature in a time of 2:07.3, will be defending his title against seven veterans on the Belleville track and at least two previous feature winners.

Captain Craig, a three-time winner of the feature, and Hieland Battles, a double winner, will be supplying a stiff challenge while Canal View Way who has seen the runner-up position too many times will be out to remedy that situation.

I. N. Wan and Dan Brewer round out the seven horse card for the preferred ninth race.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Saturday, July 8

Aries (March 21-April 19): Stretch yourself to make contact, some form of communication wherever you have emotional ties. Offer advice once you are asked, briefly.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Make full use of any facility for improving your resources, whether by taking up a bargain, accepting a favor, or simply Gemini (May 21-June 20): Emotional ties suffer stress and attraction by turns. Get through the day with a minimum of fatigue, leaving some of the chores for later.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Intellectual activity is favored, may tempt you to skip something you shouldn't. Sharing hobbies can be rewarding.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Be as much of an extrovert as your mood can be coaxed into being. Seek company, share the wealth of all the good things that are free.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Come out of your accustomed week-end rounds for fresh social exploration, new places to visit, interesting people to meet.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Recreation, fun and games are inviting. People from distant places pass and may have good word for you, perhaps some romantic interest.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Take the trouble to get to know people better. The more here has been a difference, you have a good opportunity for amends.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Share your work. You've taken pains a few people for granted, and it's time to get beyond superficial aspects.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your persuasive powers and salesmanship approach can unfold covered public image, extricate you from burdensome situations.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): When there isn't much to do you have the opportunity of taking stock to see where you are, make plans for future expansion.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Social life brightens up and you have something special going for you. A little spent now in the right places can be really helpful.

Great Many Drugs Have Side Effects

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: As the result of a positive reaction to a tuberculin skin test, I have been advised to take a drug, isoniazid, for one year.

Although it is to be supplied to me without cost, I have heard some things about the drug that concern me. I would appreciate hearing from you.—T.G.W.

The positive tuberculin test signifies that you have been exposed to TB. Now the goal is to make sure you don't develop an active case of the disease yourself.

Yes, side effects are possible with isoniazid. It is a powerful medication. But side effects are possible with virtually any medication you can name. (And at that you probably can't.)

The point is that the side effects occur primarily with large doses, so the thing to do is to observe the patient periodically to make sure that side effects don't develop.

The effectiveness of isoniazid as an anti-tuberculosis treatment has been established. By all means go ahead with the treatment. Just take care to go in for checkups whenever you are told to.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If a person has a hiatal hernia, would they suffer chest pains and severe stomach spasms and cramps, bringing on headaches and nausea?

Sleeping in an upright position helps, but what foods and liquids are allowed is the problem. Can you help me?—Mrs. V.F.

The symptoms are all possible. In general, a hiatal hernia often closely resembles an ulcer in symptoms. Diet—a bland, non-irritating diet, just as for ulcers—usually is advisable.

But if you aren't sure whether you have hiatal hernia but are guessing from the symptoms, then by all means your first step is to have your doctor diagnose the situation.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What would you do with a child, going on three, who refuses to be toilet trained? He has complete bladder control, but the moment I put him on his potty chair, he tenses up and will not go. As a result he is so constipated that he cannot go normally and a week passes without his bowels moving. We give him plenty of juices, etc., but nothing helps. What would you suggest?—Mrs. J.

First, don't make a big issue of it in front of him.

Second, he may, in the past, have had some rectal discomfort from a hard movement, and this would presumably continue now with his constipation.

So you might try a little glycerin suppository every second or third day. This should provoke a soft movement. Perhaps not every time, but at least some of the time.

If he gradually realizes that these movements are without discomfort, you may find the battle is won.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

"J O N G F E L O W"

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Bidding Quiz

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	?

What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠ A 7 6 ♥ 10 7 4 ♦ A K 10 9 5 ♣ 5 3
2. ♠ A 7 6 2 ♥ K 4 3 ♦ 4 5 ♣ Q 7 5 4 2
3. ♠ Q 9 8 4 ♥ K J 7 5 ♦ A 7 3 ♣ K 10 6
4. ♠ A K J 8 5 ♥ 8 ♦ Q 7 6 ♣ K Q 10 9 5
5. ♠ A K ♥ K Q J 9 8 7 6 5 ♦ 3 ♣ 4

1. Three hearts. Responses by a player who has previously passed are a different category from those made by a player who has never passed. Obviously, the previous pass indicates that the values for an opening bid were lacking, and from this it follows that the opener need not bid again if he thinks that game is either impossible or unlikely.

A two diamond response would not compel North to bid again, but if South had complained originally, the change of suits would constitute a fifth per cent move. Similarly the jump raise to three hearts is not forcing and is a privilegerd to pass. It should be added, though, that a response of three hearts if far more likely to induce a further bid from North than a response of two diamonds.

2. Two hearts. The choice lies between one notrump, two clubs or two hearts, none of which forces a rebid from North. The heart raise has a better chance of stirring North into bidding again because the announced heart support is sure to increase the value of his hand.

3. Two notrump. Ordinarily, this would show 13 to 15 points but in view of the pass the requirements for a jump to two notrump are slashed to 11 to 13 points.

4. Two clubs. The general practice of responding in the longer suit first is also applicable here. The intention is to bid spades next if North makes the expected rebid of two hearts. Partner will thus learn that the spacks are only four cards in length and that the club suit is longer. Game is very unlikely if North passes two clubs.

5. Four hearts. As ten tricks are highly likely even if North has a minimum opening bid, South cannot afford to bid only two hearts which North might perfectly properly pass.

Reappraised in support of hearts, the hand may properly be regarded as possessing the strength required for an opening bid. The golden rule that an opening bid facing an opening bid means game is therefore applied by raising directly to four hearts.

House Recess To Begin

OTTAWA (CP) — With the Commons scheduled to recess today, the government is making one last attempt to gain passage of controversial family allowances legislation.

The government hopes New Democrats, opposed to the legislation, will let it come to a vote before the House adjourns tonight and MPs go on summer recess.

The Commons decided Thursday to recess today until Sept. 26, provided that legislation designed to re-open the strike-bound St. Lawrence parts had become law—an event expected today.

That legislation was given passage Thursday night and sent to the Senate. The Commons immediately switched to the family allowance bill, under which the rich will lose the baby bonus but the poor will get more.

The government is seeking third and final reading of the bill that has run into heavy criticism through all stages of Commons discussion.

Meanwhile, the government has given up on trying to get passage of its controversial foreign ownership legislation.

Stanfield Is Using Soft-sell

KINCARDINE, Ont. (CP) — Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield barnstormed western Ontario Thursday, hoping for the next federal election with a political soft-sell.

On the first leg of a three-day drive through the region, the Progressive Conservative leader repeatedly cautioned audiences, tongue in cheek, that he still has nothing to do with politics.

He declared in a television interview that the country is in a "pre-election phase" and predicted an election in the fall, but whenever Prime Minister Trudeau "has the courage" to set a date.

Mr. Stanfield frankly called his trip—one of several around the country recently—part of the Conservatives' "pre-campaign."

Having covered a string of centres in the well-to-do farm country between Toronto and Lake Huron Thursday, he drives north to the Lake Superior country today and gets as far as Parry Sound Saturday before heading back to Toronto and Ottawa.

Mr. Stanfield emphasized the good things about rural life the first day out, and was quiet but warm response in towns along the way.

Free Food Is Refused

OTTAWA (CP) — A call for a free food program to supplement the diets of poor people was rejected Thursday by a government speaker who told the Commons any cases of malnutrition in Canada were the fault of housewives who didn't know how to shop.

Leopold Corriveau (L—Frontenac), giving the second government answer to a demand for such a program by New Democrat Thomas Berger (Vancouver—Kingsway), said cheap nutritious meals can be made of "eggs, poultry and the like."

He said the income of a family did not matter, the nutritive value of its food:

"It's rather the way the housewife shops in the supermarket and how she makes meals."

If a family was under-nourished, it was because the nutritive wife spent her money on hot dogs and hamburgers instead of better food.

Hees Enquires About Job Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Manpower Minister Bryce Mackasey has been keeping the opposition guessing while taking steps to expanded manpower training.

In the Commons Thursday he was asked by George Hees (PC —Prince Edward—Hastings) whether a program that has been in preparation by his department for the last two years is ready for presentation.

He said the program is known as Canada Manpower Opportunities Program, CAMMOP, or CMOP—presumably a plan to finance employment along the lines of other make-work programs.

Mr. Mackasey responded: "If it were completed and ready for announcement, I would make the announcement today. Obviously it is not completed."

Pressed by Mr. Hees he said he is hopeful it will be announced this summer.

Hellyer Rules Out Baby Bonus Bill

Auld Plans Jug Ban

TORONTO (CP) — Environment Minister James Auld said Friday that regulations are being drafted to ban non-returnable three-quart milk jugs in Ontario.

Mr. Auld said in a statement the regulations will be ready "in the near future" for presentation to cabinet.

He said there has been concern about the polyethylene jugs that have recently been test-marketed in Kingston and Hamilton.

Mr. Auld said in a telephone interview the government has been receiving complaints relation to the added cost of the containers to the consumer and the problem of disposal.

He said Dominion Dairies Ltd. is marketing the jugs in several parts of the province and Silverwood's Ltd. has purchased one of the jug-forming machines.

George Nichols, general manager of Unilog Corp. of Saline, Mich., which produces the jug-making equipment, said in an interview the one-way jugs are being promoted as presenting less of an ecological problem than any other milk container.

He said the jugs already have replaced the plasticized cardboard containers in many parts of the United States and that returnable containers now account for less than five per cent of U.S. sales.

"Since it is used only once, the jug certainly doesn't have to be rewashed with caustics, phosphates and water," said Mr. Nichols.

He also maintained that the jugs are at least as cheap as any other container.

William Chamberlain, Toronto sales manager for Dominion Dairies, said "surprisingly," the provincial health department has been after dairies to abolish the returnable jugs for "some years" because they are too susceptible to bacteriological and flavor problems.

News Briefs

Bail Act Criticized

TORONTO (CP) — Arrested persons who have serious criminal records, particularly involving violence, should be denied bail while awaiting trial, a County Court grand jury said Friday. This is the third time in two months that a grand jury here has criticized the Bail Reform Act, which went into effect Jan. 3, and which allows arrested persons to be released without bail until their trial.

The jury members cited the case of a Toronto man arrested Jan. 9 for robbery and subsequently released the same day without bail. The suspect has been charged with robbery and wounding plus two counts of non-capital murder while awaiting trial.

Dentists Start Fund Drive

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Dental Association said Friday it is asking every dentist in the province to contribute $200 to publicize the aims of the dental profession.

Dr. Warren L. Heaslop of Toronto, association president, said in a statement that letters were sent to the province's 3,300 dentists asking for their support.

Surgery Not Needed

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP) — A technique that does away with surgery in the treatment of kidney and bladder stones has been devised at Uppsala University. Two patients in England have successfully undergone the new treatment, which involves crushing the stones into gravel that is then washed out. The instrument used is a cystoscope topped by two electrodes. When the electrodes are charged pressure breaks up the stones by shock waves.

Joy to the World

BUFFALO (AP) — A fish was caught Friday three miles upstream in the polluted Buffalo River. According to environmentalists, that's a sign the river is improving. The Lake Erie mullet was reeled in about three miles from Lake Erie. Dr. Robert Sweeney, director of the Great Lakes Laboratory, hailed the events as a promising sign.

Total Ban Sought

TORONTO (CP) — The Association of Canadian Fire Marshals and Fire Commissioners passed a resolution Friday calling for a ban on firecrackers throughout Canada. They called for legislation to outlaw the manufacture, importation, storage, sale and use of firecrackers.

MPs Head Home

OTTAWA (CP) — Members of Parliament are headed for belated summer vacations—or early electioneering—after ordering an end to a port strike on the St. Lawrence and watching a new baby-bonus plan clamp peace into at least temporary oblivion.

Parliament went into a 12-week summer recess at 5:08 p.m. EDT Friday after emergency legislation to end the St. Lawrence dock strike became law.

The MPs thus ended a parliamentary sitting that started Feb. 17 and was more noteworthy for its electioneering than for the government legislative program that emerged from it.

Paul Hellyer (Ind.-L—Toronto Trinity), a former Liberal cabinet minister, provided suitable drama for the end of a sitting by single-handedly scuppering the government's family allowance plan.

Mr. Hellyer used a procedural tactic to stop debate on the bill —which would give larger baby bonuses to the poor, none to the rich and less to those in between—and thus prevent passage of the bill.

He said he himself was opposed to the highly controversial bill and even some Liberals had asked him to oppose it.

The bill would have passed had it been allowed to come to a vote. The Liberals and Conservatives would have supported it and the New Democratic Party would have opposed.

Health Minister John Munro, who had fought for passage over a long period, said Mr. Hellyer's action was irresponsible and he was flaunting the will of Parliament.

Stanley Knowles, NDP House Leader, said Mr. Hellyer stopped debate from the wrong motives and for the wrong rea-

Protestant Militants Set Up No-Go Areas

BELFAST (CP) — Protestant militants early today declared a district of Lisburn, just outside Belfast and site of the headquarters of the British troops in Northern Ireland, a "no-go" area, meaning it is closed to security forces.

The paramilitary Protestant Ulster Defence Association, angered by the continued existence of Roman Catholic no-go areas in Londonderry, last weekend set up five of its own in Ulster.

During this week it declared that it would establish a sixth before embarking on a two-week period of "peace and grace."

The Protestants' period of "peace and grace" will encompass a normally dangerous time in Northern Ireland, on and around July 12.

That date, the anniversary of the 1690 victory of William of Orange over Roman Catholic King James of England in the Battle of the Boyne, is a traditional time for celebrations and marches by Northern Ireland's Protestant majority.

McGovern Challengers Chip Away at Lead

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Senator George McGovern's presidential challengers, buoyed by a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that toned the California credentials case before next week's Democratic national convention, worked today to chip away at the South Dakota senator's massive delegate lead.

On the scene ahead of McGovern to meet with delegates in this resort centre were contenders Senators Hubert Humphrey, Edmund Muskie, Henry Jackson, and Representative Wilbur Mills. They hailed the high court's 6-to-3 ruling Friday night. It stopped a lower court from restoring 151 disputed California delegates to McGovern.

Preparing to fly here today to take personal charge of his quest for the nomination, McGovern said in Washington he was confident "the American sense of fair play will win out in Miami" and give him back the California delegates.

His political operatives, who spent much of the day planning for the floor fight expected to begin day night on the California credentials case, said they expected to win by at least 30 votes in a showdown that could have a decisive impact on the fight for the nomination itself.

"The nomination is Monday night. It's not Wednesday night," commented Harold Himmelman, a Cleveland lawyer who is a McGovern political aide.

Seven in Party

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis will take a party of six close friends and political advisers when he leaves here Monday for the Democratic Party convention in Miami Beach.

Accompanying the premier are Hugh Macaulay, one of his political advisers; William Kelly, chief Ontario Progressive Conservative fund raiser; columnist Dalton Camp former national president; Norman Atkins, manager of the Tory election campaign last year; James Fleck, the chief executive in Mr. Davis's office, and Brian Armstrong, his appointments secretary.

Strike Over Question Is Can Quebec Ports Regain Trade?

MONTREAL (CP) — Shipping executives, importers and exporters say the big question looming the ports of Montreal, Quebec City and Trois-Rivieres is whether the ports will ever regain business lost during the eight-week strike by 3,200 longshoremen.

The National Harbors Board estimates 235 ocean vessels the strike, and 700,000 tons of general cargo had to be diverted to other ports.

Unlike previous strikes when ships waited in the St. Lawrence River for a walkout to end, the current strike led shipping firms to use other Canadian and U.S. ports. The fear is that these diversions may become permanent.

Guy Jeanneau, chairman of the Maritime Employers Association said there is hope for a return to previous activity levels since back-to-work legislation forbids all strikes, slowdowns and lockouts until 1974.

The legislation, cleared through Parliament Friday, orders members of the International Longshoremen's Association to return to work one day after the bill becomes law today.

Estimates of how long it will be before ships are rescheduled back to the three ports range from two to six weeks.

Mr. Belanger said it is too soon to say how much shipping business will never return to the Quebec ports.

In Toronto, the Toronto harbor commissioners' office said the strike has increased business there by 18 per cent, and some of the firms are "having thoughts" about retaining Toronto as a port of call.

The diversions have also led to increased costs for importers and exporters and some have been forced to absorb losses.

Keith Dixon of the Canadian Importers Association in Toronto said the cost to date to importers is about $20 million.

The Maritime Employers Association estimates its members have lost $1 million a day in lost shipping, transhipment and cartage business since the strike began May 17.

The Dominion Marine Association said the strike caused delays of up to six days in grain movements from the West at a cost of between $4,000 and $6,000 a ship.

While the effect on the general public has been slight so far, many of the increased costs may be passed on to consumers, a shipping association executive said.

The only immediate noticeable effect has been a shortage of imported wines and liquor in Quebec and Ottawa.

In the last eight weeks ships have been diverted to Halifax, Saint John, Toronto, Cleveland, Boston, New York and other ports.

Search for Pilot Is Continuing

TRENTON (Staff) — Search continues today for the pilot of a light helicopter missing for a week on a flight across the Ungava Peninsula of northern Quebec.

Four Canadian Forces aircraft — a Trenton Twin Otter, a Buffalo from Summerside, PEI, and two Trackers from Shearwater N.S. — are now looking for Lyn McKay of Newmarket, pilot of a Bell helicopter operated by Dominion Helicopter Ltd. for City, Ont.

McKay had been en route from Povungnituk to Asbestos Hill in support of mining operations in the area when the aircraft went missing last Saturday. Povungnituk is 750 miles from Asbestos Hill.

Search and Rescue authorities indicate however that the search zone is improving. The search has been hampered by fog and low cloud cover.

McKay is in his mid-30; and had limited flying experience.

A Horse With No Brain

LAKE - ON - THE - MOUNTAIN (Staff) — Daubin, a bay carriage horse owned by Mrs. Hugh Feindel of Lake - On - The - Mountain, had become Prince Edward's first equine to undergo a nose job.

The life-size plaster horse was created by artist Vivien Swain who was dissatisfied with Daubin's Roman nose. "I just bested him in a bite," explained the petite sculptress as she pointed to the animal's freshly-fixed head.

Mrs. Swain "built" Daubin for her aunt Mrs. Feindel as a conversation piece for the front lawn of her Lake - On - The - Mountain motel.

Daubin was hilcored to an antique cutter with authentic pole-mounted brass lamps and a neighbor's barn.

Mrs. Feindel, who has displayed the cutter for several seasons, said she has wanted Daubin for many years but all efforts to find a suitable carriage animal failed.

Ordinarily, the birth of Daubin would have been a three week event but working leisurely, Mrs. Swain completed him in her spare time last summer.

Constructed on a wooden frame, Daubin has a heart of plaster weighing more than 200 pounds.

Mrs. Swain said the horse was stuffed with a number of burlap bags and since she was daubing consistently at the plaster and burlap materials, the resulting colt was christened Daubin.

The horse was coated with a concrete sealer and painted chocolate brown. His flowing mane and tail were fashioned from braided baler twine and painted black.

Mrs. Swain cannot predict Daubin's life span but did observe that he survived recent rains remarkably well.

Mrs. Swain has studied at Ontario College of Art in Toronto and at the University of Windsor. She and her husband Leigh, a student a Trent University, are operating a county handicrafts shop in Picton on an Opportunities for Youth grant.

The young artist termed Daubin's construction a project which afforded her "a really great time" and said she would like to make other animals, including a giraffe.

Final test of Daubin's suitability came when one young girl on the blaze-faced colt to make certain he was strong enough to carry her weight.

Daubin was uninjured but hospital sources report Gagnon suffered a fractured arm and multiple lacerations in the incident.

Sub-Machine Gun Instruction

Local Cadet Wins Trip

Bruce MacDonald, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. MacDonald, 27 Fairway Ave., in Belleville, is one of 14 Royal Canadian Army Cadets who have been chosen for a 31-day European tour after being elected the best cadets in the country.

The cadets will take a two-week course at the Outward Bound School in Wales, following which five days will be spent in London and another seven days with the regular Canadian forces at Lahr, Germany.

The 14 cadets were chosen following training at the Canadian Forces military camp at Petawawa, where reserve soldiers from across Canada have been engaged in summer training concentration.

Reservists from the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment were among those taking part in the training which included infantry tactics and other field exercises.

The final exercise on Thursday involved nearly all the 1,000 militiamen camped under canvas at the Petawawa base.

The reservists were required to run two miles, march eight miles and do three vigorous periods of calisthenics each day.

For the 14 lucky cadets chosen for the European trip, the two-week course in Wales will be highlighted by mountaineering, kayak riding, a bivouac camp and map reading exercises.

Base Petawawa has issued combat gear for the duration of the overseas training period with financial support for the operation being provided by the Canadian government.

Custodians Are Protectors Of Taxpayers' Dollars

What happens when staff and students leave and Hastings county's schools fall silent for the night?

Routine maintenance and repairs, cleaning and caretaking, meetings of community and recreational groups, and occasionally loitering, wilful damage, break-ins and arson.

And the first line of defence against mis-use of the schools are their custodians, entrusted with millions of dollars of public property while most ratepayers sleep.

Because of the increasing sophistication and complexity of their jobs, custodians in Hastings county are now offered professional development improvement day held Friday is the annual in-service workshop they run themselves.

The third annual custodial training. The most important at Centennial Secondary School placed the emphasis on community use of schools and the special problems it creates for custodians.

Custodians themselves, and the plant department, are now preparing a manual on community school use and they have made three video tapes for workshop use and further training programs.

Opening speaker was Belleville Police Chief Douglas Crosbie, who told the custodians they are the key people in the schools on many occasions when police intervention is required.

He listed a six-point program to lower the number of incidents of willful damage to schools. They are: more lighting, patrols of buildings by custodians, increased police patrols, enforceable restrictions on trespassing, intensified adult information program on the extent of vandalism and co-operation with student councils and parliaments.

"Our young people are inheriting a serious increase in crime," said the chief, "and they should be brought into the picture".

Chief Crosbie also criticized architects, who design schools with features that invite vandalism.

About 200 custodians from both the public and separate school systems took part in the improvement day.

Accident Rate Prompts Study Of North Front Arterial

Motor vehicle collisions along North Front Street have been increasing to such an alarming rate that the whole arterial route will be the subject of a major traffic study, commencing next week.

City police report collisions and personal injuries suffered from mishaps have taken a definite climb in the past year.

Starting next week one provincial and two city officers will start compiling statistics, traffic counts and personal interviews with residents along the four-lane street.

Armed with identification and a covering letter from police chief Douglas T. Crosbie, three university students enrolled in youth and law courses, will talk to all residents and business operators along North Front and households on adjacent streets.

Chief Crosbie, who made the announcement this morning, said his department and employees of the ministry of transport and communications, would conduct extensive traffic counts, gap counts and turn counts.

The former will determine the extent of traffic during slack and peak periods. Gap counts will determine how long motorists are required to wait at feeder streets and business exits before being able to enter the traffic stream.

Because a large number of collisions have involved cars attempting to make turns in to laneways, streets and businesses, a turn count will determine which areas on North Front require a change in entrance routes.

Inspector Ralph Blatchford of the police services branch, will conduct these and a traffic speed study for the survey.

Chief Crosbie said he expects the project to be concluded within a month. At this time, it will be placed before the city's traffic committee.

Speech Shortcomings

One thing about our politicians, whether they are announcing some costly new tax bite or whether handout, legislation or whatever, most of them are lousy speech makers, well-enunciated terms. This is often in sharp contrast to the speech habits of the rising generation, even those who, unlike those described recently by Prince Edward speech therapist Frances Roberts, have no speech impediments.

While Mrs. Roberts explained some of the emotional and physical reasons for impaired speech, and the means of remedying them, there is the other aspect of the problem involving young people with no such inherent difficulty but given all the same to sloppy speech. This may stem from parental example, or lack of it, absence of conversation in the home, or it may stem also from the general conversational habits of fellow students.

There is television of course which Mrs. Roberts says offers "a lot of nonsense and garbage" where speech is concerned. We would agree with this, but only up to a point, for there are Shakespearean plays and productions such as the Henry VIII series for instance, from time to time, which offer fine examples of good diction and modulated accent — although curiously enough there can be imperfections here too, as in the very slight regional inflection (English Midlands?) of Glenda Jackson in the role of Elizabeth 1. As we pointed out, however, our politicians and public figures, whether or not there is anything material in their observations, usually say it effectively enough as to diction and tone. Young people can do worse than listen to them while trying to improve their own habits of speech.

High Adventure

Sir Francis Chichester might be better calling it a day. There has been adventure enough in his lifetime — from his pioneer flying days to the yachting triumphs of recent years — to do justice to a dozen men and satisfy countless others who follow his experiences through his books.

At 70 the intrepid Chichester has had to give up his latest venture — a transatlantic yacht race — because of illness. His log after one particularly bad period told of "ghastly night's sickness and exhaustion, of being hardly able to stand up or drag one foot forward after the other.

Perhaps the rescue efforts were confusing, with chichester spurning help and urging vessels to "go away," followed by word that a mast of his ketch snapped when a French weather ship came too close; then of a Dutch vessel being sunk after being in collision with the same ship, and finally that Sir Francis' son Giles and a three-man British naval party had been put aboard Gipsy Moth V.

There is concern of course about Chichester's health. In his book The Lonely Sea and the Sky he tells of an earlier bout with cancer and friends have spoken of a recent disease that has had left him shaky and anemic. We hope he is restored to full health and strength, but we know that to suggest he give up a life of adventure is to ignore the sheer determination and courage of the man. It may be that we have not heard the last of such stern undertakings.

Bridge Delays

Well things were going quite well on the Bay Bridge, with only minimal delays due to the one-lane traffic arrangement — quite well that is, until a curious situation developed the other day around 1 p.m. The result: a momentary confrontation of vehicles on the bridge and a realization that after all, the element of farce would inevitably be introduced at some stage or other in this strange operation. It happened like this: the driver ahead, evidently unaware of a light change to red, and seeing the road was clear, ventured onto the final span when he was suddenly confronted by vehicles coming from the Rossmore end. Both of us backed up, fortunately before any build-up had developed from the city end. This situation sorted out; we missed one another again when the bridge opened to let a couple of boats through.

By next day, (Thursday) around 2.30 p.m., things were getting worse from the point of view of traffic; cars were backed up for a considerable distance and it took 15 minutes to get across.

Meanwhile, we are wondering if the old signs resurrected for this operation are not something of a misnomer — "another highway development project," and underneath the names of William Davis, Prime Minister (it was announced recently that Mr. J[illegible]ne with other provinces and was using the title "Premier) and Gordon Carton, Minister of Highways.

Where the Tax Money Goes

$16 Billion Estimates Railroaded Through Parliament

By RICHARD JACKSON
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Instead of charging around looking for others to blame for inflation, Prime Minister Trudeau should take a long look in the mirror, says former Trade and Commerce Minister George Hees.

"If Trendy had peeked in the old glass," says the parliamentary veteran of 22 years and six elections, "he'd have seen the guy responsible for driving up the dollar."

While it might be debatable that the Prime Minister carries the can for inflation, there is absolutely no question that the dollar goes softer by the year.

In just 10 years, 22 cents have been chipped off the purchasing price of the dollar, concedes the finance department.

What bought $1 worth of what-it-takes-to-live now buy only 78 cents worth, with the destruction of the purchasing power of money continuing at an average 4.5 percent a year.

So who is George Hees to be saying such terrible things about the Prime Minister, blaming him for short-changing us all on the dollar?

Well, he has been a highly successful businessman as a vice president of the Canadian and Montreal Stock Exchanges, has served long and usefully in Parliament, ran the hottest federal campaign and Commerce department in years, and more recently has spent some entertaining and productive public time in the Commons needling the government on its shaky economic performance.

Further, he has had some pretty informed and supporting witnesses to confirm him.

Such as Bank of Canada Governor Louis Rasminsky.

He spoke up after Prime Minister Trudeau had taken bows for "licking inflation" as he so modestly phrased it.

Now the Bank Governor, being a responsible public servant, did not contradict the Prime Minister directly.

More subtly, he did it by indirection, with a stern inflation warning that should have stopped — but did not — the federal government in self-adulation over having the dangerous dollar problem "licked".

Since then along has come Prices and Incomes Commissioner Chairman John Young with still another warning that "if the size of wage and salary increases does not decline below the current range of seven to eight percent . . . income is a simple matter of arithmetic that at some stage the rate of price increase will again be at levels which in the past have been regarded as serious and serious inflation."

John Young knew something more — but like the Bank Governor, being a civil servant, the Prices and Incomes Commission Chairman did not say anything about it directly.

Again it was by indirection.

He suggested that wage and price control might be the ultimate solution.

All through the inflation piece the Prime Minister and the government have blamed business, industry and labor for inflation.

Never a word about the government which, charges George Hees, has been inflating in three ways:

Wildly overspending.

Vastly increasing the money supply.

Tolerating a "hidden" salary increase for its own staff.

The government pushing and pressure-pumping of the money supply and its overspending are public knowledge.

Its "under the counter" payroll increases are not generally known.

Except here in the National Capital.

For here any businessman, city controller, school trustee or university administrator knows full well how the pressures of the government's ever-expanding payroll has been forcing up all wages and salaries at an inflationary rate.

The government publicly announces its wages settlements for its huge staff — by far the nation's largest single group of employees — of an annual five to six percent a year.

What it does not publicly announce are its almost automatic merit increases, or annual increments as they are called, and its large monetary benefits which bring the total pay package to 10 or more percent.

So if an inflation psychology has taken root and is being cultivated, George Hees insists by the government itself.

Proof?

In only five years the federal payroll has increased roughly 50 percent, jumping from $2,054,000,000 in 1968 to $3,226,000,000 in '72. An increase of $1,172,000,000.

In case you misread the zeroes, those are billions of dollars.

And if that is not inflation, suggests George Hees, you give it a name.

A Critical View of the Senior Citizen Survey

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

A week ago I was invited to attend the introduction to the "Senior Citizens' Study — Survey Report". During this introduction I became suspicious about the quality of this report:

1. In his opening remarks, Mr. Cooperman told us that we were not allowed to ask questions about the figures in the report since those figures were absolutely accurate! The figures, of course, are not accurate.

2. Aside from the figures not being accurate, the sample taken from society does not represent society. It is a poor, indeed (false sample which represents only a small group of people over the age of 60 and not all the people over 60.

3. The report is biased and subjective, as well as amateurish (as a person who has marked papers for first year sociology students, I wouldn't give it to pass mark). I am not surprised about the bias and subjectivity, after all, Mr. Cooperman once stated, and I quote, "We do not want objectivity". This was after a suggestion from me, in a joint committee of the YMCA and YCS, to interview people representing all segments of society. No, I do not have a personal axe to grind, Mr. Editor, there is nothing wrong with my objectivity.

Let us look at a few samples of the arithmetic in the report. It was emphasized that the total number of people was 4,000. On page 27 the column on first language adds up to 3,989, which is 100 more than the sample. Let us now look at those two columns. It states "Dutch" 19, equals .56 percent , and "Others" 38, equals 1.01 percent. Since 38 is 2 times 19, and 2 times .56 equals 0.12, I wonder how they arrive at this? In other words, twice as many in one column is 17 times as many in the other column. We can also read that 2 is .52 and if you then think it equals 0.15, you find that it is only 0.05. On pages 16, 17 and 18, the rent payments are discussed. On page 16 it is rightfully stated that 59 represents 19 percent of 500. On page 18, 77 (which is 18 more than 59) represents 2.9 percent, which is 7 percent less than 16 percent. The whole column on page 18 under rent only adds up to 10 percent. It does not say 10 percent out of what, and we are finding interest, so why question it?

About the sampling, let me first state that any sociologist knows that it should represent all segments of group to be tested equally. As soon as we leave more than 1,000 people out of a totally arbitrary decision (1000 is more than 25 percent) the survey and its conclusions are useless and worthless. During the 1960s we found that one out of every 4 people who had started grade one would finish grade 12 and go on. The people in the survey were all born 60 or more years ago but a total of 28 percent of the sample (that is more than one out of four) finished grade 12 or more. Do I have to find the evidence that it was less than one out of 12, or less than 8 percent of the people before 1930 that finished grade 12? Doesn't this prove that those who are always forgotten were forgotten again, not interviewed, I mean? Those with the lower incomes, the lower education?

I did not study the whole report, I do not have the time, but on page six it states that there were 2,344 people over 65 years of age. How come that on page 22, only 2,138 received old age benefits? Did the 206 forget to ask for it, didn't know how to apply, or are they too rich and don't want it?

On page 77 people claimed that the rent was too high, but I am sure that the same large number have applied for Senior Citizens' apartments.

Many participants refused to answer many questions; in other words they were non-participating participants, if such a thing is possible. I should also bring to your attention that no followup questions (with an exception of the 500 people who rent) were asked. The validity of a report like this should only be based on correlations and implications and not (as in this report) on assumptions and inferences.

Mr. Editor, every day you ask us to keep our letters short, if possible within 500 words. I could go on and point out many more fallacies (no, I will not), any mistakes, it might have happened on purpose) of the report. Nobody is more convinced that I that some Senior Citizens are in dire need of many things but to act according to the conclusions of this survey would be useless and wasteful. The $28,000 spent on this was a total waste. This money could have been spent on Senior Citizens instead of on glory-seekers and empire-builders.

Yours truly,
ROBERT SANDERS,
RR2, Shannonville.

Relations With West May Be At Turning Point

Japan Enters New Era Under Premier Tanaka

By JOHN HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Japan, not Communist China, is likely to be the giant Asian enigma of the future.

If so, this would be the strangest paradox. Japan is accessible to businessmen and tourists. She is once again one of the great industrial and trading nations of the world. So far as Americans have said since the war, "our strongest ally in Asia."

Will all, or any of this change with the election of Kakuei Tanaka as Japan's new premier in succession to Eisaku Sato who is resigning? At present, no one knows.

Mr. Tanaka becomes Japan's next premier from his prestigious place as minister of international trade and industry, the key cabinet post which determines much of Japan's crucial export policies.

Mr. Tanaka is known to support a widening of Japan's trade relations with Communist China, meaning chiefly Communist China — and to a lesser degree North Korea and North Vietnam when the war ends there.

There kinds of moves would give less cause for Japan's Western friends and business competitors to see her as part of their world of international trade and finance.

It is believed that, retiring Premier Sato was deeply hurt when he heard of President Nixon's plan to visit Peking, but had not been informed beforehand. The U.S. president would visit America's classic postwar enemy in Asia without promptly informing America's classic postwar friend in Asia about such an event.

Japan's ruling Liberal Democratic Party to which Mr. Tanaka was elected president, and therefore simultaneously premier, has shown conservative tendencies under Mr. Sato.

But not too far beneath the surface of Japan's public life exist violent left-wing and right-wing organizations, determined to place Japan on an extremist course. Terrorist incidences around the world have seen the explosive qualities of the Japanese student movements, which on occasions have mustered 100,000 students for individual public protests.

Right-wing groups like the Seikka Gokkai, a Japanese style Moral Rearmament which the ancient values of discipline, the simple life, a return to ancient Japanese customs. But interest in their emotional appeal, is a hankering after the days of imperial Japan, when her troops not her salesmen tried to conquer her neighbors.

Will Mr. Tanaka be able to keep all these forces in check at this crucial point in the mid-70's in Japanese modern history?

For him, the major juxtaposition of the future may not be so much the Washington-Tokyo axis as the Peking-Tokyo axis. Communist China is emerging from her long postwar isolation. Countries around the world, some of them holding nothing in common with China, like the military regime in Greece, have scrambled to win recognition from Peking.

Chinese industries, like those of Japan in her earliest years of industrialization in the last century, are stamping for foreign markets. Will Chinese goods some day compete with those of Japan in the western world?

A good deal depends on who will sit in the White House next year. If it is Senator McGovern, the controversial military association between Japan and the U.S. which permit U.S. nuclear submarines to enter Japanese ports, might be ended.

If Nixon returns, he might find Tokyo in the mid-1970s as inscrutable a place to do Asian business as Peking is at present.

Christian Religious Services Being Held Again in Peking

PEKING (Reuter) — Christian religious services are being held again in Peking after a long break during the cultural revolution.

Each Sunday, small groups of worshippers, mostly foreigners, attend Catholic and Protestant services conducted by Chinese clergymen.

Religion has been officially discouraged in China since the Communists came to power in 1949 and services were banned in the Red Guard attack during the turbulent years of the cultural revolution from 1966 to 1969.

The militant movement effectively eliminated institutional religion.

The first service which foreigners were allowed to attend here for more than five years took place last November when an old Catholic church was opened for a visiting Italian cultural delegation to attend mass.

The service was conducted in Latin. There was no singing and, in the old-fashioned style, the priest kept his back to the congregation through most of the service.

On Easter Sunday this year, Protestant services were also held for the first time. On the same holiday, the Catholic mass was celebrated, led by a choir of six Chinese.

Each service was attended by about 100 people, mostly foreign diplomats with a few Chinese in each congregation. Last Sunday — Pentecost day — was the most important date in the Christian calendar, commemorating the resurrection of Christ.

The Protestant services are held in an upstairs room of an old building in the central Peking behind Capital Hospital, formerly known as the Anti-Imperialist Hospital.

They are conducted by a white-haired priest, Father Kan. He is assisted by a deacon and an old Chinese lady, who played the organ to accompany the hymns.

On Easter Sunday, there were three other Chinese in the congregation, all of whom took communion. Father Kan said in Chinese, included regular Easter lessons, prayers and hymns, including a Chinese version of "Jesus Christ is Risen Today, Hallelujah."

Father Kan, who wore a plain black cassock, said afterwards that all the Protestant sects had joined in one unified movement, but that there were only a few priests left and no bishops.

He said he occasionally held small services for Chinese believers, but they were intermittent and were not attended by many people.

Nevertheless, he conducted the service with obvious familiarity and communicants noted that wafers of bread used in the ritual had been made specially for a religious service, stamped with a representation of Christ on the cross.

The Catholic church belongs to the Patriotic Association of Chinese Catholics, which was founded in 1957. And by 1962 had consecrated 41 Chinese bishops, none of them recognized by the Vatican.

At the Catholic Church of Virgin Mary on Easter Sunday, there were six Chinese in the congregation. In addition to the choir, a Chinese organist accompanied the singing.

The service, including hymns, was in Latin throughout and was conducted by Rev. Wang Ki-tang, who wore traditional vestments and described himself as the vicar-general of Peking.

There are estimated to be three million Chinese Catholics and one million Protestants in China before the Communist revolution.

Churches Provide Housing

HALIFAX (CP) — Seven church denominations are co-operating in a unique effort to cope with housing problems in the Halifax-Dartmouth area of Nova Scotia.

The Interfaith Housing Corp. established last year, is sponsored by the Anglican, Baptist, Lutheran, Presbyterian, Roman Catholic, United Church and Unitarian churches.

Bob Ojolick, corporation manager, says "Housing should not be primarily a marketable commodity but rather a right of every Canadian." To that end the corporation now is looking for a site for its first housing development.

The co-operating churches will provide the money to get the project started through a program of grants and loans. The aim is housing for low-income families which otherwise could not own their own homes.

Some details are yet to be made public, but it is known that two plans are being discussed. One calls for rehabilitation of existing houses, the other for a large-scale development of new housing.

Mr. Ojolick says the interfaith housing concept here is unique in Canada. He sees it as an opportunity to develop a sense of community spirit through the development of community-owned and operated facilities. The program will operate on a non-profit basis.

"Through proper development the solidity of a carefully planned community is soon reflected in the social values of its residents," he says. "The return on the investment does not become merely one of dollars, but rather one of people proud of their personal and social achievements."

Public Now Indifferent To Striving for Unity

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Liberal Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Protestant churchmen who once had to combat prejudices against Christian unity now are facing another public reaction: indifference.

Has the current call for unity gone into a slump? Are all the most dramatic steps behind? Is ecumenism just something that only the theologians care about?

Yes to all three, says an editorial in a recent issue of the magazine Ido: International, published in Rome by an ecumenical documentation centre.

"Relations and talks between Lutherans and Catholics, and between Anglicans and Catholics now uphold things that would have been considered heretical 10 years ago," says the editorial, signed by Ido director Rev. Leo Alting von Geusau. "Now these things are met by indifference.

"Why has the official ecumenism of dialogue among Christian churches become the field of a few ecclesiastical directors and a few theologians and lost direct contact with the people of God, above all youth? The prophetic message seems virtually lost."

The Ido director, a noted theologian and lecturer on Christian unity, says Christians today break down into three groups which cut across denominational lines:

—"Pro - ecumenists:" Those who still are scandalized by contacts with Christians in other churches and view dialogue as dangerous for the faith, if not heretical. He says whoever saw to it that no Protestant observers were invited to the Vatican world synod of bishops last autumn belongs in this group.

—"Ecumenists:" Those who believe in gradual dialogue among officials of the various churches, leading to closer doctrinal unity.

—"Post - ecumenists:" Christians who get together to combat social problems such as racism, war, underdevelopment, poverty, and who brush aside doctrinal differences.

Father von Geusau contends that church structures provide few official outlets for those in the third group. Protestant observer, he says, is the Sodepax committee made up of officials of the World Council of Churches in Geneva and the Vatican's Justice and Peace Commission. Sodepax searches for solutions to social problems.

The Ido editorial says: "The notice of one key development: The announcement of a mixed commission of Roman Catholic and Anglican theologians in December of an agreement upon a single doctrine for the Eucharist, or holy communion. That accord, among three, has not been made by Anglican and Roman Catholic authorities. The process could be slow.

There is little doubt at the Vatican that Pope Paul falls into group two, the "ecumenists." On Jan. 23 he declared that efforts to restore Christian unity had not been hobbled. But he warned against a "superficial ecumenism" that attempts to bypass important doctrinal disputes—that is, the kind practised by group three.

Psalmist Sought Mercy for Others

by Rev. Gordon C. Smyth

It is interesting to study the verse with which the 22nd Psalm comes to its close. It begins a rhymed of blessing for the blessings of God, who has led the sheep through green pastures, beside still waters, in paths of righteousness, through valleys of shadow.

We might expect the song to end with the same strain of gratitude for blessings received, or in some prayer for their continuance. Neither of these is the psalmist's last petition. He does not ask that blessings shall cease in time to lead him to the "goodness and mercy shall follow" him.

They are not to be the guides of his life, but the consequences of his life. He is to go his way as well as he can, through the pastures and valleys of experience, and after him there are to follow more goodness and mercy. Perhaps he is still thinking of the oriental shepherd in whose name the psalm began.

"The Lord," he has said, "is my shepherd." In the East the shepherd goes before, and the sheep hear his voice and follow him. Likewise, the man who has been blessed by God is to go steadily on, and behind him, like a flock of sheep, will follow the good blessings and merciful deeds of a better world.

Such is the psalmist's picture of the satisfying life. The man who thus goes his way up and down the hills of experience does not look behind him to watch for goodness and mercy. They know his voice and follow him.

He meets his obstacles and reverses, and, as he looks ahead, life may not appear good or merciful. But he is content to commit about is the consequence of his life, and he goes his way confidently. He does not look behind him to watch for goodness and mercy to follow. They know the figure which Jesus Himself liked to see. He did not expect to get much mercy from men. He prayed that after Him might follow a world of goodness and mercy. "I have said, "I sanctify myself; that they also might be sanctified through the truth." As the good shepherd, I lay down my life for the sheep."

Here is the self-respecting, rational climax of any moderate psalm. "I have said, I have led me. Divine Shepherd, through green pastures, among green pastures, and by still waters. I do not ask for more of this quiet peace. I ask for strength to go my way bravely and to stay along the path of duty, so that after me it shall be easier to do right and to be merciful. And goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life."

'New Era of Spirit' Is Seen

NEW YORK (AP) — In an era of religious ferment, including widespread anticlericalism and the rise of new forms of faith and esoteric cults, some American church thinkers see signs of a genuine, far-reaching resurgence in Christianity.

Oddly, the optimistic forecasts come in a period of general sag in the established yardsticks of church organizational life.

However, those who see a big upturn shoot say that current conditions making for it are not only religious upheaval, but the current tide of social change, urban concentration, cultural unrest and even pervasive technology.

Shifting attitudes, questioning past emphasis merely on substantial programs also are cited.

"A new era of the spirit has come," Rev. Dr. John A. Mackay, a Presbyterian scholar and longtime president of Princeton Theological Seminary, writes in the weekly Christianity Today.

"In the past few years a mood has emerged, a movement has gotten under way that augurs the advent of an evangelical renaissance. . . . There is light on the horizon."

As indications of it, he lists the Jesus movement among young people, a renewed focus on the "presence of Jesus Christ," the staggering growth of Christianity in Asia and Africa, the Pentecostal-like charismatic movement among Roman Catholics, Protestants and Catholics, and a wide new concern for "feeling" instead of mere logic.

Rev. Robert E. Coleman of Asbury Theological Seminary, Wilmore, Ky., writes that "many people sense that some thing great is on the horizon."

He suggests a trend resemble a worldwide re-enactment of the first Pentecost, when an outpouring of the Holy Spirit filled the people of Jerusalem, vitalizing the beginnings of the church.

Some observers compare conditions now with that same period in the first century, when Christianity experienced its most spectacular growth. Social historians Herman Kahn and Anthony J. Wiener say there are numerous "parallels between Roman times and ours."

Some of them:

A mainly urbanized world; the spread through technology of Western influence as a single, worldwide culture, a homogenizing, unifying attitude that, in kind is essentially one, widespread philosophical ferment and reflection of trivialized "gods," along with the rise both of "practical atheism" and intensely emotional mystical religions.

Citing these parallels to the first century dominated by the Roman Empire, Rev. Dr. Howard A. Snyder, dean of the Free Methodist Theological Seminary in Sao Paulo, Brazil, writes of the modern prospects:

"Institutionalized religion may decline. Immorality may grow. But perhaps God is preparing a new revolution, and out-break of the gospel that will make even after the course of human history."

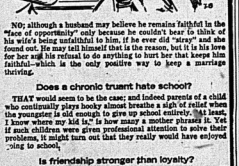
Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Can jealousy keep a husband faithful?



NO; although a husband may believe he remains faithful in the "face of opportunity" only because he couldn't bear to think of his wife's being unfaithful to him, if he ever did "stray" and she found out. He may tell himself that is the reason, but it is his love for her and his refusal to do anything to hurt her that keeps him faithful—which is the only positive way to keep a marriage thriving.

Does a chronic truant hate school?

THAT would seem to be the case; and indeed parents of a child who continually plays hooky almost breathe a sigh of relief when the youngster is old enough to give up school entirely. "At least, I know where my kid is," is how many a mother phrases it. Yet if such children were given professional attention to solve their problems, it might turn out that they really would have enjoyed going to school.

Is friendship stronger than loyalty?

LITERALLY, there is no comparison, the two qualities would never be tested because there would never be a situation in which friends had to choose between friendship and loyalty. For instance, if two friends come to a point where their friendship was at stake because one found out the other was embezzling their company's funds, the dishonest person would know his friend could not remain silent and still be a friend.

Ann Landers

Telephone Operator Has Gripes

Dear Ann Landers: You've been good about giving a lift to what is probably the most abused segment of society in America's working force. I refer to telephone operators. Will you please put one back left for me?

I am all aware that on legal holidays such as Christmas and Labor Day all business establishments are closed. But on special days such as St. Patrick's Day, Ash Wednesday, and St. Valentine's Day, we are besieges carry on, as usual. What bugs me is when people call up and ask, "Are you open today?" On March 17 I had no less than 100 such idiotic phone calls. Finally I lost my temper and yelled, "Of course, we're open you nut, or I wouldn't be answering this phone!"

Then there's the dim-wit who wants to speak to Mr. Bigwheel and when the operator says "He's on another call" he'll ask, "Will he be long?" How in the world do I know? If I say, "I think he'll be on this call a while" the person becomes irritated because he figures I don't want to put him through. If I say, "I think it will be a brief call—please wait," he gets mad if he has to wait more than 15 seconds and is sure I gave him a bum steer. I guess what I'm trying to say is, "Ann, you've got to help me—Designate October as Telephone Courtesy Month."

Dear Cent: I hope you'll excuse me if I seem stupid, but I think it makes sense to phone and ask, "are you open today?" Some business establishments close at noon on certain holidays which are not considered legal.

As for your other gripes, I agree, they are valid, but unfortunately, I can think of no quick cure for super-sensitive or willfully paranoid personalities.

Dear Ann Landers: A belated thanks from a Corpus Christi, Texas, reader for printing that letter about the woman who kept an iguana in the bathtub. My only regret is that you didn't print a letter like it ten years ago.

I've been rubbing a free hotel and dining room, complete with maid service, for a pack of free-loading relatives who have the unmitigated gall to bring their friends to our home for vacations. I finally began to question my sanity when my cousin demonstrated his gratitude for my hospitality by falling asleep with a lighted cigarette in his hand. Luckily I smelled my smoke and put out the fire before it burned the house down. The only damage was a burned mattress. Instead of apologizing and offering to replace the mattress he wanted to know why I would have such a cheap, flammable thing in the house.

That incident brought me to my senses. When I asked my husband why my relatives take advantage of me so shamelessly, he replied, "Because I allow it." His answer stopped me dead in my tracks. Of course he was right. Why don't you perform a national service and pass on those words of wisdom to your readers? And, by the way, Ann, please tell me where I can buy an iguana?—Fed Up With Sponges

Dear Fed: Those "words of wisdom" have appeared in this column so often you can put them to music and dance to them. I have been selling people for 17 years that no one can impose on a person who refuses to allow it. It takes two to play that kind of game. If you heed this advice, you won't need an iguana.

Confidential To Betting On You: Sorry, you lose. I cannot listen to "all those four-letter words" in mixed company without feeling uncomfortable. True, this work has acquainted me with all of them (I knew a few before) but I didn't grow up with such language and I confess it bothers me.

ASIA THROUGH A BUS WINDOW

"I'm having a good time."— from diary of Phyllis Walsh.

Phyllis Walsh of Belleville, as a tourist on an autoban from London Crossing Europe and Asia with its 29 passengers notes in her diary on August 14, 1971:

"Crossed the Dardanelles on ferry — stepped out in Asia!

Lots of pine trees around. Camped in a chafing field. The process done by hand. . . . Visted Troy . . . attendant opened the gates late. Not so impressive as Delphi.

The countryside changes quickly; hills, flat fields, poplar trees, ferns. Then to Pergamium. Here, Turkish columns and carved friezes are seen everywhere in the ground. Remains of walls of different styles and periods. Alexander the Great stored his treasure here. We explored underground caved-in warehouse. Wish I knew more history and archaeology!"

Scenery changes frequently: sand cliffs and scrub trees, olive and fig trees pine trees and palms. Saw camel trains; wooden carts gaily painted wooden wheels. Some have corrugated rubber padding."

"At Ephesus. It is the largest and best preserved ruin this far. . . and they are still excavating. It is easy to see how things had been. I really admire these people: their skill in architecture, their love of beauty. This was built in the 7 century B.C. its setting in the mountains very pretty. We met a farmer picking cotton and riding a donkey in the middle of the baths. It seemed so appropriate!

"Then on to the mineral springs! The bath was lovely. We ate fresh figs, ate, ate all will never again touch dried fig!"

On August 19, Phyllis observes: "Went through Taurus Mountains — were more like high hills. Part of road was one lane and gravel. Would surely like to drive it in my Volvo."

August 19. — Through the Taurus mountains again. More spectacular today because we are beside the sea. (Mediterranean) — beautiful dark blue and turquoise water. Through the mountains, the houses of stone or straw, flat roofs with dirt, surrounded down sleeping platform on roof. Saw some veiled women who turned their face away as we drove by. We stopped at a small wayside place, ate all their food. A boy had to run around the village collecting eggs for omelettes. . . We drove to Adana.

August 20: A beautiful day swimming, resting reading, writing . . . Had a the nicest beach so far; lots of shade and a glorious breeze. Could get hot or cooled off as you liked. . . Turkish candy delicious."

August 21, "we turned inland today. Arrived Tarsus in the Mediterranean. The scenery throughout is same combination as before — dry arid flat plains, hills growing into mountains in the distance. Very few crops: wheat, cabbage, bananas. Lots of chaff fields and people throwing it up in the air. As usual, women doing all the work. Saw streams with water. Every other just a dry bed. Climbed into the mountains to Gerene. Elevation 200 feet. Cold up here. Imagine! A real nice change."

UCW MEETINGS

TABERNACLE UCW

Mrs. M. Nelson, opened the June Tabernacle UCW meeting in the usual manner.

Mrs. Helen Arnott was in charge of the devotional, the theme being "What does the Lord require of you and prayer.

A Following the devotions, a hymn was sung. The collection was taken and dedicated by Mrs. Arnott.

The speaker for the evening was Miss D. Savage from the OSD who had lived in Africa. She showed a film of a market place, a student hospital, the YMCA and a rest home in Africa.

She showed a school for the deaf at which she had personally helped in the habilitation of children. She told of helping these people help themselves is very important in Africa. She also had a display of dress goods, straw hats and wooden bowls.

She had attended a "Festival of Thanksgiving" and met the leader of the leader of a tribe who had four wives and thirty children. The conclusion and considered proper. Fish, oils and corn - bread is the staple food for every occasion. The main causes of sickness there are malaria, fever and diarrhea.

Mrs. G. Charlton and Mrs. J. Nelson thanked the speaker for her inspiring message. The meeting closed with a social hour.

Successful Living

Work, Free Time and Retirement

By DORIS CLARK

According to Dr. Herbert Lazenby of Senior Services and Centres Inc. in Seattle, the increased leisure time of today's society may help the elderly of the future deal with free time. But at the same time many of today's older people were raised to follow the work ethic and have difficulty adjusting to all the free time of retirement.

Aged people tend to shy away from volunteer work, a relatively new concept. When today's older person was employed, he probably worked six days a week, 10 hours a day. There wasn't time for volunteer work. Now there is, but the aged have difficulty making the transition.

Says Dr. Lazenby, "People say, 'You can't teach an old dog new tricks.' But we're talking about human beings, not dogs!"

We can help older people to a happy and useful new era of retirement, if we will put our minds to it.

Dear Doris: Your letter about my question of going away for the weekend with my boy friend to his relatives was a real help.

You see, they were mostly adults, drinking and having adult fun. I would have felt very uncomfortable as I never knew anyone outside of my boy friend and his Mum and Dad.

My boy friend sure gave me an argument and his Mum and Dad took a dim view of my Mum's view. My Mum just told him that she wasn't afraid about the chaperoned part; it was just the principle of the thing. — Glad Of Your Help.

Dear Glad: If there was just "drinking and adult fun" you would certainly have been operating outside of your own league.

Yet we shouldn't always hold back on new sociability because it makes us uncomfortable. I hope your Mum is remembering to help you make new friends in your own age group. Be sure your boy friend is the one who helps you to put on a party or a picnic; but don't hold him back from taking the lead in getting something going.

At your age it should be getting more interesting by the moment! . . .

Dear Doris: I would like to find out if I have any relatives in England or Scotland. My sister and I were put in homes and I cannot find anyone to help. I know only my family name is and what my mother's maiden name was. — Orphan.

Dear Orphan: It is not easy to trace relatives after many years, but I have four places to suggest:

Society of Genealogists, 37 Harrington Gardens, London S.W.7, England; Scots Ancestry Research Society, 20 York Place, Edinburgh, Scotland; The Public Record Office, London, England; and Commercial Register Office, Edinburgh Scotland.

They will likely charge a small fee for looking things up for you. Give them all you know about first names, second names, maiden names, places and dates of birth — of your parents, yourselves and anyone else you know anything about.

Speaker Praised By All

OTTAWA (CP) — Commons Speaker Lucien Lamoureux, who has indicated he will not seek re-election, was showered with praise by all parties Friday, last day before a summer recess.

The popular Cornwall lawyer, who sits as an independent MP, was described by Prime Minister Trudeau as a man with great patience, great forbearance, extraordinary knowledge and a sense of humor.

Former Conservative prime minister John Diefenbaker began the tributes when the House met. He praised what he called the Speaker's consumable ability, his authority tempered with compassion and his high degree of impartiality. He had discharged his duties in the finest tradition of Speakers.

New Democratic Leader David Lewis said all of his colleagues had "the greatest admiration" for Mr. Lamoureux. He had carried the Chair with a dignity that was not always returned by MPs.

There has been speculation Mr. Lamoureux will be asked to succeed Roland Michener as governor-general. Mr. Michener is serving a one-year extension of his term as governor-general and that extension ends next spring.

Although he has not officially announced his future intentions, Mr. Lamoureux has made no secret of the fact he plans to step down from the chair and politics.

Stanfield Walking Tour Preview for Election

GRAVENHURST, Ont. (CP) — After what aides considered a successful dry run for an election campaign, Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield completes a three-day tour of Ontario today, conducted in old-time whistle-stop style.

Driving through 15 small towns north and west of Toronto, Mr. Stanfield has spent most of his time strolling sidewalks, greeting passers-by with a handshake and a how-do-you-do.

While the groups who saw the Conservative leader were generally small in the tiny towns, they were uniformly responsive.

Without creating the frenzy often sparked by a Trudeau tour, Mr. Stanfield's undertaking seemed to fit the traditional main-streeting approach.

Having a supped in Owen Sound, Meaford, Thornbury, Collingwood and the garish resort of Wasaga Beach Friday, his schedule for today included more mingling with shoppers in Gravenhurst and Bracebridge, interspersed with cottagers in the Muskoka Lakes region.

He also was to meet a group of students in Bracebridge, hold a news conference in Huntsville, picnic at Muskoka Pioneer Village and main street again in Parry Sound.

Most of the trip covered ridings now held by Conservatives, but the biggest crowd appeared in the Liberal riding of Bruce, where more than 1,000 people showed up for a free barbecue.

Chit-chat dominated the trip. In a few remarks on issues, Mr. Stanfield reiterated party policy —calling for more incentives for businessmen, more programs to improve rural life and anti-inflation policies without high unemployment.

Health-care Plan Under Review

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister John Munro said Friday that discussions are being held with the provinces regarding a health-care financing and its goal is to "cut out a lot of waste and inefficiency."

But in reply to Commons questions, he said the plan is not to reduce services. Optometry services would be added under the proposals.

Under the Medical Care Act, the government must review its financial contributions to the provinces at least six months prior to next March. Mr. Munro announced in the Commons Friday that no changes are proposed apart from current discussions taking place.

During the later question period, the minister told T. C. Douglas (NDP—Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands) that "in essence," the federal government would continue to pay half of provincial expenses on medical care and hospital insurance.

Special Powers

QUEBEC (CP) — The national assembly passed a law Friday granting the Quebec police commission special powers for search and seizure without warrant when fighting organized crime, subversion and terrorism.

The police commission will also use these powers only in criminal cases of particular urgency. In other cases, a warrant signed by one of the commission's four judges will be required.

Farmer Sells Own Wheat

WOODLEY, Sask. (CP) — Art Mainil, who two months ago bypassed Canada's grain handling system to ship his wheat, has made another maverick move. This time with help from three other farmers from this district 140 miles southeast of Regina.

With contributions from Herman and John Link and Edwin Schell, Mr. Mainil ordered, received and loaded eight more boxcars Thursday for delivery to the Lakehead.

Regina officials of selling to a grain company at the delivery point, were skirted. The two elevators at Woodley are owned by the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool.

Mr. Mainil following the sale of Federal Grain Ltd. facilities in the province to the wheat pool, balked at the elimination of competition and ordered his own railway grain cars from the Canadian grain commission.

He loaded six cars April 30 and had them shipped through Intercocan Grain to the Lakehead. The 36-year-old farmer says the move saved him money.

He exercised a little-used clause of the Canada Grain Act which entitles the producer to order his own grain cars.

Mr. Schell said if the grain companies won't provide competition, the farmers will provide their own.

French-to-English Switch Accelerated in Schools

QUEBEC (CP) — The rate at which children are being switched from the French to the English school system in the Montreal region is even higher than shown by figures which established large segments of Quebec public opinion last fall, the Quebec national assembly was told Friday.

A report showing that 79.7 per cent of all such changes were a move into the English system in most of Montreal was tabled in the assembly by Education Minister Francois Cloutier.

The figures for the Le Royer school board—taking in St. Leonard and part of Ville d'Ayiao—are almost entirely 97.9 per cent—in favor of English schools.

The report shows that 1,209 children left French for English schools in the year ended April 1, 1971, while 796 switched from English to French.

Mavety Signs WHA Contract With Los Angeles Sharks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Sharks of the new World Hockey Association announced Friday the signing of five more players, including two from the National Hockey League.

Jim Watson, who played with Buffalo Sabres last year, and Gerry Odrowski, who played with St. Louis Blues, both jumped to the new league.

The others signed were Larry Mavety, Bob Liddington and Mike Jakubo.

Mavety was the property of Buffalo and played at Salt Lake City of the Western Hockey League. Liddington played for Phoenix of the WHL and Jakubo was with Columbus Seals of the International League.

The big Belleville defenceman had been the fifth player picked in the NHL reverse draft of players from the American Hockey League and the Central Professional League.

Mavety had been slated to report to Theraior of the American League, a farm team of the Detroit Red Wings. He has been staying in shape in the off season by handling the watching duties for Ballins Construction, helping the Commercial Softball Leaders to a 13-0 mark for this season. He had been bartering with the Los Angeles club for much of the summer.

HALIFAX (CP) — If the World Hockey Association has done nothing else, it has given hockey players "a terrific bargaining lever," former Chicago Black Hawks super star Bobby Hull said here Friday.

Hull, who recently signed as playing coach with Winnipeg Jets of the WHA, said that since the new league came into existence," the players have been able to bargain for themselves."

The National Hockey League has really been the only place to play. The owners have known it and I'm sure that if they wanted to put the screws to somebody, they could just make a few phone calls and say: 'Look. This guy . . . we've got to teach him a lesson. Don't anyone touch him and he'll come crawling'."

Hull, here on a promotional tour and golf tournament, signed a five-year $3 million contract to leave Chicago and play with the Jets last week.

He said he had been given clearance by the Jets to play for Canada in the Canada-Russia series this fall.

Hull said WHA fans can look for fast, exciting offensive hockey, with balanced teams.

"Every club has two, or four, real fine hockey players, proven hockey players. And, who knows, we may have some diamonds in the rough with these kids that have come from the junior leagues, and guys that haven't had a chance to play in the National League."

He expects the Winnipeg preseason training camp to open in Kenora, Ont., in early September, but prior to that will be training for the exhibition series between Canada and Russia.

He said he talked with team Canada coach Harry Sinden and he wants me to play with them."

Peterborough Bounces Defending Golden Bat Champions

By RANDY DERRY
Sports Staff

Revenge was a long time coming for the Peterborough Kinsmen bardians but when it finally got here it was well worth the wait.

Peterborough established themselves as an early favorite in the fourth annual Belleville Golden Bat Bantam Baseball Tournament by whipping last year's grand champions from Cobourg 12-3 in an opening round game Friday night.

The crew from the Littlock City have been 2 champions in the tourney for the past two years and were knocked out in the Grand Championship of last year's tournament by Cobourg, but a year's experience and a year's growth have produced one of the powerhouses of the tourney.

"These boys have been playing together and county up since tyke. Most of them are second year bantams and they really shot up over the winter," states coach John Gourley of his club who must rank as one of the physically biggest teams.

The Peterborough team have built a 10-0 won-loss record over the year through a combination of a strong pitching staff and solid hitting. "We have two good starting pitchers and a couple of good relievers which is the most important thing in a tournament like this. Teams with good pitching can usually pull through," comments coach Gourley. "The boys have been hitting well too, especially with men on base which is the big thing."

Peterborough went all the way to the semi-finals of the OBA last year before bowing out to Brampton and welcome the chance to play in the Golden Bat Tournament which has become the biggest in Ontario. "We've quit going to some of the other tournaments we used to go to because it just wasn't worth it, here we're guaranteed two games and against good competition. It also provides us with the chance to see some teams from other areas which we could meet in the playdowns."

They ran short of much competition Friday night though moving into the second round of the tourney with their 12-2 win over Cobourg.

Belleville will be supplying the next competition for Peterborough in an 11 p.m. contest this morning. The host Legion 99 team opened their tournament Friday with a 12-5 shellacking of Thurlow.

Belleville had taken 4 - 3 and 6-5 wins off Thurlow in EOBA action but stormed to victory under the pressure of tournament play. The winners pushed across five runs in the sixth inning to soak away the win and advance against Peterborough.

Brian Turner threw the win for Belleville allowing nine hits and striking out eight. Mike Crawford blasted a home run and triple, Rick Calkin a double and Scott Bowes and Mike McClelland two singles each on the Legion's knocked the pitcher Thurlow into the B series where they meet Cobourg.

Terry Holgate was tagged with the loss giving up 11 hits and farning seven. Dave Andrews had three safeties and Bruce McDonnell two for Thurlow.

Guelph made the long trip here pay off last night or talking the third game of the opening round 2-1 in eight innings over Port Hope. Tony Campagnola went the first four innings for Guelph allowing just two hits. Herb Hopf fanned five and gave up two more hits in his three innings of shutout relief.

Hopf also connected for a double and single to lead the winners hitting attack.

Ken Swales threw three hit ball for seven innings on the Port Hope mound before giving way to J. McKee in the eighth who was greeted with three hits and the game winning run.

Second round action continues throughout the day, with the finals beginning Sunday. The B championship will be held at noon Sunday at the CNR park with the A championship at Parkdale also at noon. The Grand Championship will be at the Parkdale diamond at three p.m.

Beats Bowes

Thurlow pitcher Terry Holgate turned baserunner in the opening game of the Belleville Golden Bat Bantam Baseball Tournament against the home Legion 99 team but was one of the few to reach as far as third when Thurlow dropped a 12-5 decision. Terry beat the tag by Belleville third baseman Scott Bowes and eventually scored. Belleville advances against Peterborough in the second round of the A series while Thurlow meets last year's Grand champions from Cobourg in the B series.

Gap Closes for Lenders

The Belleville Lenders closed the gap on division A leading Intellimen while the CNR were giving themselves a little more breathing room in division B after a pair of Industrial Softball League games Friday night.

The Lenders whipped the Utilities 8-1 to move within four points of The Intell, who have played two more games, and the CN stopped Constellation 4 - 3 to take a three point bulge over the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Terry Murphy bored the Utilities in with a four hitter. He fanned seven and did not walk a man. John Belanger led the winners at the plate with two doubles and a single, while Norm Vanhook added three singles to the winners 13 hit attack.

Wilson Ralph took the loss for the Utilities. He struck out seven and showed perfect control. Harry Nichols punched two safeties in a losing cause.

The Constellation cut his the CN but couldn't bunch them together as the Trainmen picked up their 11th victory of the season. Brian Plumbe hurled the win allowing eight hits while fanning four and walking three. Barry Tamlin stroked a triple and Hommer Thomas a single and double for the winners.

Tom Bellis gave up only seven hits on the losers mound. Steve Gatchum pounded a single, double, and triple to provide most of the constellation offense.

In another game Friday night the Post Office nipped Canadian Tire 9-8. John Bohan paced the victors in the surge with three safeties while Gord St. Louis tallied a triple. Johnson and Gilbert fanned nine in hurling the win.

Andy Fredrick smashed a home run and Wayne Trice and Alec Balich two safeties each for Canadian Tire. Prudden combined with Williams on the losers mound.

Prize winners of the Friday night doubleheader at the Alemite were Mrs. Mary Lou Stedham, Lawrence Levesce, Mrs. Wayne Trice and Mrs. Doug Boomhower. The prizes were donated by Pioneer Gas, the ACCO ball team, A and P Foods and Brooke Bond.

International relationships received a minor setback Friday night when Bollins Construction defeated the Ohio Travellers 11-1 in the opening round of the Campbellford Senior Softball Tournament.

The Ohio club ran into the hot hand of Ken Demille who fired a four hitter at them. Carl Boomhower had the batting eye for the local Commercial League pennant leaders stroking three singles. Ralph Plane smashed a triple for the winners and Dave Lott had a single to round out Bollins five hits.

County Honors Champions

HILLIER (Staff) — Prince Edward County council last night hosted a banquet in Hillier township hall to honor its "champs" in local hockey, industrial society and trouble-shooting in mechanics.

The dinner was given in recognition of the all-Ontario Peewee D championship won this winter by Wellington's hockey team. In victory of the County Islanders girls' hockey team is a perennial tournament and the wins of the Prince Edward Collegiate Institute safety quiz team and the two member trouble shooting team sponsored by Robin Motors, Picton.

Team members all received scrolls from presenter William Davis which were presented by Jarren Taylor MPP Prince Edward-Lennox.

Members of the Wellington Peewee hockey team also received crests. The banquet was attended by 66 persons including town councillors and county councillors.

Special speaker for this salute to Prince Edward's youth was National Hockey League player, Rick Smith who has recently been traded by the Boston Bruins to the California Golden Seals...

The NHL team member conducted an open discussion period answering questions concerning his sport and the men who spell it action.

Rick agreed with public opinion that the NHL has been "watered down" by the introduction of many new teams and said the best problem now is to maintain parity. He added the quality of hockey was outstanding when there were only six HHL teams and said hockey fans watched only a select group of players.

Smith was introduced by Hallowell deputy reeve Keith MacDonald.

Smith Smiling

California Seal's Rick Smith was on hand as guest speaker Friday night when the Prince Edward County Minor Sports Association held a banquet for their all-Ontario peewee D hockey champions from Wellington. The former Boston Bruin defenceman held an open discussion period where NHL parity was the main topic of concern.

May Maintains Fond Memories

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Atlanta's fabled fund raising days for Mike May, about a year ago, its home-watching baby brother, David Friday, he had new reasons to celebrate.

"That's my best night ever in pro ball, the most fun I've had in one night," Pittsburgh's second-string catcher said after slugging out seven of them in his at-bats against the Atlanta Braves.

May played both ends of the ball-night doubleheader against the Braves so the Pirates could give Manny Sanguillen a rest.

The Bucs starting catcher, among the National League's batting leaders with a .338 average, caught all 17 innings of their 7-5 victory against Atlanta Wednesday night in Houston.

The Pirates unleashed a devastating 20-hit assault for a 19-2 rout in the opener of the twin bill before cooling off and losing the second game 3-2.

In other National League games, Philadelphia Phillies split a pair with San Diego Padres, winning 4-3 before dropping the nightcap 6-1, Chicago Cubs edged Cincinnati Reds 2-1, Los Angeles Dodgers halted New York Mets 6-1, Montreal Expos sank San Francisco Giants 12-5 and St. Louis Cardinals beat Houston Astros 3-1.

After May's big day, four Pittsburgh runs with a homer and a single, but May was the big star in the opener, going 5-for-5 with two RBI and two runs scored.

"I could hit five balls harder than I did tonight and go 0-for-5," he added, "but I'm glad I got lucky breaks on two hits, a bloop and a checked swing, one on a bad hop past first."

He calmed down a bit in the second game with a run-scoring double in the sixth inning off Ron Evans, Mike Lum and Dusty Baker broke the 2-2 tie that inning with a single.

Steve Carlton, recording his 13th victory, struck out eight San Diego batters in the Phillies' opening-game victory to extend their league-leading total to 174, then Clay Kirby struck out 11 Padres as Tom Kendall backed him up with a pair of home runs to give the Phillies the nightcap.

Joe Pepitone belted his first home run of the season and Billy Williams doubled home a run to beat the Reds.

"It's a big lift," said Pepitone, who returned a week ago from a two-month retirement. The Cubs' first baseman is batting a meager .175. "It's a matter of getting my timing back — but it's certainly embarrassing to strike out twice in the same time of the season."

Don Sutton raised his record to 10-5 with a five-hitter against the Mets, giving up only a run-scoring single in the first inning. Chris Carrozzaza, with a double and two singles, led Los Angeles' 13-hit attack.

Ken Singleton drove in three runs and Bob Bailey scored three as the Expos teed off against Sudden Sam McDowell, keeping the San Francisco hurler in the third inning.

The Cardinals continued their surge with their 15th victory in 17 games and Bob Gibson continued his own personal streak, chalking up his eighth straight victory with a four-hitter against the Astros.

Richard Signs

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Atlanta Flames of the National Hockey League announced Friday the signing of defenseman Richard Lemieux, the No. 1 amateur drafted by the expansion team, to a two-year contract.

Terms of the contract, announced out in a final 24-hour negotiating session, were not announced.

Richard, 19, ran away with the Quebec Junior A Hockey League scoring championship last season, scoring 71 goals and 89 assists for 160 points. The 5-foot-11, 175-pound forward was an all star centre last season and an all star left winger in 1970-71 with Quebec Ramparts.

Twins Trounce Yankees

Killebrew Eases Managers' Burden

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It didn't take Frank Quilici long to learn that the best strategy for a Minnesota Twins manager is to have Harmon Killebrew at the plate in a tight game swinging his best bat.

And you can bet that Quilici, making his debut as skipper of the Twins, didn't even consider giving Killebrew the take sign when the burly slugger stepped up against New York's Fritz Peterson in the seventh inning Friday night following Texas' 4-1 two-out single. The Yankees were trying to protect a slim 5-4 lead.

Killebrew promptly deposited a 2-1 pitch 385 feet over the fence in left-centre field and the Twins went on to a 7-5 victory, breaking a four-game losing streak under ousted pilot Bill Rigney.

"I wanted to jump through the top of the dugout," was the 35-year-old Quilici's reaction when he saw the ball disappearing over the fence.

Elsewhere in the American League, Texas Rangers edged Baltimore Orioles 5-4, Detroit Tigers shaded Chicago White Sox 6-4, Milwaukee Brewers trounced Oakland Athletics and Vida Blue 8-4, Boston Red Sox defeated California Angels 3-2 in 10 innings and Kansas City Royals downed Cleveland Indians 6-3.

"That home run reminded me of a big hit he got for me in 1962 against the Yankees just before the All-Star break," Quilici recalled. He was referring to a two-out, two-run ninth-inning homer that gave Minnesota a 6-5 triumph and a five-game lead over Texas in the Western Division.

"I know it gave us a lot of momentum then."

That brought up the subject of whether the third-place Twins can get at Oakland in the American League West.

"Our goal is 10 games against Oakland," said Quilici, who succeeded in reducing the Twins' deficit from nine to six games in his one day at the helm. "We've got to go head-on against them. We'll be pointing for us, too. I definitely think we have a chance or I'd would have told Mr. Griffith (owner Calvin Griffith) I didn't want to manage."

Quilici's inaugural was a frustrating one for all innings as the Twins collected eight hits off Peterson but only one run.

Ted Kubiak opened the following singles by Ted Ford and Joe Lovitto broke a 4-4 tie in the fifth inning and enabled Texas to nip Baltimore as Jim Bibby posted his first winner of the season.

The Rangers jumped to a 4-0 lead after two innings, with Baltimore errors mukaing all the runs unearned. Don Mincher drove in two with a sacrifice fly and single. The Orioles got two unearned runs of their own in the third and caught up in the fourth on Brook Robinson's two-run homer.

The loss ended Baltimore's five-game winning streak and trimmed their lead over Detroit in the American League East to one game. After home runs by Like Brown and Al Kaline sloped the Tigers to victory, the Tigers went in front of the White Sox in the eighth on a walk, Tony Taylor's double and a single by Aurelio Rodrigues and scored two decisive runs in the ninth on RBI singles by Taylor and Kaline.

The White Sox have dropped four in a row but remained five games behind Oakland in the West when the Pioneers, for all people, gave Cy Young Award winner Blue the worst batting of his career, pounding him for eight runs—including homer's by Dave May, George Scott and Ollie Brown—in six innings-plus. Dave Duncan homered for the Athletics.

Later, Blue complained of a pulled muscle in his left knee.

Ben Oglivie's two-run homer with two out in the 10th inning off Steve Barber enabled the Red Sox to beat the Angels and stretch their winning streak to seven games. Carlton Fisk also homered as the Bosox climbed within 4½ games of Baltimore.

Ken Berry drove in all the California runs with a single, home run and bunt hit with two out in the ninth.

Home runs by Ed Kirkpatrick and Amos Otis and three hits apiece by Richie Scheinblum and Lou Piniella enabled Kansas City to turn back Cleveland behind Dick Drago's seven-hit pitching. Craig Nettles and Jim Fosse homered for the Indians.

Frenchman Has Smooth Sailing

NEWPORT, R.I. (Reuter) — Alain Colas, a Frenchman who likes to be alone, stepped from his heavy-keeled iron boat after he had tremendously exciting, single-handed journey aboard his giant trimaran Pen Duick IV Friday night to win another prestigious single-handed yacht race in record time.

Colas, coming from nowhere, had not been seen or heard from since July 1—appeared suddenly from the Atlantic mist only two miles from the finish line.

The young Frenchman had escaped the notice of search planes and roving yachts to beat the huge 128-foot French schooner Vendredi 13 into Newport for a record crossing of 10 days—six days inside the record set in 1969 by Geoffrey Williams in the yacht Sir Thomas Lipton.

Vendredi 13, sailed by Jean-Yves Terlain, passed Nantucket light with only 105 miles to go at 2:20 p.m. EDT Friday, and had been expected to cross the finish line—as the winner—around noon today.

But Colas, who overcame a broken self-steering gear early in the race, slipped in to claim the prize in the 70-foot, ketch-rigged Pen Duick IV.

Colas's girlfriend was first aboard to greet him after he passed through U.S. customs and immigration and she was followed by his brother.

Everyone drank champagne toasts and Colas then retired to the cabin while reporters clambered over the Pen Duick IV.

Colas later emerged to tell them that he felt fit although he had only cat-napped in the last 36 hours.

Sweetan Booked

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — J. D. Roberts of New Orleans Saints played undercover agent Friday, but says he's not ready to turn in his coaching whistle for a badge.

It was serious business when the head coach of the National Football League team, every word being monitored by nearby FBI agents, met with a man trying to sell him a Los Angeles Rams' playbook.

The man was later identified as Wayne Boswell.

Boswell and former pro quarterback Karl Sweetan, who once played for Toronto Argonauts, wound up being charged by the FBI with interstate transportation of stolen property and fraud by wire.

Sweetan, 29, formerly with the Saints and Detroit Lions and more recently with the Rams until being cut last year, received jailed today under $25,000 bond. Boswell, 31, Sweetan's cousin, was held in lieu of $5,000 bond. Both are from Dallas, Tex.

U.S. Attorney Gerald Gallinghouse said a federal grand jury would begin considering the case Monday.

The story began when Roberts notified National Football League headquarters in New York on Wednesday immediately after receiving two telephone calls in quick succession from a woman who said she was calling from Dallas.

The FBI was called in and agents instructed Roberts to set up a meeting with the persons trying to sell the playbook, later determined to be a version of Rams' secrets used last season. Roberts said he talked with Boswell for about two hours but was never able to make the "buy" as FBI agents had wanted him to do.

Canadian Open

Hill Holds Early Lead

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Dave Hill, one-time bad boy of the pro golf tour, credited Canadian veteran Al Balding's tutoring with helping him over some problem holes Friday.

The lesson came in light early in the day and by nightfall had vaulted the 35-year-old native of Jackson, Mich., into a share of the lead in the $150,000 Canadian Open golf championship with Lou Graham.

The two PGA tour veterans were locked at 138, six under par after 36 holes on Cherry Hill Club's 6,751-yard par-71 layout as heading into today's third round in quest of the $30,000 pot of gold that goes to the leader Sunday.

They hold a one-stroke lead over Gay Brewer, who was in contention until he bogeyed the 18th hole, missing a one-foot putt that cost him a share of the lead.

Grouped at 138, two strokes back of the leaders and four under par, were Lenny Thompson, Charles Sifford, Bo Wininger, Mitchell and Bruce Crampton.

First-day leader Bunky Henry, who opened with a course record 65, blew a 74 and shared eighth place at 139 with Tom Sanderson, who had a 73, Sam Adams, Deane Beman, Tommy Aaron, Jimmy Dent and Chi Chi Rodriguez.

Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., the top Canadian, shared 140 with Gary Player and Phil Rodgers. In all, 28 players broke par Friday beneath sunny skies that started to dry out fairways and tees but left soft greens.

"Al showed me how to get out of the tall grass when we were playing at the Westchester (Mass.) Open a year ago," Hill recalled Friday. "I didn't really make use of it again until today.

"It had to do with pitching out of tall grass. We were discussing it at breakfast this morning. the tall rough they have here, and suddenly it all came back.

"I used the shot three times today and almost holed out three times."

Balding wasn't nearly so fortunate. He had a 79 Friday and a two-round total of 150 to miss the halfway cut of 147 for the low 70 and ties entering the championship his flight today and Sunday. Seventy-three players began teeing off at 9 a.m. today.

CBC-TV will televise the next two rounds, starting on the 10th hole, 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. EDT today and 3 p.m. to conclusion Sunday.

In addition to Panasiuk, the only Canadians to survive the cut from 23 homegrown starters were George Knudson of Toronto at 143, Bob Cox of Richmond, B.C., 145, and veteran Nick Weslock of Burlington, Ont., one of two amateurs in the tourney, at 147.

Amateur Jack Lowrey of St. Catharines, Ont., had an 80 Friday for 148.

Sifford, who has been playing in the Canadian Open every year since 1952, with the exception of last year when he missed the exemption list, had a strong front nine.

He birdied three, four, five, six, 10 and 13 before, "I threeputted the 14th from 18 feet and the wheels came off." He also bogeyed the 17th to round out at four-under 67 to go with his opening-day 71.

"I played today about as good as I've played this year in any particular round," said the 48-year-old native of Charlotte, N.C. "But I want to say right here, that in all of the Canadian Opens I've been in, this is the best course I've played on.

ARNOLD PALMER

"You have to play real good to score here, make no mistake."

Sifford wouldn't predict a-wining score but couldn't resist the chance to say: "I know if I hit the ball anywhere like I hit it today, I'll win it."

Defending champion Lee Trevino, still in contention at even-par 142 despite a 73 Friday, still isn't convinced it will take a low score to win.

"I still think a 289 will win this thing," said the 1971 U.S., Canadian and British Opens champion who will fly out Sunday for Muirhead, Scotland, in defence of the British crown. "There are a lot of six and seven unders out there, but the greens are getting faster and tougher."

Trevino was pleased with his woods and fairway shots Friday but "there was nothing fancy in my round."

"I hit the ball better from tee to green, but that's no good with a bad score. I came in four shots worse. It's a funny damn game."

Starting on the back nine, the El Paso, Tex., pro said his game "started going downhill" when he second he hit a fat shot had to scramble on to break even.

Player, one of the pre-tournament favorites along with Trevino and Arnold Palmer who finished the day at 142, credited greenskeepers with keeping the course in top shape "despite weird conditions."

"This is by far the best Canadian Open course I've played in," said the doughty little South African who estimates he'll travel 150,000 miles this year competing in tournaments in Europe, Australia, New Zealand, Asia, Japan and North America.

"The greens are super considering the weird condition," he added in reference to rains that drenched the course earlier in the week.

"We'll play very few courses in the world as good as this one. They've been cutting the fairways real short, which a pro golfer much prefers. It's hard to get courses like this one anywhere in the world."

Smith Sails To Wimbledon Final

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Stan Smith, the giant U.S. Army conscript from Sea Pines, S.C., tangled today with Ilie Nastase of Rumania in the finals of the Wimbledon men's singles.

If Smith wins, he'll be the first American since Chuck McKinley in 1963 to carry off the world's premier tennis crown.

If Nastase wins, he'll be the first Eastern European player to take the title. Jaroslav Drobny won in 1954, but he was exiled from his native Czechoslovakia and was playing under Egyptian colors.

If Smith wins, it would be the first time since 1953 that Americans captured both singles titles. That year, Tony Trabert took the men's crown and Louise Brought the women's.

This year, Billie Jean King already has won the women's title for the fourth time since 1966. She beat the defending champion Evonne Goolagong of Australia, 6-3, 6-3 in a low key final Friday.

Smith, last year's runner-up and the No. 1 seed this year started off the gruelling tournament on his favorite. But Nastase, primarily a clay court expert, has been playing better and better in each round, whereas Smith has been stumbling.

Smith himself admitted after his four-set semi-final against Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia that his confidence hadn't been as good as he'd wanted so far this year, but insisted that he was reaching his peak with every match and would be ready for the final.

Nastase, the Rumanian bad boy lieutenant who delights the crowd with his artistry and speed, have improved with with every match. His semi-final against Spaniard Manuel Orantes was one of the classics of the 1972 Wimbledon—a tournament spoiled from the academic tennis point of view because the top pros are under contract to World Championship Tennis and were unable to play here this year.

Smith's confidence took something of a beating Friday when, together with his Davis Cup partner Erik Van Dillen, of San Mateo, Calif., he was easily beaten in three sets by the South African duo Frew McMillan and Bob Hewitt-in the finals of the men's doubles.

Today will be a test for Billie Jean King as well. She is trying to be the first women for five years to capture three titles—the women's singles and doubles and the mixed doubles. Billie Jean herself did it in 1967.

With the women's crown already firmly in he pronsession, she is in the finals of the women's doubles, partnered by Betty Stove of the Netherlands, against Judy Dalton of Australia and Francoise Durr of France.

And in the mixed doubles semi-finals Friday night, she and trying to reach the final, partnered by Clark Graebner of New York, against Nastase and Rosemary Casals of San Francisco.

The match was halted by rain with the score at 9-8 and 5-5 in favor of Nastase and Miss Casals.

The other mixed doubles semi-finals—between Ken Warwick and Evonne Goolagong of Australia and Peter Cramer and Pam Proterus of South Africa, was postponed because of the rain.

Today's program, normally confined to the men's singles and women's and mixed doubles finals, will include three two mixed doubles semi-finals.

New Uniform Fits Singleton

MONTREAL (CP) — Ken Singleton drove in three runs with a single and double and Bob Bailey scored three times as Montreal Expos bombed Dick McDowell and San Francisco Giants 7-2 in National League action Friday night.

Bailey led off the second inning with a walk and went to second on Ron Woods' single. Along Ron Fally forced Woods at second, Singleton lined a ball to keep left-centre, scoring both runners.

The Expos teed off on McDowell for three more runs in the third inning, chasing the big left-hander.

Ron Hunt was hit by a pitch for the second straight time to lead off the inning, but was forced at second by Tim Foli. Clyde Mashore followed with a ball moving Foli to third and both runners scored when Bailey singled to left and the ball got past Jim Fregosi for an error. One out later, Fairly scored Bailey with a base hit to right.

San Francisco pushed a run across in the fifth on Jim Howarth's pinch-hit single but the Expos came back with two more runs in the same inning.

Mashore led off with a single, moved to second when Bailey walked and both scored on base hits by Singleton and Boots Day.

The Giants scored their second run in the seventh when Dave Rader led off with a triple and scored on Allan Gallagher's infield out.

Bill Stoneman, 8-5, went the route for Montreal, giving up seven hits striking out eight and walking four.

Canadian Golfers Bite The Sand

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — A large contingent of 23 of the Canadian Open golf championship Thursday but only four Canadians survived after Friday's cutoff.

Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., who matched his opening-round 70 for a two-under-par 140, was the leader among the four surviving Canadians.

Others still in for the final two rounds today and Sunday on the 6,751-yard, par-71 Cherry Hill Club course were Bob Cox of Richmond, B.C., George Knudson of Toronto and amateur Nick Weslock of Burlington, Ont.

Jack Lowrey of St. Catharines, the only other amateur in the starting field besides Weslock, missed the cutoff point of 147 with a 155.

Knudson remained in contention for a piece of the $150,000 prize pot with a 143 while Cox had a 145 and Weslock was just on the margin with 147.

Missing the cut by one strike were Ken Fallon of Montreal and Gary Pitchford of Toronto.

Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg and Bob Rose of Hamilton were out with 149 each, followed by Gary Bowerman of Toronto with 150.

Veteran Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., dropped out at 151 and Bill Tape of Kitchener took a 152.

Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver soared to an 80 Friday for 153, matched with Phil Giroux of Montreal.

Leon DeCaire of Toronto blew to a 156 along with Toronto's Al Balding, and Bill Wright of Edmonton had a 157.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Sunday, July 9 . . .

Aries (March 21-April 19): Wishful thinking is inevitable. Settle for the practical, the realistic while you carry your share of the community's normal customs.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): There are no serious problems likely, but considerable petty bickering if you let yourself get into it. Leave comments unanswered.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Moderation in your giving and spending is advised. Although it's Sunday, a business proposal may pop up in the course of social activity.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Organize a quiet personal holiday with little opportunity for scheduling or socializing. Strenuous pastimes are not favored.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 21): Channel your generosity and enthusiasm into practical devices so that you have the satisfaction of being effective and fully recognized.

Virgo (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Entertainment, unexpected guests, new hobbies all may be costly. Be selective, give graciously where it's appropriate.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You may have to keep the peace by your will power rather than spending to appease. Give your loved ones extensive reprieves.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Thoroughness, tact, and patience all fit into the essential behavior patterns for this some what chaotic Sunday. Make all the rounds.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Impulse leads you to splurge, expecting the outlay to be part of an investment. It isn't, really. A middle course is feasible.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): If you find your plans running into resistance, ask why. You may learn many things of great importance.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your early start may help in more ways than one. Going to extremes, rushing people are the drift patterns. Pace yourself.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): The fun side of life seems more important to you now. You will need rigorous discipline to control spending impulses.

Monday, July 10

Aries (March 21 - April 19): Have extra caution with vehicles, tools, inflammable or explosive materials. Hurrying means that you'll likely have to do the job over.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): A restless week opens with interesting people, something new to consider while working. Take good companions with you wherever you go.

Gemini (May 21-June20): Follow your own intuition rather than let others take over direction. Be brief in speaking and writing so you're not misunderstood.

Cancer (July 21-July22): Get a second opinion before making a direct application. The financial dealings you work on now have some time to go before showing their full value.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Any time you can spare to help those who cannot help themselves is beyond price. Business plans should be kept strictly confidential.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): It may seem you are suddenly farther along in your plans to a point of no return, nothing left to do but complete your program.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Traditional methods win again, as more people learn there are reasons for the customs. Wait until you have results in hand before speculating.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Rise to the occasion your enthusiasm affects others. Brighten up your appearance, match the outside with an internal improvement.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Today is the day to sell a coherent plan. Proclaim yourself and your merits. Evening should see you with some news to celebrate.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be willing to take the needs and wishes of others into account. Existing projects are enough to cope with for the moment.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You have more to do than is convenient, little time in which to do it, critical observers at hand all the way. An early start helps.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Round up support for your favorite community enterprise, particularly something just starting. Your own creative ventures thrive.

Water Consumed Averages 5 Pints

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You said once that drinking too much water can be dangerous. Why? How much water? What can the effects be? — K.E.T.R.

Yes, too much water can be dangerous — but "too much" means more than anybody in his right senses would be likely to drink.

The average need is about 2½ quarts a day, which includes the water in your coffee, soup, fruit juice, vegetables and other foods. Mashed potatoes contain water. So does meat — the juices in the meat.

The body readily disposes of that much water, or more. The average normal kidney can excrete about a quart of water an hour. You also lose moisture through perspiration and from breathing (you can see your breathe on your glasses to clean them). There's moisture in every bowel movement.

Between the amount one needs and the amount one can handle, there's a wide range of safety. Your normal thirst tells you how much to drink — more in hot sweaty weather, less in cool weather.

Drinking huge volumes of water — enough to give you water intoxication — occurs in psychotic individuals. But it does happen. The most recent case that came to my attention was only a couple of months ago. But the man lived and his death was officially reported as from drinking enormous amounts of water.

The essential danger is that water carried away too much of the sodium (plus other minerals) that the body needs. This leads to restlessness, confusion, convulsions, and in the extreme case, death.

Of course the body's organs become congested from taking in more water than the kidneys can handle — but the washing away of minerals starts long before that phase.

And less obvious is impotence. Ask Ed. for a more familiar example, you have the case of people doing hard physical labor in the long periods under high temperatures. This can lead to heat collapse. That also can be fatal.

What causes these collapses? Perspiration carries away too much sodium. So people working under such extreme conditions long since have learned the value of taking salt tablets, which replenish the sodium lost in the body and to satisfy thirst by drinking water.

But it is to be something wrong, mentally, with anyone who would deliberately drink so much water as to harm himself or kill himself, but it does happen.

Exactly how much water does it take to produce this physical condition and characteristics of the individual.

For most of us, the important thing is just to understand a little about the importance of proper mineral levels in the fluids of the body.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a boy, 15, and have heard that masturbation causes pimples on the face or makes them worse. Is this true? — H.P.

No, not true. No connection.

Priest Among Slain Ending IRA Truce

Today Is The Start

Democrats' Assembling

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (CP) — The jockeying for delegate support by Senator George McGovern and his opponents goes on full tilt today as the Democratic party's national convention prepares to open with a series of vital floor contests.

Starting time for the main convention business is 7:30 p.m. EDT—an hour chosen for the benefit of prime-time television.

McGovern, three days away from his 50th birthday has scheduled a series of meetings during the day with delegations from such important states as Ohio and Texas. He has also called on Gov. Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania to join him here and help his campaign.

With his delegate support approaching the 1,509 needed to win the presidential nomination, the South Dakota senator faces the first—and probably most important—of his obstacles tonight when the convention votes on the makeup of 14 state delegations whose memorership has been challenged.

Included are two of the biggest, California and Illinois, where a loss of supporters to his opponents could cost McGovern the nomination when voting takes place Wednesday night.

Senator Hubert Humphrey, leader of the loosely-allied stop-McGovern forces, was also due to be out today, bestirring the tropical bushes of tais garish resort for wavering delegates who might back his efforts to keep California and Illinois delegates out of McGovern's camp.

The floor fight promises to be bitter, divisive—and totally confusing.

Some of the closest votes could well come on whether the convention chairman, Larry O'Brien, was correct in a pair of rulings he made known Sunday, concerning which delegates can vote on which issues and how many votes are needed to win.

Both decisions appeared to favor McGovern.

O'Brien, chairman of the Democratic national committee who will preside tonight, said he would rule that McGovern needed a majority of only 1,423 votes to win back the 151 California delegates. It had been expected earlier that McGovern would need the 1,509 votes—a simple majority of the whole convention—to prevail.

But with the 151 disputed delegates barred from the roll-call on the credentials fight, O'Brien said the winning margin would be reduced to 1,423.

Housing Issue Sparks Clash

BELFAST (Reuter) — A precarious two-week peace in Northern Ireland lay shattered today with seven persons dead after a night of shooting and bombing that sparked fears of civil war.

A Roman Catholic priest and a 13-year-old girl were among the victims following an announcement in Dublin by the Provisional wing of the outlawed Irish Republican Army that it was ending its truce and resuming hostilities against British forces "with utmost ferocity."

The British Army said it killed one gunman and hit eight others.

Each side blamed the other for the renewed violence, which grew out of attempts by about 2,000 Roman Catholics to move 17 families into the predominantly Protestant Lenadoon housing project in western Belfast Sunday.

A fierce gun battle developed as British troops moved in block off the Catholics and fired tear gas and rubber bullets at the crowd. Shortly afterward came the announcement from Dublin that the ceasefire effected 13 days ago was over.

The announcement said: "The truce between the Irish Republican Army and the British occupation forces was broken without warning by the British forces at approximately 6 p.m. today at Lenadoon estate in Belfast.

"Accordingly, all IRA units have been ordered to resume offensive action. A detailed statement will be issued later."

Within minutes, an army post in Belfast's Springfield Road came under heavy attack from machine-guns and rifle fire.

The army denied it had broken the truce in any way and said troops had started shooting only after they were fired on by snipers.

The Roman Catholic priest, 50-year-old Rev. Noel Fitzpatrick, was killed by gunfire in the Ballymurphy district as he was administering the last rites to a dying parishioner.

The shooting spread to areas all over Belfast and was punctuated by bomb blasts, including two which went off shortly after the truce officially declared ended. There also were fire explosions in Londonderry and then early this morning another three bombs exploded in Belfast's Shankill Road, area reported from the explosions.

The Catholics had tried on Friday and Saturday to move their families into the Lenadoon homes, which they maintained they had been promised after being forced from another area because of Protestant intimidation.

Protestants on each occasion gathered to resist them and the army negotiated a hold-off operation with republican leaders.

But when a third deadline of Sunday afternoon for getting the families moved expired, the Catholic crowd tried to force their way through the opposing British troops.

Then the shooting started.

A Melon-choly Tale

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 29-year-old man was taken to hospital Sunday with serious injuries after a 51-pound watermelon was dropped on him from a second-storey window, police said.

Officers said G. D. Henry had been arguing with his girl friend, Ofena Lewis, 25, and left the apartment they shared.

Henry told police he was standing beneath a window when she shouted at him. He said he looked up and saw the melon falling.

He suffered a broken right shoulder, two broken ribs and a punctured lung, officers said.

Police said they were seeking Miss Jones for questioning.

News Briefs

Kooky Homes Praised

TORONTO (CP) — A little insanity may be a big help in dealing with family problems, a Toronto psychiatrist told the Parents Without Partners convention Saturday. Dr. Peter Moore told single parents, gathered here for the organization's annual meeting, he could speak about single-parent families because he was raised in one. It was a happy, energetic, "if somewhat kooky, home," he recalled, and advised the single parents present not to be "too sane" in dealing with their own family problems.

Some Workers Return

TORONTO (CP) — About 7,600 Ontario Hydro employees were off the job today as the Canadian Union of Public Employees continued a series of rotating strikes against the public utility begun more than two weeks ago. A Hydro spokesman said that about 470 workers returned to the utility's head office this morning and another 330 construction workers at the Bruce heavy water plant and elsewhere in the province also went back to work.

Kennedy Stays Aloof

HYANNISPORT, Mass. (AP) — Senator Edward Kennedy, keeping a firm grip on his neutrality stand in the choice of the Democratic presidential candidate, spent the weekend sailing the nine-foot yacht and planned more of the same as delegates struggled over credentials and the nomination at the Miami Beach site of the party's convention.

Dockers Working

MONTREAL (CP) — Except for wet weather cutting back on operations, longshore activity at the Port of Montreal began returning to normal today following an eight-week strike by members of the International Longshoremen's Association. Jean-Marc St. Onge, president of the Montreal ILA local, said about 60 per cent of the local's 2,300 members had been told to be ready for work.

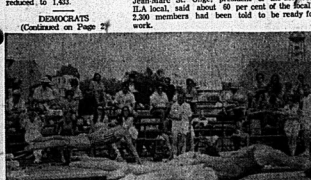
Bobby Fischer Still Unhappy

REYKJAVIK (Reuter) — Temperamental chess genius Bobby Fischer paid a surprise visit early today to the hall where he will play Boris Spassky for the world chess championship and emerged after a two-hour inspection apparently unsatisfied with a number of arrangements.

The 29-year-old American grandmaster, accompanied by two advisers and officials of the Icelandic Chess Federation, entered the hall at 1 a.m., only hours after a special chair he had demanded was flown in from New York.

It was not known just what did not satisfy Fischer who is scheduled to begin play Tuesday with Russia's Spassky, the present world champion.

Spassky and his aides examined the hall Sunday and expressed satisfaction with the arrangements.



Diving Through Day

About 275 swimmers dived into a day's full of events in Eastern Ontario Swimming Championships held Sunday at CFB Trenton's Albatross Pool. An Ottawa club took all-round top honors but Trenton's Dolphin Swim Club had some successes for the large gallery of on-lookers. For story, see Page 18.

The End of the Trail

Chris Benn, centre, cuts ribbon to officially open the 200-mile Quinte-Hastings Recreational Trail at O'Hara's Mill Saturday. Surrounding him are five other walkers who hiked 15 miles from Quin-Mo-Lac Park to inaugurate the trail. Their first outing, Chris said the group faced few hardships during the quarters of the way." For story, see Page 3.

Soviet Tanks Replace North Vietnam Losses

PEKING (Reuter) — New Soviet tanks to replace North Vietnam's losses in the waning offensive in South Vietnam were still crossing China by rail, diplomatic sources said here today.

The sources noted that tank reinforcement indicate that North Vietnam is not planning to turn from the conventional war waged through the offensive to revert to protracted guerrilla tactics as some observers have suggested.

Envoys resident in Peking who made a visit a few days ago to the Great Wall of China said they noticed 17 Soviet tanks aboard a train travelling south on the railway line from Mongolia.

This line, which runs parallel with the Wall and not at this point, is one of two tracks linking the trans-Siberian railway with China, the other being in northeast China or former Manchuria.

At the same time, there are indications in Peking that the Soviet Union now is more satisfied with China's efforts to keep up the flow of Soviet military supplies to North Vietnam.

Russian and East European diplomats here now until recently had been complaining that China was "not doing enough" to trans-ship supplies here in the last few days detected a picture of increased Chinese co-operation.

But there are no concrete indications here that China has sent engineers or laborers into North Vietnam to assist in repairing U.S. bomb damage to match the aid from 1965 to 1968, when about 40,000 Chinese volunteers helped to keep road and rails links open.

Diplomats in the Chinese capital in close contact with the North Vietnamese say there is apparently no foundation to reports published in Washington that such aid has been returned.

However, it is not ruled out that China will send such assistance in future if North Vietnam proves to be suffering significant disability through U.S. bombing and the mining of North Vietnam's ports ordered by President Nixon on May 8.

The United States is thought here to have been unsuccessful in persuading China to reduce its own aid to North Vietnam despite Peking's own interest in an Indochina settlement.

Japanese Terrorist Enters Guilty Plea

LOD, Israel (AP) — The Japanese terrorist who survived the May Ayir airport massacre pleaded guilty at the opening of his trial today, but his lawyer asked for a psychiatric examination, and the three-man military court recessed to consider the request and the plea.

"I don't want an examination . . . I don't want an examination," shouted 24-year-old Kozo Okamoto before the court recessed.

His chief lawyer, Max Kirtzman, said he did not contend Okamoto now is insane, "but he should have an examination to determine if he was sane at the time of the commission of the offence . . . or whether he was under some irreversible influence . . . or under the influence of drugs . . ."

Kitzman said he had no material yet "to convince you of the defendant's mental state," but added, "in the circumstances and in the defendant's behavior since leaving the homeland for a faraway country, with which he had no connection, we feel that the facts speak for themselves."

Under Israeli law a defendant in a capital case has to plead not guilty. Okamoto is expected to get life imprisonment.

The opening of the trial was delayed 35 minutes by strict security checks. Many of those at the trial stood in line for more than two hours before they could enter the courtroom about four miles southwest of Lod Airport, where the massacre took place.

The small solemn defendant stood in a waist-high wooden enclosure manacled to two policemen as the chief prosecutor, Lt.-Col. David Israeli, read the four charges against him.

Asked if he understood, Okamoto replied quietly, "Yes."

Asked how he pleaded to the charges, Okamoto replied: "On the 30th of May 1972 I discharged firearms with two other persons . . . I forgot their names . . . I do not know how many people killed . . .

"I have many things I want to say in court . . . I tired not only as a tourist but as a policeman as well . . ." Then he pleaded guilty.

SAC to Join NORAD Exercise

OTTAWA (CP) — Aircraft of the U.S. Strategic Air Command will join forces of the North American Air Defence Command Tuesday and Wednesday in a training exercise over eastern Canada and the United States, the defence department announced today.

Whitelaw on Move

Briton Visits Ulster

BELFAST (CP) — William Whitelaw, British's administrator for Northern Ireland, made a brief visit today to the explosive province for urgent constitutions with military chiefs as civil war fears spread with the end of the IRA ceasefire.

After a quick meeting with his advisers, Whitelaw flew back to London to report to the House of Commons. It was possible members would question him about an Irish Republican Army alleganation that he met secretly with rebel leaders Sunday.

David O'Connell, chief strategist of the IRA's Provisional wing, said in Dublin today he and other IRA leaders had met Whitelaw and his aides in London but the talks had broken down.

The disclosure was certain to increase the militant Protestant Ulster Defence Association which has been changing that the British pleased to sell them out to the IRA and a union with the Irish republic.

The greatest fear now is an armed confrontation between the IRA and the para-military UDA. This could bring the British army into conflict with both sides.

About 600 Royal Marine commandos were sent to Ulster to strengthen the security forces now under renewed attack by the IRA.

Their arrival brought the total strength of the British troops in Northern Ireland to about 14,000, the largest number on duty there since the troubles began in 1969.

Army sources said the movement of the marine commandos had been arranged before Sunday night's announcement by the Provisionals that the 13-day ceasefire had ended.

Hikers Open Trail With 15-mile Jaunt

Officials from all walks of government attended Saturday's opening of the Quinte-Hastings Recreational Trail but it was six hikers who stole the show.

As representatives of the federal, provincial and various municipal governments looked on, the walkers, on the trail for five hours, wedded their many way to O'Hara's Mill, arriving half an hour late for the official ribbon-cutting ceremony.

The 200-mile trail's first marchers took a well-deserved rest while their leader, Chris Benn, brought the eight-month project to completion.

The arrival of the six followed speeches by trail administrators and by Donald Reid, director — general for Ontario of Canada manpower and immigration. His department contributed $138,753 for construction of the trail through a Local Initiatives Program grant.

Mr. Reid had nothing but praise for the path and its organizing committee. He told about 150 persons sitting beside the conservation area schoolhouse:

"The degree of co-operation is certainly wonderful to behold. This is something that cannot be bought for dollars."

He termed LIP grants "something of a gamble" but said proof of their success lies in the fact that 62,000 jobs had been created during the winter months across Canada, nearly 25 per cent of them employing welfare recipients.

Looking on are trail project administrator Grant Harvey, left, and guest speaker for the opening, Don Reid.

Long Path

All 200 miles of the Quinte - Hastings Recreational Trail are mapped in detail on this blow-up at O'Hara's Mill Saturday.

Point Anne Company Houses To Be Vacated by Late 1973

POINT ANNE — This company community, for more than a half-century a residential offspring of industrial enterprise, is headed for ghost-town status in little more than a year.

Employees of Canada Cement LaFarge Ltd., have received formal notice to vacate company houses making up this village, by September, 1973.

The residential shutdown is tied directly to the company's shift of operations to a new $40-million plant at Bath.

Tenants in about 20 leased company homes were sent the formal quit notices, plant manager Robert Brennan said today. They were informed that after the plant closed company community upkeep services — including water supplies, road maintenance and general repairs — would terminate.

Some houses already vacated since the company first announced the shutdown here two years ago already have been razed.

But, Mr. Brennan said today, it had not yet been decided what would happen to houses now to be vacated. Many of the families now using them will move to Bath when the new plant becomes operational, expected also to be "September next year."

Shutdown of the Point Anne plant, in almost continuous operation since 1903, was confirmed January, 1971 by the company which earlier had announced plans for Bath-area operation designed for the age of automated industrial competition.

In the past year, however, production at Point Anne has been stepped up, to meet increased market demands and the company pressed into service its third cement-producing kiln — an installation completed in 1953 but used only fitfully since then.

By last September the plant had stepped up production by about a third, Mr. Brennan estimated.

At present there are about 200 personnel — both production staff and salaried workers — employed at the plant.

Centre Hastings Course A First for Ontario

A course in applied imagination will be taught at Centre Hastings Secondary School next year.

The first of its kind in Ontario, the Grade 13 level course was the brain child of drafting teacher Leslie Deed and technical department head D. C. Graham.

Applied imagination or creativity is merely the first section of a course in engineering" problems offered to students who have taken drafting in Grade 12.

The second section, problem solving, will require each student to work on his own at individual research, using the teacher as an engineering consultant.

"Unlike most Grade -13 courses, engineering problems does not stress new work, but applies knowledge gained," Mr. Graham. "The first part of this course, applied creativity, is the first such course given in secondary schools to my knowledge."

In the applied creativity section the students will be expected to solve a series of design problems. In the second section, problem solving, students will select problems from textbooks and prepare working drawings of their solutions.

Two research papers must be completed by each student during the course.

Each student will be expected to evaluate his own work and the self-evaluation will be discussed with the teacher and considered in the final marks given the student.

Engineering problems is the first Grade 13 technological course to be offered in Hastings county, although about 30 courses of a somewhat similar nature have been approved by the ministry of education. Centre Hastings' innovative course will be sent to universities in Ontario for approval as an admission credit.

Rural Day Nursery

Remember the controversy over the establishment of a day care nursery in Belleville. Well the city got its nursery and who would deny it is necessary and in line with the times? In fact several others have been set up since by various groups; it is the trend and of course we know that in the Soviet Union and Scandinavia such nurseries have been a part of the social system for years.

Now there is talk of a similar facility for children of rural working mothers and while there is something of the same kind of resistance, or difference of opinion at least among Hastings county councillors, on the subject, it has been agreed to have the matter referred to the social services committee for recommendation.

We do not doubt that whatever the arguments now or more such nurseries may well be established in the county. We like to think, even in these changing times, that women put their husbands and children first; however, if this should also include a job outside the home, either out of necessity or because it is in the interests of all the family, the children included, then well and good. As long as the children's spiritual as well as physical needs are not being neglected, as long as the influence of both parents is still effective and beneficial, there should be no harm in the mother having a job outside the home. The children, meanwhile, benefit from contact with other children and from such programs as the nursery school staff may have in the daily schedule.

As Reeve Barbara Allen of Tweed has put it, the working mother is there to stay. Financing and location are other considerations. Parents can expect to share the cost of such an enterprise with the municipality and in the case of some rural areas operation nurseries in several locations might be found necessary, from say Foxboro to Bancroft.

Smoking And Health

A Toronto doctor's warning to the annual meeting of the Canadian Tuberculosis and Respiratory Diseases Association should be taken seriously by smokers. Dr. C. C. Grey said that even if a concentrated program to halt smoking were successful immediately, it would take about 20 years before cigarette-respiratory disease would show a downward trend. And this because the disease process is initiated "years before it comes to the clinical horizon and is recognized as a specific disease."

What Dr. Grey has to say reinforces the statements of one medical authority after another in recent years regarding the threat to health posed by smoking. We have no figures indicating how many have given up smoking at once, but we do know from daily observation that considerable numbers of young people smoke and that for some reason women and teenage girls seem to smoke more than average.

Women smoking at the wheel of the car, in doctors' offices and buying cartons of cigarets at the supermarket are a common sight. Girls may be seen smoking in restaurants after school, on the street and in other public places. Teen boys and adult men smoke in large numbers too of course, but we suspect they are fewer in number.

We acknowledge that whether to smoke or not is a personal choice but contend that more should be done to discourage the habit in the general interests of health and well-being. We believe the schools could do more to influence students not to smoke and parents also have a responsibility. Nor do we think ash trays full of cigaret butts in doctors' waiting rooms are a very edifying sight, not to mention patients lighting up while awaiting their turn. We shall always have people who smoke — but the fewer the better.

Out of Wine

A calamity at the Parliamentary Restaurant in Ottawa — because of the ports dispute, they have run out of their customary supplies of imported wine. Substitutes, according to a report from the capital, are Canadian wines, described as "somewhat sweet, grapey and generally unpopular among the diners." Well, isn't it a matter of taste? After a spell without the imported stuff it could be our well-wined and dined politicians will acquire a taste for the humble domestic product. Some of it is good, no matter what descriptives are being applied up in Ottawa.

Social Credit Also Active

Robert Thompson Will Run Again as PC Candidate

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

Several months ago I interviewed former Social Credit leader Robert Thompson at the time when he announced his decision to retire from politics and move to British Columbia. As a result of that interview I wrote a column which started with the words: "The Social Credit movement is dead in Canada on a national basis in the view of Robert Thompson."

Well, Mr. Thompson is not dead politically and has changed his mind and will seek election as the Progressive Conservative candidate in the British Columbia riding of Surrey-White Rock now held by Berger Mather of the NDP. And Social Credit is not dead nationally, according to a 28-year-old organizer for the party, who has recently returned from a two week tour of Atlantic Canada. Henry Landry is a director of the Social Credit League of B.C. and an former president of the Young Socreds in that province. He also doubles as a special assistant to Andre Fortin, the House leader for the Social Credit federal caucus.

When Mr. Thompson and Mr. Caouette parted company, the movement fell on very hard times. From its high point of 1962 when it ran 217 federal candidates and elected 30, it became a Quebec-based party federally, and a badly split one. Now the party brass claims that the splits have been healed and the non-Quebec power of the party, represented by the Bennett government of B.C. and the opposition Social Credit organization in Alberta is again prepared to rally to the support and aid of Mr. Caouette and his Quebec wing and to work with Social Credit candidates nationally.

The aim of the party in the coming campaign is to have candidates in every province, a total of between 150 and 200, and to elect 35 MP's from Quebec and another 15 outside that province. The present strength consists of the 15 members from Quebec. Mr. Landry admits the picture looks dark for the party in Ontario and is hopeful that 25 candidates can be rounded up there.

But he has high hopes, not only for Quebec, but for New Brunswick and Saskatchewan where he claims the party has some outstanding candidates. He believes the Conservatives will have trouble holding on to their present Saskatchewan seats and says the party is also chiefly between the New Democrats and Social Credit.

But his chief personal interest is centred on New Brunswick where he says the party will have candidates in all 10 ridings. One of these candidates is very likely to be Mr. Landry. He feels Social Credit is well within reach of victory in the four northern New Brunswick ridings where most of the province's French-speaking population lives, but he insists that the party will not concentrate exclusively on this more fertile ground.

There are 38 available seats in the four eastern provinces and Social Credit believes it can field candidates in 30 of these ridings on a realistic basis with as many as six in Nova Scotia and five and in Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island. By contrast, in the 1968 election there was only one candidate in New Brunswick and none in the other three provinces.

The party has been running an eight-week basis of educational television programs on Social Credit policy in New Brunswick and will be buying more time in the Atlantic area as the campaign swings into high. The party's full platform for the election has now been completed and will be published shortly.

"What a preposterous suggestion!... Take a letter, Miss Guevera."

A First For Queen's Park

Two Members Ejected From Legislature

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

One of the colorful moments of the session was last week's incident when two members were ejected from the house by Speaker Alan Reuter.

It is very easy to decry such incidents as lowering the dignity of the house.

In fact shortly after Liberal Eddie Sargent was shown out, young NDP member Ian Deans plously said to the chamber he was not proud to have been present.

To which one does not say "amen" but "nonsense."

It happened that after Mr. Deans had made his remarks one of his NDP colleagues, Michael Cassidy of Ottawa, was the second man to be named — marking the first time in history here that two members had been named in one day.

The fact one of his own was under the gun, probably would have caused Mr. Deans to swallow his tongue. But this is incidental to the fact that a good number of members of the house probably held some sympathy with the NDP member's piety.

And this, in turn, reflects a condition that really isn't healthful for the legislative process and good government in the province.

When Mr. Deans and other members who agree with him feel that challenges in the house which upset decorum are undignified or otherwise unfitting, they are showing little knowledge of parliament or our political system.

This system is based on an adversary principle and parliament is its forum.

To work, the adversary system can't be pat-on-the-back opposition. The Oxford dictionary says "adversary" means "opponent," "antagonist," "the enemy."

These aren't namby-pamby words and neither is the ideal of our system namby-pamby.

Unless a parliament is vigorous and spirited, it is not a particularly healthy parliament, and except for odd occasions, our legislature for a good number of years has had little spirit.

There have been two main reasons for this.

One is that in recent years there has been relatively little knowledge of the parliamentary process among our elected representatives. The other is an over-politeness, as reflected in the Sargent incident.

As events have evolved, it seems Mr. Sargent was probably right about the point he was making. And at least some of us would applaud him for taking advantage of every resort to make it.

Tab-Collar Shirt Buff Confesses

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I hate to invade the weighty precincts of your Letters-to-the Editor column, with a problem unrelated to drains, dress, drugs or dropouts, being but a simple private calamity, the pulsation of which may however be of benefit to your ears or which may perhaps provide me with some helpful suggestions.

On thinking it over I am almost certain of some such suggestions.

My problem arises out of an addiction which I must first confess, my addiction being one of some 25 years standing, and to a habit of considerable expense, namely the purchase and daily use of tab collared shirts.

This habit I have sustained through recent years of juvenile obloquy at the hands of a newer generation in the family.

Yesterday I did sustain one of those shocks to which we must become accustomed in life, but still a tremendous shock to my ego and self image as upon reading a recent book upon Hitler bedight "Putsch".

Not until yesterday did I know that Hitler wore tabbed collared shirts.

Hitler suffered the same addiction as mine.

My shirts are sold to me by a smiling eight and half inches per sleeve

Chiko Roll Was Lure for Takeover Bid

CANBERRA (CP) — Next to meat pie, the chiko roll is the favorite snack of hundreds of thousands of Australian sports spectators.

How it is made is a trade secret, but it costs 20 cents and has spurred Frozen Foods Ltd. millions of dollars and has had one of the fastest-rising profits of any Australian company.

So the American giant, International Telephone and Telegraph, decided to try to take it over. The move could scarcely have been made at a worse time.

Australia is at the peak of a wave of nationalistic feeling about its industries, land and minerals. So strong was the reaction against the purchase that ITT backed off. But the attempt stirred up fears that the foreigners were coming to take over the Australians.

Capital inflow into Australia this financial year will amount to $2 billion. The proportion of foreign ownership of Australian companies has risen from 20 per cent in 1948 to 35 per cent in 1971.

Main areas of foreign control have been in mining, oil distribution, metal industries, cars, chemicals and banking.

With such trends, Australians have been expressing the view, "another Canada," with so much of its industry and consequently foreign-controlled.

Two major federal government efforts have been made to pacify the popular concern about foreign money capturing Australia's assets.

There has been a treasury white paper on overseas investment and a statement by Attorney-General Ivor Greenwood that the government intends to introduce legislation to deal with monopolies—a move that could prevent foreign firms from cornering an Australian market.

But the criticism of the government is thus: it is doing too little too slowly to cope with the increasing invasion of foreign money in Australia.

The latest and most significant voice of protest is that of Douglas Anthony, deputy prime minister and Country party leader. He made it clear he felt his other government colleagues were dragging their feet.

Anthony, who is also minister for trade and industry, said:

"Today money is flooding in from overseas in embarrassing proportions.

"Australia is such a prime target for overseas investors that we can afford to be selective and to set reasonable conditions.

"One responsibility in future generations of Australians is to leave them as owners not tenants.

Anthony takes a more critical view of foreign investment than his Liberal colleagues in the coalition who represent more the big business interests in the cities.

But even Prime Minister William McMahon, who in past years has defended the flow of foreign money into Australia, now is talking of the need for a "serious examination" of the subject.

While the government's reaction is limited, some say even timid, a Labor government, if elected next November, would be far more aggressive in its attitude to foreign investment.

Labor leader Gough Whitlam, strongly favored to be prime minister before this year is out, spoke up at the height of the Frozen Foods bid.

"The Australian Labor party believes it is time for action to limit the foreign ownership of Australian resources and industry."

Its said a Labor government would amend the taxation laws to penalize and encourage Australian insurance companies, the biggest repository of new private capital in Australia, to invest in approved basic industries and development projects.

Most Australians have gone past the dispassionate analysis stage. They fear, in the words of former Country party leader Sir John McEwen, that a "large part of the farm is being taken over," and something has to be done about it.

New Minister Arrives At Bridge Street United

Bridge Street United Church has a new minister. The Rev. Dr. Harry M. Davis who has retired from the ministry.

The new Bridge Street United Church minister is Rev. George K. Ward, a native Martimer, who comes to Belleville from Trinity United Church in Bowmanville where he had ministered for the past seven years.

Mr. Ward has been in Belleville since July 1 and has already preached two Sundays at his new charge. The formal induction service will be held early in September.

A native of Saint John, New Brunswick, Mr. Ward took his elementary and secondary school education in that city and graduated in arts from the University of New Brunswick.

He then studied law at the University of New Brunswick Law School but when within two months of graduation decided to study for the ministry.

He took his theology training at Pine Hill Divinity Hall in Halifax and did post graduate study at Drew Theological Seminary in Madison, New Jersey.

His pastorates have included the position of assistant minister at St. Andrew's United Church in Westmount, Montreal, and ministries at Bedeque, Prince Edward Island; Park Ave. United Church at Saint-John, First United Church at St. Catharines, and Trinity United Church at Bowmanville.

Mrs. Ward is also a Martimer and was born at Hantsport, Nova Scotia. She is a graduate of Prince of Wales College in Charlottetown, PEI and is a graduate nurse, graduating from Saint John General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward have two girls, Andrea, 10, and Melanie, 8.

Dr. Harry Davis, the former minister at Bridge Street United Church, has been in Belleville for the past 18 years. He retired officially on June 30 and will continue to live in the city.

Church congregational members held a testimonial dinner for Dr. Davis prior to his retirement.

The event taking the form of a potluck dinner was held at the church parlors with Dr. and Mrs. Davis being presented with a purse of money.

Dr. and Mrs. Davis are now in Montreal visiting their daughter but their plans call for some post-retirement travel.

Seaweed in Demand

LONDON (CP) — Next time you wander along a seashore in the Maritimes, take a good look at the seaweed left behind by the Atlantic tides—it's a hot commodity on London's International Seaweed Exchange.

Seaweed, believe it or not, is big business around the world, with Canada the leading producer of Irish moss, the "preferred quality" for most uses, in the seaweed brokers' eye. About a dozen varieties, processed to extract gelatine, are used in the manufacture of products ranging from ice-cream and tooth paste to water paints and textile printing.

In 1965, industrial delegates attending the fifth International Seaweed Symposium at Halifax decided the time was ripe for their trade to have its own commodity exchange, much as London already has for metals, wool tea, spices, rubber and cocoa.

No exotic hint of ozone hangs around the seaweed exchange, which is just a couple of rooms and a staff of three on a building in Southwark, on the south bank of the Thames across from the famous square mile of the City proper.

"We very rarely see the stuff," says Cyril Aberdein, managing director of the firm which houses the exchange and which has dealt in seaweed since 1880. Most of the exchange's transactions are conducted with Canada and the United States, and it also puts out a four-monthly bulletin on prices, substitute content, supplies and the state of the market in various countries.

Seaweed is a commodity where prices can fluctuate in a volatile fashion, but the exchange, whose membership covers 48 countries, sees the industry growing faster over the next 30 years than in the first half of the century.

Prices for harvested most have gone higher than £200 (about $520) a ton and for gelidium, most valuable kind at present most scarce of seaweeds, they can reach £350 a ton dry weight.

The seaweed brokers say it is difficult to assess world turnover because the Soviet Union, for instance, lies five processing plants for which no statistics are available. Canada has only two, in Nova Scotia, most of her output going to the U.S.

Aberdein guessed that the U.S. annual turnover might be in the region of £20 million.

Seaweed varieties used in food manufacturing, cosmetics, pharmaceuticals and industrial processes are mainly found off eastern North America, Ireland, Scotland, Brittany, Spain, Portugal, Japan, the Azores and Morocco.

The gelatine extract is used wherever a thickening or gelling agent is required. When you lick an ice-cream or clean your teeth, it may be seaweed that provides the smooth, bland texture of the product. When the gelatine is used in food preparations, it is refined and purified to a high powder.

One of the industry's limitations is that seaweed, being a plant that loves rocky, remote coastlines, has to be harvested in traditional fashion by men with long-handled rakes, or laterally by hand when the tides permit.

Experiments have been made in the United States with mechanical harvesters, but rapid developments in this field are hampered by the necessity to avoid denuding the seaweed beds, which then may never recover.

Japan now is said to be trying out methods of artificial cultivation, although the vast mass of the ocean's sea crop is untouched.

Some years ago, there was a certain cloak-and-dagger air about the industry. Aberdein says, because of competitors believed they could find a "miracle process" of harvesting unlimited riches from the ocean. Nowadays, however, most plants use similar methods of drying the weed and extracting the content.

Seaweed is one of the few forms of marine life which can turn oil pollution to its advantage. Oil slicks tend to kill off creatures such as shrimps which feed on seaweed, thus resulting in a bigger crop.

Democrats

Observers said that party officials decided on keeping the convention in continuous session, for 20 hours if necessary, in the hope that tired delegates would be less fractious and possibly more open to compromise.

Some time before the voting starts, Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine is expected to announce what could be a crucial decision.

Although his supporters generally failed with Humphrey when the party's credentials committee received McGovern bids of more than half his California delegates two weeks ago, Muskie declined to nominate himself Sunday on the floor votes.

Should he come out in favor of McGovern, the more than 200 Muskie delegates might tilt the convention in McGovern's favor for good.

The only other candidate with substantial support here, Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, remained secluded Sunday while supporters held a round of meetings.

Wallace is confined to a wheelchair, recuperating from an assassination attempt in May that left him crippled.

While the behind the scenes political infighting continued, authorities conducted a massive security check of the convention hall.

Notices were posted on all entrances warning delegates and others that brief cases, cameras, handbags and other objects would be screened before the owner was admitted.

Overhead, army helicopters carried on a constant surveillance patrol while the 250-man local police force, supplemented by state police, watched over the approaches to the candidates' hotels and the convention hall.

Manhole covers in the principal streets converging on the convention site were sealed and police authorities remained in constant touch with troops stationed at Homestead Air Force Base, about 30 miles away, in case it was necessary to bring them into Miami Beach to help quell any disorders.

Fashion Centre

MONTREAL (CP) — Construction began Wednesday on a $4.5 million fashion centre for Canadian women's apparel in Montreal's North end.

Irwin Schaffer, president of Algo Industries Ltd., said the H-storey building will be the first such centre in Canada and will house between 40 and 50 tenants of various descriptions.

Algo Industries, manufacturing firm with head offices here, will be a major owner of the building.

Mr. Schaffer said the new fashion mart will offer buyers all the conveniences under one roof.

"It will be the only building in Canada to house complete manufacturing and showroom facilities of women's dress and sp-et-swear."

Opening of the centre is scheduled for next spring.

J. Mazer Examines Recent Design

Jewellery to Accent CNE Fashions

By BONNIE KING
Women's Reporter

Jewellery from a local manufacturer will accessorize fashions worn by the models in the Women's Division of the Canadian National Exhibition's fashion shows from August 16 to September 4. Joel H. Mazer, well-known jewellery designer in Belleville will be showing an exquisite selection for this event.

The owner of Joel H. Mazer Jewellery (formerly Avon Jewellery) has been supplying his work for fashion shows for the past ten years. "We're eager to assist them and there is good publicity", said Mr. Mazer who also sends his jewelleries to the Royal Winter Fair, the Sportsmen Shows, the recent Eden Awards' presentation, Yorkdale fashion shows and the Women's Division Fall Fair in Ontario Trade and Commerce. This has been established through 18 years experience in the jewellery making field for Mr. Mazer.

The uniqueness of his jewellery design and production with the assistance of around 35 employees at Joel H. Mazer Jewellery is seen in the finished product which is 75 to 80 per cent hand work. Better tailoring and exclusivity are the main factors of concern.

In upcoming designs, Belleville's only jewellery designer says the classical look applies to his line of work also. This firm keeps in line with all fashion news with a library of well-known American and European fashion magazines.

There are a total of 200,000 items of jewellery produced each year at Joel H. Mazer Jewellery including 1,000 designs. Mr. Mazer himself designs six to ten items a week. This includes one theme in design carried out in six to ten pieces of jewellery, such as, ear-rings, necklaces, pins, rings, brooches. A pencil draft is the first step in creating a line of jewellery and a model maker secures the next step by hand making the model of the pencil draft.

The frustrations and anxieties of designing a piece of jewellery are erased when the first six items of the line are completed.

Between designing the jewellery and holding the position of administrator, Mr. Mazer keeps pretty busy as he is now designing the spring and summer line for 1973.

Prices for jewelleries made here range from $3. to $100.

Hospital Has New Program For Patients

VANCOUVER (CP) — When you are between hospital and home, time hangs pretty heavy on your hands—particularly if you are a little tyke.

And if you are confined to bed, wheelchair or walker, any diversion is welcomed and if it's creative, so much the better.

Sunny Hill Hospital for Children, which is a rehabilitation and activation unit, has a school program for its young patients. Art has always been a part of the children's classroom activities and now their program has been extended to include ceramics and pottery.

"It's great physical and mental therapy," said Margaret Cameron, the Vancouver school board teacher at the hospital.

"Sometimes the children get quite depressed because they are away from home for months at a time and we have found that ceramics and pottery draw them out of their shells.

"It doesn't matter how incapacitated a child is; there is always some way he can participate in this activity. No matter how small the contribution to the end product, each child knows that he has done his bit along with the others."

The children tell what they make at hospital sales and the profits are used to buy new equipment.

"We sell their work at just a little above cost to buy more supplies. This gives the children a great deal of incentive."

MISS BETTY LOU ABRAMS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Abrams, 130 Catherine St., graduated from the Oshawa School of Nursing on June 23. Miss Abrams is a graduate of Quinte Secondary School.

Successful Living

A Lovely Way to Prepare for Miracle

By DORIS CLARK

Not long ago a lady-in-waiting wrote in for information about pregnancy, having babies, caring for them. She said "My husband and I are looking forward to this wonderful experience and we want to do just as much as we can to be ready ahead of time."

What a lovely way to prepare for a miracle!

It is not hard to recognize the fact when children have been raised in a quiet-together household. They show their serenity and confidence in life itself when the two people they know best operate as a unit.

Sometimes this calls for the easy best: both parents can give in the way of common sense and common confidence.

Dear Doris: As a child I was picked on and beaten for any little thing while my brother was always favored. I still can cry over this at the drop of a pin.

I have a boy 10 and a girl seven, and would like to have more children. They would love a baby too. My husband says two are enough, but I cry over the thought of a baby I would love to have.

Do you see, when I had my first two I was living with my mother-in-law and she really took care of the babies. If I had another one I could perhaps learn to give love that is bottled up inside me.

Another thing. My husband is very much for sex and love but I am not. I never was taught about it and now I have a daughter that I should be teaching about it, yet actually sex disgusts me.

How could I be a better lover? I don't even know how to kiss. I am satisfied with my husband as a person and would very much like to improve myself before he starts looking for someone else. — Dumb and Ashamed.

Dear Ashamed: You can't give love when you have never learned to receive it — and that is what your childhood was all about. Probably your husband is already aware that you find it difficult to express yourself; probably he silently wishes for better physical relations.

This kind of expression is a mutual thing, with a man gently wooing his mate with caresses before asking for the ultimate. The wife learns to respond by the warm touch of her hand, by some very expressive hugging; with kisses which are long and lingering. The list of books I am sending gives some explanations about sex play.

A third child might then provide an opportunity for further demonstrations of affection.

Dear Doris: Recently I purchased a jar of a new deep tanning butter. I didn't tan — I burnt to a crisp.

I wrote to the company and they said, "Too bad". They are either guilty of misadvertising or have a defective product.

What can the consumer do? — Red Skin.

Dear Red Skin: Your skin was not the only part of you which was burning up. I dare say! Any manufacturer who brushes off a customer's complaint so lightly won't stay in business long. Send your report to the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs, Box 99, Ottawa, Canada.

Women's Institutes

PINE GROVE WI

The June meeting of the Pine Grove Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. William Slavin with all members present and one visitor.

The president, Mrs. Harold Ketler opened the meeting. The institute received a lovely card and note from Mrs. Annie Searles.

Mrs. Ivan Clare, public relations convener opened her meeting with several humorous readings. Following this, she gave a report from the District Annual. The Area Convention will be held on Oct. 24 and 25 at North Westminster Church, Peterborough.

Each member was called to give a talk on the tour of the OSD which was divided into five different groups for the Junior School. Points of interest included: the swimming pool, woodworking, art, the rhythm band; how sounds and mathematics were learned in classes and how the children were taught to make things.

The Senior School gave a fashion show, "What's Nauty and New for '72" presented by the girls' vocational classes which included: the nautical look, the patio parade, day-time wear, and long dresses. It was lovely to see the fine sewing clothes the girls made and modelled themselves.

Following the meeting, strawberries and ice cream were served by Mrs. Dave Hollinger and Mrs. Slavin.

Ann Landers

First Wife's Ashes Kept in Garage

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice by "Freaky Kat" gave me the courage I needed to write about a problem that has been bothering for a long time.

"Freaky Kat" was a widow whose second husband carried his "first wife's picture in his wallet for two years. She was afraid to look and see if she was still there. It made her very sad that he couldn't give it up. You said, "Don't be. Simply buy him a new wallet and put your picture in it."

Three years ago I married a widower. Alas, by accident I ran across his first wife's ashes in our garage. The ashes are in an urn, packed in a box — the same box they were shipped in by the state.

I feel uneasy about this but I've never said anything. I believe the best place for the ashes is in a cemetery. What should I do? — Second Wife

Dear S.W.: Inform your husband that you have come across the "box" and you feel the garage is not art appropriate place for it. Tell him that many people who request cremation ask that their ashes be strewn over a lake, or a river, or a favorite meadow. A friend of mine has requested that her ashes be put in an urn and placed in the Pump Room in Chicago — and I'm not kidding.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been married for three years to a man who never was much of a talker but I've always had the feeling the quiet fellows are the real self-starters. Now it appears my hunch may be right.

I just discovered what I thought was his mother's recipe box — one of those wooden, kitchen-style index files — jammed with names, addresses, telephone numbers, directions, and a few comments which appear to be performance ratings.

I have not told my husband I found it. Should I? He never goes anywhere without me (that I know of), and I have no reason to suspect that he is seeing anyone. But I'm baffled as to what he hangs on to the junk if he has no use for it. What should I do? — Wanda.

Dear Wan: Keep your pencils in hands of your husband's property. He probably keeps it for the same reason some homemakers hang on to their high school and college relics.

Dear Ann Landers: This isn't a serious problem, but it bugs me because I know something is wrong and I'm not sure what should be done about it.

Peter and I plan to be married within the next six months. We have lunch together every day and we meet every evening after work. We eat dinner together almost every night and visit till midnight or 1 a.m. On weekends we spend all our time with what's bad about that? Nothing, except I suddenly realized when I started to look about plans for the wedding that I don't have any girl friends. For the last three years I've been saying no to everybody but Peter. The girls I work with are nice but I never see them except in the office. We are all busy during working hours so there's no time to get acquainted.

Do you feel I am making a mistake? To be truthful I'd rather be with Peter than anybody, but maybe this isn't the best thing for our relationship. Please guide me. — Love Him

Dear Love: You and Peter will enjoy each other more if you broaden your acquaintanceship to include others. Start by having lunch every other day with some of the girls. And one evening a week you and Peter should go your separate ways for some activity — cultural, political, athletic, intellectual. You'll be more interesting to one another. Too much together-ness can stifle individual growth.

Ear-rings from Codfish?

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — You've got to be kidding, who ever heard of ear-rings and tie clasps made from codfish ears? In fact, who's seen a codfish with ears?

Two local residents, Rex Andrews and his wife Gert, can answer both questions. They have been making the jewelry and, yes, codfish do have ears.

It started as a project to get keepsakes for those attending a national meeting here last summer of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire and developed into a full-of-rich selling funds for IODE projects, including two isolated schools in the province.

The tiny shell-shaped ears, removed from inside the fish's head where they act as a balancing mechanism, are dried and polished before they are mounted on ear-ring clips and tie clasps.

The idea came from Mrs. Andrews, whose wife is a former councillor of the IODE. He is quick to point out that the pressed him into service and he isn't an IODE member.

The ears are cut from fish at a local processing plant and are cleaned, polished and mounted by other members of the group. They retail for between $1.35 and $1.75 each, depending on the mark-up by individual store owners.

No estimate of the funds raised by the project has been released, but an IODE spokesman said it provides money for their charities, including schools in the Labrador and Gray River on the Burin Peninsula. The group provides the schools with such items as stencil equipment, books, sports equipment and, in one case, a blackboard.

AID TO TEACHING

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec social affairs department will spend $101 million in a five-year plan to develop teaching and research resources, says Claude Castonguay, the department's minister.

The plan is to develop community hospital and social services with active service by students.

Ontario salad vegetables: field-ripened freshness that can't be matched! July is Salad Month in Ontario, the time to look for best buys in the abundance of locally grown vegetables to add crisp flavor variety to summer meals.

July Is Month for Salads

Each July, the Canadian Fruit Wholesale Association and the Canadian Horticultural Council, through both national and provincial committees, sponsors the promotion of fresh fruits and vegetables. The Ontario Salad Committee brings together the grower, distributor, and wholesaler to increase co-operation within the industry and to promote the freshness of their products to consumers.

The 1972 Salad Queen is Miss Anna Lynn Walker. Anna Lynn will help focus consumer attention on Ontario fruits and vegetables and encourage consumers to enjoy their field-ripened freshness. Food editors will be invited to visit the main growing areas with her and see first hand how production, packing, and marketing of Ontario produce. At luncheons and dinners during July, Anna Lynn will again meet representatives of the media and retail outlets to encourage their participation in the salad promotion.

Consumers will meet the Salad Queen as she visits numerous retail stores across Ontario to encourage greater use of fresh Ontario produce. Retail stores of major chains in co-operation with the Ontario Salad Committee, will also sponsor a salad display competition.

In every way, the emphasis in July is on greater use of Ontario's fruits and vegetables, fresh for summer salads!

Vegetable Salads

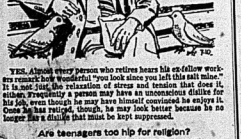
As an appetizer salad or a main course accompaniment, marinated vegetable salads have a tang that's guaranteed to please. Use chilled cooked vegetables, in a flavorful marinade, topped with a favorite dressing, as a change from the more familiar tossed green salad.

Vegetable salads are easy on the hostess too. Prepare vegetables early in the day or the day before. Cook until just tender, drain well, and chill. The secret of success is not to overcook. Vegetables should retain a crisp texture even after marinating several hours to develop flavor.

Marinated vegetables travel well. Take them anywhere — to picnics away from home or just from fridge to patio.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Can retirement improve one's looks?



YES. Almost every person who retires hears his ex-fellow workers remark how wonderful "you look since you left this salt mine." It is not just the relaxation of stress and tension that does it, either. Frequently a person may have an unconscious dislike for his job, even though he may have himself convinced he enjoys it. Once he has retired, though, he may look better because he no longer has a dislike that must be kept suppressed.

Are teenagers too nip for religion?

NO. Just look at the numbers of active, "right-with-it" young people in the Jesus movement and other participatory forms of religion. Some formal schools of religion have seen the teenagers stay away in droves but perhaps this is because many teenagers cannot see how their sisters can set aside an hour or so each week to give lip service to a religious persuasion that they disregard the rest of the time.

Should husbands do food shopping?

ONLY once in a while. If husbands do it all the time they will lose the advantage of its being a novelty. Not a novelty to them but to the salespeople. A husband, for instance, may go to the head butcher in a supermarket and say his wife sent him for a sirloin steak. The butcher, taking pity on a "poor, helpless" husband is almost sure to give him a good piece of meat — just to prove even butchers have a heart.

Peterborough Champs

Iron Arm Wins Golden Bat

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

Back in the days of nickel beer, nickel curves and nine-hanging pitchers, Joseph McGinnity of the New York Giants earned himself the nickname "Iron Joe" by reportedly pitching — and winning — both games of a baseball doubleheader.

However, even Iron Joe would appear to be little more than a one-inning wonder when stacked up against the pitching peiformance of Ron Peters this weekend. The Peterborough right-hander hurled five games in three days, including 11 innings Sunday, to lead his team to the grand championship of the Belleville Golden Bat bantam tournament.

Peters highlighted his ironman performance with a 13-inning 4-3 win over Leaside East York in the final game of the tournament. The loss was the first of the tournament for the Toronto team which had captured the "A" title with a 10-3 win over Guelph. Peterborough had been relegated to "B" action by losing a 5-4 game to Belleville Saturday.

RON PETERS

"We have four pitchers on our club, and we were planning to use them all, but none of them has been throwing the ball the way Ron did in this tournament," said winning coach John Gourley Sr. "We were counting the number of pitches he threw, though, and I as talking to him all through the game. There's no way that we'd take a chance on the kind of future he's got for the sake of winning a tournament."

It looked for a while as though even Peters' pitching wouldn't be enough to prevent Leaside from continuing the tradition of "A" champions taking grand title honors. They carried a 3-1 lead into the bottom of the ninth before Peterborough was able to bunch three hits and a walk together to square matters at 3-3.

Leaside coach Marsh Thompson, who drew praise from Peterborough for his handling of the razor-sharp "A" champs, lost his biggest gamble of the game. After John Dinis, the fourth Leaside pitcher, had yielded a lead-off walk to Dave Hall who promptly advanced to third on a throwing error, Thompson ordered two intentional walks to load the bases with none out. His attempt to set up a force out backfired when Dinis walked Don Eastman to send the winning run across the plate.

Peters scattered eight hits to Leaside over the 13-inning marathon and appeared to be getting stronger as the game progressed.

"His drop was really working," acknowledged Peterborough catcher John Gourley Jr. of his batterymate. "and he could still throw the smoke when he had to."

"This was by far the best championship game we've ever had," related tournament director Earl Lamontte who originated the Golden Bat competition four years ago. "and he (Peters) is probably the best pitcher to ever take part in the tourney." The tournament committee had been considering dropping the "B" championship if the "B" champs had been badly beaten for the fourth straight year.

The tournament star finished the game with 19 strikeouts and only two walks getting most of his batting support from Dittman and Carl Hogan who slammed two hits each. Peters also benefitted from the game's finest fielding play when Peterborough second baseman Don Stanle speared a screaming liner by Leaside's Gary Twig in the third.

Ray Harte was the leading Leaside hitter with three of his team's eight hits. The championship game took over three-and-a-half hours to complete.

Peterborough had advanced to the grand championship on the strength of a 12-4 win over Dorchester in the "B" finals. Peters threw a seven-hitter in that contest, getting three-hit support from his shortstop Kevin Tyndall.

Leaside rode to a 10-3 win over Guelph in the "A" championship as Joe Havro gave up only six hits to the losers. Harte was again their top batsman with three singles.

Belleville bowed out of the tournament in the quarter-finals, losing 11-3 to Guelph. Brian Turner and Bill Whalen were tagged with the loss, giving up 11 hits, including three to Guelph's Larry Wilson.

Earlier in the tournament, they had dealt Peterborough their lone 5-4 loss after opening with a 12-5 win Friday over Thurlow. Whalen and Clyde Routley combined to pitch a (9-hitter against the eventual grand champions, while Turner and Mike Crawford led the Legion batsmen with two hits each. Under last year's system Peterborough would have been eliminated from further play by the loss, but because of the 18-team format the loser was merely dropped to the "B" section.

Thurlow, the other local team entered in the three-day event was eliminated in the second round by losing 2-0 to the 1971 grand champions from Cobourg. Terry Holgate took the loss despite a two-hit pitching performance with Bruce McDonnell and Dave Andrews getting the only Thurlow hits.

Doubled, But Not Defeated

Ray Walle, first baseman for Leaside-East York stretches in time to dougle up Peterborough catcher John Gourley Jr. in the grand championship game of the Belleville Golden Bat Bantam Tournament Sunday. Gourley and his teammates rebounded from the temporary setback to hang a 5-4, 13-inning loss on Leaside to become the first "B" team to win the grand championship in the tourn ament's four-year history. A total of 18 teams from across the province competed in the three-day event.

Grapes Gather Nine

PETERBOROUGH (Special) — The "Galloping Grapes" of the Belleville Kinsmen Track Club hit full stride in Saturday's "All Comers Meet" at Peterborough. The Grapes, who earned the nickname because of their purple uniforms earned nine firsts in the five-team competition held at Sir Thomas A. Stewart High School.

Joe Brooks paced the Belleville team by winning the bantam 400 metres and long jump while placing third in the 100 metres. Steve Levick of Belleville won the bantam boys 100 with John Parks taking first in the bantam mile.

Russ Simonds took first in both the midget shot and discus, while placing second in the 100 metres. In the open events, Dave Simonds won the 400 metres and tied for second in the 100.

Lori Montgomery topped the Belleville girls with a first in the stom bundred and third in both the shot and long jump. Gail Frost added a second in the open long jump and third in the 100 and 400 metres.

Track clubs from Peterborough, Cobourg, Barry's Bay, Bancroft and Belleville competed in the meet.

Gibby Tops

Hubert 'Gibby' Gibbon fell short in his bid to shoot his age but he came close enough to win the low net of the annual Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club's Silver Top Tournament. The 65-year-old Gibbon had a gross score of 80 and his winning net of 66 gave him both the over 60 age group and tournament honors. The 55-year veteran of the golf links used a hot putter to better his usual score of 85 and win his first Silver Top title.

Melrose Sweeps To First

Melrose made a clean sweep of their weekend South Hastings Baseball League action and moved into first place by dumping the Reserve 7-2 Sunday and stopping Shannonville 8-6 Saturday.

John Pepper spiced Melrose's win over the Reserve by throwing a six-hitter. He struck out nine in taking the win. Ted Abrams doubled and Larry McMann singled twice to lead the winner's seven-hit attack.

Glen Maracle took the loss for the Reserve.

Bruce Pearce had a double and three singles to lead Melrose to victory over Shannonville Saturday. Reg Abrams homered and Ted Abrams stroked a trio of singles as the winners pounded out 11 hits.

Terry McTaggart, fanned eight in his seven-hit performance on the Melrose mound. Bill Barberstock took the loss for Shannonville. He struck out 11.

Larry Lewis homered for the loser's big hit.

Rollins' Recover in Time

CAMPBELLFORD (Special) —It looked like Rollins Construction were heading for a repeat performance of last year's second-place finish in the Campbellford Senior Softball Tournament.

The Commercial Softball League powers reached the final game of the tournament but received a rude opening jolt when the Hastings leadoff batter hit Ken Delville's first pitch out of the park.

But after that it was all Rollins, as they rolled to a 6-1 win for their first tournament victory of the season.

Delville went the distance for Rollins, capping out two hits as well, while Carl Boonhower, Wayne McTaggart and Paul Goodfellow each added a pair of safeties.

Rollins had opened the tournament with a 3-1 win over Oshawa, before downing Campbellford 8-3 in their second outing. It was the same Campbellford team that had beaten Rollins in the championship game of the tournament for the past two years.

Ted Walks pitched the win over Campbellford with McTaggart connecting for three singles and Boonhower two. The Rollins rightfielder was seven-for-11 in the tournament.

Rollins picked up $300 in bonds for the tournament win. They finished second in June's Belleville tournament and have also taken part in tournaments at South Mountain and Dunnville this season.

Juniors Looked Right at Home

The Printers, winless in 13 Belleville men's Commercial League starts, opened Saturday morning tourney with a 5-1 win over Port Perry, their first official win of the season in their first outing against another junior team.

Ron Hill, who pitched two-hit ball and had a no-hitter going until the final inning, got his best hitting support from Peter Stallkovich's towering three-run home run clout.

In their second game, the Belleville juniors lost a heartbreaking 14-13 opening decision to defending all-Ontario champion Grimsby on a two-out, two-strike home run hit off a Dave Horwood changeup.

Horwood, an Ellis rookie, gave up only five hits over the route while his ta in mates collected seven.

Grimsby lost to Strabane, who were beaten by Willowdale.

Niagara — on - the - Lake, a team composed mainly of juvenile - age players, won the championship with a 13-7 win over Willowdale. The loss ended a 4-0 lead going into the bottom of the fourth inning when Niagara erupted for eight runs.

Smith Gives U.S. Wimbledon Sweep

LONDON (AP) — Stan Smith,a gentle giant, won the treasured singles tennis crown at Wimbledon Sunday and couldn't quite believe it.

Smith, a six-foot-four American ace seven years in the making, put his arms in relief and triumph after beating Ilie Nastase, a mercurial Rumanian army lieutenant, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 7-5 in a thrilling final on the centre court.

"There were times out there when I thought he was going to win," admitted Smith.

Perhaps Smith's calm disposition saw him through the breath-taking finish which had been postponed 24 hours because of rain.

Nastase kept his well-known fiery temper in check most of the time. But he was like a simmering volcano. He blew up at his top at any moment.

"I couldn't sleep Saturday night and the postponement made me more nervous," said Nastase. "I didn't eat any breakfast."

Philosophic Stan didn't seem to have pre-match nerves.

Smith showed only one moment of strong tension during the match. That was just before the final set when he stood quietly in a corner of the court for a few seconds before re-entering the fray.

The rest of the time he tried to contain Nastase's flurries of dipping lobs and shocking barrages from the end aphids and brilliant flashes of his own.

Smith's wife, added to Billie Jean King's victory over Australian defending champion Evonne Goolagong in the women's final Friday, gave the United States the two singles crowns for the first time since Tony Trabert and Louise Brough grabbed the double in 1955.

It will take all Smith's talent to retain the title next year.

Subject to final agreement by the International Lawn Tennis Federation in Helsinki Wednesday, the stars of Texas millionaire Lamar Hunt's World Championship Tennis group will be back in contention at Wimbledon in 1973.

Orr Hopes To Play Russians

BOSTON (AP) — Bobby Orr, the Boston Bruins' spectacular defenceman who underwent knee surgery last month, hopes to play for Canada in the last part of the series with Russia starting in September.

Orr, written out of the series after leaving the Bruins to the Chicago Cup, has discarded crutches and thinks his knee is getting well ahead of expectations.

"I hope to play in the last four games of the series in Russia," Orr said in an interview.

"At least I'm going to be prepared," Orr added. "I plan to get my shots and a visa, just in case.

"It's like very manu to play and I think I probably can."

Orr, the NHL's most valuable player the last three years, said he doubts he'll be able to play in the four games in Canada Sept. 2-8.

However, he said: "I could be in top shape for the games in Russia" Sept. 22-28.

His Not Enough

Aaron in Awe Of Big Blasts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A professional hitter understandably appreciates professional hitting and to Hank Aaron stands in awe of Pittsburgh Pirates.

Aaron ripped the 657th home run of his career—57 short of Babe Ruth's record—Sunday, but it wasn't nearly enough to overcome homers by Willie Stargell, Bob Robertson, Manny Sanguillen and Al Oliver that carried the Pirates to a 7-4 romp over Atlanta Braves.

The victory, combined with Los Angeles Dodgers' 7-0 triumph over New York Mets, left the Pirates with a four-game bulge over the Mets in the National League's East Division.

Elsewhere in the National League Sunday, Chicago Cubs swept a doubleheader from Cincinnati Reds 5-0 and 10-5, Houston Astros ripped St. Louis Cardinals 12-2, San Francisco Giants downed Montreal Expos 5-1 and San Diego Padres edged Philadelphia Phillies 5-4.

Pittsburgh's victory over Atlanta left the Pirates with a .580 team batting average—the best in baseball. It also boosted Aaron's average.

"Pittsburgh's the best team I've seen since I've been in this game," said the Atlanta slugger, who reached the major leagues 16 years ago. "They've got two teams and no matter which one they put out, they hurt you to death."

The Pirates have three players among the National League's top 10 hitters—Manny Sanguillen, No. 3 with .329, Oliver, No. 6 with .320, and Robert Clemente, No. 10 with .318.

Then, there's also Stargell, with 17 homers, fourth best in the league, and 56 runs batted in, third best. Oliver has 50 RBI — fourth place on the list.

On the bench are hitters like Vic Davalillo .358, Gene Clines .333, and Rennie Stennett .288.

Stargell, Robertson and Oliver all jolted Denny McLain for their homers as the former American League ace was knocked out early. Sanguillen was tagged against reliever Cecil Upshaw.

Aaron and Rico Brewer homered for the Braves, who dropped three of four to the Pirates. Pittsburgh has won eight of its last 10 games.

The Mets managed just six hits against Claude Osteen as the Dodgers beat New York ace Tom Seaver.

Seaver allowed nine hits, three of them to rookie Lee Lacy, who scored the first Dodger run and drove in the second.

Three straight hits by Lacy, Bill Buckner and Willie Davis gave the Dodgers a run before a batter was retired in the first inning and Osteen made it stand up until Lacy's two-out ninth inning single gave Los Angeles its winning run.

Chicago ripped Cincinnati twice, riding Ferguson Jenkins' shutout pitching to the first game victory and then outslugging the Reds in the nightcap.

Jenkins hurled a seven-hitter for his 10th complete game and first shutout of the season. Five straight singles with two out in the fifth inning of the opener produced three Cub runs to give Jenkins the five-hitter's comfortable edge against the Reds.

Orioles Blow Lead

Earl Weaver was looking ahead today because if he looked back all he could see were four straight losses by his Baltimore Orioles to the lowly Rangers.

"The next game is the big game and the real big game might be in October," the Orioles manager said after Texas beat the Orioles 3-2 in 10 innings Sunday night to complete their four-game sweep in Baltimore.

Boston Red Sox, meanwhile, probably will be happy to see tonight that looks like a good pitch to hit after California's Nolan Ryan struck out 16 and retired the last 26 batters in beating them 3-0 in a twilight game in the West Coast.

Baltimore went into the Texas series with a two-game lead over Detroit Tigers in the American League East.

Tonight the Orioles open a series with Kansas City Royals in a tie with Detroit, which lost to Chicago 5-4 and then came back to beat the White Sox 4-2.

In other American League action, New York Yankees moved into fourth place in the East by beating Minnesota Twins 9-5; West leader Oakland Athletics topped Milwaukee Brewers 3-2 and Kansas City Royals and Cleveland Indians 6-4 and 8-5.

Texas tied the Orioles Sunday when Joe Lovitto tripled home a run with two out in the eighth inning and then in when Lovitto doubled home Toby Harrah. Baltimore had opened the 10th with his third hit of the game. Brooks Robinson's sacrifice fly and Boog Powell's pinch single produced Baltimore's runs.

Ryan, a hard-throwing right-hander, with an 11-5 record, gave up a game-opening walk to Tommy Harper, struck out the next man and then yielded a single to Carl Yastrzemski.

Yastrzemski was the last Boston batsmanwer as Ryan struck out nine men in the first three innings and set an American League record by fanning eight straight. The old mark was seven and the major league mark is 10 by Tom Seaver of the Mets.

Brewer Helped By Weslock Tip

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Gay Brewer cracked into the winners' circle for the first time in four years Sunday as the $150,000 Canadian open golf championship and gave much of the credit to a little black book.

The book contained Canadian amateur Nick Weslock's gathering of tips he picked up over more than 25 years from some of golf's greats. They have helped him become one of the most respected amateurs in the world.

"My back was bunched," Brewer said. "I've worked on my putting real hard for the last 2½ years, but it wasn't working until I saw this book.

The winning score of 275, nine under par, was worth $30,000 to the 40-year-old Brewer, a 16-year veteran on the PGA trail, and was his 11th tour victory. It also raised his 1972 winnings to $58,958 and career earnings to $526,322.

He entered the final 18 holes with a three-stroke lead but had to survive late charges by rookie left hander Sam Adams and Dave Hill to take the top prize and the Peter Jackson Trophy.

Adams, a 26-year-old from Surrey, B.C., and Hill, winner of more than $200,000 on the tour, finished at 278, one stroke behind the winner, and at one time were tied for the lead.

But Brewer holed a 25-foot pitch from the edge of the 15th green to save par and dribbled a 15-footer in at the 17th to regain his lead.

Adams closed with a 66 and Hill a 67 to earn second-place shares of $13,875. Phil Rodgers, close at 277 with a 69, won $7,050 and Lou Graham at 278 with a 70, earned $6,150.

GAY BREWER

George Knudson of Toronto was the low Canadian at 279, tied with Chi Chi Rodriguez. Each finished with a 67 and had $5,100 in tournament winnings.

Another Canadian, Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., had one of his biggest paydays in a somewhat erratic career, finishing at even-par 284, worth $2,250.

He was in a group of eight that included pre-tournament favorites Gary Player of South Africa and Arnold Palmer, one stroke behind defending champion Lee Trevino.

Weslock, of Burlington, Ont., who had an exemption from the Royal Canadian Golf Association, finished at 287, three over par, while Bob Cox of Richmond, B.C., soared to a 77 on the final round for a 295 total and $475.

Chocolate Cherry has good reason to smile Saturday evening after winning her fourth straight start on the Belleville track. The three-year-old filly has yet to lose a start and owners Gerald Lowery (left) and John Gunn are looking forward to Greenwood and the big money. Lowery paced Chocolate to a first-race win in 2:09.2, the fastest time ever run by the filly.

Chocolate Cherry Still Unbeaten

By RANDY DERBY
Sports Staff

The best is yet to come according to Gerald Lowery but the rest of the drivers at Belleville Exhibition and Raceway harness races hope it comes somewhere else.

Lowery has been in the silky behind Chocolate Cherry and everybody else has been behind them as the big chestnut filly has gone undefeated on the Belleville track.

"She's just a three - year - old and only started three or four times in her life but we've been lucky enough to win them all," says Lowery, a 25-year veteran from Pottersburgh. "But she's only a long ways off her potential. She's coming along good and though the experience gained from every race is really noticable."

Chocolate Cherry's winning ways are not a new experience to Lowery who has guided Billy Joe to $35,000 in winnings over the years in the jockey club circuit. Chocolate holds a more personal touch though since Lowery is part owner of the filly with John Gunn.

"I like to bring along colts and watch them develop. Old horses don't have much potential and it's not the same feeling training them," states Lowery who has four colts under his care. "Of course it's a bit special when it's your own horse coming along."

Chocolate Cherry has been coming along so well that the bigger trade of Greenwood and Garden City are in the near future for the filly. "You have to go where the money is in this business. Belleville is a great track to start a colt but if you're lucky enough to get a good horse the money is at the other tracks."

Greenwood might be coming in the future for Chocolate but for the time being Belleville has suited her just right. She ran the fastest time of her life Saturday, pacing the night's opening event in 2:09.2 to take her fourth straight win.

Hiland Battles also ran the fastest time of his life in taking the featured race of the night.

Lino's Rebound Twice for Tie With Olympics

Lino's Pizzeria refused to be yeasted as they came from behind twice to earn a 2-2 split with the Greek Olympics in Sunday's Kingston and District soccer battle.

Gorran Mehinaze fopened the scoring for the Greek Olympics before Fendic Zdravko was able to get it for Belleville team on the scoreboard.

In the second half, Kingston pulled ahead 2-1 as Alvisi Beusso scored on a penalty kick, but Zdravko came back with his second goal of the game to earn the 2-2 draw. The Belleville forward directed the ball into the corner of the net after Tony Goncalves had headed a cross by Kevin Kirby towards the Kingston net.

Right half Bobby Kitcher was a standout for Lino's who now sport a 3-1-1 mark in the Kingston League.

Gulliver Deadly In Her Travels

Shirley Gulliver had some good news and some even better news as she led a Belleville senior girls all-star team to a 35-9 exhibition win over Middleton Park Sunday.

First the good news . . . Shirley managed to clobber three home runs, including two grand slams, and a triple to pace the 35-run onslaught. However, that wasn't even the high point of her performance as she came through with a no-hit pitching performance to keep Middleton Park off the scoreboard. The Belleville hurler recorded 19 strikeouts and issued a single base on balls.

Other Belleville homers in the game went to Sharon Alexander, Sherry Fobert, Lynn Brown and Julie Strahan.

H&R Have Better Rally Than Globe

The Globe Hoist snatched defeat from the jaws of victory Sunday night and the Ellis Juniors' unlucky 13th game was just that — unlucky — in a pair of Commercial Softball League games Sunday.

The Globe gave up two runs in the bottom of the seventh to cancel out their own three-run rally in the last inning and dropped a 4-3 decision to Howden and Robert Printing. The Ellis Juniors were tagged with their 13th loss of the season, 3-0 to Quinte Hotel, in the second game of the night.

A hit batter, a double by Perry Reddick and a single from Sid Davies and two errors allowed three runs to score for Globe in the seventh erasing a 3-0 Printer lead, but Foster had started the game before leaving in the fourth with an injury.

The Ellis Juniors fell to the two-hit pitching Scott Reid as the Holeimen moved within two points of second place Dewolfs Motors and Howard and Robert.

Reid struck out nine Juniors and did not issue a walk in picking up his sixth win of the year.

Lyle Thompson's single and a dropped fly ball by Dale Akey gave Quinte the winning run in the first inning. Singles from Thompson and Reid plus two fielder's choices produced the final two insurance runs for the Holeimen.

— Ron Hill took the loss for the Juniors allowing only six hits. He fanned two and walked one. His double and John Sutherland's single were the only two hits off Reid.

Lyle Shaver tripled and singled and Paul Mercer had a one-bagger for the winners.

Brakemen Bounced

The Belleville Conductors and Brakemen peewees' visit to Niagara Falls was short and not so sweet Saturday during the annual peewee baseball tournament in that city.

The Belleville squad dropped a 2-1 decision to South Windsor in their first game of the single elimination competition.

Peter Hall took the loss for Belleville allowing six hits in his seven inning stint. He fanned 11 and walked only three. Tony Semark stroked two singles to lead the locals seven hits with Howie Coons adding a double for the only extra base hit.

In the novice game it was Nepean once again coming out on top of a 7-4 verdict. Jamie Robertson, Hugh Northey, Barry Dean and David Levinets looked after the Belleville scoring against the defending all - Ontario "D" champions.

Belleville peewees were blanked 3-0 by Campbellford in a fourth Saturday exhibition.

Fugitive Held On Third Try

OSHAWA (CP) — Raymond Kelly, 45, of Oakville was charged with shoplifting murder Sunday following a shoot-out and car chase involving three police department officers.

No one was injured.

The sequence of events began at a sandwich and confection store here when Constable Terry Baker discovered a man behind a pile of dirt.

The suspect was arrested and was accompanied by the officer to his cruiser.

While he was questioning the man he saw a customer on the store roof and retired it.

The suspect then drew his stolen police revolver and the two struggled over the gun. The man seized the weapon and shot Constable Nicholas who fell to the ground to dodge the bullet.

Seek Young Vote

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the Liberal party is prepared to involve the 18-24 age groups—who have never taken force next in a federal election — an activity as possible in the campaign for the expected fall election.

The newspaper says in an Ottawa dispatch it has learned that "secret campaign documents" prepared by the party's Ottawa headquarters staff indicate that the Liberals' "strongest appeal is among youth" and that group because of its "empathy with Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's style and personality."

Fair Ends

STUTTGART, West Germany (CP) — A solid order from British and much interest on the part of West German authorities resulted from the display by Ontario at a three-day pollution control equipment which ended here Sunday.

The 30-day international fair was called Environment 72. Equipment from eight Ontario companies was in the display, organized by the Ontario department of industry and our firm.

'Laser' Horses

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The FBI accused two Canadians, arrested Saturday in Rochester, of planning to use a high-output laser beam to fix harness races at tracks in the United States and Canada.

The two were identified as Sollie Viner, 45, of Toronto, also known as Stan Winters, and Martin Goodman, 52, of Downsview, Ont.

An official said Viner and Goodman had planned to utilize the laser beam at various tracks, directing it at horses in certain races. He said the beam would cause the horses to break stride and thereby affect the outcome of a race.

Trials Planned

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Bangladesh government plans to put 1,200 Pakistani prisoners of war on trial for genocide and other war crimes, it was reported the trials indefinitely in an effort to maintain the good atmosphere of the India-Pakistan summit, the New Delhi Statesman reported today.

The newspaper said in a dispatch from Dacca that Sheik Mujibur Rahman's government insists on its right to hold the trials, and the date for them will be purely a political decision for Rahman and his cabinet.

Festival Held

LONG POND, Pa. (AP) Packing family lunch and blankets, thousands of young people left this Pocono Mountain resort Sunday at the end of the largest rock-music festival in the east—except the United States since Woodstock, N.Y., in 1969.

State police estimated as many as 200,000 people swarmed into the Pocono International Raceway, the festival site, at the peak of the event.

Two Drown

WATERFORD, Ont. (CP) — Two persons were drowned within minutes of one another Sunday in separate accidents at Waterford Park, just north of Simcoe.

Lawrence Henry Hilliker Jr., 20, of Ridgeway, Ont., was drowned while swimming at Pickerel Lake.

About five minutes earlier and about half a mile away, David Amerian, 36, of Simcoe, was drowned in a pond.

Will Compete

LONDON (CP) — Three Canadian teams arrived at Gatwick airport today to compete in the 102nd Henley shoot which starts next week.

The Canadian marksmen are from the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association, an army team from the 1st Royal Canadian Regiment and a cadet team.

Provincial police, Pickering Township police and Oshawa police chased him by car from east of Toronto where they lost him. A man was later spotted walking north of the Macdonald-Cartier freeway, arrested by Pickering Township police and returned here.

When officers returned to the construction site to free Crown-ite Baker, a search buried out a cache of clocks, rings, radios, rugs, tables, chairs, watches and rare coins.

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japan asked the United States today not to use Okinawa as a base for American bombing raids on North Vietnam, the foreign ministry said.

Tensions Ease

ELORA, Ont. (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Saturday he is encouraged by increasing stability of world tensions.

Cominco Strike

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — R. L. Klever, chairman of the bargaining committee of the United Steelworkers of America, said Sunday members are prepared for a long strike against Cominco Ltd. operations in Trail, Kimberley and Bonson Lake.

Wounds Fatal

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (Reuter) — Edwin J. Grace, taken to hospital with self-inflicted wounds after 21 days he staged a shooting spree in which six persons were killed, died Saturday.

Stilbestrol Found

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal health department has discovered traces of the hormone diethylstilbestrol (DES) in four out of 360 samples of domestic beef liver tested, a department spokesman said today.

Parachutes Into Hydro Wires

PERTH, Ont. (CP) — Roger Begin, 18, of Pointe Gatineau, Que., suffered first and third degree burns to large areas of his body Sunday when he parachuted onto the main trunk wires of Ontario Hydro here.

Minding the target at Perth municipal airport by more than half a mile, the first-time took 44,000 volts of electricity and turned off all the power in the town and surrounding area for about 4½ hours.

With his parents watching his initial jump he bailed out at 3,500 feet under direction of the Sports Ontario Skydiving school in this community 40 miles northwest of Brockville.

He was taken immediately to Ottawa Civic Hospital.

A hospital spokesperson said he was in fair condition following emergency treatment. He suffered the third degree burns to his chest and one arm and first degree burns on his face.

Solar Eclipse to Race Across Canada Today

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A solar eclipse starting on the Arctic coast of Alaska and travelling southeast across Canada at almost 2,000 miles an hour today will be the next-to-last one visible in North America in the 20th Century.

It will cross Hudson Bay, central Quebec, northeast New Brunswick Prince Edward Island and eastern Nova Scotia, passing into the Atlantic over Sable Island.

The path of totality stretching from Siberia, to the North Atlantic will be about 100 miles wide, and the total blackout will last a little more than two minutes at most points. But it will take the moon about two hours to cross the sun.

The eclipse will be total at Baker Lake, N.W.T., at 2:43 p.m. CDT; at Sept-Iles, Que., at 4:29 p.m. Chatham, N.B., 5:32 p.m. ADT; Charlottetown 5:37 p.m. ADT, and Yarmouth, N.S., 5:46 p.m. ADT.

This will be the last total eclipse of the sun in Canada until 1979. After that, Canadians will have to wait until the 21st century.

Weather forecasts called for sunny weather over eastern Canada except for a few showers or thunderstowers. Some fog patches were expected along the Nova Scotia coast.

A team of solar astronomers hopes to make an airborne observation eight miles above northern Canada of the sun's corona during the eclipse.

A U.S. cargo jet stuffed with elaborate scientific gear monitored by two dozen scientists from the Los Alamos, N.M., scientific laboratory was to take off from Seattle.

At 3:45 p.m. EDT at a point northwest of Hudson Bay and 1,600 miles from the North Pole, the scientists hoped to train telescopes, cameras and radiation measuring devices on the eclipse. An eclipse occurs when the moon glides between the earth and sun, blotting out the sun.

The scientists' primary target is the solar corona, the gases that stream millions of miles out into space and normally aren't visible because the brighter light from the sun's body blots them out. But when moon obscures the disc the corona becomes visible, the source of many scientists' attention.

Experiments aboard the aircraft were to measure the corona's magnetic field, its temperature, and other characteristics that still aren't well understood despite 160 years of research.

Scientists believe that the corona contains clues to how the solar system with the earth, why it causes disruption of radio communications, the intriguing northern and southern lights and other effects that interfere with man's activities.

The U.S. aircraft is used to get the solar scientists above clouds and the obscuring effects of earth's atmosphere. By flying in the path of the eclipse at nearly 600 miles an hour the scientists hope to extend the observing time during totality from one minute 59 seconds, to three minutes 42 seconds, an important gain.

At Churchill, Man., and at East Quoddy, near Halifax, Canada's National Research Council planned to fire a total of eight rockets to loft instruments into the path of totality. Another Los Alamos group at Poker Flat, Alaska, also planned to launch a rocket loaded with special instruments.

Several ground expeditions were expected to be in place, primarily in the Maritime provinces. There, however, clouds usually could ruin observations.

Pentagon Papers Trial Opens in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (Reuter) — The long-delayed Pentagon papers trial opens here today as two former researchers face charges of theft, conspiracy and espionage in a hearing they hope will turn into an indictment of the Vietnam war itself.

Daniel Ellsberg, 41, and Anthony Russo, 35, former associates at the Rand Corp. Research Institute here, are charged with stealing the secret Vietnam war study and leaking it to the press.

Publication of parts of the documents in the New York Times and Washington Post last year caused a political furore over undisclosed government involvement in Vietnam.

The trial, delayed for months by pre-trial motions, will be speeded up on its opening phase by Federal Judge Matthew Byrne conducting jury questioning himself.

The defence has been given 14 challenges and the prosecution six to weed out jurors chosen by the judge.

The trial itself is expected to take 18 to 22 weeks.

The case does not involve the actual leaking of the papers to the New York Times but only the period between March, 1969, and September, 1970, when Ellsberg and Russo allegedly took various volumes of the 36-volume study and handed them over to persons not authorized to receive them.

Ellsberg is charged with one count of conspiracy, five counts of theft of government property and six counts of violating the Espionage Act.

Russo is charged with the same count of conspiracy, one of receiving stolen government property and two of violating the Espionage Act.

$5 Million Raised For Democrats

MIAMI BEACH (Reuter) — The Democratic national convention opens tonight with the party still deeply in debt, despite almost $5 million pledged in a national telethon Sunday.

"I'm elated," said the Democratic party treasurer, Robert Strauss, who ordered the telephones kept open an extra two hours Sunday so that people could phone and register their donations to the party which came out of the 1968 presidential elections with a $9.3 million debt which the Democrats are still trying to pay off.

He said the amount collected would be just about $5 million. The cost of the telethon was more than $1 million.

A bevy of stars donated their services in the 28-hour affair which started Saturday and was broadcast from Miami Beach, Hollywood, Las Vegas and Nashville, Tenn.

Among those appearing on television at various intervals and appealing for money for the Democrats were Dionne Warwick appealing for money for the Temptations; the Supremes and host Allen King.

Anti-hijack Program Said Saving Lives

WASHINGTON (CP) — Benjamin Davis, Chief of the U.S. government's anti-hijacking program, says that tough new tactics against plane hijackers are saving the lives of passengers.

"Perhaps in the incident on July 5 in San Francisco, the unfortunate loss of one passenger's life meant the saving of some 85 others, and also the saving, perhaps, of hundreds of lives of the 181 million who ride the airlines every year," he said.

In an interview, Davis expressed regret over the killing of passenger E. H. Stanley Carter, 66, of Longueill, Que., a retired railway conductor.

Davis, assistant secretary of transportation, said, however, that he does not think the use of guns against hijackers is increasing the risk to lives of passengers.

"I believe that these tough new tactics are actually saving the lives of passengers," he said.

Dissident Labor Group Recognized

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec national assembly recessed for the summer Saturday after a record four-month sitting during which the government weathered the paralysing general strike in the public sector and a cabinet crisis.

Since the third session of the 30th legislature opened March 7, the assembly has passed 71 bills into law, including 48 public and 23 private bills.

As its last act before the recess, the assembly passed a law recognizing Quebec's newest labor federation. The move is expected to have serious repercussions in the construction industry.

Labor Minister Jean Cournoyer told reporters construction industry problems will most likely become more delicate with the legislation.

The law gives legal recognition to the Centrale des Syndicats Democratiques, formed last month by a breakaway group of dissidents in the Confederation of National Trade Unions.

The group was formed on the heels of an 11-day strike in April by 210,000 public service employees ended by legislation in April and subsequent widespread labor unrest over the jailing of Quebec's three top labor leaders for contempt of court by ignoring injunctions during that strike.

The law giving legal recognition to the CSD also stipulates any construction worker or union can belong to any union federation, thus clearing the way for legal recruitment by the CSD in the often-explosive construction field.

Stanfield Fails To Avoid Parade

PARRY SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Despite split-second timing by aides, Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield confronted the contentious Orange Day parade here Saturday—but ignored it.

Mr. Stanfield's float-equipped plane, which flew him here from Huntsville, was held offshore a few moments by radio instructions to await the end of the parade.

A tour organizer and MP Gordon Aiken (Parry Sound-Muskoka) said they wanted no meeting with the Orangemen, who were celebrating the July 12, 1690, victory by Protestant King William of Orange, over Roman Catholic King James at the River Boyne in Ireland.

But when Mr. Stanfield left the plane at the wharf, several hundred Orangsmen were concluding the parade at the site.

In contrast to close aides, a local Conservative called the Orangemen "the backbone of the Conservative party" in the region.

The Stanfield visit had already sparked a protest letter in the weekly Gravenhurst Banner, another Conservative said. The letter accused Mr. Stanfield of supporting the Orangemen.

Mr. Aiken had written a reply denying any connection between Mr. Stanfield's visit and the parade.

The Parry Sound stop was the last town on a three-day tour of Ontario by Mr. Stanfield.

O'Connell Opposes Forced Arbitration

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal labor minister Martin O'Connell says he rejects compulsory arbitration as a cure-all for labor disputes.

Mr. O'Connell said in a taped television interview compulsory arbitration is "an inappropriate way of proceeding in a democracy" in which reliance is placed upon people not only to reach agreements but to live up to them.

He said not all the avenues open to the solution of labor disputes have been fully investigated. Two alternatives to compulsory arbitration are government mediation and voluntary arbitration.

"Declaring strikes illegal doesn't mean there won't be strikes," he said on the CTV show "Question Period."

While Mr. O'Connell saw the right to strike as "a very important right in any democratic country," he said he thought there were areas of the public sector where the right could or withdrawn.

He named police forces and hospitals as two such essential services, but said that he found it difficult in advance of a particular situation to define services that would affect the public in health and safety.

Mr. O'Connell said if binding arbitration was taken in public service negotiations the government would have to be sure it would be able to commit itself to a final agreement which would stabilize wages, benefits and other issues.

If a settlement was made that the government could not afford to finance, it would have to seek funds from the public, he added.

Business Contributes Nothing Asserts Lewis

OTTAWA (CP) — Business contributes nothing to Canadian social and cultural programs says David Lewis, leader of the New Democratic Party.

Speaking Saturday on the French-language CBC program La Politique Federale, Mr. Lewis said Finance Minister John Turner's recent budget shows 15 per cent will go to economic development and exports while an equal amount comes in from business.

"Fifteen per cent comes in and 15 per cent goes out—that's a net contribution of zero by corporations to our social and cultural programs."

He said the NDP would suppress "concessions" to large corporations, tax capital gains and end fiscal subterfuges.

The member of undecided voters, Mr. Lewis said, showed the Liberal party of Prime Minister Trudeau is too "oriented towards big corporations," the Progressive Conservative party of Robert Stanfield "is only a pale image of the Liberal party" and the possibilities of Real Caouette "are too centred in a single region to become an effective alternative in the Commons."

The NDP remains, he said, taking its direction "from the workers."

Anti-Americanization Revolt Said Essential

TORONTO (CP) — An Ottawa professor told a union convention Saturday bloodshed may arise to reverse a trend to Americanization in Canada.

Prof. Robin Mathews, an English professor at Carleton University, told delegates to the Council of Canadian Unions a massive power shift is necessary.

"I expect there may be bloodshed. There will certainly have to be revolution, by which I mean a shift of power to organize and exploit and to distribute the wealth of Canada from those who presently possess it, a class alienated from the Canadian people, to the Canadian people themselves."

Prof. Mathews said he has learned the federal government will publish a report next month that estimates 75 per cent of the academic staff hired by Canadian universities for the 1971-72 academic year were non-Canadians.

Prof. Mathews, who earlier co-authored a report warning that Canada's universities are being taken over by American and other foreign teachers, said the government report will show that most of the academic staff come from the United States.

"No country but a country of alienated madmen would hire 75 per cent of its professors in one year from outside the country and heavily from the imperial centre which is colonizing and exploiting its people," Prof. Mathews said.

The convention's closing session Sunday adopted a resolution calling for the adoption of laws whereby all management positions in Canadian universities and 85 per cent of all teaching posts must be held by Canadian citizens.

Booming Out at Noon

Commissionaire Jean-Marie Desjardins sets off an 1807 cannon daily at exactly 12 noon in a park overlooking Parliament Hill in Ottawa. He loads the cannon with electrically-detonated caps (top) and fires the gun after listening for Dominion Observatory noon signal on a special radio. The firing of a single round at noon was begun in 1869 following an order-in-council signed by Sir John A. Macdonald. (CP Photo)

Bahamas Politicians Are Poised for Vote

NASSAU (Reuter) — Political parties in the 20 inhabited islands of the scattered Bahamas group are only awaiting the date of the next general election before launching their campaigns.

For five years the Progressive Liberal party—PLP—under Prime Minister Lynden O. Pindling has governed the Bahamas, southeast of Florida, on black nationalist lines.

Pindling became the British colony's first black premier in 1961. An amendment to the constitution the following year increased the degree of Bahamanian self-government. The islands now are ostensibly styled the Commonwealth of the Bahamas.

However, severe immigration policies aimed at ensuring that black Bahamians are not excluded from posts traditionally held by whites were followed by a sharp decline in business and property, much of it from the North American mainland.

In the last few months, an opposition group called the Free National Movement has crystallized itself into a strong force and is preparing to nut forward candidates for every parliamentary constituency.

It is basically an amalgamation of the predominantly white United Bahamanian party, which had held power up to 1961, and of prominent black defectors from the PLP.

The other main parties in the election, which must be held before April next year, are the Commonwealth Labor party and the national Democratic party.

One of the leaders of the latter will be independence from Britain by the 200,000 Bahamanians.

The PLP is expected to press for complete independent statehood in 1973. But the Free National Movement, which is the official Opposition in the Nassau legislature, is against independence until the country is ready for it.

The opposition party also urges more liberal immigration policies and greater encouragement for the kind of outside investment which already has brought considerable wealth to the islands's commercial sectors, particularly in the field of tourism.

Prime Minister Pindling, a stocky, soft-spoken, London-trained lawyer, is required to give at least six weeks' notice of the election, which is widely expected to take place this fall.

An apostle of non-violence, he is likely always to be remembered for his exploit in 1964 when, as leader of the Opposition in the legislature, he seized the symbolic mace from in front of the Speaker's chair and hurled it through an open window.

Chinese Doctors Sound Just Like Those at Home

VANCOUVER (CP) — Chinese doctors sounded just like doctors at home to a Vancouver dermatologist who returned Sunday from a month-long trip through China.

With strong emphasis on preventive medicine, the Chinese are rotating doctors from the cities into the countryside for specific periods and stressing paramedic training.

On the other hand, each time we visited another hospital or clinic we heard of the need for more medical equipment, more medicinal personnel, more hospital beds and for a larger budget," said Dr. Stuart Madden. "It sounded just like home."

Dr. Madden visited Canton, Tientsin, Peking, Nanking, Hangchow, Shanghai, Sian and Wuhan on the invitation of the Chinese Medical Association. Five of his books are in use there.

Yippies and Others Stage Protest Moves

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — March at the swank Playboy Yippies gobbled up watermelon that had been made up as caricatures of President Nixon's face at Flamingo Park as part of the non-delegate festival program prior to today opening of the Democratic national convention.

Elsewhere Sunday, some 300 backers of Students for a Democratic Society held a protest march at the swank Playboy Plaza Hotel where major financial contributors to the Democratic party gave a dinner.

Senior citizens from Miami Beach's vast retirement community were to be honored guests at the picnic sponsored by the Youth International Party, but few showed up. "We just don't take your food," said one silver-haired resident when offered melon, organic bread and vegetable stew from the Yippie table.

Sheriff's deputies, poised with yard-long billy clubs, attended the march by the SDS protesters who chanted "Men and women, black and white, Ford ain't getting in tonight" in reference to auto Magnate Henry Ford II.

Guests, ushered through the protesters, were members of the Democratic Sponsors Club which requires a $1,000 donation to join.

Earlier in the day, Yippies, an offshoot of the Yippie, led a march from the hottest headquarters at Flamingo Park to Miami Beach Convention Hall as a plea for the legalization of marijuana.

"Free pot," yell Zippie leader Dana Beal as grass was tossed to the crowd. "Light up, light up" responded the gathering as marijuana fumes wafted through the warm air.

POPULATION FIGURES

The population of Haiti is estimated at 4.9 million.

Louer and Vendre Wealthy Realtors

MONTREAL (CP) — Summer has once more brought hordes of tourists to Montreal and, as usual, most of them have trouble coping with the bilingual facts of life in Canada's largest city.

Tour guides are asked:

"Who are these wealthy Montreal realtors whose signs are everywhere? You know — A. Louer and A. Vendre?

"And who's this guy Pont they name all the bridges after?"

"I must get asked that hundreds of times every summer," one tour bus driver said. "It's not really funny any more."

A louer is French for "for rent." A vendre means for sale and pont means bridge.

On one recent city tour, a passenger from Greenville, S.C., studied a sign in a window which read "vente-sale" —the French word followed by its English translation.

He flipped furiously through a French phrase book and then asked "what's a dirty sale, dirty?" Vente, in French, for sale and sale is French for dirty.

One man from Passaic, N.J., boasted to his wife that he could understand the French when the tour guide was speaking.

It was the beginning of the tour and he was translating:

"He's telling us about the history of the city, don't the man told his wife.

Then came the translation.

"Ladies and gentlemen, there are restrooms for your convenience at the next stop."

Strike Enters 16th Week

TORONTO (CP) — The strike by the United Steelworkers of America at Gidon Industries Ltd. in suburban Etobicoke went into its 16th week today, with no sign of a settlement.

However the union is adamant it will continue its battle to win its first contract. And its determination is bolstered by the role played by Canadian Driver Pool Ltd. of Toronto, a firm which specializes in transporting cars which has assisted the family-owned muffler-producing firm in maintaining production.

United Trader Douglas Hart said in a recent interview:

"If you let one employer frustrate legal activity by employing Canadian Driver Pool it will upset the balance of free collective bargaining. Where does it stop?"

This is one of the major reasons the union is paying its pickets $25 a week, the highest ever paid by the Steelworkers in the Toronto area.

The strike began March 27 when the union, certified the previous September, threw up picket lines. The union says about 100 of the work force of 220 went on strike, although Gidon President Donald Kirsch puts the figure at 54.

The main issues in the contract dispute were a union request for compulsory checkoff of union dues and a wage increase in the base rate of $3.02 an hour.

A company offer of a five-cent-an-hour increase was rejected by the workers. After a no-board decision by a conciliation officer, the union was in a legal position to strike Feb. 17.

Several court hearings are pending as a result of the strike. There have been 56 charges laid against strikers and sympathizers, mostly for mischief and wilful damage over $50.

Candy One Sweet Swimmer

TRENTON (Staff) — Trenton swimmers Candy Ewing and Ron Carlsen came first in their age groups and Trenton's Dolphin Swim Club placed fourth in over-all competition here Sunday in the Eastern Ontario Swimming Association championships.

Candy, at 15, totalled sufficient points in the day's events to clinch the girl's open title for ages 15 and over.

The local swimmer took exactly four seconds off the Eastern Ontario record for the 100-yard butterfly with a winning time of 105.8 seconds. She also won in 100-yard freestyle, 100-yard backstroke and was one of four members of the Trenton Dolphins' first-place, 200-yard open individual medley relay team.

Other Trenton medley winners were Peggy Sulk, Brenda Lowry and Sharon Harvey-Smith.

Trenton's Ron Carlson, 12, captured top honors among the boys of the 11 and 12 year age bracket with good showing in five events.

Carlson took a first in 100-yard, breaststroke, second in both 100-yard backstroke and 50-yard butterfly, third in individual medley and fourth in 100 yard freestyle.

Nine clubs brought 275 swimmers to Sunday's championships won by the Ottawa Kingfish.

Trenton club authorities indicated Candy Ewing has now qualified for the national trials in 100-yard butterfly and 400-yard freestyle and is working to meet time requirements for the 200-yard freestyle.

Tiremen Tougher Than Usual

UIC stayed in the race for first place in the "B" division of the Industrial League, but not before they were almost overhauled by Canadian Tire.

The Unemployment Insurance team needed a surprisingly tough task against winless CTC, succeeding in turn a 5-4 deficit to down the firemen 7-5 in a Sunday game that had been rained out earlier in the schedule.

Bernie Coughlan, Pete Hamilton and Garry McMurray all saw action on the UIC mound, giving up a total of five hits. They walked 10 batters and totalled five strikeouts. To give UIC a win that pulled them within one point of the idle CNR squad.

The loss was tagged on Andy Prudden who gave up 12 hits in going the distance for Canadian Tire. He struck out three batters and yielded two walks.

Bill Henley smacked two singles and a double to pace UIC while Garnet Bird connected for a homer and double and Ron Embury a single and triple. Elbart had two singles for the losers.

Mead Johnson stayed in the B division running with an easy 17-2 win over Stewart Warner. Jim Greene handcuffed the losers on a fourhitter, walking five and getting six strikeouts, while Jim Henn yielded 13 safeties for Stewart Warner.

Jim Sopha tagged a homer and single for Meads with Osborne getting three hits and two each by Rick May, Cliff Hinsman and Reg Bennett. Henn had a double for the losers.

A lone run in the seventh earned Post Office a 3-3 split with Brooke Bond as George Johnson drove in the tieing run with a pinch single. Norm Lockhart and Bob Chandler matched five-hitters on the opposing mounds. Lockhart fanned 11 and walked six while the Brooke Bond hurler had two of each.

Don Goodfellow tripled for Brooke Bond while Eric Thanette and John Bohan had doubles for the Post Office.

Donohue Sub Fills Shoes

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (AP) — George Follmer, substituting for Indianapolis 500 winner Mark Donohue, drove a sleek new Porsche to victory in the Canadian-American race at Road Atlanta Sunday.

Follmer who led the 195-mile race from the start, won $15,000 for his first Can-Am triumph. He completed the 75 laps in one hour, 29 minutes, 3.72 seconds for a record race speed of 113.96 Wilson.

Ryun Makes Third Olympics

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Oregon superstar Steve Prefontaine predicted he could go 10 seconds faster at the 20th Olympic Games after cracking his own American record in the 5,000 metre run in the United States track and field trials.

"I know one thing—the Europeans will be thinking now," the 21-year-old Prefontaine said Sunday night after pouring it on in the final two laps to win the 5,000 in 13 minutes 22.8 seconds.

"I figured it would take a new American record to win," the Oregon sensation said.

Prefontaine now has won 24 straight races over a number of distances.

Saturday's highlights were a successful bid by Jim Ryun to attend his third Olympics with a victory in the 1,500 metres and the retirement of Randy Matson after the world record-holder could finish no better than fourth in the shot put.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Rob Ron Robbie continued his sizzling victory streak in the 11th win in a row at Windsor Raceway Saturday, including two straight upsets of favored Silent Majority.

One-for-Three Fails Lions

Hitting .333 wasn't enough to keep the Belleville Lions peewees in the running at the Ontario Dairy Foods Tournament held in Hamilton Sunday. The Lions recorded one win in three games, dropping out of competition after a 5-3 loss to Etobicoke.

The Belleville team opened play in the "B" section of the tournament by losing 7-1 to Six Nation's peewee entry. Jeff Runciman scored the only Belleville goal in that game.

In their second encounter, Belleville emerged with a 5-4 win over Sudbury as Runciman scored three times and assisted on another goal. Bruce McKinney and Peter Delong scored the other goals for the winners.

Belleville was eliminated after their loss to Etobicoke getting two goals from Runciman and a single by Laurie Wilson.

The five-year-old speedster, who lost his initial start of the year and hasn't been beaten since, surged in the stretch to win in 1:59 2-5. It was the fifth sub-two-minute mile of the summer meet.

EDMONTON (CP) — Don Sanderlin of Edmonton won the Canadian amateur-style skeet shooting championship Sunday for the fifth time.

The 39-year-old member of Canada 1968 Olympic team broke 182 of 200 clay birds while Bruno DeCosta of Edmonton broke 182 for second place. Sanderlin and DeCosta won the right to represent Canada in skeet shooting at the summer Olympic games in August at Munich.

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil won the Mini World Cup soccer tournament Sunday with a last-minute 1-0 victory over Portugal.

Plane's See Both Sides

Plane's Concrete tykes were on both sides of the eight-ball this weekend as the Peewee Minor baseball team split a pair of contests. They started play with an 8-1 win over Oconee Saturday, but were downed 8-2 by Kingston the following day.

Tom Masterson and David Blakely combined for a seven-hit win against Orono, walking one batter and getting supported by Boyd Sullivan with a homer and single and Tony Parks with a single and double.

Blakely took the loss in Kingston Sunday, giving up nine hits. Tom Masterson and Gerard Cole were the top two singles.

Meads Keep Hunter Tradition

WOODSTOCK (Special) — It's hard to break tradition — edition and the defending Ontario champion Woodstock squires weren't about to let the Belleville Mead Johnson squirts forget.

Woodstock nipped Belleville 3-2 in the fifth round of their own tournament and advanced into the A championship game for the third consecutive year. Woodstock has captured the tournament trophy for two years running.

Mead Johnson gave it the old college try in only their second loss of the season, toiling Woodstock 6-3 but four errors cost Belleville a shot at their fourth trophy in tournament action this year.

Mead's hopped off to a 2-1 lead after one inning but were blanked the rest of the way while Woodstock picked up runs in the third and fifth innings to take away the win.

Tim Soule threw a three-hitter in defeat for Belleville, fanning 11 and not walking a batter. John Henry punched two singles with Ron Begley, Andy Rossit, Paul Soule and David Urch adding singles for Belleville.

David Young was on the rubber for Woodstock striking out nine and issuing two free passes.

Belleville had reached the fifth round by demolishing Hespeler 17-0 in their opening game and smashing St. Mary's 8-1 in the third round.

Andy Rossit and Ron Begley combined for the opening shutout victory giving up five hits and fanning nine. Paul Soule had a circuit clout and Darren Sullivan a triple and double for the winners. Steve Gilbey, Bob Hedge and Allan Brooks each had two singles for Mead's 16-hit barrage.

Pitching again allowed the big bats to swing in the second game as Tim Soule fired a four-hitter. He struck out 14 and walked only two. Bob Hedge provided most of the offence for Meads stroking a triple, double and single. Darrell Coltman had a double and single and Soule two singles for the winners.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Tuesday July11

Aries (March 21-April 19): Set the high spots and keep going. Leave your friends undisturbed in their moods, seek serenity in your own personal way.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Cheerful co-operation early agreements on plans help both working conditions and family welfare this rather long day of diverse activities.

Gemini (May 21-July 20): Fresh information is intriguing. Kick off a chain of speculation. Beware of presenting a half-thought-out plan. Give yourself a treat.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Dig for hidden knowledge. It is a good day for dealing with authority, institution, personnel, older people in general.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 21): Travel won't bring the desired results, particularly if you insist on last-minute changes. Ventures closer to home are a safer channel.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Taking the good things for granted is not the wisest course. Get a check-up. Any companionship runs into an undemonstrative mood.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23): Just let the high spots and keep going. Leave your friends undisturbed in their moods, seek serenity in your own personal way.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21): Act according to your own theories. You may learn from the resulting reality. Build family ties toward better home life as evening comes on.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): There are enough actions you can take without upsetting anybody or changing any policy. Take a recreational break later, any harmless diversion.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Keep your obligations below normal levels. Drastic moves should be taken only when no other course is open and something has to be done.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be nice to your friends and see many long-range projects begin to fall in place, needing no push from you. An old friend may try to help, unasked.

Pisces (Feb. 19 March 20): Be a knee-bird. Give yourself room and time to think, to explore your feelings about recent events.

Parkinson Disease Has Varied Causes

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We have a friend who has a little trembling in her hands. We were told it could be Parkinson's disease. What is it, what causes it, can it be cured?—T.Y.

Dear Doctor Thosteson: Is Parkinson's disease hereditary? Are strokes involved?—B.J.

Parkinson's disease or Parkinsonism (once called paralysis agitans) is a disorder of the nervous system that affects one or two per cent of people over 50.

It involves a combination of shakiness and a rigidity of the muscles—the hands shake, the fingers characteristically rotate what is called a "pill-rolling" motion. Gait becomes awkward, the patient tends to lean forward and posture becomes stooped. The face may develop a mask-like expression. Drooling sometimes occurs.

The cause isn't always clear, but it isn't heredity. Some of the known causes, however, are encephalitis (brain inflammation), lead injuries, carbon monoxide or manganese poisoning and some known drugs if overdosed or the person has undue sensitivity. Evidently there are other causes, not identified.

The thought was once held that hardening of the arteries of the brain was the cause, but that idea has been discarded. Still, it's easier to trim—either; although it would be possible for a person to have both Parkinsonism and a stroke since that's the general age group.

One possible clue was the discovery that Parkinson patients have less than the normal count of a substance called dopamine. This led to a drug called L-dopa in 1959, and after extensive testing and learning how to use it, it is now in general use. Reports are that from 70 to 80 per cent of patients are helped to varying degrees—sometimes markedly, as in the case of carpenter Ernest Hemingway, going back to their jobs.

Prior to L-dopa, drugs of the atropine family were used but had the disadvantages of causing dry mouth, loss of taste and visual disturbances.

Brain surgery, cutting certain nerve patterns, has been tried this reduced the tremor but not the rigidity.

For patients who aren't helped by L-dopa, another drug, Symmetrol, may help.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Saturday's Cryptoquote: A FANATIC IS ONE WHO CAN'T CHANGE HIS MIND AND WON'T CHANGE THE SUBJECT.—WINSTON CHURCHILL

(© 1972 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Discovery of the newer methods of treating Parkinsonism is a blessing to a great many people—the disease is an annoying and sometimes disabling one, but not fatal. Studies are continuing to try to make L-dopa even more effective than it now is.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has used drugs for five years that I know of. He is now on a drug abuse program and is using methadone (for the last 10 months). If I speak of pregnancy, would his use of methadone have any effect on the baby? I have never used any hard drugs.—H.H.

Dr. Due to lack of current reports, there is no danger to the baby because the father uses such drugs. (It's a different matter if the mother does.)

However, I think your question involves more than a medical problem. Remember that methadone, while preferable to heroin, still is an addictive drug. What do you think of asking your husband if it wouldn't be a good idea for him to fight one more battle and break the methadone addiction, too?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 28 and two years ago underwent surgery for an undescended testicle. Should this lead to sterility? Would it interfere with an active sex life?—T.D.

No to both questions

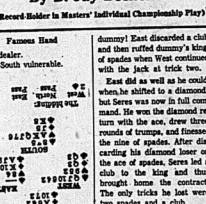
Contract Bridge

By B. Jay Becker

(Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

Famous Hand

West dealer.
North-South vulnerable.



Opening lead — queen of spades.

In some hands, declarer must make what appears to be an irresponsible play in order to give himself the best chance for the contract. Fortunately, such hands come few and far between—or we would all be nervous wrecks—but when the occasion does arise and declarer manages to meet the challenge, it is very pleasant to report the event.

Consider this deal played in a team of four championship. South was the renowned Australian star, Tim Seres, who optimistically leaped to four hearts after West's preempt-ive two spade bid had been passed around to him.

West led the queen of spades and Seres made the extraordinary play of a low spade from dummy! East discarded a club and then ruffed dummy's king of spades when West continued with the jack at trick two.

East did as well as he could when,he shifted to a diamond, but Seres was now in full command. He won the diamond return with the ace, drew three rounds of trumps, and finessed the nine of spades. After discarding his diamond loser on the ace of spades, Seres led a club to the king and thus brought home the contract. The only tricks he lost were two spades and a club.

The contract would have failed had Seres made the instinctive play of the king of spades from dummy at trick one. East would ruff and return a diamond, and declarer would eventually lose four tricks consisting of the opening spade ruff, a club, a diamond and another spade.

Tomorrow: Good salesmanship.

Priest Gives Warning

Church Does Harm Teaches Bodies Evil

TORONTO (CP) — Churches have done harm by teaching people to consider their bodies evil, Father Leo Lafreniere said Saturday.

"Those of us raised in a strict religious sect, especially the Roman Catholics, Anglicans, Methodist and Presbyterian churches; we all have the same neurosis, we have been taught to look upon our bodies as if they were evil.

"You don't know the harm we have done."

Father Lafreniere of Thunder Bay, a specialist in family life education, was addressing the 13th international convention of Parents Without Partners Inc. About 1,200 delegates from the United States and Canada attended the four-day meeting.

Father Lafreniere said a parent alone, male or female, has a difficult job imparting balanced sexuality to a child. He defined sexuality as maleness or femaleness, acquired from all sorts of impressions from home and community.

He said a single parent must try to create a bi-sexual atmosphere, a duty he called difficult but not impossible.

He said honesty is necessary, that old myths about sex must be destroyed. In answer to a question from the floor, he said a parent who disagrees with the teaching of a church or society about sex must say so.

"Our rejection of the body has led us to the most atrocious attitudes. The sooner we let a lot of fresh air in, the better off we'll be.

"We ought at all times to tell the truth. You can't base a value system on falsehood.

"We can't say if you have sex once, your whole life is ruined; it's not true.

"Clergymen and parents are liars. They lie about their sexuality. How can we empathize with our young people if they feel we never experienced these things?

"We are training men and women who are different from us."

Confession Obtained

Suicide Chance Used as Bait

LOD, Israel (AP) — An Israeli general testified today that he tricked Japanese terrorist Kozo Okamoto into confessing his part in the Tel Aviv airport massacre by promising him "my revolver and one bullet" to commit suicide.

Maj.-Gen. Rehevam Zeevi, chief of Israel's central army command, was asked if he meant to keep his agreement with Okamoto.

"God forbid. It was only bait," the general replied.

Zeevi testified on the second day of Okamoto's military trial for the machine-gun and grenade attack by himself and two other Japanese working for the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine. Twenty-eight persons including the other two Japanese were killed, and 67 were wounded.

The chief defence lawyer, Max Kritzman, brought Zeevi into the case to prove his contention that the confession had been made under duress.

The general said he and the 24-year-old Japanese signed a written contract in which Okamoto promised to give all information "honestly and in full," and Zeevi promised that when the interrogation was ended, he would give Okamoto a gun "for his own use."

Okamoto pleaded guilty Monday to the four charges against him, three of which are punishable by death. Although Israeli law calls for an automatic plea of not guilty to all capital charges, the head of the three-man court, Lt.-Col. Abraham Frisch, ruled that he would accept as proven those facts which he admitted." But he added that "the court decides not to see his answers as an admission of guilt."

The court is expected to find Okamoto guilty but to spare him from the death penalty. The state of Israel has executed only one person in its history, Nazi war criminal Adolf Eichmann.

Quang Tri Attackers Augmented

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. marine helicopters flying from offshore carriers landed hundreds of South Vietnamese marines north of Quang Tri City today, putting government forces on three sides of the Communist-held provincial capital.

First reports said there was no major contact.

The marines were landed 2½ miles north-northwest of the city.

For the fifth successive day, entrenched North Vietnamese forces managed to stall the South Vietnamese drive to recapture the city lost 10 weeks ago.

Tank-led North Vietnamese infantry and South Vietnamese paratroops and marines battled at four different points on the northeastern and southeastern outskirts of Quang Tri City.

Associated Press correspondent Dennis Nopkl reported from the front that a U.S. adviser told him North Vietnamese troops were well-dug in and around the Citadel, in the heart of Quang Tri City.

Humphrey Quits

BULLETIN

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, his last hope of winning the Democratic presidential nomination gone, stepped aside today and withdrew from the race.

McGovern Rolls

Crucial Votes Go His Way

MIAMI BEACH (CP) — Senator George McGovern's drive for the Democratic presidential nomination gathered a full head of steam today after a series of crucial victories during the night on the convention floor.

The South Dakota senator, feared by many Democrats as being too radical, issued a statement saying that the nomination victory we have anticipated is within our grasp."

His chief opponent, Senator Hubert Humphrey, indicated he might decide to withdraw from the presidential race before balloting begins Wednesday night. "We are going to have something to say later today," he said.

Humphrey said he telephoned McGovern and congratulated him on his "night of victory."

McGovern's supporters reported an unexpectedly strong victory in their first serious test—a vote to restore to him all of the 271 delegates from California's winner-take-all primary. More than half had been stripped from him by a slim majority of votes on the party's credentials committee.

The vote was announced as being 1,618 in McGovern's favor with 1,238 opposed. His margin was even greater on a subsequent division appealing several rulings rendered by Chairman Lawrence O'Brien contested the vote.

McGovern's total was well beyond the 1,509 votes he needs to win the nomination Wednesday night.

However, some of his support on the California vote was clearly from opposition or uncommitted delegates who merely accepted the McGovern argument that the winner-take-all rule should not have been changed after the primary was held June 5.

The bitter battle in Illinois over seating of delegates also was settled by the convention in favor of a pro-McGovern slate early today.

The convention voted to uphold the decision of the credentials committee recognizing 59 Illinois seats from Chicago Mayor Richard Daley and his allies and giving them to a challenging group.

The decision to seat a group headed by the Rev. Jesse Jackson was approved by a vote of 1,486 to 1,371.

That vote ended a nine-hour battle over credentials challenges.

The 49-year-old McGovern, whose campaign began two years ago and who only became a credible candidate in recent months, arrived in Miami Beach with a clear margin of delegate votes over all his opponents.

But he was still tantalizing short of the support to assure him victory on the first ballot.

So strong and concerted has been the opposition to his candidacy, his campaign workers feared—and his opponents hoped—that his support would trickle away in subsequent bal-

Police Search Cement Firm

KINGSTON (CP) — Police today recaptured one of three escaped murderers who were among 14 convicts that burst out of Millhaven maximum - security prison Monday night in Ontario's biggest prison break.

Prison officials warned that most of the escapers were dangerous and they would likely hurt for guns. They said the men could hole up in bush country for weeks "if they were lucky."

Police said Edward Woods, 26, of Burlington, serving a life term for non-capital murder, was recaptured after he tried to crash a roadblock at Odessa on Highway 2, five miles north of the prison.

Police forced the truck he was driving onto a ditch and officers wrestled him to the ground. A passenger escaped by dashing down a creek bed.

A large contingent of the 65 provincial police and prison guards involved in the manhunt concentrated in bombed-near the Canadian Industries Ledeco Ltd. plant about three miles from the prison near Bath, Ont.

Police said that six escapees — most of them considered dangerous — had been seen in the area and men with tracking dogs were combing the bush and the plant, which is under construction. The searchers carried shotguns and high-powered rifles.

An earlier report that the six had been cornered in the cement plant was denied by police who imposed a news blackout on the escape, requiring reporters to get information by monitoring police radio transmissions.

A police spokesman did say, however, that an area with a radius of 20 miles from the prison had been sealed off through cruisers, boats and aircraft. But the convicts were still believed to be within five miles of the prison.

Details of the Monday night escape were sketchy today as officials imposed a news blackout on the escape, but the 14 got out by cutting through a chain link fence.

Finance Heads Balk

FREDERICTON (CP) — Federal proposals to control foreign borrowing by Canadian provinces ran into opposition Monday at a news conference federal Finance Minister John Turner and his counterparts in the Atlantic provinces. Delegates from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick said they were prepared to co-operate in an attempt to limit pressure on the Canadian dollar, but that Mr. Turner's proposals went too far and they wanted to be able to offer bonds and debentures at the best interest rates available, whether in Canada or abroad.

Flees From Hospital

QUEBEC (CP) — Real Roux, 28, a prisoner at the nearby detention centre at Charlesbourg escaped custody Monday by jumping through a window of the Hotel-Dieu hospital where he was undergoing a medical examination. Four shaded two provincial police officers who accompanied him to the hospital and made his getaway in a car.

Winning Ticket Lost

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — William T. Armstrong of Badger, Nfld., goes right on searching, as does his wife and family, for a lost Irish Sweepstakes ticket worth $120,000. Mrs. Ellen Armstrong, tired and dispirited, said in a telephone interview Monday they have had no luck, after looking in every nook and cranny for the little piece of paper with the number LEA 79428 which could bring the Armstrongs a fortune they never dreamed of. Mrs. Armstrong doesn't know whether the ticket is required to claim the prize.

June Jobless Breaks Record

OTTAWA (CP) — The usual spring scramble by students looking for jobs pushed the unemployment total last month up to 568,000, the highest June unemployment figure on record.

The ranks of the unemployed were swelled by young people, particularly boys and girls in their teens, a Statistics Canada survey showed.

The statistics bureau reported that unemployment rose to 568,000 from 552,000 in May and 551,000 in June last year.

June unemployment last year was the previous lifetime record. In 1970, the jobless total was only 383,000.

The increase occurred despite a greater-than-usual gain last month in over-all employment. But the creation of new jobs failed to catch up to the growing numbers of job-seekers.

There was a larger-than-usual increase in employment in manufacturing, and more jobs were spread through all other industries, though the increase in government employment was less than usual.

There were an estimated 230,000 unemployed young people, aged up to 24, and the unemployment rate in that age bracket rose to 12.4 per cent from 11.3 in May.

Unemployment for the 25-and-older workers declined to 249,000 in June from 263,000 in May, but remained above the June figure last year, 238,000. This meant that the unemployment rate for that group declined to 3.8 per cent from 4.3 per cent in May. It was 3.7 per cent in June last year.

The problem showed in the usual spring influx into the labor force of students—14 to 19 —looking for either full-time or summer jobs.

Militant Protestants Prepare Forces to Take Offensive

BELFAST (AP) — Militant Protestants, put their fighting forces on an offensive footing today amid gun battles, bomb explosions and warnings of looming civil war.

The Ulster Defence Association, which says it can muster 40,000 armed men, warned British forces that unless they crush the Irish Republican Army it will "take steps to eliminate the gunmen."

In the statement, after a Belfast meeting of senior leaders, martial law in Ulster if necessary for the army to defeat the IRA.

If British forces did not go into the attack, the organization said, "the Ulster Defence Association will become the Ulster Offensive Association."

"The UDA will take the offensive against the IRA and do its level best to eliminate and destroy it."

The UDA announcement came as violence surged through Belfast and other Northern Ireland day night of a 13-day IRA ceasefire.

Britain, meanwhile, sent 1,800 more troops into the province in an effort to seize control of the situation before the traditionally volatile summer season of Protestant religious parades begins Wednesday.

At 17,000 men the British garrison never has been bigger in Northern Ireland's 3½ years of turmoil which have claimed at least 414 lives.

Another man was murdered as the battles involving soldiers and both Catholic and Protestant guerrillas continued into the small hours.

The hooded body of a man in his 20s, shot in the chest and head, was found near the centre of Belfast. He was the seventh known fatality since the ceasefire ended Sunday and the 23rd since it began two weeks ago.

Army headquarters reported 223 shooting incidents in Belfast between 8 a.m. Monday and 4:40 a.m. today.

British troops were involved in 146 of the shootouts and claimed to have killed or wounded 15 gunmen. One soldier was reported slightly hurt.

Protestant and Catholic irregulars clashed in the other incidents.

The fiercest shooting was concentrated on the grim post-war housing estates of west Belfast. Gunmen used house, gardens and high apartments blocks to pump fire at troops and at each other.

In the Catholic Ballymurphy stronghold, IRA gunmen shot it out with British troops and traded fire with Protestant guerrillas across the Springfield Road. More battles whined in the Catholic Ardoyne and Lower Falls zones.

Bomb blasts damaged stores, offices and homes in three areas of Belfast. Five persons, including a four-year-old child, were injured by flying glass. Three explosions wrecked property in Londonderry, Strabane, Magherafelt and Armagh.

Security sources said they believed the guerrillas had used the truce to reorganize, rearm and regroup.

In Londonderry, Ulster's second city, IRA chief-of-staff Martin McGuinness said:" We are now back to square one. Our campaign has restarted and there will be more violence than before."

As he spoke his men were hurling up new barricades to make De Lacy, Bogside and Creggan Catholic districts "impregnable."

Reservoir Tender 40 Per Cent Up

The approved tender for the Pine St. reservoir and sanitary feeder main has come in 40 per cent higher than the original estimate, Belleville Public Utilities Commissioners learned Tuesday.

If the PUC accept the tender, approved by Gore and Storrie, consulting engineers, the project will cost $1,137,800, about $334,000 more than the original estimate.

If the project were determined, the cost to the PUC would be about $33,000 a year general manager H. N. Britton told the commission.

Action on the project has been deferred until more information on financing can be obtained from the Ontario Municipal Board.

Summer Is No Time to Rest For George Hees, Lee Grills

A federal election by fall? That's the possibility already being pondered by Quinte district MPs now briefly relaxing in recess while keeping a wary eye on summertime's political horizons.

This year, time out from parliament isn't being equated with a reliable respite from campaign trailing by either George Hees or Lee Grills.

"I think there's a very strong possibility of an election being called this fall . . . sometime in October, says Mr. Grills, MP Hastings, as he weighs the political pros and cons in the office of his Belleville home.

At his Cobourg - area farm, Mr. Hees, taking a few days off before beginning tours of his Prince Edward - Hastings riding predicts: "I think chances are an election will be called sometime towards the end of August for a vote in October. . . ."

Although he concedes there's "no way of knowing" what date Prime Minister Trudeau will select for the long-awaited campaign, October seems "most likely" at present.

Savings Stolen

A burglar broke into the residence of Mrs. Harry Carleton Monday morning and stole her 14-year-old son's savings of $60.30.

The theft occurred between 11.30 a.m. and 1.30 p.m. while both Mrs. Carleton and her son Steven were out of the house.

No other damage was reported from the home at 47 Murney Street.

While there appears a dearth of hot issues following last weekend's recess of parliament, both MPs agree on what the main election theme will be: "Tory economy.

"I think the election will be fought on the domestic issues — who can run the economy of the country best and provide employment for the people," believes Mr. Hees. The government will try to draw away from those issues as best they can they say they're going to try and run the election on national unity. Well I think that's something that's been pretty well gone over . . . The big question in most people's minds is the economy can't get to the point where those who want a job get a job."

Assesses Mr. Grills: "I think the average Canadian, the businessman is going to take a very hard look at what's transpired since the last election. They're going to ask themselves if we got the best manager of this big business of government in Ottawa . . . ."

Neither will the Trudeau appeal, a major factor in the 1968 election, be such a major factor, says Mr. Grills.

"I don't think that Trudeaumania — whatever that was — is going to carry through," he predicts.

Both politicians also expressed disenchantment at the amount of legislation passed into statute by the last session of parliament.

"Too much politics," says Mr. Grills. "If they'd done about it in a businesslike way much more could have been accomplished."

Mr. Hees calls government funding of the session "poorly organized."

In particular he is critical of government failure to have bills on foreign business takeovers and pollution clearances passed.

While former Liberal Paul Hellyer was credited with blocking the family allowances at the last minute Friday, the fault really was the government's, said Mr. Hees. By seeking unanimous consent for approval, the government left its legislation at the whim of any MP. Opposition MPs would have been "perfectly willing" to return this week to debate the measures into law. Instead, the government allowed the legislation to go by default.

"I think the answer is they introduced the family allowances bill and found there was a great deal of opposition to it."

"Something that's going to be forgotten in many people as it pleases really isn't awfully smart politics at election time," said Mr. Hees.

For the moment most MPs feel all that can be said about current issues has been discussed.

"It's just now a question of waiting until the election is called. As long as everybody thinks they should have called it this (next) spring, and the election will spend most of the summer.

The pattern is about the same for Mr. Grills: "I'd like to have a few days sort of quietly myself" before we then go out around the constituency on."

Convicts Escape

Of the 14, one was listed as a lifer for non-capital murder and others were in jail for various crimes of violence. Police emphasized the men were considered dangerous.

Among the escaped convicts who cut their way to freedom through two 20-foot chain link fences was Donald Oag, 20, of London, Ont. He was given additional sentences last November in connection with a 1970 riot at Kingston penitentiary.

He was the eye of one of the escapers connected with the riot in which two persons were killed.

The men were discovered missing at 9:45 p.m. Monday after a head count following a baseball game between the guards and a team from the outside.

The count was taken at the end of the recreation period in the exercise yard. The prisoners had taken advantage of a dark area between two perimeter search towers and cut their way to freedom.

Provincial police immediately sealed off the area between Lake Ontario, Highway 33 which borders the lake, and the backland north of the prisons into which the convicts vanished.

Police were aided by five tracking dogs, four of them from Mount Forest, 40 miles north of Kitchener, where they are trained.

Early today an ambulance and a doctor entered the front gate at Millhaven, reportedly to treat a prisoner who had injured himself. Reporters were not allowed in.

Reports were investigated of men running Highway 401 just north of here as well as prowlers at St. Lawrence golf course a few miles west of Kingston.

During the night, mists prevailed over Lake Ontario and visibility was 33 bordering Lake Ontario. Police and guards prowled back roads and investigated also the possibility of stolen boats along the lakes here.

Fears of what was in store for prisoners transferred to Millhaven have never believed responsible in part for the April, 1971, riot by 500 convicts at nearby Kingston penitentiary which wrecked the institution.

One of the first penitentiaries of its type in Canada, Millhaven boasts the latest in equipment, including electronic systems, leading the convicts to fear the penitentiary was electronically bugged.

Mel Willard, Millhaven assistant director, listed the escapers with their sentences as:

Woods, non-capital murder; Sreto Desemba, 23, Toronto, life, non-capital murder; Richard Smith, 32, Petrolia, Ont., 12 years on seven counts of armed robbery; William Yardley, 24, Toronto, 12 years, robbery; Thomas Smith, 34, London, Ont., 24 years, three charges of robbery.

John Taylor, 31, Hamilton, seven years, breaking prison by force, breaking and entering and possession of burglary tools; Gerald LaRocque, 22, Toronto, 17 years, robbery, uttering, attempted breaking, entering and theft; Thomas McCauley, 35, Edmonton, 25 years, armed robbery, two charges of robbery.

Ronald Dillon, 25, Toronto, 12 years, attempted robbery, two of escaping custody and one of parole forfeiture; Charles Boomer, 36, 12 in all, on, 7 years, armed robbery, parole violation, prison breach; Rudolph Nuss, 25, St. Catharines, Ont., 20 years, five charges of armed robbery.

Gaston Lambert, 22, Ottawa, 15 years, armed robbery, two charges of theft over $50, another robbery and escape; Robert Clark, 38, Tillsonburg, Ont., life, breaking prison by force, breaking, entering and theft, parole forfeiture and possession of weapons; Donald Oag, 25, London, Ont., 7 years, assaulting bodily harm escape, two charges of robbery and manslaughter.

Woods, 24, was serving life for the 1967 stabbing death of 18-year-old Brian Mitchell. Woods was one of four men who broke out of the Halton County jail at Milton, Ont., after clubbing two guards in 1968.

Breakins at Marmora Anger 10 Businessmen

MARMORA — Angered by the increasing number of breakins in the business section of Marmora, a delegation of business men attended the recent council meeting to ask for harsher penalties for their stores last night.

A survey conducted among 10 of the business men revealed that, in the past two years or since the death of Donald McIlroy who voluntarily spent many hours over and above his regular working hours patrolling the village, 10 merchants have been robbed and vandalized a total of 28 times, all after 10 p.m.

Total property damage incurred amounted to $2,568 and total property stolen $1,900 for a total of $4,528or an average of $500 per merchant. This does not include shoplifting or daytime thefts.

The delegation, which consisted of Leon Provost, Jack Jones, Bill Marcel and Carlo Petherick, claimed that vandalism is on the increase and some means of protection for their stores must be found.

It was their feeling that a uniformed office of responsible person on duty would do a lot to prevent night time vandalism. Although council insisted that a bylaw enforcement officer could not be expected to replace police surveillance, they agreed to have part time enforcement officer, Pat O'Connor patrol the village for a trial period.

On more than one occasion Mr. McIlroy spotted intruders and notified police, leading to successful arrests.

In the past two years of 38 vandalisms logged, only two were apprehended and only two guilty verdicts, the survey reported.

Somebody with a sweet tooth may have been responsible for the breakin at the Legion Park Concession on Wednesday night for only three boxes of candy were taken.

During the discussion at the council meeting it was reported by Clerk Shannon that Mr. Moon is so concerned about the behavior of young people at the Plaza Theatre he is considering closing the theatre in Marmora.

Orange Walk Held in Marmora

MARMORA — The annual Orange Walk marking the 302rd commemoration of the Battle of the Boyne was held in Marmora on Saturday, July 8.

Led by county marshal for Centre Hastings, Gordon Jones of Marmora and county marshal for Hastings North, Cecil McEathron of Bancroft, astride the traditional white horses and marching to the skirl of bagpipes provided by the Duke of Edinburgh, Unit 201, Belleville, the parade consisted of 22 lodges.

About 500 men, women and children, wearing orange sashes and regalia, came from Campbellford on the west, Napanee on the east, Picton on the south and Bancroft on the north.

County Warden Carmen Gibson took part in the parade.

Following the parade Past Master of Ontario East, Jackson Wildman of Smith's Falls, addressed the gathering as did Reeve Jack Reynolds of Marmora Village, Reeve John Wilkes of Marmora and Lake Township and Past Master and Grand Treasurer of Ontario Fred Bateman of Picton. Master of ceremonies was Past Master Gavin Adams.

lots and the nomination would go electoral.

A measure of the bitterness that pervades the anti-McGovern forces was given by Frank Brown, a non official in Ohio, and head of that state's delegation to the convention.

A Humphrey supporter, Brown told reporters tonight the California vote had been "stolen" and the opposition Republican party "must be happy" the way the convention is going.

Should McGovern go on to win the nomination it will represent to a fashion the triumph of the "new politics" which the Democrats embraced when the fiasco of their 1968 Chicago convention and which McGovern was instrumental in bringing about.

The convention has operated under a new set of rules designed to force the delegates' selection on to groups—women, blacks and minorities in particular—which had traditionally played tokism roles in a drama dominated by powerful party bosses and faithful "regulars."

McGovern used the new rules more adroitly than any other candidate, to win party support and delegates from the newly-powerful groups.

In the process, however, he alienated much of the Democratic establishment as well as organized labor, and his campaign program, based on opposition to the Vietnam war, reduction in defence spending and drastic reduction of taxes, has frightened conservatives and moderates among the party faithful.

All those forces coalesced behind Humphrey on the floor fight over the California delegation, and they also reorganized the California vote in advance as probably the most crucial of the convention.

How disciplined McGovern's support will be made manifest tonight when the convention begins dealing with a party platform for next fall's campaign to unseat President Nixon.

A wide variety of issues is likely to arise where McGovern's more liberal views will be pressed against the pious, moderated language of the preliminary report prepared by the party's platform committee.

His backers in the credentials battle indicate McGovern may be able to do the loss of the convention his way even before the nomination is decided.

acquiring grants and land for a new twin-ice surface arena which would accommodate both curling and hockey facilities.

Committee member Morris Fenton attended the recent council meeting to obtain information on the property owned by the village in the Legion Park area and the fairgrounds where the present arena is located.

Reeve Reynolds explained that in the past council has co-operated with the Canadian Legion Branch 227 in the development of the park for sports and swimming by including some parcels of village owned land in the park area. It has been suggested to the Legion that the park would be eligible for more grants if it was turned over to the village.

Mr. Fenton's inquiry was mainly concerned with the amount of land available for an arena if one should be contemplated for that area.

The fairgrounds legally belong to the village but the Marmora Agriculture Society has a vested interest in the property, Mr. Fenton was told, and any changes would have to be considered jointly.

Mariners' Service Sunday

PICTON (Staff) — Rev. W. J. Price, honorary secretary of the Bay of Quinte, Conference, Kingston, will be guest speaker for the third annual mariners' service, Sunday July 16 at South Bay United Church.

The special service, revived in Prince Edward in tribute to all her sailors and seamen, will begin at 2 p.m.

Allan Bailey, one of the organizers for the service, said worship said yesterday that four ships are expected to drop anchor in the harbor near the church next Sunday, among them Upper Lake, St. Lawrence II, Trident and Sea Spray, a 56-foot cruiser manned by the Girls' Nautical Cadets of Kingston.

Also taking part in the service will be Rev. W. Neelands, a retired Prince Edward County minister, Rev. J. McKay of South Bay United Church and Rev. J. Fletcher of Milford Anglican Church.

A basket of flowers will be placed in memory of sailors who have "crossed the bar" by Capt. Harry Clarke and Capt. J. A. Buchanan both of Belleville.

Members of the Kingston Marine Society will arrive at the church aboard St. Lawrence II to attend the service.

Soloist during the program of worship will be Mrs. Phyllis Antognini of South Marysburg. The ensign will be raised and lowered by Stirling Grimmon of Milford and Commodore James Plomer of Black Creek will give the scripture reading.

A memorial tribute to sailors of the past will be read by Philip Dodds, who was a prominent figure in the revival of the annual service for the county's seafaring men.

A brief summary of the progress made in plans for an indoor marine museum will be outlined by Allan Ralley of the South Marysburg Mariners' Museum. Mr. Ralley said designs have been prepared for the building and the collection taken during next Sunday's services will be contributed toward the museum's construction.

Sandbanks Decision Wednesday

The fate of the Sandbanks will be announced Wednesday from Queen's Park, at a press conference attended by Leo Bernier, minister of natural resources and William Tovell the geologist appointed by the Ontario government to bring in recommendations on the future of the dunes.

The press conference will be broadcast over Radio Station CJBC 1 1 1 a.m. Following the press conference, the noon line show, with moderator James Clarke, will remain on the air until 1 p.m. to give area residents a chance to express their opinions.

Backing up the minister and Professor Tovell at the press conference will be a team of geologists and senior personnel from the department of natural resources.

A delegation from Picton is expected to attend the conference in Toronto.

At stake is continued quarrying of sand on about 15 acres of land leased by the Ontario government to Lake Ontario Cement Company for $1 a year. Several environmental groups have protested removal of some of the largest dunes at the south-east of the Sandbanks by the cement company.

Prince Edward County officials, on the other hand, have supported continued quarrying in the area in the interests of protecting jobs at the cement plant, which employs local personnel in its operation.

Trenton to Review Revised Town Hall

TRENTON (Staff) — Trenton architect Tony Lassing has prepared a new plan for the town office portion of the proposed municipal office-parking garage to be located on Dundas Street West, here.

Council is expected to deal with the plan at a closed-door meeting next Monday or Tuesday when a regular council meeting will also be held to give final approval to the revised version of Trenton's draft official plan.

When the official plan gets the seal of approval from council next week it will be forwarded directly to Darcy McKeough, minister of Intergovernmental Affairs for signing which is expected to be routine.

Mayor Duncan McDonald said today "council is waiting now what the contractor (Miron - Wiggens Construction, low tenderer on the original proposal) will charge" for the revamped municipal building.

The mayor said he could not know if the whole project will have to be retendered.

Low tender from Miron-Wiggens for the complex was over $370,000 prompting council to call for cost cuts in the revised plans.

Fire Brigades Answer Call

Fire brigades from both Trenton departments were called to Douglas R. Atkins School on Elmwood Drive Monday evening to extinguish burning fiberglas boards.

The roofing material, piled against the north end of the school was the property of Quinte Roofing Ltd.

A facer board on the end of the school was also damaged.

Youngsters were reported running away from the school at about the same time the call was received.

Scarecrow Central Figure In Play to Tour Parks

The players involved in Summer Theatre 72 spent yesterday discussing things such as, "what should the spirit of nature look like?, and what does a scarecrow do?" with the help of a real, live man?"

The theme has been selected for the summer production which will tour area parks in South Hastings and Prince Edward Counties.

It's all about a farmer who has a scarecrow and doesn't want to part with him, no matter how strongly a salesman claims he must modernize.

The theme was chosen from the Theatre Centre in London, and gives just an outline of action for an improvised play.

The motive behind choosing a play of this kind is it lends itself as a teaching play.

The summer course is sponsored by Ontario Youth Theatre, Belleville Theatre Guild and Belleville Recreation - Arena Department.

Each member of the group will be called upon to make alterations to the play, adding to the theme, improvising characters and essentially making an original play from the resources within the group.

The nice thing about this kind of play is it can be adapted to a cast of nearly any size," said director Ted Bairstow.

"We have eight in the company and there are only six key or major roles. This poses no problem because of the play's flexibility. We can improvise parts whenever we want."

Yesterday was the first day the members of the group sat down and talked seriously of the characters. They had spent the past week learning how to move and act to an audience of children.

The play will make its debut in the city travelling to three parks to entertain children.

The children will be asked during the play to participate with parts.

"They won't be just asked to make a noise but to actually take a part in the production," said Mr. Bairstow. Locations still have not been released for the performances.

Sidney Hydro Route Opposed by Residents

Ontario Hydro's proposed 500-kv transmission line may have received short circuit this time in Sidney Township.

Sidney residents Monday requested that Hydro move its 610-foot corridor about 1,000 feet north of the proposed route to follow a road allowance along the top of the fourth concession.

They would also like to see the Trent River crossing made near Highway 401 south of the built-up areas of Batawa and Frankford. Such a diversion could cost Hydro an additional $1 million.

More than 30 lot-owners met with Hydro officials at Sidney town hall to make recommendations prior to the release of a revised route map.

Most live along the fourth concession and would have their farms divided in two should the corridor go ahead as planned. By moving it further north, farmers would still lose land but would be left with their reduced lot intact.

Reeve Jack Bush said the two suggested Trent crossings were unacceptable.

Crews Sent To B.C. Fires

MADOC — The ministry of natural resources despatched two crews of fire-fighters from this area to British Columbia Monday afternoon to help fight the tremendous forest fires there.

There were five men from the Tweed district and five men from the Bancroft district in the crews.

Apparently there are about 2,800 acres burning and the men were flown out this week to offer their desperately-needed assistance.

Hees Claims Tax Plan Hurts Jobs

The June rise in unemployment is tied in to proposed increases in corporation and personal income taxes next Jan. 1, said George Hees, Conservative MP for Prince Edward - Hastings. He said that two-thirds of Canadian businesses have had their ability to expand reduced by the stated five per cent rise in January. The other third, manufacturers and processors, at the same time will receive a reduction of 6% per cent, thus enabling them to proceed with expansion.

A three per cent increase on personal income tax Jan. 1 is having an effect on corporations as well, by "reducing the purchasing power that would be available to buy their products," said Mr. Hees.

The former cabinet member reiterated his proposal for a reduction in personal income tax by at least five per cent as Aug. 1 and asked the government to abandon the Jan. 1 tax increases.

Review At Crossing Promised

The Canadian National Transport Commission will take another look at the city's request for gates at the east end CPR crossing on Dundas Street.

Because of the presence of a second railway track on the east end of Dundas Street crossing it was felt this could result in confusion for motorists with the result that the city traffic committee and city council asked for installation of the gates.

However the transport commission has a policy that no gates be installed for single track crossings unless there were special circumstances.

Yesterday during the traffic and light committee meeting Mayor J. Russell Scott telephoned transport commission officials in Ottawa to remind them of the passing track which is felt locally to be a special circumstance.

The transport commission officials agreed to take another look at the local situation.

Flying Politicians

Is there a conflict of interest of sorts in the use by Prime Minister Trudeau of government aircraft — especially now in these unofficial pre-election charged days? Defence Minister Benson has denied such a suggestion. The minister was asked about it because the Prime Minister and his party used two military helicopters for a Dominion Day trip. The copters, said Mr. Benson, are used by members of the Opposition as well as by the Government.

By conflict of interest we mean use of aircraft at taxpayers' expense for visits that can only be construed as political one-upmanship when an election could well be called this fall.

Contrariwise, Mr. Benson sees it this way, no matter where Prime Minister Trudeau flies, or what he does when he gets there, "it is not electioneering."

The answer to that of course is yes and no. After all, an early election — this summer had been a favorite choice — was for long mainly a figment of the Opposition's imagination. They wanted one so badly they have been off and running long since and even now are trying hard to maintain the momentum for a fall vote. To that extent they have succeeded in creating an election climate and certainly the time must come — and soon — when a vote will be called.

Meanwhile, to put the use of government aircraft by politicians on a proper basis, we wonder why a small fleet of special aircraft is not put aside for this purpose, for the use of both government and Opposition. This would eliminate such inconsistencies as Ontario cabinet minister Bert Lawrence flying to Cuba in a Lands and Forests plane while Mr. Trudeau resorts to military aircraft — in this last instance anyway.

Meanwhile we note that Ontario Premier Davis is off to the U.S. Democratic Party convention in Miami — by private aircraft. He has taken with him six close friends and advisers. We hope it is nothing more than a busman's holiday, for heaven forbid that we should ever be subjected in Canada to the tortuous processes of the United States political system. Our own can be quite tiresome enough.

Target of Vandals

Vandalism, which typically reaches a peak on weekends, is a continuing problem in our society. From Picton there is a report that property damage in the town last month totalled $1,110, including wrecking of a fountain and a small building at an athletic field, and theft of a flag from the same area.

A sign at Belleville Plaza was also damaged recently for the third time this year.

It is disturbing also in this context to note the vulnerability of buildings no longer in use, including churches whose demise, as going concerns, in itself is one of the more distressing trends of our times.

Pilfering at the former United Church in Shannonville for example has prompted the Quinte pastoral board to consider the future of the building. There are other church buildings, active in an earlier time, which are now in a similar state of virtual abandonment.

We can understand the difficulties faced by church authorities in this situation and wonder if in some instances there is no appropriate social or community use to which the buildings could be put.

Human Nature

There have been two movies showing side by side at The Mall and the public response to them tells us a lot about human nature. The "mind-blinding" Walt Disney film, billed as "absolute movie magic" which we attended and enjoyed, attracted a moderate second-house crowd, while in the other cinema a lurid production acclaimed as the "best film of the year," was sold out. With the advertisement for this movie is a footnote from the manager which reads — "Caution: Certain materials in this film may offend some moviegoers."

Where the Tax Money Goes

$16 Billion Spending Estimates Railroaded Through Parliament

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa bureau

OTTAWA — It is a mean thing to do in reminding you, . . .

. . . but do you remember sweating through your income tax return this spring? How long it took and how frustrating you found it?

. . . if you had an account and do the actual calculating of the tax, how you had to pull all the pertinent information together for him?

Remember? Sure you do. Well, you will be happy to know that the money you and precisely 7,841,730 other taxpayers — by the last head-count in National Revenue's Green Book of tax statistics — paid the federal government rubber-stamped in just five frenzied hours by the House of Commons for blank cheque spending.

Blank cheque, because the Commons voted through $16 billion in government spending estimates blindfolded — and without a clue as to how — except under broad general headings — and where, or why, they were asking for whom they were not telling.

The spending of those billions of dollars was railroaded through in a series of 43 separate votes which started at 4:15 p.m. and ended five hours later at 9 a.m.

Now again, please remember . . .

. . . remember, through recent years the rising concern over narcotics, the horror of how the use of both hard and so-called "soft" drugs is spawning a corrupted way-of-life with an increasing number of young people? How a royal commission, among other learned bodies, has been trying to grapple with the problem and still confesses it has not found out how?

Well, you will be reassured to know that one of those 43 votes the Commons machine-gunned through covered an item on narcotics — presumably to finance research on how drugs are to be better controlled.

Presumably, because nobody explained.

Here, from the Hansard record, is what happened on that vote.

Treasury Board President C. M. Drury moved "that, vote five, in the amount of $4,000,000 of the Department of National Health and Welfare for non-medical use of drugs — program expenditures for the fiscal year ending (next) March 31 be concurred in."

Mr. Speaker: "Is it the pleasure of the House to adopt the motion?"

Some Honorable Members: "Agreed."

An Honorable Member: "On division."

Mr. Speaker: "I declare the motion carried on division. Motion agreed to."

Short and sweet, eh?

But shucks, you say, what is $4,000,000 these days?

Well, it just so happens National Revenue's Green Book of tax statistics says that it is almost as much as the total $4,148,000 taxable income of all the elderly or retired living in the Halifax region.

So it is something.

But that $4,000,000 vote that whizzed through with no questions asked was only one of the 43 worth a total $16 billion.

When the exhausted Commons — they had been sitting for 13 straight hours, five of them occupied with the 43 votes — protested the futility of it Acting Prime Minister Mitchell Sharp pooh-poohed and tisk-tisked them.

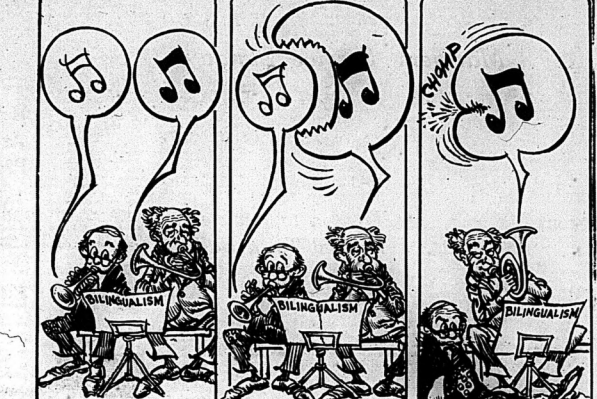
The Commons committees — there are 29 of them — had given these $16 billions of estimates the "closest scrutiny ever" he soothed.

Close, like the six hours one committee had spent examining State Secretary Pelletier's $1-billion estimate covering such controversial agencies as Information Canada, Company of Young Canadians, Opportunities for Youth, and yes, the CBC. New Democratic Party David Orlikow of Winnipeg had kept a clock on the committee.

And close like the two hours Maritime Conservative MP Donald Macdonald allotted — and was not contradicted by anyone — Words Minister Drury had spent explaining his department's total spending program involving $358 million to agency committee.

It used to be before Prime Minister Trudeau emasculated scrutiny of government spending from the Commons itself to its committees, that sometimes — not always — there was some searching examination of where all the tax money goes.

But that was in the nit-picking days, as he government now calls them when a good, grey Howard Green, the crusty Conservative from Vancouver, could — and often did — hold up the House for days till he got a satisfactory spending of as little as a $1 item.



Portugal Maintains Hold on African Possessions

By JOHN HARBRON

The first and perhaps the last of the great European colonial empires belongs to Portugal. A quarter-century after her European neighbors Britain, France and Belgium have been stripped of their overseas possessions by what Sir Harold Macmillan once called, "the winds of change," Portugal's remains intact.

This isn't to say Portugal's large African colonies and smaller Asian ones are free of "the winds of change." By resisting them, the Portuguese are faced with growing resistance and liberation movements within all their African colonies.

The Portuguese answer, unrealistic not only in the times we live in but from the facts of geography, is that these are not colonies as such, but integral parts of the Portuguese European homeland.

Portugal's three African colonies are Mozambique, (Portuguese East Africa), Angola (Portuguese West Africa), and Portuguese Guinea. Each of them contain growing "liberation armies" of well-trained rank-and-file and well-educated black leaders.

As in the case with anti-colonial leaders of the former British and French African possessions, the leaders are products of the educational system of the colonial power.

And the tough jungle resistance faced by the Portuguese army in both Mozambique and Angola is a result of persistent planning by former teachers, lawyers and intellectuals, educated in Portuguese university ties.

The Portuguese African revolutionary movements are also adept at winning world support. One campaign to prevent construction of the Cobbassa dam in northwestern Mozambique is a case in point. The revolutionaries denounce it as massive technological achievement which will further enslave Africans by enriching the huge farmlands which export much of Mozambique's produce.

What the revolutionaries will not say is that if they come to power, such vast schemes as this big dam will be essential for their regime to feed hungry peoples.
